Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 641 ISOBEL PLEASE RUFUS

Isobel said that controlling her emotions. At this moment she really wanted to cry and wanted to say sorry to everyone. If it wasn't for her, it wouldn't have caused so much misery. After the phone call, Isobel was worried no matter how she comforted herself. She was so tired that she could hardly keep her eyes open, but she could not sleep soundly. Finally she called Rufus. "Isobel, how are you?" Rufus picked up the phone and asked eagerly. "I am ok." "I just heard the kids said that Brian and Winwin had broken up, is that right?" Isobel asked, hoping the she could have a different from Rufus, so that she would be less worried. "Yes." Rufus's answer let Isobel down. "Alas....." Isobel sighed deeply at first. "I thought that if I was away, Brian could take good care of Winwin, Vanessa and two kids. I didn't expect that..." "Forget it, never mind. They are not going to work out anyway. It's better for them to break up early." Isobel said hopelessly. She was not only worried about the living conditions of the kids, but also worried about Winnie's emotional pain. Over the phone, she even dared not comfort Winnie, for fear that Winnie would break down in face the kids. She was experienced, so she could feel that Winnie was sad to be separated from the one she loved. Her heart must be painful as someone cut on it. "I'm sorry, Isobel, for making you worry about Winnie. It's my fault. I didn't control my son. But you can rest assured that I will take good care of them and make sure that they will not be hurt." Rufus felt guilty to Isobel. He always made a mistake when she needed him. "It is ok, I should have taken care of my kids myself. But I am so far away that I must ask you to take care of them now." "Rufus, I don't ask for anything else. Just keep my kids safe, even if they suffer a little injustice." Isobel said in a choked voice. She was really worried that Winnie could not hold on it. She wanted to fly back immediately, but she was an army doctor on duty and she was in charge, so under no circumstances could she go back at that time. "Don't worry, don't worry. I certainly will guarantee their safety and I will not let them suffer injustice. You don't have to worry about your family. You just have to do your job well and come back safe." Rufus heard Isobel's voice trembling, so he knew she was worried. Knowing that she cried, Rufus was in more remorse, and at the moment he did not know how to appease her. "Don't worry about me. I'll take care of myself. I'll be relieved if you take care of them." Isobel tried to control her mood. Even if she felt it difficult, she did not want show her weak side to Rufus. "Why did they break up?" Isobel wanted to ask Winnie this question, but afraid that Winnie would be sad, so she did not ask Winnie, though she wanted to know about it Rufus knew the reason. But he didn't want to tell Isobel at the moment, lest she worried more. "They didn't say anything about it. They just told us it was over. Wait till they both calm down, and we'll see." In fact, Rufus planned to tell her the reason when she came back, so that she could feel at ease with the work. To the reason that they broke up, Rufus did not believe it. Isobel would not accept it. She would not believe that her niece did such a thing, would fight tooth and nail to prove her niece's innocence. "Well, you must let me know. Please take care of them." "Goodbye!" This time, Isobel's attitude was much better than before, at least she said goodbye before hanging up the phone. Rufus could not help but sigh after putting down the phone. He tried to fix things, but things seemed to be getting worse. Winnie and Brian separated, and the custody of the kids was Winnie's. Would they leave? Once they left, his life would lose its color and he would feel lonely for the rest of his life. The most important thing was that Brian would be sad forever. He had lost his mother who was the most important to him, which had made his pain still deep to this day. If he lost Winnie and his kids, he must be sadder. After much thought, he felt it would be wise to find a solution that would hurt everyone less. This path, however, was fraught with difficulties and would be subject to change depending on how things turned out, which meant everything was up in the air. On Sunday, Vanessa went to the library to find materials, Winnie stayed at home with her kids. As she put the kids' and Vanessa's dirty clothes to wash, she received a call from the police. There was an urgent task, but she could not call Vanessa back. After discussing with the two kids, Winnie sent the two kids to the suburbs. "Rufus, I have emergency to deal with, please take care of the kids. I'm really sorry I didn't let you rest on the weekend." Winnie was anxious and got sweat on her forehead. "Ok, I'm supposed to take care of the kids." "Go ahead and drive carefully." Rufus said. In his view, anxious things were not important as personal safety. "Good-bye, Rufus." Winnie turned to run outside, but when she ran to the door, she saw Brian coming in. "You're home, too." She was in a hurry, so she bypassed him before he could say a word. She was in a hurry and did not bother to think whether Brian was at home or not when she came. Would he think she came deliberately? On the way to drive to the police station, Winnie sent a voice message to Brian after a moment of thinking. "I had emergency to deal with, so I had to ask Rufus to look after kids. I didn't know you were home. I'd have avoided it if I'd known." "And I didn't expect to meet you on the hill yesterday. Two kids were no in good mood, so I took them for a walk. Unexpectedly we met. Don't think much about it. I have no other ideas." "The kids had been in a bad mood because of what happened yesterday. If you have time, explain to them and enlighten them." Winnie sent three messages in a row, thinking she had explained clearly. She hoped Brian could understand her and would not think she was a scheming woman and had ulterior motives. At that thought, Winnie smiled, so that? In his heart, she was a dirty person and it would be no use to explain. Brian was worried about Winnie seeing she left in a hurry. He could not call her, so he had to go through other channels. He just wanted the people he sent to secretly protect Winnie made sure Winnie was save. But he had to ask today, or he would feel uneasy. Brian went to the yard and made a phone call. "Is there any important emergency for Winnie these days?" "No. But she was in a hurry when she came out of your house, and now we're behind her. She's driving pretty fast." Hearing such an answer, Brian was even more worried. Winnie was a reliable person. She never drove fast. What the hell was going on today? "Protect her and tell me the details of her condition." Brian was worried, but all he could do was to ask his man to protect Winnie. "Don't worry, Mr. Bennet, we will protect Director Chambers' safety." "Where does she often go these days?" Brian continued to ask. "Go to her friend's house, go to gym, go to dinner... Nothing special. And she used to go to the police station, almost every day at noon." Bodyguard thought it was weird that she went to the police station, so he told the truth. "To the police stain? XX police station? Did she go to Officer Lee?" Brian was confused. He only knew Office Lee was in XX police station. "No, the police station that Director Chambers often goes is our B City general security bureau." "General security bureau? Why?" Brian was more puzzled. Winnie went to the general security bureau almost every day at noon back, why? "We don't know why. Director Chambers can drive in and out of the police station, but we can't get in, so we don't know. All we know is that she goes out when it was time to work." The bodyguard was in a state of confusion. But what Winnie did had nothing to do with him, all they had to do was to keep her safe. Brian did not hear any valuable information and he became more confused. He hung up the phone, but at this moment, he received messages from Winnie. Brian immediately clicked on it. After that, he felt even worse. The purpose of her explanation was very clear, she feared that he might misunderstand her purpose. However, when Brian read the messages again, the first two had already been withdrawn. There was only one that she asked him to enlighten the kids.

Why was it withdrawn? Did she think it was unnecessary or that he would not believe her? Brian returned to the house, only to see the two kids obediently sitting in the living room watching cartoons. They looked much more negative. In the past, when they watched cartoons, they would play happily, running back and forth between the sofa and the ground. But now they lost the vitality of kids. Brian knew the reason, because he broke up with Winnie, plus they met Gloria yesterday. Brian went to the sofa and sat down next to his two kids. "I am sorry about yesterday. I should have told you that."

CHAPTER 642 WAIT IN PERSON AT THE POLICE STATION

Brian's sincere attitude showed that he value his kids, but the two kids did not accept his apology. "Dad, don't apologize to us. We have no right to interfere in your adult affairs, as long as you take my sister and me into consideration before making your decision." Luke said with dissatisfaction. He knew that it was angry, but he now could not accept her parents being apart. Open-minded on the lips, but he was sad. It was especially cruel for kids like him and Megan, who were always looking for a father or mother. "Mom and Dad have always put your feelings first, and we've given it a lot of thought..." "Dad, for me and Megan, a father's love or a mother's love or a complete family has been luxury since we were little. If you had put yourself in our shoes, we wouldn't have had this result." Luke did not want to listen to his father's explanation. He felt that all the explanations were excuse for their behavior. "Dad, maybe I'm being selfish. But your breakup with mom was even more selfish than I am." "Megan and I don't accept it, but we understand. You need your happiness, without me and Megan. So from now on don't explain to me, don't apologize to me. Megan and I will fight for our happiness." After that, Luke got up and took Megan upstairs, their back made Brian want to cry. Luke was a child with ideas and opinions. What he said was true. Megan did not say a word, but Brian saw her tears when Luke took her away. Her tears filled his heart like salt water and stung his whole heart. Rufus who had been silent was afflictive and his eyes even grew red. Although the kids were small, their analysis was more profound than that of adults. Kids knew everything, and they could handle that mom and dad broke up. But there was nothing they could do about it, and the pain of watching happiness disappear would accept their life. Shortly after Brian finished talking to his kids, he received a message from the bodyguard. He learned that Winnie was safe and she had gone to the police station. The next morning to go to work, the first thing Brian asked was had Winnie come to work. However, it was 9:30 and she still hadn't arrived. Brian was unavoidably worried and asked Alice. "Director Chambers is on leave and will arrive later." "Did you call to ask when exactly?" Brian became angry because he was worried. "Her phone turned off and I couldn't get through." Alice answered truthfully. It worried Brian. He called the bodyguards after he let Alice out. It was later said that Winnie had not left the police station. Brian was so upset that he dropped work and drove to the police station. He could not drive into the police station, more could not rashly go to the police station to find Winnie. Brian was out in the parking lot. Sitting in the car, he paid attention to see whether Winnie was out. Brian did not wait too long in the car, and found Winnie's car driving toward outside. He got out of the car immediately, but stopped there just in time. It seemed that he was not suitable to ask what was going on, so he could watched it silently. Soon Winnie's car passed by him and he clearly saw the situation in the car. Winnie was driving, with Officer Lee in the passenger seat. Both of them were talking and laughing and seemed happy and didn't need anyone to care. Seeing this scene, Brian showed a black face. Winnie had a lot of people to guard her, he needn't worry about her.

Winnie and Officer Lee stayed up all day and night to lock the suspect. Those who could commit crimes on the network were masters, and it was difficult to deal with them. Winnie took Officer Lee home and then she returned to her own home. When she returned home, she recalled seeing Brian in the general security bureau. She did not know whether it was a coincidence, or whether Brian was suspicious of her. It was possible that Brian had been sending people to follow her to see how close she and Stefan were. But seeing her with Officer Lee would make him think she was having an improper relationship with Officer Lee? Well, no matter what he thought and did, she hoped he would disturb her life, not to explore some questionable things. It might not be good for him to know the answer. She wanted to sleep at home and went to work at noon, but Alice called and asked her to go to work. Hungry and sleepy, Winnie could only go to work. As she arrived, she was called by Brian to his office. "Mr. Bennet, is there something wrong at work?" Winnie didn't know the reason, only to know that Alice told her Mr. Bennet was in a bad mood. "Don't you know what's wrong? This is a company, not a wet market, not a place to come and go as you want." Brian was really in a bad mood and rebuked her in an angry voice. He stared at Winnie angrily, thinking what he saw outside the police station. Brian said so, Winnie knew why he was angry. "Mr. Bennet, I asked for leave this morning. I don't treat work like a wet market." "Is that a reason? Do you know how much time off you've been taking lately? The company has its rules and regulations. Why would you break the company's management system? Who do you think you are, who gives you the right to ask for leave whenever you want?" Brian got more angry because of Winnie's explanation. He did not want to hear that but why she went to the police station and why she was always with Officer Lee. Winnie was not his woman and she had nothing to do with him. He knew that he should not care about it, but as long as it was related to Winnie, he could not calm down and could not be rational to think. He hated himself like that, and it would only cause greater harm to Winnie. But he could not control himself and burst into anger. "Mr. Bennet, if I remember correctly, I don't take your salary. I am not your employee. It was wrong of me to ask for leave, but I didn't affect our cooperation." Winnie retorted, in the warning of Brian that her asking for leave had nothing to do with his company. Winnie knew that it was inappropriate that she often asked for leave, but in the face of Brian's rebuke, she was not convinced. "Now you are in my company, you will follow my management system." Brian's anger burned to the limit. Winnie was meaning that he was unreasonable and that he should not meddle in her affairs. Indeed, he admitted that it was out of his business. But he had no other excuse to ask Winnie to come, because her work was impeccable and perfect. She had been avoiding him these days, and he could not bear that he could not see her all the time. He hated her and could not forgive her betrayal, but he could stand not seeing her. She was the woman he loved, without her, his life had no color and his world was gloomy. He could not get over, and he felt guilty, such a feeling that can torture a man to death. Winnie has determined that Brian was vexatious. In the contract, it did not say she must be in accordance with the management system of his company. She just showed him respect by calling. Okay, he was being unreasonable. Winnie could not connive it. "Mr. Bennet, I will take time off again, and at irregular intervals. If you can't accept a partner like that, do what you want." Winnie said majestically and then turned to leave. She did not care about the anger of Brian, she hoped that Brian could drive her out of the Brian Group, so that she could never see Brian again. He was a baster, who never put himself in her shoes, never believed her unconditionally. What kind of love was this? He was a typical bastard. Wendy broke up with him, but he forgave her again and again and helped her again and again. After their breakup, she became his enemy. Whatever she was never pleasing to him. Didn't she and he have feelings before? Winnie was angry, so was Brian. In the face of Winnie's threats and provocations, he had no way out. He could not let her leave the company. Once she left, she would not to come back, because there were no excuses. It would be harder to get a look at her once she left. Good, Winnie succeeded in her provocation. She could take time off anytime she wanted, and he would not be bothering her again, for fear of her leaving. Gloria was no longer reserved. She felt that time kept Brian waiting was just right, she thought it was time for her to give Brian a satisfactory answer. When she came to Brian's office, she saw his angry face, but she didn't care about it. What she liked was his coldness. "Why are you angry? Do you have a problem at work?" Gloria showed her care in a sweet voice. "No. What is your decision?" Brian did not tell the reason for his anger and had nothing to talk about with Gloria. He only wanted to know Gloria would say yes or no. "I..." Gloria showed hesitation for not showing that she was eager. "I..." At the end of the hesitation, her phone rang. "Excuse me." Although she was angry about that phone at this time, Gloria still took out the phone.

CHAPTER 643 GLORIA IS THREATENED

Looking at the strange number on the phone, Gloria hesitated. But if she hung up, she was afraid to expose her real thought, so she had to pick up the phone. "Hello, Gloria is speaking." "Hello, this is..." Listen to the name of the other party, Gloria was stunned. "....." "....." The other party kept saying over the phone, but Gloria had not responded. Listening to what the other party said, Gloria changed on her face. She lifted her eyes and looked at Brian. Fortunately, Brian's attention was not on her. "We can make an appointment to talk about business." "....." "Don't worry. I'll talk to you myself." Gloria then hung up the phone, holding the mobile phone, her hands were trembling. "I'm sorry to have kept you waiting." Gloria said awkwardly, with a pale face. "How is that? Give me your answer." Brian's time was really limited. He did not want to chat with Gloria, because he felt annoyed. "Well, I haven't decided yet, can I have more time?" Gloria suddenly changed her decision because of the phone just now. "Yes." Brian agreed steadily, but he was relieved. He hoped Gloria would consider in all her life, so that he would not be forced to get married. "You go to work, I gotta go." Gloria turned to leave, for her now, the most important thing was to see another person. Gloria went directly to where she had to go. "You brought your assistant with you. Are you afraid I will kill you?" Penny said with a contemptuous manner and a cold voice, the sinister look in his eyes sacred Gloria. Yes, it was Penny called Gloria. "You were in prison. How did you get out?" Gloria asked timidly, for a prisoner stood in front of her with a malicious face. "I am sick, so the prison let me out." "Sit down. You can't stand there all the time." Penny took a look at Gloria and her assistant with disdain. Gloria walked to the sofa and sat down, three meters away from Penny. "What's wrong with you?" Gloria did not believe it, because that sick prisoner got out seemed not to be in line with law. "Never mind, the police agreed with that, otherwise I won't have come out." "I heard you are with Brian." Penny got to the point, which was the main reason she asked Gloria out. "Yes. You are separated from him and I have the right to be with him." Gloria's momentum had been enhanced. She did not want to be timid in face of Penny. "You haven't changed much in this long absence, but your temper got hot. If you have the right, if you are so confident, why come to see me?" There was no anger in Penny's words, but it sounded scared. "I..." "Cut the crap. What asked me out?" Gloria was unable to fight back, the only thing she could do was to wait for Penny's tricks. "That's what I like about you. You give straight talk." "You can't be with Brian. Break up as fast as you can." Penny's purpose was that simple, without any other ideas. As long as Gloria and Brian broke up, she would be happy and satisfied. Brian was hers. As long as she was alive, no one else could have him, especially Gloria. "Why, you've already broken up. Why we can't be together? Penny, you are too domineering." Gloria was angered by Penny's rude request. She could do anything except to break up with Brian. She had been waiting for this opportunity for years and finally she saw hope and finally she could marry Brian. It was absolutely impossible for her to quit. "I'll answer you one by one. First, you stole Winnie's position. You have no objection to that, right?" Penny did not get angry because of Gloria's query, but patiently explained why she did so. "Yes, I am not the reason why Winnie and Brian broke up. And what does Winnie matter to you? With what do you come forward to manage her things?" Gloria had many doubts besides objections. "Winnie and I are bestie, you don't know that? You bullied her and stole her man, do you think I will sit idle by?" No one expected Penny to give such an explanation, probably even she felt it incredible. "Your bestie? You are enemies, when did you become bestie?" Gloria was confused, as she knew, Penny got into prison because of Winnie. So she did not believe Penny's words. "You don't seem to know enough about us. We got off on the wrong foot. But now that all misunderstandings have been cleared up, she often comes to see me. Don't you think we are best friends and I should defend her justice?" Penny said she had a good relationship with Winnie, but she knew she would have the effect of killing two birds with one stone. "I don't care what kind of relationship you have. I met Brian on a blind date. I didn't ruin anyone's feelings, and I have no reason to break up with Brian. Besides, he loves me so much. How could I part with him?" Gloria had to keep Brian and marry him. However, Penny laughed at such a reason. "Haha....." She laughed out loud to show her irony. "Gloria, I can accept your other excuses, but when you say that Brian loves you, it sounds like a fantasy to me. Brian only loves Winnie in his life. You're nothing to him, so don't embarrass yourself." Penny said in a cold voice. "Brian loved Winnie before, but since he met me, he loves me, otherwise he would not break up with Winnie." "Penny, stay out of my business. You are a prisoner now. Even if the prison lets you out, you will go back sooner or later." "I'll pay you to keep your mouth shut. Mind your own business is the sensible thing to do." Gloria got courage and had a tough attitude. She must fight for it if she did not want to give up Brian, and she could not be afraid of Penny's warning. "I can control you whether I go back to prison or not. Don't try to buy me. Gloria, I may be in prison, but I don't need money. This isn't going to work." "Don't forget you're a ruttish woman and you've had a few abortions. The director's, the designer's, the male model's... You know what? I can't even count them. But if they Bennet family finds it out, they would not accept you even if you were the richest man in the world." Penny said sinisterly, every word embarrassed Gloria. "Penny, you are so mean. What do you have to do with these things? All these years..." "Are you saying that after all these years I can't find proof of your abortion?" "You are too naive, I cannot find it, but Winnie can find it. As long as the computer has record, Winnie can find it out. Even if you have someone deleted it, she can restore it." "Afraid? Do you want to challenge Winnie's hacking skills?" Penny said in an evil manner, for Gloria's counterattack and fearless struggle, she felt funny. Even if there was no Winnie, she had evidence of Gloria being promiscuous. "You are despicable, you use the same way to threaten me twice. Penny, I curse you go to hell." Gloria got up, and walked away angrily after taking a glance at Penny. "Don't forget to break up with Brian, or you will make a big splash in the entertainment industry." Penny reminded Gloria. She believed that this method was effective. Last time she did not dare to entangle Brian because of this matter. But she would see the development of things to see if Gloria hated Winnie. Gloria could not wait to make a call. She couldn't handle it alone, so she had to ask for help. "Uncle, I'm in trouble." Gloria said and told him that Penny had threatened her. "You mean Penny was released from prison? She is at home now?" It was Thomas. Thomas could not believe what he had heard. He did not expect that Penny was out. More than once Penny hinted Thomas she wanted to come out, but Thomas did not want to take the risk. So by what means did she come out? "Yeah, I just met her and it can't be false." Gloria was no longer calm. She did not know what to do. It was a good chance for her and she didn't want to miss it. "How did she get out?" Thomas was puzzled and felt he had undervalued Penny. He thought she was a fool, but she did what most people couldn't do. "She said she was ill, and the prison sent her out. I asked her what her illness was but she didn't say." "Uncle Thomas, what should I do? She and Winnie wanted to drive me away from Brian, I can't fight back alone." "Uncle Thomas, we've worked so hard for so long and put so much energy into it that we can't just give up." Gloria now was not afraid of Winnie, but that Penny told her story to Brian. Once He knew that, he would not marry her, even if she were the king's daughter. "Gloria, calm down. We can't give up since we started. No matter who gets in the way, don't give up."

CHAPTER 644 PENNY GETS A CALL

Thomas was not so anxious as Gloria. Since it had a problem, he would just find a way to fix it. Thomas continued. "Gloria, I help you analyze it first, so that you would not be so anxious." "First of all, Penny and Winnie will not be good again. Even if Winnie could forgive Penny, Penny would not forgive Winnie. "Her end was caused by Winnie, so she would take revenge." No matter how Gloria thought, Thomas felt it absolutely impossible. In prison, she tried to deal with Winnie, now she was out and she would seize all opportunities. And she came out of the purpose to make Winnie suffer. "But she said Winnie often goes to see her." Gloria believed her, because Penny said firmly. And it made sense that Winnie and Penny now stood on the same side to deal with her. "Since she said so, she must have her idea. You switched your target to Winnie, which was good for her, because you will help her fix the problem. And then she would tell what you do to Brian. Who do you think will win? Thomas' analysis was thorough. Penny was smart but he could not be deceived. And even if what Penny said was a fact, he would not be enemy with Winnie. Brian still cared about Winnie now. If he tried to hurt Winnie, Brian would protect her and the result would be bad. "I feel quite reasonable. Penny wanted to use me to deal with Winnie." After Gloria understood that, she felt less nervous. "Yes, she must have thought so." "Gloria, no matter what kind of attitude Winnie has now, we can't be her enemy for the time being. The most important thing is to deal with the threat from Penny." "Well, don't worry too much. I will make some inquiries to find out what happened to Penny, and then we will come up with a plan." Thomas was calm and sophisticated, especially experienced in these shady things. "Uncle Thomas, I don't worry now. I'll just wait for your news." Since Thomas had said that, Gloria had nothing to worry about. After all, they were mutually beneficial, and if something went wrong on her side, Thomas's work would be wasted. Thomas put down the phone with a frown. He immediately sent someone to look into the matter of Penny. He didn't get the news until about evening. "She has cancer?" Thomas was obviously surprised to receive the phone. "Terminal cancer? How much time can she still live?" Thomas continued to ask. "Up to six months, maybe two months if her mental state is not good." The answer surprised Thomas again. He was still in shock after hanging up the phone. Penny was unlucky to have terminal cancer. Should he still need to deal with her? As long as their plan was prolonged for two months. But should he tell Richard that Penny had cancer? Should he make them meet? Although it was already late, Thomas still chose to go to Richard's hiding place. "You haven't been to see me for a long time." Richard was surprised that Thomas came so late. "I have something to tell you. Be prepared, Richard." Thomas wanted to say it directly, or it would be more torturing. "What makes you so serious?" Richard was nervous and thought his hiding place had been discovered. "It is about Penny. She's out of prison." "Really, how did she get out? Where is she now?" Richard was so surprised that he could not believe it was true. However, Thomas was so serious. "Now she is in her own house. I heard a friend named Oscar is taking care of her." "Take care of her? What's wrong with her? Why does she need someone to look after her?" Richard's surprise turned to nervousness. He had a bad presentiment that Thomas was not bringing good news. "Stomach cancer." Thomas was helpless. Although he did not like Penny, he knew Richard loved his daughter. "Stomach cancer? You're saying my daughter got out of prison because she has stomach cancer?" Richard's mind went blank and he couldn't believe it. But prisoner could not get out unless they were seriously ill. "Yes, terminal cancer and it has spread. The doctor said she could still live for two months to six months." Although the words sounded cruel to Richard, it was true, and Thomas had to make things clear. "Terminal cancer....." Richard really couldn't take it and sat down on the floor. "How can it be? She's so young. She's got so much time left. How can she only have half a year to live?" "No, there must have been some mistake. My daughter would not end her life so soon." Richard almost broke down. He could not accept the fact. He would rather it was all unreal, would rather it was all a dream. Tomorrow morning when he woke up, it would be over. "Richard, no one could accept this kind of thing, but that's the way it is." Thomas comforted Richard. As a father, he could relate to the despair of losing a child. "No, no, I'll go and see her. I'll see for myself." Richard suddenly got up and rushed to the door, but was stopped by Thomas. "Don't be impulsive, Richard. You will get yourself into troubles. Don't you know what your situation is now? Once you go out and expose yourself, your life is over." "I'm old now, I am not afraid. I can get sick for my daughter." Richard was still struggling, but Thomas pulled him back to the sofa in the living room. "You're crazy, aren't you? You're not rational at your age. You have not just a daughter. You have two other kids and the woman you've been with your whole life. You can't leave them alone." "Richard, calm down. Even if you want to see Penny, you can't go out on such an impulse. How do you know if she has a cop with her and if it's a trap?" Thomas wanted Richard to carefully consider it. If he was careless, his hiding for so long would be destroyed. What matters was that he would be exposed. "What should I do then? Call her. Call her right now. You get me her number." Richard had to call Penny and he must know the specific situation. "It is not safe. Richard, don't worry. I'll see if I can get the number of Penny's friends. It's safer for you to call him." Thomas was cautious. He began to look for Oscar's phone. Ten minutes later when he got the number, Richard called Oscar with his mobile phone. Oscar was watching TV with Penny in the living room, and had been urging Penny to go to sleep as soon as possible. "You can't stay up late, Miss Penny. It's very bad for your health." Oscar avoided the word cancer as much as possible. "Time is important to me. Health is not. I have to catch up with the TV series I'm watching, otherwise I won't see the end." Penny said jokingly, but Oscar was sad to hear that. "Don't talk nonsense. It's not too late to watch it tomorrow. If you go to bed early and get up early, you'll have plenty of time to watch TV." Oscar reached out to pull Penny, by this time, his phone rang. "Pick up, pick up, I'll go upstairs to bed after this call." Penny urged him and felt the call was in the right time, so that she could watch for more time. "I don't know the number." Oscar hesitated, and the phone kept ringing. Perhaps it was the constant sound of the phone that prevented Penny from watching TV, she urged again. "Pick it up, chat with him even if it is fraud." Oscar smiled when Penny said so, and understood that Penny must want to watch more TV. All right, he picked it up so that she could watch it a little longer. "Hello!" Oscar picked up the phone. "Hello, I am Penny's friend. I heard she's back. Can I talk to her?" Richard deliberately slowed down his voice, trying to control his emotions. "You want to speak to Penny?" Oscar asked with surprise. "Yes, please, I want to speak to her." Richard said, his heart trembling. "Well, wait a minute." Oscar handed the phone to Penny, and then said. "This call is for you. Answer it." "For me?" Penny was also surprised. Who was it? "Yes, he said he is your friend." "Pick it up, he is waiting." Oscar urged, and then put the phone into the hands of Penny. "Hello!" Penny answered the phone, inexplicable. "Penny..." Only hearing the sound, Penny had known who he was, and then immediately she covered the telephone receiver. "What's the matter?" Oscar asked without knowing why. "I have to go to the bathroom." Penny was quick to answer Oscar. "Ok. Go ahead." Oscar urged, without thinking too much. "Ok." Penny directly ran to the bathroom, and then locked the bathroom door before she said excitedly. "Dad, Dad, is it really you?" "Yes, it's me." Richard was also excited. It was the first time they had spoken on the phone since the accident, and both could not contain their emotions under the circumstances. "Dad, I miss you." Penny cried uncontrollably when she heard her father's voice. If she remembered correctly, it was the first time she had ever said she missed her father. Her father was the only family she had, and until then she realized that he was the only person in the world who was good to her. "Penny, I miss you too. Don't cry. I have many things to talk to you." Richard comforted Penny. It was a rare call, he could not waste time on useless things.

CHAPTER 645 FIRST PHONE CALL

Hearing that, Penny hurriedly controlled her mood. "I won't cry, Dad." "What did you tell the police about the case..." Before Richard finished, Penny suddenly hung up the phone. It occurred to her that the police had been there the day she returned, so she was not sure if there was any surveillance in the house. If she told her father, it was like telling to the police. She then sent a text message to her father to tell him why she couldn't continue. "Dad, if anyone's around you, you mustn't be seen. Delete every message I send you." Soon Richard replied. "I know. Don't tell the truth" Richard reminded Penny and then deleted the two messages. Since Richard said so, Penny was sure that someone was with her father, so she followed her father's instructions. "I have told my own story; I do not know the rest." Penny knew her father must have asked this question. Moreover, she must communicate with her father about this matter. After all, she had something to do with Daniel Wong's death. "Okay, I know what to do." Richard said in euphemism, for fear Thomas standing by the window saw it. He did not delete all the information, as Penny suggested. So if Thomas wanted to see the message, there was not a big deal. These were the words they had been waiting for so long. "What's the matter with your illness? Cancer?" Richard continued to send messages. "Don't worry, I'm not ill. I have a doctor who gave me a false diagnosis, otherwise the police wouldn't have let me out." "You mustn't tell anyone about it, or I'll have to go in again." Penny told her father the truth, afraid that her father would be worried. When Richard read it, he deleted it, and then he felt relieved that Penny did not have cancer. "Good, talk to you another time." Richard was in a hurry to end the message because Thomas urged him. "I found another place, get out of here." Thomas was eager to ask Richard to leave, because when Richard told him that there was police had been in Penny's house and she might be monitored. If so, Richard's phone number could had been traced. He was not sure about it, but he could not be careless. When Richard and Penny were sending messages to each other, Thomas had found another place for Richard. Richard deleted all messages from his phone, threw it into the water and left with his luggage ready at all times. Penny also deleted all messages, but she still felt worried about being found out, so she wanted to destroy the phone. "Ah..." Penny shouted, and then Oscar ran over. "What's the matter? Penny, Open the door." Oscar urgently shouted outside the bathroom. Penny felt sorry to worry Oscar, but now she had to do so. Penny went to the door and opened it, and Oscar rushed in. "What's wrong with you?" "I am ok, but I dropped the phone in the toilet accidentally. I put the phone in my lap when I finished and then I forgot about it and dropped it in the toilet when I got up." Penny said she was unintentional, deceiving her best friend. Oscar first looked at his phone and saw that it was indeed lying in the toilet and then he said with a smile. "I thought it was a big deal. It is ok." Oscar was indeed relieved, as long as Penny's condition did not worsen. "But you don't have a phone. I'll buy you one." It was better for Penny to buy the best phone for Oscar than for her message to be found. Oscar and Winnie were software masters, and it was easy for them to find what she deleted. "I used this phone to contact friends, not the one I work with. It doesn't matter that it fell into the water. You don't have to blame yourself for a phone." "You don't need to buy one, I will buy myself. Go out, it's time for you to go to bed." Oscar helped Penny out of the bathroom. After sending Penny back to her room, Oscar went to the bathroom to deal with the phone that fell into the toilet. With the phone soaking in water for so long and nothing important was inside, Oscar decided to throw it directly into the trash. Looking at his phone lying in the trash, Oscar suddenly thought of a question. Why did the person looking for Penny know his number? He didn't recognize the person by voice. Although puzzled, Oscar did not explore the question. Winnie had been busy until eleven o'clock. After a shower, she was ready for bed. As she was just lying in bed, she got a call from Officer Lee. "What's up?" Winnie thought there was a new case. "Richard appeared." "Richard?" Winnie sat up in surprise. "Yes, but we missed him and he got away. You'd better be careful. He is alert, I don't know what he'll do." Officer Lee's was chagrined, but it was important to remind Winnie. "I'm fine. I'll be careful. Tell me how you found him." Winnie was nervous, but she believed she could overcome it. "He contacted Penny about an hour ago. He didn't call Penny's phone, but Oscar's. But Penny hung up after a few words." "Then she went to the bathroom, and we were able to confirm that she was communicating with Richard through those wiretaps you installed. Then we found Oscar's phone and used the method you gave us to locate Richard. By the time we found his location, he had already run away." Officer Lee outlined the story, but it didn't end well. "Are you sure it's Richard?" Winnie asked. "It's definitely him. We have his fingerprints at the house where he lived and a submerged mobile phone. It must be infallible." Officer Lee was pretty sure it was Richard. "Did you check the security cameras around there?" Winnie continued to ask, in the monitoring, the whereabouts of Richard could be found. "The place was isolated and unmonitored, and there were two bad cameras in the junctions nearby. Richard showed up, but we didn't get a clue." Officer Lee was helpless. He did not know if Richard's anti reconnaissance ability was strong, or if someone was there to help him. Officer Lee could not believe he got away so fast. "That's not easy. I thought if we had surveillance, we would be able to catch him." Winnie was disappointed. She hoped that Richard would be caught as soon as possible. "What are you going to do? Should we interrogate Penny?" "We have studied this matter and cannot alert anyone yet. I think Richard will keep in touch with Penny. We should still have a chance." "Find Oscar sometime tomorrow and see if he has found anything. We'll check the neighborhood tomorrow and see if anyone can help him." Office Lee did not want to disturb Penny so quickly, on the one hand, Penny would deny or refuse to answer. She was a terminal cancer patient, the police could do nothing to her. On the other hand, if Penny was disturbed, Richard might not appear again. As long as Penny was not disturbed, Penny would certainly relax her guard. "All right, I'll see Oscar tomorrow." Winnie then hung up. The next day at noon, Winnie asked Oscar out for lunch. "I have no time to see Penny these days, and she doesn't want to see me. I don't know how she is."

Winnie chatted with Oscar while eating. "She is Ok. She has no mental pressure, so she is better." Oscar was gratified speaking of Penny. Penny had no painful reaction as other patients. Oscar sometimes felt it was misdiagnosis that she did not have cancer at all. "Is there any other abnormality these days?" Oscar understood what she meant. "There was nothing unusual when I was there... By the way, I got a call on my phone last night looking for her. Is that anomaly?" Oscar felt strange about it, but he did not know if it was helpful to Winnie. "Do you remember the number?" Winnie was not strange about it, because she had known about, but she could not tell Oscar about the surveillance. She was afraid that Oscar had psychological burden and knew her identity. The monitoring equipment was only installed in the living room and the kitchen, but detectaphone were everywhere, so Penny's words in the bathroom were heard. "I don't remember, I just took a casual look and picked it up after making sure I don't know it." Oscar recalled it but he really did not remember the number. "Show me your phone and I'll see if I can check it." Winnie knew Penny would not keep the message, but she wanted to try to restore it. "The phone was accidentally dropped into the toilet by Penny. I threw it away." Oscar explained, if he knew the mobile phone was useful to Winnie, he would keep it. Winnie was surprised to hear that. Officer Lee should know it, but they did not mention it to her. "Oh, you'll have to change your phone." "By the way, Oscar, be careful. If you meet Richard, you must not have a direct confrontation with him. You must protect yourself." Winnie did not have strong evidence but she had to remind Oscar. Now that Richard knew that Penny was out there, he might go to see Penny, so she was worried about Oscar's safety. Although Richard was not a desperado, but if he was accidentally exposed to Oscar, no one could guarantee he would not kill Oscar in order to protect himself. After the lunch, Winnie went back to her company. When she parked the car and walked to the elevator, unexpectedly she met Brian. His face was still cold, and seemed colder when he saw her. And he frowned.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 646 OFFICER LEE'S WHITE LIE

Winnie felt upset for Brian's attitude. But if Brian could treat her like this all his life, it would be a good thing. "Mr. Bennet." Winnie stood in front of the staff elevator to greet Brian, and then turned away from Brian. However, when Brian's exclusive elevator opened, Winnie's mobile phone rang. She took out her phone and saw that it was Officer Lee. She immediately picked it up and turned around and went to the car. "Officer Lee..." Brian heard only these three words, and the door of the elevator closed. Winnie returned to the car because she knew what Officer Lee was trying to say, and their conversation could not be overheard by anyone. "It's not going well. I've been looking into it all morning and I haven't found anything. The phone's been soaking for too long and there's no clue. I checked the phone number and it has nothing to do with Richard. What about you? Did Oscar find anything wrong?" He wanted to find a clue, but he got nothing all morning. "No, Oscar's phone was thrown into the toilet by Penny." Winnie was disappointed to hear Officer Lee's words. She even worried that Richard just disappeared again. "I know about it, but Penny might drop it intentionally. She is vigilant in case the message is recovered and found." "Now the trail is dead again, and we can only wait." Officer Lee said disconsolately, this mistake was a big blow to him. The case had been dragged for so long that it was the longest case he had ever worked on, already breaking his own record. This kind of delay was a kind of pressure for him. Richard finally appeared and but he ran away, which undoubtedly added to his pressure. "Wait? Wait for what?" Winnie did not know much about Officer Lee's methods of handling cases and did not know what his so-called waiting was. "Wait for him to call Penny again and meet Penny." "And tell Oscar not to have confrontation with Richard if he shows up." Officer Lee didn't want anyone else to get hurt in this case. "Don't worry, I've told him several times. And I made a deal with him today, and his private phone will be monitored. He said he would pay attention to his phone for work because it is all business and trade secrets." Winnie told Office Lee her only results today. Just like Office Lee said, they could only protect themselves and wait for Richard to appear. "Thank him to cooperate with us." "And tell Mr. Bennet to be careful, too." If Penny's enemy was Winnie, Richard's enemy was Brian. When he was ready, the first person he wanted to retaliate was Brian. To Officer Lee's surprise, he heard Winnie's sigh after he finished speaking. She was silent for a while before she spoke. "Why don't you call him? We're not on the good terms right now. I don't want to talk to him." Winnie refused. It would be better that Office Lee told Brian. Or, Brian would think she had her plan. Officer Lee was silent for a moment. "Okay, I'll call him." Officer Lee did not ask more but hung up the phone. He had sensed something between Winnie and Brian, but he could not ask more. Brian was not in the mood to work and had been thinking about why Officer Lee always called Winnie. He told himself countless times to leave Winnie alone, but he still cared about every move of her. Brian took deep breath again and again, releasing his depressed heart again and again. Finally he felt better and was ready to work, but he got a call from Officer Lee unexpectedly. Seeing his call, Brian broke down and got angry. "Officer Lee, are you looking for Winnie?" Brian's attitude was cold and his words were strange. "No, Mr. Bennet, I want to speak to you." Lee sensed that Brian's attitude was abnormal, but he ignored it and said what he wanted to say in a polite and earnest manner. "Well, Richard showed up, and I want you to be careful. Your family, especially your kids, should be protected. Don't give Richard a chance to retaliate." Officer Lee told him that it was his duty to do so, so as not to cause further damage. "Richard showed up? Didn't you catch him?" Officer Lee asked him to pay attention to his and his family safety, that was, Richard appeared and ran away. "No. We can only wait for the next chance. So you and your family have to be careful at this time." Officer Lee believed that Brian had the ability to protect the safety of his family, but he did not know whether he would care about Winnie's safety. "I see." Brian should thank Office Lee for his reminding, but he couldn't say it. "Does Winnie know?" Brian could not help but ask about Winnie. "Yes, I told her." Officer Lee answered, but still not mentioned Winnie's safety. "Is that why she went to the police station with you yesterday?" Brian knew he could not control himself and he wanted to know everything about Winnie. Office Lee was surprised that Brian knew Winnie went to the police station. If Brian knew it, how could he explain it? It seemed unrealistic to talk about studying Richard. On second thought, Officer Lee gave this answer. "I called to tell her just now. Yesterday, Winnie came to our headquarters for help. Our security system was attacked by hackers, and no one could crack the hackers. I know she is a master in this area, so I asked her for help." "To be exact, she went to help the day before yesterday. She didn't eat or sleep all day and night and was dealing with hackers. She was really exhausted." Office Lee found a convincing explanation if he wanted to convince Brian. But if this lie was known by his leadership, he must be punished. "Mr. Bennet, please keep this secret, if it is known that we can't solve the problem of a hacker, and it will damage the reputation of the police station." "And she had helped more than once, and we may need her help in the future. I owe her a favor." Officer Lee had to add this sentence. Brian knew Winnie went to the police station yesterday, he might know it before. In order to dispel suspicion, he had to tell a better lie. "She goes there almost every day at noon. Is your station always hacked?" Brian had doubts. He believed the explanation of Office Lee, but why did she always went to the station? "Well..... she didn't tell you?" Lee asked Brian in return, giving himself time to think of another lie. "What?" Brian was puzzled, if he knew it, he would not ask. "Well, Winnie told me that her physical quality is not good and she wanted to exercise. And she was afraid that Penny would do something bad to her, so she wanted to learn how to fight somewhere." "I told my leadership about it, and we have internal training site, so my leadership said Winnie can come to us to learn the ability to protect herself, as gratitude for her help, so Winnie comes at noon." Officer Lee said. One was to remind Brian that Winnie's safety was not guaranteed, and the other was to cover up Winnie's identity. Hearing what Lee said, Brian was relieved. At the same time, he felt sorry for his narrow-mind. "On the day I went to the police station to meet with you, I have arranged people to protect Winnie, so she does not have to worry. But... Let her train. My men can't be around her 24 hours a day. She can defend herself when she is alone with Penny. Brian thought it was a good thing Winnie continued to learn to protect herself, at least her face looked better and her physical quality improved a lot. These must be the results of exercise. So it seemed that Winnie should strengthen physical exercise. "That's a relief. It looks like you arranged it before I told you. Winnie is lucky to have such a thoughtful husband as you." Officer Lee finally felt relieved and did not have to worry about Winnie's safety. Officer Lee guessed Winnie and Brian had quarrel, but he did not know they had broken up. From his words, Brian felt he had not yet broken up with Winnie, as if they had still lived together. "Office Lee, keep it secret for me that I sent people to protect Winnie. Don't let Winnie know it, she doesn't like being followed all the time." Brian had to say that, with their relationship now, if Winnie knew it, she would refuse his protection. "Ok, I know." Lee understood what Brian said and what it felt like to have private life spied on. So he must finish the task well. "And, please find Richard as soon as possible. Only when Richard is found can our family feel at ease. I will tell my bodyguards to protect Winnie and also pay attention to Richard. I will notify you once I find him and let them directly control him when necessary." This was what Brian asked Lee to do, and was help Brian could offer, wishing Richard to be caught as soon as possible. "Thank you very much, Mr. Bennet. With your help, I'm sure I can find Richard soon. Rest assured, serving the people is our duty, I will do my best."

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 647 DISCUSS COUNTERMEASURES

Officer Lee was happy. It was probably the most valuable call he'd ever made. Officer Lee concealed the identity for Winnie successfully. As for when they would be good, Officer Lee could not help. After finishing his call with Officer Lee, Brian seemed even more depressed. He thought Winnie's help was dirty. At the moment, he felt that he was a villain, thinking Winnie was bad. And he had a quarrel with her yesterday because of it. She must be puzzled and felt he was a scum. He was not in a mood to work, he had to calm down first. Brian put down all the work and went to Winnie's office. For the arrival of Brian, Winnie was surprised. How could he come to her office? If Winnie was not wrong, it was Brian said they should not meet. But it was possible that Winnie thought more, he might come because of work. "Mr. Bennet? What is wrong?" Winnie stood up from the chair respectfully and looked at the man who was intimate with her, of course, it was past. Now they were separated by a river, and the distance of the river was that they could not swim. "I..." Brian hesitated, and then thought of a starting topic. "Officer Lee just called me and said Richard had turned up. He told me I had to be careful about our family's safety. I thought about it, and the most important is the kids. They are in the suburbs these days. I will arrange for someone to protect them." Brian said what he thought, but he was too embarrassed to mention the quarrel yesterday. "Well, it is soon for them to start primary school, let them enjoy the play these days." Winnie did not object, after all, it was for the sake of the kids, but she was said that no one was there to protect her. But now she was a policewoman who could defend herself. "If you want to see them, go to the suburbs, don't go out, or your safety could not be guaranteed." In fact, these words were foreshadowing, but he really felt embarrassed to explain what happened yesterday. Would Winnie forgive him? "Ok, I'll contact Rufus before I go after confirming you are not at home." In order to avoid Brian's misunderstanding, Winnie said so. She just went to see the kids without any other thought. Since they talked about the kids, Winnie asked. "Right, about the school, should I discuss with you or Stella?" Winnie reminded that words Brian had said and let him know the kids would go to primary school. Brian did not expect Winnie would ask this question, and apparently he was awkward. What was he gonna say? If he asked her to talk to his sister, the conversation was over. If he asked her to talk with him, he went back on his warning. When Brian hesitated, Winnie made a choice for him. "Let me discuss it with Stella. Mr. Bennet, I've got a meeting." Winnie took a document on her desk and then quickly left her office. Brian awkwardly stood there alone. He wanted to explain, but in the end, he was silent. If he knew silence would end the conversation so soon, he should have offered his explanation quickly without hesitation. Thomas asked Gloria out after the investigation. The two met in the private room of a restaurant. "How is the investigation, Uncle Thomas?" Gloria walked into the room and asked. She had been waiting for two days, not she was anxious. "Don't worry. Sit down first." Thomas said slowly. Gloria hurriedly sat down, did not want to waste a second. "Hurry up, Thomas, if it continues to delay, I am afraid that there will be a change on Brian's side." Gloria urged again, it could be seen that she was anxious. She could be calm in front of Brian, but she really could not calm down now. "All right, I will say it." Thomas spoke seeing that Gloria was anxious like an ant in the hot pot. He wondered why every girl could not be calm and steady as Winnie. Was it because Winnie had much experience? "We don't have to worry about Penny. I checked that she has terminal cancer and it has spread. She can live no more than six months." "Cancer, six months? If we have waited for six months, Brian and I will be over." Gloria was not affected. She had no feeling when she heard that Penny had cancer, she was even secretly pleased. But even if Penny got cancer, Gloria felt too long. She knew that everyone and everything would have great changes during the six months, and Brian's heart was no exception. "Penny is a dying woman now, and anything we do with her is meaningless and it may get us involved. We can't make a scene but we can't just sit there and wait. We just need to get her cancer to spread faster. We can't hold on for six months, but we can hold on for two months or even a month." Thomas thought so. If a dying person was annoyed, she would fight back desperately. She was dying, he and Gloria would not take a risk. It was better to be safe. "But with what way can let her die quickly? Can't you think of a way to deal with Penny and Winnie at the same time? Penny got Winnie involved, we would rather counterplot." Gloria's message was clear: she couldn't wait even for a month. She just wanted to settle the matter right now and tell him she could marry him. However, Thomas was not impulsive as Gloria, temporarily there was no counterplot. "Gloria, you are impatient. Every step of doing something big should..." "Uncle Thomas, how can I be patient? What if Brian and Winnie get back together? Gloria now was worried that Winnie and Brian got back together, and she would be waiting for so many years in vain. "Don't worry. You are grandpa's hand-picked granddaughter-in-law, and no one can replace you. There is a point you have to have in mind, even if you and Brian married, you can do nothing even if Brian and Winnie are back together. After all, there are two kids, and that's what Grandpa wants." Thomas told Gloria the possibility to make her calm down and see the facts. Gloria's panic let him upset, such a woman could not make a major event. Gloria was stunned and thought of what Thomas had told her. At that time Thomas said, Winnie was likely to be with Brian for a lifetime as his mistress. Felix acquiesced in this, and there would be no change. She could only accept such a relationship in order to cooperate, but Brian loved Winnie too much. If he kept this relationship, she would become a mistress and then be kicked out of the Bennet's house. "I understand, but I can't let Brian keep Winnie outside all his lifetime. It is insult to me." "And Winnie's existence is bad to you and Jack. If I have no status and power in the Bennet family, How can I help Jack?" Gloria said her true thoughts, also the position of Thomas clearly. It was not a threat, she just wanted Thomas to come up with better help. "Alas..... You have a point there. If you really want to fight Winnie, I can help you, but not with Penny. It's too risky." "Insist on two months. When Penny dies, if Brian and Winnie get back together, I will help you solve Winnie. Now we should focus on Penny." Thomas hated Gloria's threat, but he didn't show it. In order to make better use of Gloria, he could swallow this disrespect. As for the solution to the matter, Thomas would not compromise, and would do as he wanted. "Ok, I believe you." She said she believed Thomas, but looked helpless on her face. "Right, do you know why Brian and Winnie broke up?" Thomas really wanted to know it, so that he would know if they would get back together or it might be of other help. "I don't know, but once I met Winnie's friend in a hot pot restaurant. Her friend accused Brian and said that she broke up with Winnie because he liked me." "I don't know if that was the reason." Gloria did not know it. At the airport she asked Winnie, but Winnie let her ask Brian. How could she directly ask Brian? Brian might not answer her and might be angry. "Strange, why the reason is unknown?" Thomas did not say it, but had doubts in heart. He didn't understand why Brian had to hide the reason for breaking up. Winnie went to the kids' kindergarten after work on the same day. After the quit formalities, she sent the kids directly to the suburbs. Because of the fear of meeting Brian, Winnie hurried to leave and even refused to stay for dinner after sending the kids there. On the way home, she was driving around thinking about these things. After all these things, the kids left her again. It was for the safety of the kids, she still felt a lot of things missing. She was completely alone. The kids spent Mondays through weekends in the suburbs. When she missed the kids, she could only see them when Brian was not there. Although she was reluctant, Winnie was quite at ease. Rufus took care of kids more carefully than her, in addition to study of the kids, he had done a good job.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 648 CAN'T LET EACH OTHER GO

Winnie thought of the study of two kids. If it took too long, she would find a tutor to tutor two kids. In a word, she rested assured the kids were with Rufus and the kids were willing to be with Rufus. In such a state, she would have no qualms about leaving the city. Winnie gave a bitter smile, and then thought of Brian. Well, never mind, think of the kids. Brian was silent when she thought of the kids, so she had to talk to Stella. With a bluetooth headset on, Winnie called Stella. Stella was alone tonight, so two people made an appointment to eat steak. Stella chose a French restaurant that had nobility feeling and classical connotation. Though the decoration was extremely costly, but it had leisurely comfortable feeling. In short, sitting in such a soothing environment made people feel comfortable. "We never seem to eat out alone." Stella cut steak while chatting with Winnie. "Yes, it should be the first time." Winnie thought about it and they indeed did not come out alone. "You're a busy person with a busy schedule. It's hard to see you, let alone have dinner together." Stella said jokingly. She understood Winnie was deliberately busy, or she would be sad all the time, so she paralyzed her emotional nerves with works. "I have to support my two kids and Vanessa. My aunt has pension, but I should put some money aside for her retirement." "The family depends on me now. I should make more money while I can, to make life easier for my family." "I can't compare with you. You've got a husband to take care of, a father to protect you, a grandfather to spoil you. All your family loves you. Of course you've got time to be yourself." "Alas..... I envy you." Winnie said jokingly. As long as Stella did not mention Brian, there was no gap between them, just like best friends. Winnie's words made Stella upset. Without the comparison with Winnie, she did not feel that she was happy. But Winnie got nothing. She had been trying to take care of others, and no one was there to protect her. "You don't have to bear the burden of the kids. Brian will raise the kids, but you must work hard for your aunt and Vanessa." "Alas..... You're an idiot. When you broke up, you should have what Brian gave you. If he gave you some money, you wouldn't have to work so hard." Stella could not help but complain. She would rather Winnie to be secular, and it would be better. Winnie did not think so, she would rather fight for her own than want a penny from Brian. If she took a penny from him, her remaining love, which she thought was clean, would be corrupted. She and Brian left nothing worth showing off, at least, in her aspect of love, she wanted noble memories. "Stella, if I asked for his money, I would have become a mistress in other people's eyes. I'm tired now, but at least I feel comfortable. No matter what people say, I think I have nothing to be ashamed and I would despise myself if I took his money." "They are also my kids. It is my duty to raise them. I cannot rely on Brian. If she really wanted money, she would have a hard time over these years. "Well, let's skip that and talk about kids. The kids are going to go to primary school in September, now it is the time to sign up. Which primary school is convenient?" Winnie didn't want to talk about Brian, so she changed the topic. Stella sighed at first because she had not moved on from the previous topic. Then she helped analyze the school's situation. "According to the national policy, students should go to school nearby..." "Stella, I checked, the school of their registered permanent residence is aristocratic school. I don't want them to go to that kind of high-end place, I don't want them to grow up in an aristocratic place. I want to find a normal school for them, and I don't want my kids to be so tired in elementary school, so that they can be more relaxed. A school with these two points together is good. Of course, this is my personal opinion. Please go back and discuss it with Brian." Winnie gave her own idea. Her two kids were so smart that they would shine wherever they were put. In ordinary school, kids could learn solid things and would not grow up in an environment of intrigue. Childhood was precious for people since it only had once. Winnie only wanted her kids to spend the most precious childhood more easily. "Winwin, I agree with you on that. But why do you want me to convey it to Brian? You two can meet every day at the office, you can discuss it." Stella asked Winnie. She did not understand why she had to convey the message. Didn't they talk now? "It seems he didn't tell you." Looking at the expression of Stella, Winnie understood what was going on. Then she offered an explanation. "Well, we agreed that from now on we would have nothing personal. The only thing we have in common is our kids. But your brother said you could handle the kids and asked me to consult with you." Winnie explained the meaning of Brian, but she meant it too. "What's wrong with you two? So what you have broken up? What's wrong with not loving? You don't communicate anymore. Asked others and see if they will be like you after divorce. And you're working together. How can you be so cruel? Can't you be friends like everyone else?" Stella suddenly was angry, and increased her voice, but she did not target Winnie but her brother. "We communicate at work, but try to avoid seeing each other. We avoid as much as possible what other people can convey. Stella, he hates me, we can't be friends. And I hope to separate thoroughly, and I don't want to disturb his life. We are not in the same situation as others, nor can we do what others do..." "Yes, you are different from others. When others are separated, they can be like friends. And you can't let go of each other by this kind of behavior, forcing yourself to forget." Stella sighed helplessly. She was absolutely right. Two people forced them to be cruel, they thought, in this way, they could hide their love. Winnie's words were interrupted by Stella. She did not know what Brian thought, but she did still love Brian. Because she still loved him, so she wanted to stay away from him, so she avoided meeting him as far as possible. If they discussed it together, she would be softhearted and would be tortured. They wanted to be friends like everyone else and gave their kids a good atmosphere. But at least she could not do it. Gloria got a task from Thomas, that was, stimulate Penny. It was a job for Gloria, who was good at speaking mean and harsh words. When she was again in the house of Penny, Gloria swaggered. She was happy that Penny was sick. "Penny, I heard that you have terminal stomach cancer. Why don't you go to the hospital? Do you want to die at home?" Gloria said sharply, while walking to the sofa and then sat down. And the bodyguards behind her were always following her. "You came here today to provoke me?" Penny ignored the deliberate behavior of Gloria. It seemed that she took effort to find out she was sick. "No, no, no, I'm not here to provoke you, I'm here to care about you. Since you have terminal cancer, you can't wait for death at home. Go to the hospital for surgery so that you can live longer. I can give you money if you don't have. Even if you are an animal, I can't watch you die." Gloria's words were becoming more and more sinister. She just wanted to provoke Penny so that she would die earlier. "But I don't want to live long. It is good." Penny was not angry or annoyed. She would not be irritable because of Gloria's stimulation, because she did not have a disease and she would not die. "Since you want to die young, I can only watch you die. If you really want to die young, surgery is the way to die young. I talked to the doctor, it's a big risk to have surgery, so you may die on the operating table accidentally. If you really don't want to live, I can call the surgeon..." "Gloria, don't say that. She's sick and can't be provoked like that." Before Gloria could finish her words, Winnie's voice suddenly was heard and it scared Gloria. Gloria looked at Winnie, and the man beside her with panic. "Are you here?" Gloria asked Winnie. "Yes, I've been here. I was cooking in the kitchen and didn't notice you coming. I just want you to watch your mouth and do not irritate the patient." Winnie said seriously and she was angry about Gloria's behavior. These days they never said anything about cancer or surgery. They just treated Penny as a normal person. But Gloria's behavior was too obscene and her words were mean. Winnie's words made Gloria uncomfortable. It was between her and Penny, Winnie seemed to have no right to intervene. Why should Winnie talk to her like that? Gloria could not bear it, so she did not pretend anymore. "Winnie, don't pretend to be a good person. Do you think I don't see you and Penny conspired against me? Well, you're here today, so is Penny, so let's just confirm it. Do I have anything to do with your breaking up with Brian? Am I the one who ruined your relationship?"

CHAPTER 649 ANGER AGAINST GLORIA

Winnie did not understand what Gloria was talking about. "What have I done to you?" Winnie asked, puzzled. "Don't worry about that, I am asking you do I have anything to do with your breaking up with Brian?" Gloria wanted to prove herself by questions, no matter how she thought in her heart, but in practical action she did not violate principles. It was Brian put forward their cooperation, so Gloria had confidence to ask Winnie. "No, no one has anything to do with my breaking up with Brian." Winnie gave her answer. She never said that it was other's reason that she and Brian had broken up. But seeing Gloria's appearance, she was glad that she had broken up with Brian, or she had to deal with Gloria, Wendy and Penny. "Since you said it had nothing to do with me, why did you conspire against me with Penny and separate me from Brian?" Gloria continued to ask sharply, but Winnie was confused "Gloria, what do you mean I conspire against you with Penny? What have I done? What have you lost?" Winnie was confused by Gloria. She seemed to have done nothing. In front of Penny, she even had not mentioned Gloria's name, how could she go against Gloria? "You do not know what you have done? You....." Gloria wanted to rebuke Winnie, but suddenly she realized something. If she said Penny threatened her to leave Brian, it would be like revealing her past. Winnie was not a fool. She would question, and Gloria would not know how to answer. Besides, she insisted on not leaving Brian, which was not consistent with the fact that she cooperated with Brian. Gloria stopped and did not go on, but Penny spoke. "Why, why don't you say it out? Tell Winnie if you have stolen Brian." Penny had been silent. She knew Gloria would end like this, but Gloria stopped and realized what she had done. But Penny would not easily let her go after she had made a scene here. "I didn't. Penny, I came here today to tell you. Brian and I have a cooperative relationship, which is for the business of both companies. When the cooperation agreement is signed, the relationship between me and Brian will be terminated, so don't encourage Winnie to attack me." Gloria gave an affirmative answer. "Do you expect me to believe that? You can cheat Winnie, but don't play tricks with me." Penny didn't believe what Gloria said, perhaps it began as partnership, but Gloria's purpose had never been pure. After finishing her words, Penny looked directly at Winnie. "Winnie, are you a fool? Why did you say that to her? It is meaningless. Why don't you ask her why she's here, and what my relationship is with her?" Penny reminded Winnie. Hearing that, Gloria was worried, but Winnie was calm. In the kitchen when she saw Gloria, she had been thinking why Gloria was there and what their relationship was. But she knew it wasn't her place to ask, and she didn't want to know what their relationship was. "Penny, other things..." Winnie did not want to let things continue, so she wanted to advise Penny not to continue to say. But as soon as she opened her mouth, Penny knew she wanted to be kind and didn't want to ask too many questions. However, Penny did not want to let go of Gloria, so she interrupted Winnie and say the reason out. "Don't say you don't want to know. I'll tell you. When I was with Brian, she took advantage of the convenience of work to seduce Brian and deliberately created an affair with Brian. If I had not stopped her, you would not be with Brian. Do you think it is simple for such an evil woman to cooperate with Brian?" "Penny, that's all past, don't accuse me, ok? I didn't deliberately create an affair, I think you..." "Now, don't make any noise." Winnie interrupted Gloria loudly. If it went on, it was just gonna get worse. The feud between Penny and Gloria had nothing to do with her. Brian had nothing to do with her, why should she listen to that? "Gloria, no matter what relationship you had with Brian before, and no matter what relationship you will have with Brian in the future, please don't involve me." "I want to tell you clearly that I have no intention of taking back Brian, and I have no intention of opposing you. On the contrary, I wish you and Brian happiness. "I don't know why you are here today, but Penny is a patient. I ask you to give her a quiet environment and show her respect." At this time Winnie was calm. She did not target anyone, she just thought Penny should not be treated like that. Gloria had quarrel with a patient, she could not bear it and had to stop it. "Winnie, who gave you the courage to talk to me like that? Who do you think you are to criticize and lecture me? Are you ready to disappear in B City?" Gloria threatened Winnie. She had always lectured others and been sarcastic to others, but today Winnie unexpectedly dared to provoke her, which made her embarrassed. If she Gloria didn't warn Winnie, she would think she could be bullied easily. "Gloria....." Winnie did not want to make things big, she did not care about Gloria's warning. She longed for someone to get rid of her, but at the moment it was Penny's illness that dominated. She wanted to make peace, but Penny refused to let go. Because Gloria's warning to Winnie made her uncomfortable. "Try to make her disappear. If you make her disappear, I have the power to make you famous in the world." Penny said in a malicious tone and her eyes were sharp. She did not look like a cancer patient, threatening people with momentum. "You..." "Madam, you are not welcome here. Don't be unreasonable here, please leave." Unconvinced, Gloria wanted to resist, but Oscar asked her to leave. "Who are you?" "You are rude, I will call Brian to take his girlfriend away." Oscar said sternly, expressing his disgust to such a sinister woman. Sure enough, the name of Brian was the most useful. Hearing that, Gloria instantly was silent. She glared at Oscar angrily and left with her bodyguard. After Gloria left, the room fell silent. Penny was still angry, Winnie and Oscar did not know how to comfort her. After a while, Winnie gave her a glass of water. "Don't get angry with such a person. It's more important to take care of your health than anything else." "You don't have to fight for me. I have no intention of getting back together with Brian." In Penny a dying patient, Winnie tried to make everything better. She would rather believe that Penny was for her own good to get her involved, than to take revenge. Even if it was revenge, if it could make Penny happy and live longer, she would rather be surrounded by hatred. "Are you kidding? Where do you see me fighting for you?" Penny felt Winnie's words ironic. She tried to hurt Winnie instead of fighting for her. "Gloria came here today just to make me angry, just to make me die soon. I'm sure you don't know a woman with a black heart. What she did behind her back does not square with her public image. You should have learned today that such a person can climb on top of me if I don't give her a lesson." Penny's anger was not from Winnie, but from Gloria's arrogance. She's got something on Gloria, but Gloria was still arrogant. Obviously Gloria didn't take her seriously knowing that she was sick and dying. Gloria was wrong, one was that she did not have disease and would not die. The other was that even if she were sick and died, she would keep the evidence in her hands. She Penny was sure that no one could change that fact. She did not allow Gloria to be with Brian, she would control Gloria even if she died. "You can't care about these now, I tell the nanny to stop Gloria from coming here." Oscar said and stopped Winnie from speaking again. If Winnie continued to talk, Penny would put her anger out on Winnie. Winnie did not continue to say, she knew Penny would confront her. So she went to the kitchen to continue to cook with the nanny, and Oscar left to appease Penny. "You can't get angry with someone like that, and if you know what she's here for, you can't let her succeed. How happy Gloria would be if she saw how angry you are now. Does that prove her success?" Oscar sat next to Penny and said gently to enlighten her. "I understand that, but Gloria is too bullying. And Winnie, does she have a brain problem? Gloria scolded her and she did not scold back. It serves her right that she has been bullied." Penny did not know what she was angry about, only that today's events made her not calm down. "She was afraid you would be angry, and it would affect your illness. If Gloria really touches her bottom line, she won't wait to be scolded. Don't worry about her, as long as you don't get angry." No matter what Penny said, Oscar did not refute, but tried to persuade her not to be angry. Penny's days were numbered, and she could not be subjected to this kind of stimulation, and her condition could not be aggravated by stimulation.

CHAPTER 650 WINNIE ON LEAVE

Oscar's attitude eased and his concern for Penny made embarrassed for her anger. She had to endure it, even if she was still angry. Penny did not speak, looked at Oscar and then adjusted her emotions. "Well, for your sake, I won't be angry with such a person. But you tell Winnie, Gloria had designed her words, I did not say nonsense. Gloria and I did not like each other because of Brian. She must have wanted me and Winnie to fight against each other by saying that, and then she gets what she wants." Penny explained and believed that Oscar would convey these words to Winnie. Now she could not let Winnie know her plan, and could not let her see that she was using Winnie and Gloria. "Well, you don't have to explain. Winwin can understand. As long as you calm down, don't care what other people think." Oscar was relieved to see Penny eases her anger. So that was the end of the conversation. "You are tired after being made such a fuss by Gloria. Are you going to the bedroom or lie down on the sofa?" Oscar asked. "I'll go upstairs and have a rest." Penny got up and walked towards the bedroom, Oscar said behind. "Call me if you feel ill." When Penny returned to her room, she did not lie down but went to the cloakroom. There was a safe in a compartment in the cloakroom and she opened it. She took out Gloria's evidence with a sinister smile. "Gloria, don't think that just because you deleted everything, I have no evidence. Open your fucking eyes and see what this is all about. I saved everything I read about you in the newspaper. I'd like to see how you continue to be arrogant." "Gloria, even if I am dead, I will keep these evidence and let you pay the price. In a word, no good will come to anyone who goes against me." "Of course, including Winnie." "As long as I live, neither of you will get Brian." Penny soliloquized in the cloakroom, the cruelty exposed again in her eyes, and the hatred could be seen on her face. She must bear in mind the main purpose of her coming out this time. She must make Winnie pay the price. After Penny went upstairs, Winnie came out of the kitchen. She did not see Penny, so she asked. "Where is Penny?" "In the bedroom. You don't have to worry. She is not angry anymore." Oscar comforted Winnie, after all, Winnie was the most wronged one. Two women who had deep thoughts about Brian vent their anger on this woman who had no relationship with Brian. "Good. I was afraid her anger might interfere with her illness." Winnie felt relieved. "By the way, Penny let me tell you that she never said those words Gloria said. They did have a bad time before because of Brian..." As Oscar spoke, he tried to pull Winnie to sit on the sofa, but Winnie interrupted him and refused to sit on the sofa. "Don't explain to me. I don't take such things to heart. Oscar, take good care of Penny and don't allow Gloria to come over again." Winnie had a peaceful mind and had not affected by what happened just now. It was not that she did not care about it, it was that she did not want to have anything to them. As for if Penny had said those words or not, Winnie would know about it, as long as she made a call to the police station. There was no need for Penny to explain. "I have to go back in advance. You take care of her." Winnie said, picked up the car keys on the coffee table and went out. Oscar did not detain, but he went out together with her. Two people came to Winnie's car. Oscar reminded Winnie. "Winwin, Gloria's performance made me quite unexpected. I don't see her like this in the media. I think Penny was right that she had an ax to grind." "Be careful. She may tell tales. She wasn't happy with the way you spoke for Penny today, and I am afraid she'd get you in trouble." Oscar reminded kindly, only to hope that Winnie would be careful. "Don't worry, I have been watching Gloria for a long time. I know what to do. I gotta go and you go back to take care of Penny." Winnie smiled and got into the car. She had checked Gloria, so she knew she was duplicity. She had been spoiled since childhood, so she had a bad temper. So she had been keeping a distance with Gloria and Brian. If Gloria was not arrogant and domineering, if not she was worried about Penny, she would not have positive conflict with Gloria. When Brian and Gloria began to cooperate, Winnie saw that Gloria was not simple. It was not that she had prophetic superpowers, but that she knew a woman could conceal the eye light when she faced the man she liked. As for the enmity between Penny and Gloria, she did not want to know about it and would not participate in. Winnie only hoped that everything was quiet and let Penny leave in peace. A new day began, and it was a happy day for Winnie. The collaboration between her and the Bennet Group came to an end, and she returned to her company according to Brian's instructions. The night before, Winnie called the company to tell them she would go back to work, but was told the next project was delayed, so Winnie could have some rest. It was the first day of rest, Winnie didn't go anywhere, but asked Daenerys and Emily to come to her home. "Winwin, you haven't rested like this for a long time. How are you going to spend the 15-day holiday?" Emily asked Winnie while teasing Jelly Bean. "When I don't have a holiday, I spend all my time planning how I am going to spend the holiday. I feel so empty now I have holiday and I have no plan at all." Winnie said with a smile. She didn't know what was wrong with her, and she had no plan except to be happy. "You, you are a workaholic. If you were allowed to work, your work plan would last until the end of the year." Daenerys knew Winnie well. It was not that she did not have a plan, it was that she felt empty when she got time. "Maybe, I have energy in the holiday." Winnie smiled brilliantly. "Winwin, you might as well throw away your work. If you take a holiday for even half a century, you will have plenty of money to spend. Why should you work so hard?" Emily picked up Jelly Bean while enlightening Winnie. Her idea was not the same as Winnie's. She thought money was not important, as long as she was happy. "Don't exaggerate. If I don't work for half a century, I will starve." Winnie came to hold Jelly Bean. Looking at her babbling, Winnie was happy. "You are exaggerating, the game you and Leo developed earned ten years of wages of ordinary workers in a day. You should know how much profit a year." "Now you can support your family well without going to work. I mean you can take it easy and don't get too tired." Others didn't know how much Winnie earned, but she did and thought she did not have to work very hard. "Emily is right. Even if you want to work, you don't have to be so tired. Just find a job that's easier and you can have plenty of time to enrich yourself." Daenerys sat on the sofa shopping for baby products, while speaking. "I really can't earn that much money. What Emily said is not my income. After removing the cost every day and paying taxes legally and reasonably, Leo and I split the rest equally, so the net profit is not so much." "Well, it's enough to have a good life, but one can't stay still in life. My aunt is in her fifties and still fighting for her career. I can't rest at my age." "What's more, games are unpredictable and quickly eliminated. When they are replaced by other games, I will lose my job. So there I still have to work, but I'll just try to do as little work as possible." Winnie could not let go of everything now, she had not completed the task. She was going to work, and be a cop for the rest of her life, even if the game was going to support her. "You just can't put your work down." Emily felt her persuasion had no meaning so she gave up. "Since it's so boring, don't talk about me, right, Jelly Bean?" "Now, tell me if you and Leo have made any progress these days." Winnie teased Jelly Bean, while speaking to Emily. It was kind of happy to be doing whatever she wanted. "We..." "There is progress, and a great progress." Emily wanted to avoid it, but Daenerys suddenly opened her mouth, which stunned Emily. "Daenerys, stop playing with your phone and tell me what's going on." Winnie was excited and began to explore the gossip. "It got a big progress, I feel..." "Then shut up." Daenerys kept Winnie in suspense, and Emily came to cover her mouth. "Don't say nonsense, or I will take Jelly Bean away." Emily warned, but it did not work for Daenerys, but prompted her to say it. "Well..." Daenerys gestured Winnie to help with eyes since she could not speak with her mouth covered. Winnie got it, put Jelly Bean in the walker, and then threw herself on the sofa to help control Emily.
