Being held in Brian's arms, Winnie's heart palpitated, but she forced herself to spoke calmly. "Didn't you fall asleep? Or did I wake you up?" "I didn't sleep. I couldn't sleep." He said in a low magnetic depressed voice. It made Winnie's heart ache to hear it. "Is there any trouble in your work? Can I do anything to help?" Brian's heart melted when he heard her sweet and gentle voice. He unconsciously held her more tightly, put his chin on her head and rubbed her head with his chin gently. "It's not about work." "Well, then I guess I can't be of any help." If it was not about work, it must be about personal affairs which was either about family thing or women. If he was troubled by family thing, he wouldn't speak in such a helpless voice. Then there was only one possibility left. He was troubled by something about woman. If that was the case, Winnie was sure that she couldn't be of any help. "No, you can help me." Brian averred. Maybe under the effect of alcohol, he told Winnie what he wouldn't tell her when he had a clear mind. "I can help? How?" Winnie considered what Brian said to be a casual remark and didn't think that she could be of any help. Maybe she was helping him by chatting with him and making him feel relaxed. "Be my lover, or stay away from me." Brian said in a deep voice. His voice changed from soft to cold when he said these words. After hearing it, Winnie held her breath for a while and became stiff. Then she felt bitter. The two choices were too extreme for Winnie. She could only either became the other woman who would be abandoned one day or left her son alone, who she had just found, and left in a hurry. She became more and more painful. At this moment, she dared not speak, fearing that she would expose her emotion because of her trembling voice. At the same time, Brian was waiting for her answer anxiously. Different from before, Winnie didn't reject him immediately. Seeing her reaction, Brian didn't know what to do. If Winnie agreed with what he said, should he accept it or refuse it? Winnie kept silent for a moment and adjusted her attitude. "I understand what you mean. To put it bluntly, I could only either stay or leave." "I have a question for you. If I choose to leave, will you allow me to take Luke away with me?" Winnie asked tentatively. Although she didn't feel hopeful, she would rather leave with the kids, as long as Brian agreed. "....." Brian was surprised and speechless. It never occurred to him that Winnie would make such a request. "Why do you want to take Luke away with you?" He spoke in an obviously colder voice and no longer held Winnie so hard. "There are two reasons. First, I love Luke just like a mom loves her son. Second, I hate Penny, so I don't want Luke to live with her." Winnie said openly. Brian knew that she hated Penny, so it was unnecessary for her to find other excuses. "Penny is Luke's mommy and she loves him. If you do so, it's not fair to the child and Penny." Hearing her unreasonable request, he somewhat sobered up and said in a cold voice. "Mommy? Compared with her, Luke's mom, I love Luke more. I don't think it a pity to lose this kind of love. Penny didn't love Luke. Therefore, it is not unfair for me to take Luke away with me. She had told me that you're going to have a wedding ceremony, you're going to have another baby and she doesn't mind if I take Luke away with me." No matter what, Winnie wouldn't let Luke live with Penny. In Winnie's opinion, it was ironic to say that Penny loved Luke as a mom. "Was it her who said these words to you?" Brian frowned and asked. "You don't believe it? Forget it. I'll leave as long as you allow me to take Luke away with me. But don't worry. I'll let Luke come back to you when he grows up. After all, he is your son." Winnie no longer said in a gentle voice because Brian didn't believe her and treated her with prejudice. However, she wouldn't leave unless Brian agreed with her condition. "Winnie..." Brian warned her in a depressed, cold and louder voice. His reaction strained her patience. She stood up with force, sat cross-legged in front of Brian and said loudly. "Brian, you always lose your temper with me. Do you think that it's meaningful? Can it solve any problem? Do you believe that I'll give in after you yell at me?" Winnie looked at him unblinkingly. Just now, they talked in a good atmosphere. However, he ruined it. Could it be that he was the only who was angry and she was a fool who wouldn't get angry no matter what she heard? Winnie paused for a while and continued to speak. "Can we talk calmly? Can we solve the problem between us? If you hate me and want me to leave, at least be somewhat serious." Winnie said a lot in a peremptory manner, and Brian couldn't say anything in response. His heart palpitated again when he looked at her stern expression, her sullen eyes and her white skin. He didn't mean to lose his temper, but he got angry easily when Winnie was involved. He neither hated her nor wanted her to leave, but there were some problems that he really didn't know how to deal with. Brian lay on the bed, said nothing and just looked at Winnie for unknown reasons. Seeing this, Winnie was relieved because it seemed that he wouldn't yell at her again. "Let me take Luke away. I'll definitely..." "No way." Winnie wanted to continue to persuade him, but Brian decisively rejected. This time, Brian prevented himself from losing his temper. He just spoke in a low and cold voice. How was it possible that he would let Winnie leave with Luke? In that case, he would lose two important people at one time. No, he would lose three important person because Megan would also be taken away. Being a businessman, he wouldn't do business at such a loss. "There is another solution. You get a kind and loving new mommy for Luke. If you do that, I'm willing to leave." Winnie had already made a compromise by putting forward this request, but it made her heart somewhat ache to make such a compromise. "It's impossible. This matter is not as easy as what you think." Brian rejected her proposal again. "Why is it impossible? Penny has no advantage except that she is from a rich and powerful family. You're outstanding, and there're many entrepreneurs and people from rich families nationwide who want to marry their daughters to you. You can find one better than Penny easily." Winnie said somewhat anxiously. "Can you tell me why you hate Penny so much?" Brian suddenly moved to another topic. Winnie didn't expect it, but she didn't avoid it. "She ruined my life, so I can't let her get away with it. If it wasn't for her, I would have lived a happier life than she does." Winnie couldn't hide the resentment in her eyes. If Penny didn't do something malicious and insidious, there wouldn't be so many disputes and she would live an ordinary life. Having experienced what happened four years ago, Winnie certainly hated her. However, Winnie never intended to retaliate against her. If Penny didn't abuse Luke like that, she wouldn't mention the hatred between them. Now, when Brian asked the reason why she hated Penny, she could only tell him that it was because what she did four years ago, but couldn't tell him that it was because she abused Luke. "You mean, if she didn't tell Leo the fact, you could be with Leo, lie to him and be a liar all your life. And that's your happiness?" Brian put on a cold expression and his eyes were sharp. He unexpectedly began to care about what had happened four years ago. Hearing her mention the words "happy life", he became angry again. "Why do you call me 'liar'? It seems that you don't know how wounding this word is. At that time, Leo really loved me and I should have the right to love people even if I was a liar. However, I made a wrong friend who did something to the detriment of me secretly." "That loving feeling took a lot of work, but she easily ruined it with several words. She ruined not only my love, but also my whole life. I must take revenge on her." Winnie said openly, but she still didn't explain what happened that year. Brian had preconceived notions that was deeply ingrained in his mind, so he wouldn't believe even if she explained to him. Now, Winnie just wanted him to know that she wouldn't let Penny off even if she was under his protection. "Now, Leo still revolves around you all day. You can go to him and restart your love. Why must you take revenge on Penny?"If it wasn't that Winnie had warned him not to lose his temper easily, Brian would have been furious. Was she stupid? She mentioned another man in his presence after she had slept with him. Didn't she know he wouldn't listen?"When love is gone, it's impossible to restart it. I'm a divorced woman with a child. Besides, my life is a mess. I'm not good enough for someone as excellent as Leo."Instead of getting angry, Winnie calmed down. Things in the past couldn't be changed; people couldn't put back the clock. She was destined to miss Leo."Don't mention this. You just need to know that I won't let Penny off. How you're going to protect her is your business."After saying these words, Winnie sighed as if everything in the past would disappear with it."Let's get down to business. Since you don't allow me to take Luke away, I won't leave. No matter you hate me or dislike me, you have to put up with it my staying here."As she spoke, she turned and got out of bed."Get some sleep. It's late in night."The moment Winnie turned her back to Brian, she could no longer pretend to be strong. Although Brian refrained from losing his temper today, some of his words still cut her. He was partial towards Penny and said that she was a liar in an ironic way. It made her heart ache to hear these words. If possible, she would leave before Brian forced her to. If it wasn't for Luke, she wouldn't hesitate to leave. There had been many scars left on her. Now, Brian despised her. She would feel even sadder in the rest of her life."Wait. You haven't answered another question."Brian stopped Winnie who was going to leave."I'm sleepy. I'll talk to you later."There had been tears in her eyes. Having no the courage to go on, leaving was the last resort for her to keep her self-esteem.

CHAPTER 92 ASKED RICHARD FOR HELP

Penny stayed awake all night. Why? Because Winnie told her that there were backups of the evidence. If there were really backups in her computer, she would be still under her restraint, and she would be threatened by Winnie all the time in the future. What worried her most was the reaction of Brian. He had failed to restrain himself and began to fall in love with Winnie. When he realized that he had fallen in love with Winnie, he would probably terminated the contract. Thinking of this, Penny became resentful and gritted her teeth. She wouldn't allow either such a thing to happen or her efforts over the past four years go down the drain. Believing that she couldn't await her doom, Penny made a phone call. "Get Winnie's computer for me." Penny got down to the business, not caring that the other person was still sleepy. "What computer?" Klara was still sleepy and still didn't understand why Penny called her suddenly. "Last time, you failed to get her mobile phone. Now, get her computer for me. I'm sure that I can find evidence in the computer. I'll drive Winnie away as long as I find evidence." Penny didn't tell the truth to Klara because there would be a greater threat to her if one more person knew it. The reason why they could cooperate was that they had the same goal to drive Winnie away. At the beginning, they agreed that Klara was responsible for stealing Winnie's mobile phone and Penny would handle the rest of the matter. However, Klara failed to steal Winnie's mobile phone, and Penny had to ask someone to rob Winnie of it herself. Now, the backups were in the computer, so she had to ask Klara to get it for her. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Bennet, but I can't help you anymore." Klara was finally awake and understood what Penny wanted her to do. Then, she rejected decisively. "Why?" Penny asked. "Last time, Winnie saw me when I was searching her bag. Now she's very wary of me, so I don't have any chance at all. Besides, I would lose my job if it was discovered." Klara didn't want to continue to take risks anymore.

Although she hated Winnie, she really dared not do something that was against the law. "Klara, you've done something similar before. It's too late for you to stop. If I tell Brian what you had done, do you think you can keep what you have now?" Penny threatened her. She would have no way to get Winnie's computer if Klara refused to help her. Anyway, she couldn't send someone to the company to rob her of it. "Your position is more important than mine. If you're not afraid of losing your position, I guess I don't have to." Klara knew that Penny would threaten. This was also a reason why she refused to help her again. It was not too late to quit. Even if what she had done was discovered, Brian would forgive her. At that time, Winnie mentioned her secret while Brian warned her because of Winnie. Then, she agreed to cooperate with Penny out of anger. After she calmed down and thought about it, she found it unwise for her to do so. Therefore, however Penny tempted her, she wouldn't continue to do that. "Well, Klara, you dare to threaten me. Well, wait and see. We'll know if Brian will be able to protect you or me." Penny hung up the phone angrily and had to give up the trick she had just thought of. However, she had to do something now, otherwise it would be too late. Penny thought for a long time and found that she could only ask her father for help. She wasn't in the mood to eat breakfast, so she went to the headquarters of the Burns Group after she dressed up. In the chairman's office of the Burns Group. "Why do you come here today?" Richard put down the document and sat down on the sofa. "Sit down." Penny sat down after she put her bag on the tea table. "There is something that I can't handle, so I come to ask for your help." "What happened?" Richard frowned. As he had known, Penny wouldn't come to find him if she didn't encounter anything problem. "There is a new female software engineer in Brian's company. It seems that Brian has fallen in love with her. Now, she is a threat to me. I don't know what to do." Penny didn't tell him what happened four years ago, but described Winnie as the other woman. "I've told you that your marriage could be in trouble. The tie between you and Brian is too weak. To give birth to a child is the only way to consolidate your position." Richard had known that something like this would happen long ago. He had mentioned it to Penny many times, but she just didn't listen. "I wanted to have a baby, but Brian disagreed. What can I do?" Penny said helplessly and angrily. They had been married for four years, but Brian had never even touched her. How could she have a baby? "If he disagrees, manage to get pregnant. Don't tell him when you're just pregnant. Several months later, he can't let you have an abortion. If you can't not even manage to do that, how can you consolidate your position? Could it be that you're going to just be a stepmother for the rest of your life? Are you willing to let that brat get the Bennet Group?" Richard's eyes were filled with desire. He wanted to gain profit from the Bennet Group. If Penny could control it, it'll be more convenient for him to get benefits from the Bennet Group. Although Brian wouldn't let it happen, it would be a different story if he got a successor. "How is it possible that I'll just be a stepmother for the rest of my life? I hate that kid so much. Now, there's the other woman. I'm at my wit's end." Penny said helplessly. She never wanted to ask her father for help. She believed that she would trouble anyone because Brian could help her. It never occurred to her that Brian would fall in love with another woman and she couldn't drive that woman away without the help of others. "Give me that woman's basic information to me and I'll handle this matter. Don't care about anything else in the future. Manage to have a child as soon as possible." When Richard said these words, the expression on his face was as sinister as that of Penny. It was even more vicious than that of Penny. "Besides, don't tell anyone about it. It's a secret between you and me." Richard added. Penny was hot-headed, so he was afraid that she would leak it out. Seeing that Richard agreed to help her, Penny was much relieved and then smiled. However, she suddenly put on a malicious expression a moment later. "Dad, if possible, teach that brat a lesson. Without him, my child would definitely get the Bennet Group." Penny said maliciously. What she wanted Richard to do wasn't just to give Luke a lesson. She just couldn't speak it out too bluntly. Richard frowned and thought for a moment. "I'll consider it carefully. You go back first." Richard didn't agree directly. After all, Luke was the only child of the Bennet family, so he had to think twice before he decided to do something bad to him. In the President's office of the Bennet Group. Leo sat on the sofa and waited for Brian who was on the phone. Since their companies contacted each other about cooperation, it was the first formal meeting between Brian and Leo. Leo looking around Brian's office and found that it was indeed a magnificent office. This matched the character of Brian. "I'm sorry to keep you waiting, Mr. Johnson." Brian finally hung up the phone and said in a cold and emotionless voice. He came close to the sofa and sat down. "It's all right. It's my honor to talk business with Mr. Bennet. It doesn't matter to wait a little while." Different from Brian, Leo spoke in a gentle voice, looked modest and wasn't affected by personal feelings. "Well, let's talk business first." Brian said coldly. He couldn't deal with Leo calmly because he would think of what Winnie said last night when he saw Leo. Naturally, he frowned and his eyes became sharp. "Ok. I've already provided the material for your company, but I'll give an overall explanation face-to-face to you today. The mobile phone store owned by our company not only has chain stores in all parts of our country, but also begin to have chain stores in other countries..." Leo got down to the business directly. He understood what Brian meant. If he wanted to talk business first, then he must want to talk about private matters later. Brian was satisfied with the conditions of cooperation Leo put forward and the strength in sale that Leo's company was proud of. In order to achieve a win-win situation, Brian agreed to cooperate with Leo's company. "We'll sign the contract after the lawyers draw it up. Now, we can talk about private matters." Brian still said in a cold voice while looking at Leo with his deep dark eyes. Leo was still relaxed and smiled calmly. Since they had achieved cooperation, Leo didn't mind talking about private affairs. After all, Brian was someone who was scrupulous in separating public from the private affairs and didn't let private affairs affect work. Most importantly, it could be said that there was a close connection in private matters between them. "Ok, please, Mr. Bennet." Leo said in a plain voice with a smile. "What on earth happened between you, Penny and Winnie?" Brian got down to the business directly. Leo knew that he would ask it. He answered after thinking for a while. "The three of us... No, to be exact, there should be four people involved. Daenerys was involved, too. We met in a C Country's people's party in M Country occasionally. They three were studying there. Then, I became Winnie's boyfriend." "Not long after that, something happened at Winnie's family and she had to suspend her studies and go home first. After that, Penny told me that Winnie was a liar, so I broke up with Winnie. Because of anger, I became the boyfriend of Penny. You should know what happened afterwards. She broke up with me after her family found her. Later..." Leo stopped. Later, Penny married Brian. Brian knew that and it was unnecessary for Leo to tell him that. Seeing that Brian didn't have too much reaction, Leo kept silent. Then he went on. "I got together with Winnie for about three months. During that time, we were very happy. When I got together with Penny, I weren't happy at all. They were totally different from each other. Penny wasn't my ideal girlfriend, so I didn't try hard to keep her when she left me." Leo felt annoyed after he couldn't help recalling what happened many years ago. "You still love Winnie even if she lies to you?" Brian was talking about the present. He could tell that the memory of the past was very important to Leo. Seeing the happiness he showed, Brian became angry. Leo was stunned for a while, stopped smiling and looked at Brian with serious eyes. "Yes, I've been loving her these years. At that time, I was so impetuous that she left me. I should have trusted her. Even if she was a liar, she must have her reasons."

CHAPTER 93 TO BE HIS LOVER

"Is Winnie really a liar?" Other things were not important to Brian. Even if Penny lied to him, he still wanted to handle it later. Now, he wanted to know what Winnie was like most. Hearing this question, Leo was obviously not sure. "Mr. Bennet, I don't know it now. However, if you really love someone, you won't care if she's a liar." "Mr. Bennet, it's inappropriate for me to talk too much about some matter. If you want to know something, you'll have to count on yourself. If you want to know whether Penny is the good person or Winnie is the good person, you'll find out by simply asking around." As he spoke, Leo stood up. After that, he continued to speak. "Mr. Bennet, let Winwin live a happy life if you like her. Free her if you can't. There have been too much difficulties in her life. Don't let her suffer any more." "I've got something to do, so I go first. I hope that we'll have a good cooperation." Winnie had asked him not to tell anyone else what had happened many years ago, so Leo could only tell Brian these things. If Brian wanted to know more, he had to count on his own. During the conversation, Brian cared about only Winnie and didn't mention Penny. It was enough to prove that the person he cared about now was Winnie. Although Leo had a sense of crisis, he couldn't change what was destined to happen. He could only protect Winnie and tried to restart their love with sincerity. After Leo left, Brian stood in front of the floor-to-ceiling window alone and was lost in thought. There were warnings and hints in what Leo said, but he just didn't tell him the truth. It seemed that he had to find out the fact on his own. Thinking of this, Brian made a phone call to Albert. After giving the order, he was lost in thought again. Why did he want to find out the fact so much? What can be changed even if Winnie wasn't a liar and that Penny was the evil person? Just like Leo said, could he let Winnie live a happy life? The answer was no. In the evening, Brian lost control of himself again and came to Winnie's house. However, he wore a dark face and looked stressed all the time. Worried that Luke's mood would be affected, Winnie had been trying to make the atmosphere harmonious. Finally, the kids were asleep, and Winnie was relieved. When she went downstairs, Brian had gone back to his room. Winnie stood in the living room, wondering if she should go to talk to Brian. However, Winnie finally gave up. They always couldn't reach a consensus, no matter they talked calmly or argued with each other. Winnie went back to her room. After she took a hot bath and went out of the bathroom, she saw that Brian was lying in her bed. Winnie was somewhat surprised. However, after realizing that she had just wrapped herself with a bath towel, she quickly ran to the cloakroom. When she came out of the cloakroom, she had changed into loose household clothes.] "What's the matter?" Winnie came close to the bed and asked. "Answer the question I asked yesterday." Brian still lay on the bed and looked at Winnie with desire in his eyes. Just now, when he saw Winnie wrapped in the bath towel, he felt like burning all over. How long had he not slept with Winnie so that he had such a strong desire after seeing it? "Yesterday?" Winnie pretended that she didn't know what he had asked yesterday and asked. "Do I have to repeat it? I gave you two choices. You rejected one of them. Now, give me the answer to the other choice." Brian forced himself to speak in a cold voice, otherwise he would lose control of the desire. Hearing what Leo said in the company during the day, he had also wanted to give up. However, he found that it was too late, because he found that it made his heart ache to think about letting Winnie leave him. Winnie lowered her head and didn't say a word. She had just washed her face, so her face was still red. She bit her lips from time to time, showing embarrassment. She wanted to evade the question, but she had to face it now. She wanted to face it, but she hadn't made the decision yet. "What will you do if I refuse?" Winnie asked in a low voice. "You leave and never appear in front of me." When Brian spoke in a pitiless voice, it hurt even more than when he spoke in a cold voice. "What if I agree to be your lover?" Because of Luke, it was impossible for her to leave. "If you agree, there're rules that you have to follow. Don't expect that I'll marry you. You can't have a child with me. You can't disturb my family life." Brian told her his requirements to avoid causing trouble in the future, but he felt that such requirements were cruel. Winnie bit her lower lip very hard. Brian was indeed peremptory and had been prepared for everything before anything happened. It hurt Winnie's self-esteem. "Anything else?" Winnie asked despondently. "Yes. I have a beloved woman, not you and not Penny. When she comes back, I'll break up with you. At that time, you should took the initiative to leave me and don't cause me any trouble." Brian seemed to be talking in a relaxed manner, but he was with a heavy heart. Even Penny didn't know it. He told Winnie this in advance to prevent her from expecting too much from him, so that she wouldn't cause too much trouble when they broke up. However, what he said came as a lightning bolt, hurting her originally fragile heart. He had a beloved woman. She and Penny were just toys he used to get rid of loneliness. All his emotion to her was her own imagination. Winnie tried her best to restrain herself. She clenched her hands into such tight fists that her nails had sunk into the flesh. Her lower lip had been pale, but she still bit it hard. She could only keep a clear mind and feel less painful when she felt the pain coming from her body. "You go too far. You don't really mean to keep me. What should I do? I don't want to leave." Winnie asked herself what she should do. It wasn't she that didn't want to leave. It was the reality that didn't allow her to leave. She could only be with Brian in B City. She couldn't stop herself from suffering until she was badly hurt by him. "I can agree, but I also have a requirement." Winnie had no other choice, right? She could only try to minimize the time she suffered. "Tell me." "You don't like Penny, right? When your beloved woman comes back, you'll abandon Penny too, right? Since you'll abandon her sooner or later, end your plan as soon as possible. As long as she leaves you, I'll definitely not cause you any trouble after your beloved woman comes back." After all, Winnie wanted Brian to divorce Penny. She didn't want to ruin Penny, but she couldn't leave with ease when Luke still lived with Penny. "Have you agree to be my lover?" Brian asked surprisingly. He thought that Winnie wouldn't give in. "I agree as long as you agree to my condition." Winnie smiled bitterly. If she could choose, she would rather that she had never met him. "I'll do it as soon as possible." Brian finally rested assured. His heavy heart also became relaxed. He would try his best to prevent Winnie from being harm when they broke up. "Well, we've reached an agreement. You take a rest and I want to take a walk." Winnie couldn't disguise anymore. Brian's face softened and he said in a more relaxed voice. Winnie thought that it was all built on her suffering. She must go out to vent her pain, otherwise she would not be able to bear the pain anymore. Winnie fled, although she was still wearing household clothes and it was already late at night. In her opinion, she could only feel better at a place where there was no Brian. She wandered aimlessly in her slippers alone with tears dripping down her face, looking frustrated and desolate. After hearing all his words, it was the fact that Brian had a beloved woman that hurt her most. She was sad when she heard it. And it was more difficult for her to accept than that Penny was his wife. The wind was blowing and it was raining. Winnie didn't run for cover, just weeping and exposing herself to the rain. She wanted herself to sober up after being watered by the rain. And she wanted to put an end to her secret crush on Brian with tears. After she was thoroughly wet by the rain, she would face the reality and focused her attention on the kids. Winnie raised her head and told herself that she should try hard and be strong for her children. She told herself that she could get through all difficulties and that her suffering would come to an end when that woman came back. Winnie didn't know how much time had passed and that how long the rain had rained. She just felt cold all over. It was only then did she realize that she should go home. However painful she was, she still had to face what she had to and no one could share the burden with her. She kept her spirits up, turned and began to go home. However, she found that she had been far away from her home. When she went out, she took neither her cell phone nor her wallet. Therefore, she had to walk back, no matter how far she was away from home. It seemed that she had to walk back no matter how cold it was. It was just like her life. No one was protecting her. Brian had been worried from the moment Winnie went out. However, he didn't know why she left suddenly and failed to stop her in time. He thought that she would be back soon. However, Winnie wasn't back home when it began to rain. Brian began to get anxious. He made a phone call to Winnie, but found that she didn't take her cell phone with her. Brian panicked and went out to find Winnie in the household clothes. After he searched the neighborhood, he didn't find Winnie. Then, he went to look for her by car. After it began to rain, there wasn't anyone else on the road. And Brian became even more anxious. "You silly guy will not stand in the rain, right? There are so many places where you can take shelter from the rain. Don't expose yourself to the rain." It was the first time for Brian to talk to himself anxiously. He searched both sides of the road anxiously with his sharp eyes. Finally, he saw Winnie on the other side of the road. She was dressed in household clothes and was thoroughly wet. Brian made a sharp turn to the other side of the road, pressed hard on the brake and stopped the car next to Winnie. Then, he opened the door and got off the car. He came close to Winnie and asked angrily. "Is there anything wrong with your mind? Why don't you take shelter from such a heavy rain?" "Get in the car." Brian pulled Winnie and dragged her into the car. Because of the rain, Winnie could neither see clearly nor think clearly. When she realized what had happened, she had already been in the car. Brian didn't find a towel in the car, so he had to take off his clothes to wipe the rain on Winnie's head and face. As he wiped it, he cursed in a low voice. "You must be crazy. Even a three-year-old child knows that he or she should take shelter from the rain. You are not as smart as a three-year-old child." "Is it fun to be wet by the rain? Is it comfortable to be wet by the rain? It's not raining heavy enough. You should come out when it rains cats and dogs one day." Even Brian didn't know when he became so nagging that he could keep complaining. He also didn't know what made his character change greatly and that what made him always lose his temper in front of Winnie.

CHAPTER 94 NO INTERFERING WITH EACH OTHER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Winnie felt as if she were dreaming, and couldn't believe that the person in front of her was Brian. She asked in a low voice. Because of the coldness, her voice was a little hoarse. "Why are you here?" "You've been out for such a long time without your cell phone. Now it's raining. If I didn't come to find you, I'm afraid that you'll die in the rain!" It was a little malevolent for Brian to say so, but he couldn't control himself because Winnie had worried him too much. "I won't die. I have a lot of things to do and a lot of debts to pay. I don't have the right to die." Winnie failed to restrain herself and smiled bitterly. There were tears in her eyes again. "You..." When Brian was about to reproach her loudly, he accidentally touched her forehead. "Your forehead's burning. Have you got a fever?" Brian put his hand on Winnie's forehead and tried to figure out if she really got a fever. "Really? Have I got a fever? It's not bad to have a fever. In the past four years when I was not here, I didn't even dare to allow myself fall ill. Now, I finally dare to allow myself fall ill. It proves that my life is getting better." Winnie said desolately. As a matter of fact, her life wasn't getting better, but getting more miserable. "Are you delirious? You're talking nonsense." Brian said coldly, but it made his heart ache to hear that. He understood what she meant by saying those words, but he didn't know what she had gone through in the past four years. What a difficult life did she live in those years? She couldn't even allow herself to get sick. He not only pitied her, but also loved her... Love...It was impossible. He had a beloved woman. Winnie was just a temporary substitute. His feelings for her were far from to be called love. Brian withdrew his hand, looked straight, started the car and drove towards home. Winnie felt it was getting colder and couldn't help shivering. However, she didn't tell Brian. She leaned her head against the window feebly, looked outside at the still heavy rain and felt a sense of loss. "Is your beloved woman nice?" Winnie asked casually. She wasn't fishing for information, but just wanted to know if that woman would be as vicious as Penny. After keeping silent for a while, Brian answered. "Yes, she is." "Great." Although Brian said so, Winnie was still a little worried. "Brian, let's make an agreement. If that woman doesn't like Luke after she comes back, you'll let me to take Luke away. Anyway, he'll be able to grow up healthily with my company." She could let Luke grow up healthily both physically and mentally. Neither Penny nor that woman could achieve that. "....." Brian was completely silent and couldn't give the answer Winnie wanted. Feeling disappointed again, Winnie closed her eyes and told herself not to think about something impossible. Back in home, her fever worsened. Brian wanted to take her to the hospital, but Winnie was determined not to go. After taking a shower and changing into dry clothes, Winnie was weak, but she found the medicine and took a few pills. After that, she lay down in bed and curled up under the quilt. Seeing that Winnie didn't ask him for any help, Brian was a little angry. However, he had to restrain himself from losing his temper with her because she was sick. Standing by the bed, Brian was worried when he saw her pale face. Finally, he turned off the light and lay down beside Winnie. He held Winnie into his arms in hopes that she would feel warmer. However, he found that Winnie was burning all over. "Let's go to the hospital. Or it would affect your brain." Brian tried to persuade her. "Never mind. My brain is dull anyway. There's no need to go to the hospital. Just sleep. Hold me in your arms. I'll be fine after I sweat." Winnie said in a low and bleak tone. Brian had no alternative but to try to warm her by cuddling her. The next morning, Winnie got up and found that breakfast was ready. "Did you prepare the breakfast?" Winnie asked when Brian came over from the kitchen. "Of course. Who else would do it?" Brian answered in a cold way. "Thank you! It never occurs to me that I can have the breakfast prepared by you." Winnie said while looking at the substantial breakfast on the table. Although the food didn't look good, she was happy that he had prepared it for her. "You should have a rest at home today and don't go anywhere." Brian ordered. Last night, Winnie got wet from rain and had a high fever. Her fever wasn't gone until this morning. He was worried that she would be too weak to work. "Oh, I'll stay home." Winnie agreed and then went to ask the two kids to have breakfast. In fact, she had woken up for a long time, after which she lay in bed and wondered what to do in the future. Finally, she came to the conclusion that she had to face it bravely. Therefore, she was lively now and was ready to face sufferings in the future. They lived a plain life for a few days. Every day, Winnie went to and from work on time and slept in the same bed with Brian. Every day, they four had meals together. After dinner, they watched TV and ate fruit in the living room. "Mommy, your phone is ringing." Originally, Megan was watching cartoon attentively. Perhaps being disturbed by the ringing Winnie's mobile phone, there was a trace of complaint in her tone. Hearing that, Winnie was going to get the phone, but Luke had handed her the phone. "Auntie, here you are." "Thank you, Luke!" Winnie was very happy that Luke began to take the initiative to talk to others and that he was in a better mood than before. Winnie answered the phone call. "Daenerys." "Did I disturb you?" Daenerys asked in a happy tone. "No, I'm watching TV with my kids. Are you still on a business trip?" "I'll be back tomorrow night. I have something to tell you. There'll be a college class reunion and they all ask me to contact you.

Will you go?" Daenerys asked tentatively. They three had had a good time in college, but now there was only hatred between them. "Class reunion? Will Penny attend it?" When Winnie asked this question, she looked at Brian who was leaning against the sofa. It was obvious that he was listening. "I'm not sure, either." "Can you ask about it for me? If she is going to attend, I won't." Winnie was not afraid that Brian heard what she said. If she met Penny, unpleasant events would be inevitable. To avoid affecting other people negatively, she had better not go. "I'll contact you after I find it out." Daenerys hung up the phone. She understood why Winnie said so. "A class reunion?" Brian asked. "Yes, but I won't go if Penny will attend it." Winnie didn't try to cover up the fact that she hated Penny. "I don't care if she will go or not. You shouldn't go. There is no need to contact your classmates." Brian said indifferently. "You're interfering with my private life." Although Winnie didn't make up her mind to attend the reunion, she became unhappy after hearing him talk like this. Before, they had agreed not to interfere with each other's private life, so Winnie would never let him interfere with her affair. "I'll give you a chance to interfere with my private life." Brian proposed a deal. He was willing to sacrifice a little as long as she wouldn't go to see her classmates. "I won't go to the reunion as long as you divorce Penny." Winnie mentioned divorce again. Before Brian said anything, both Megan and Luke had run to him. "Great! Uncle, get a divorce! If you get a divorce, you will be able to be my daddy!" Megan looked at Brian expectantly as if Brian was getting a divorce were a very good piece of news for her. "I agree! If daddy gets a divorce and becomes the boyfriend of auntie, I can call auntie mommy!" He also looked at him with happy eyes expectantly. Brian didn't know how to respond to them. Apart from Winnie, it appeared that Luke disliked Penny, although Luke called her mommy. How unpopular Penny was! "Will you, uncle? Be my daddy! We four can live a happy life just like we do now!" Megan pleaded. It was a rare opportunity. Even if she would be scolded by her mommy, she had to say a few more words to try to persuade her uncle. She liked him as much as she liked her father. "Megan, you went too far." Winnie intoned to warn her and to help Brian out at the same time. She didn't think before talking just now. Forgetting that the kids were there, she said something that she shouldn't say in the presence of kids. "Alas, you always scold me for going too far! I just want to have a daddy." Megan obviously felt a sense of loss after she was frustrated by Winnie. Although Luke wasn't warned, he also felt a sense of loss, just like Megan. However, he wouldn't resist. He only expressed his dissatisfaction by being silent. "But I love you. If you had a daddy, there would be one more person who would scold you." To comfort her, Winnie said jokingly. However, Megan rolled her eyes after hearing what she said. "Humph. Daddy won't scold me. He would care about me. Am I right, uncle?" As smart as Megan, she asked Brian this question. "Right. Daddy can only care about his daughter and won't scold her." Looking at Megan, Brian didn't know what to do, just like he did sometimes when he was faced with Winnie. Now, there had been two such women in his life. Facing with them, sometimes he didn't know what to do; sometimes he felt protective of them; sometimes he couldn't calm himself down when they were involved. A mature woman and a little girl. They four were spending time harmoniously while Penny felt very annoyed. Brian hadn't returned home for several days. The person who followed Brian told her that Brian had been staying in Winnie's house. After knowing this, Penny became even angrier and more intense. She was afraid that Brian would never come back. It had been a while since she asked her father for help, but he still hadn't done anything. However, the relationship between Brian and Winnie was going very fast. It was inevitable that Penny would feel intense. When Penny was about to pick up her phone and to make a phone call to her father to urge him, someone called her. "What do you call me for?" "....." "A college class reunion? Will Winnie go?" "....." "Then, I'm not going. You guys have a good time." Penny put down her phone with a weird smile. Winnie asked the same question. If she said that she would attend it, Winnie would definitely refuse to attend the reunion. If she said she wasn't going, Winnie would definitely attend it. If this was the case, she would embarrass Winnie in public and let her classmates respect her. Finally, Brian didn't agree to Winnie's request. He had no choice but to agree that Winnie would go to the reunion and that he would stay at home to take care of the kids.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 95 THE CLASS REUNION

The class reunion was held in the banquet hall of a hotel. Many of their classmates had arrived in the banquet hall when Winnie and Daenerys arrived. Some of their classmates had changed so much that Winnie couldn't recognize them. Some of their classmates just looked like what they used to be when they were in college, so Winnie recognized them at a glance. Having not met for many years, they felt a sense of kinship with one other. "Winwin, you have become more beautiful. In the past, you were not only the most beautiful girl in our class, but were also the most beautiful girl in University B. At that time, so many boys fell in love with you." A man said jokingly. "I'm really not that beautiful. I dare not say that I were the most beautiful girl in our class or school." Having not met these classmates for many years, Winnie was happy to see them. Therefore, she talked humbly with them with a smile. "There were indeed many boys who admired Winwin. At that time, we all envied you." A woman also said jokingly, after which she laughed. "Winwin, are you married? I wonder which man is so lucky that he could marry the most beautiful girl in our school." Another classmate joined their conversation. "Yes. My kid has been old enough to go to school." Winnie didn't try to cover it up. If she did so, she would be looked down upon. There must be many classmates who knew what had happened to her family. It was impossible that they all didn't know that she had had a kid. Even if others didn't talk about it, Penny would publicize everything about her. "Really? When others told me this, I didn't believe. It never occurs to me that you will get married so early. Your husband..." "Hey, you guys go too far. I come with Winwin. Could it be that you all don't see me? Why don't anyone talk to me?" Daenerys interrupted that classmate in time. If that classmate went on asking, it would be hard for Winnie to answer. "We've seen you. How is it possible that we didn't see you? We just haven't seen Winwin for many years and want to talk more with her. You three were famous beauties in our school. Lewis Burns Chambers. Very interesting. Alas...Why is Penny absent today? Aren't you three always together?" A classmate remembered Penny as she spoke. However, judging from what she said, she must not know that they had split up. "I'm coming. I'm sorry that I'm late, guys." Winnie was stunned when she suddenly heard Penny's voice. Penny said that she wouldn't come to the reunion. Why was she here? Could it be that I was deceived? Winnie and Daenerys calmed down after giving each other a glance. "You're late. You do come too late. Later, you must have one more drink." They began to talk to Penny jokingly. However, Penny focused her attention on Winnie. It had been a while since she stood at the door of the banquet hall. Seeing that they all gathered around Winnie, she became jealous again. It was like this when they were in college. When they three were together, Winnie was always the most eye-catching one. Daenerys was in a better situation than she did. After all, Daenerys had parents and was from a rather rich family. Therefore, their classmates didn't make fun of her. However, their classmates compared her, who had no parents, with Winnie and always said something that made her feel sad. At that time, Penny had disliked such unequal treatment. However, she didn't have the ability to resist because her mother passed away and she had no father at that time. She was resigned to be laughed at by her classmates.

Therefore, Penny secretly swore that she would surpass Winnie one day and that she would get to know how it felt to be the one with higher status. She also swore that she would become the one with highest status and let all her classmates, including Winnie, respected her very much. Today she was successful, so it was the best chance for her to win back her dignity. Penny specially dressed up for today's reunion. She not only wore delicate makeup, but also put on limited edition clothes and took a limited edition bag with her. Penny looked so posh that Winnie was indeed somewhat overshadowed by her when she stood by Winnie's side. "Oh, aren't you Winwin? You come to the reunion, too." Penny greeted sarcastically. There was obvious cunning expression in her eyes. "Yes. I haven't seen them for years, so I come to meet them." Winnie answered in a gentle, natural and polite way with calm eyes. She just didn't want to meet Penny, but she was not afraid to meet her. She just needed to be herself in the presence of her classmates. "Aren't you not coming?" Daenerys asked unhappily. She was undoubtedly told that Penny was not coming to the reunion, but Penny came. Was she deceived by her classmates? Or had Penny already set a trap for Winnie? However, there was nothing to be afraid of even if Penny came. As long as she, Daenerys, was here, she would never let Penny bully Winnie. "Oh, originally, I had an appointment, so I said I couldn't come. However, the appointment was cancelled. Therefore, I came to talk to you all. Daenerys, could it be that you don't welcome me?" Penny asked maliciously. After she split up with Winnie, Daenerys chose to stand with Winnie directly and abandoned her. She was contemptuous of such a bad friend. "....." "Sure we welcome you. We're classmates. It's wonderful for us to keep in touch." Before Daenerys said anything, Winnie answered. Winnie didn't want Daenerys to be retaliated by Penny because of her. At this moment, a woman came over and looked at Penny in surprise. "Why. Did you make a fortune? Your clothes and bag are limited edition ones. Penny, could it be that they are fake?" After she said these words, everyone felt embarrassed in an instant. Penny even put on a dark face. She had selected these clothes carefully and everything combined was worth more than three million dollars. There should be someone who was blind saying that these clothes were fake. Penny was angry while Daenerys couldn't help laughing. She knew how rich Penny was and knew that her clothes were definitely genuine. However, seeing Penny became embarrassed by what the woman said, she couldn't help laughing. Penny deserved to be laughed at. Having done all sorts of bad things and looking like a bad guy, Penny deserved to be embarrassed. Penny became more embarrassed by her smile. When she looked at Daenerys with cruel eyes and was about to lose her temper, a man came over. "You guys, don't look down upon Penny. Do you know her present status?" The man came to explain for Penny. Then, Penny became cocky. After looking around and finding that no one answered, he continued to help Penny to show off. "Penny is the wife of Brian who is the President of the Bennet Group and a Super Rich in B City. You see, Brian is a legendary figure who women all over the country want to marry. He could be said to be the Prince Charming of the women nationwide." After hearing his flattery, Penny became overly cocky. "The wife of Brian? I've never heard that Brian has been married." Some classmates asked in disbelief and doubted that Penny was playing a new trick. "They have made it a secret. We certainly won't know it. Let me tell you, she not only has been married, but also has a five-year-old child. Don't someone in our class work in the government? As long as that guy looks up in the system, we'll know if it's true." This man was trying very hard to flatter Penny. If their classmates didn't believe what he said, he would try his best to explain it clearly. "What he said is true. Penny is really Brian's wife. Besides, her father is also very powerful. Her father is the chairman of the Burns Group." Another man who knew the truth also came to prove Penny's identity. "The Burns Group? The group that manufactures cars?" A classmate asked in surprise. "Yes, exactly." After he confirmed, all classmates came to surround Penny tightly. At this moment, Penny proudly held her head high and carefully savored the feeling of being the one with higher status. She felt great to have this kind of pride; she would never be willing to let go of the feeling of being surrounded and flattered. Winnie and Daenerys couldn't help sighing when they saw that their classmates were so snobbish and that Penny was so cocky. "What is she doing? I even don't know how to describe her now. Can she be so arrogant just because she is the wife of Brian?" Daenerys said in disdain. "Other people might don't care, but she has been fighting for position and fame. Even I feel that she is tired and hypocritical." Winnie also sighed. She never expected that Penny was someone like this. If she had known that Penny was such a person when they were in college, she wouldn't have helped her. "If you don't feel well, we can immediately leave here." Daenerys was worried about Winnie and wanted to leave with her, but Winnie refused her. "Well, I can endure it. She won't try to embarrass me. After all, in the presence of so many people, she'll lose face if she does so. Since I've come here, I had better not spoil the fun." Winnie chose to take things as they came. Even if Penny deliberately came to embarrass her, Penny couldn't go too far. After all, she wouldn't allow herself to be trampled upon. Daenerys didn't speak, but turned around and secretly sent a message. "Winwin is being bullied. If you don't come, I'll make a phone call to Leo." Everyone had sat at the table. There were many people, but they didn't want to sit separately. Therefore, they got rectangular tables and put them together. "Cheers! Let us toast. To our first reunion in so many years." The organizer of the reunion was the first to raise the glass. The rest of them also raised their glasses, including Winnie. "I'll drive later. You drink." Winnie talked to Daenerys in a low voice while raising the glass. However, the person beside her heard it. "No, you can't do that. We all have to drink tonight. Anyone who drives here can choose to get chauffeur service." "Winwin, stop whispering. Drink as much as you can. If you get drunk, I'll ask my driver to send you home." Penny finally found an opportunity to taunt Winnie and began to show off her driver. "Thank you. Then, I'll drink a little." Winnie was still poised. Although she hated to see Penny, she had better endure it on this occasion. "Cheers!" As they said it, they all drank off the wine in their glasses. Then, they began to gossip. "Penny, it never occurs to me that you are so extraordinary now. In the past, we all believed that Winnie would definitely be the most outstanding one in our class. Against all expectations, you are the most excellent one." A classmate, who was not afraid of stirring disputes, said. "It's nothing. I'm just being lucky. In the past, I really couldn't match Winwin. She was from a rich family, looked beautiful and was a straight-A student. At that time, she was really arrogant." Penny seemed to be joking, but Winnie could tell that she was taunting her. However, Winnie didn't retort. Winnie said nothing, but Daenerys failed to restrain herself. "Penny, I agree with what you said except the last sentence. Why do you say that Winwin was arrogant?"

CHAPTER 96 ENDING UP HURTING BOTH

Daenerys looked at Penny with anger in her eyes. Winnie was afraid of worsening the situation, so she pulled Daenerys's clothes to let her calm down under the table. "There were so many admirers, but she didn't accept any of them. Did she do so because she was arrogant?" Penny met Daenerys's gaze with a sneer. "Right. What kind of husband do you marry to, our goddess? He should be even more outstanding than Brian. Why not show him off?" The man who just proved Penny's identity said. Winnie was stunned at first. Obviously, this man was attacking her for Penny. She smiled and said openly. "I divorced him. There is nothing to be showed off." Hearing this, everyone sighed. Even Daenerys didn't expect that Winnie would "tell them the truth". "Getting divorced is nothing to be ashamed of. Just don't be the other woman." Penny found a chance and directly scolded Winnie, making her feel embarrassed. Instantly, everyone settled down and gazed at Winnie. Winnie was speechless. What could she say? Wasn't she the other woman now? Although Brian said that they were not married and that he had no wife, many people knew and acknowledged that Penny was Mrs. Bennet. Under such circumstances, she could only bring shame on herself if she explained. "Who did you call the other woman?" Goaded beyond endurance, Daenerys asked in anger. "Winnie. I say, Winnie is the other woman." Penny found a way to vent and lost control of herself. "Since everyone is here today, you can judge if Winnie is the other woman." "It's been four years since she left here, now she came back and worked in my husband's company. Then she approached my son and enticed my husband into living with her. Isn't she the other woman?" Forgetting her image and position, Penny shouted loudly. She looked like a monster with her ferocious face and teeth. "Winnie, let me tell you. You had bullied me when we were in college. You trampled on other people's dignity wantonly just because you were from a rich family and looked somewhat beautiful. Do you know how many people you had hurt? I, Penny, is one of them. You trampled down my self-esteem..." Penny was out of control and said both what she should say and what she shouldn't say. She had lost control of herself and went on speaking just like a stock market crashing. However, she was interrupted by Daenerys when she was most emotional. "Shut up, Penny. Do you know that you'll be punished by god if you speak against your conscience? With all classmates here, you can ask them to recall and see if Winwin had treated you not kindly enough once. When you were bullied, she protected you. When you couldn't pay your tuition fees, Winwin paid it for you. When your mother was ill, she gave you her scholarship so that you could take your mother to the hospital. She even gave you her opportunity to be a state-funded student studying abroad just for your damn self-esteem!" "She had helped you so much. You should be grateful to her. I never expect that you'll blame her. You're an ingrate!" Daenerys pointed out that Penny was standing truth on her head. She hated to see Penny being ungrateful. And she couldn't bear to see Winnie being hurt. "Daenerys, you should tell lies in a reasonable way. Winnie majored in Computer Science while I was a law student. How is it possible that she gave me her opportunity to receive a government-sponsored overseas education? You must be kidding me. It's obvious that what you said is out of thin air." Penny smiled contemptuously. She had never heard of this. Daenerys must have invented it to redeem Winnie. "Kidding? You can ask them if it's true. Penny, don't forget that Winwin took law as an elective course at that time. Otherwise, she wouldn't get to know you, an ungrateful villain." "It was ironic, but it was true that you, a law student, was not as good as Winwin who just took law as an elective course. Everyone here knew that Winwin gave you her chance to receive a government-sponsored overseas education." Daenerys was brutally frank and told her what had happened in the past. Penny looked at everyone in disbelief, but they all looked away and didn't say that what Daenerys said was not true. Even the two men who proved her identity kept silent. Everyone stayed silent and couldn't say anything because they all knew that what Daenerys said was true. "Penny, stop. I don't know if Winnie is the other woman. However, it is well known that Winwin treated you kindly when we were in college. Everyone knew it clearly. She always protected you; she took care of your sick mother for you; she paid tuition fees for you; she even carried you to school when you twisted your ankle. You can't deny any of these things. Now, I still have a photo taken when she carried you into the classroom. It's a lie that you said Winwin bullied you at that time." Finally, a woman couldn't bear to watch this anymore, so she said a few words fairly and narrated what had happened in the past in general. Then, more and more people whispered. Penny looked at Winnie in consternation. Why didn't she know it? Why was she treated as a fool again? She had intended to win back her dignity here today. Why did she lose more? Now she had a status higher than them, so it was difficult for her to accept such a thing that harmed her self-esteem. She thought that she was humiliated. "Winnie, we can find another chance to talk about something happened in the past. Now, I just ask you if you've seduced my husband and slept with him." Penny was very embarrassed at this moment. To turn the tables, she could only talk about if Winnie was the other woman. Hearing her question, Winnie was speechless and looked very embarrassed. How should she answer? Should she say yes or no? If she answered, Penny would continue to insult her; if she refused to answer, Penny would continue to ask. "You tell me who your husband is first. Then, I'll tell you if I'm the other woman." Finally, Winnie was forced to speak. If Penny became even more embarrassed, she deserved it. "My...My husband is Brian." Penny already understood what Winnie meant, but she was still unwilling to stop. "Just now, somebody said that he worked in the government. If you can do this, please check if Penny is Brian's wife." After Winnie said so, there was another commotion. Everyone was whispering whether Penny was Brian's wife or not. If she was, why was Winnie so sure that she wasn't? "Winnie, what do you want to say? It's an indisputable fact that I'm Brian's wife. You want to stir it here..." "Penny, you should know when to stop, otherwise you'll only hurt yourself." Winnie stopped Penny in time because she didn't want the farce to go on. If Penny went on saying, it would only end up hurting both of them. And it would even be Penny who lost face. "Penny, you know the consequences if you're photographed by reporters like this today." Winnie warned her again. However, Penny must win back the dignity she lost in her college life on such an occasion as if she were crazy. She suddenly picked up the decanter and poured all the wine inside in Winnie's face without any sign. Instantly, Winnie's hair, face and clothes were wet from red wine. Seeing that Winnie being bedraggled, Penny still didn't stop and began to curse. "Winnie, you're the other woman and coquette. You've seduced my husband. You're shameless..." "Enough." When Penny was swearing wildly, a man stopped her in a cold voice. He said in such a loud and angry tone, intimidating others as if he were an angry emperor. Penny dared not believe what she heard. When she looked at the man who said it, she suspected that she was hallucinating. Why would Brian come here? He should know nothing about the reunion today. Everyone looked at him. A tall and straight man sullenly came over with dangerous and cruel eyes, frightening people so much that they wanted to escape as if he were a beast that had smelled the blood of his prey. "Honey, you've come. They are bullying me." Penny felt uneasy because she wasn't sure whether Brian came here for her or for Winnie. Therefore, she must ask for his help first. As she said those words, she pointed to Winnie and Daenerys with her fingers. There was hatred and grievance appearing alternately in her eyes. However, Brian roared like a lion in a cold and angry tone. "Shut up. I've seen it and heard it. I know clearly who is the one bullying." When Brian hurried to the door of the banquet hall, they had just begun to quarrel. Seeing that Winnie was always silent, he just wanted to know other people's opinion and wanted know more about them two. When Leo wanted to go in to help Winnie, he stopped him. However, it never occurred to him that Penny would be so impolite that she poured wine in Winnie's face in public. When he saw this, Brian nearly wanted to kill Penny. Besides, he also regretted that he was greedy for facts and therefore didn't stop Penny in time, causing Winnie to be hurt. "Honey, you..." Being reproached by Brian, Penny lost face in front of everyone, but she didn't want to give up. Instead, she wanted to turn the tables. As she spoke, Brian took the napkin that Daenerys handed over and wiped Winnie. Her head, her face, and even her chest. "Honey, they did bully me. I..." "Shut up." Penny felt bitter. Seeing that Brian treated Winnie so gently, she became even resentful. She wanted to go on defending herself and win back her dignity, but she was interrupted by Brian again. After glaring at Penny with cold eyes in disgust, Brian put his arms around Winnie's shoulder and left with her directly. Seeing this, there was fierce expression in her eyes. She was totally heartbroken because her husband left with another woman in his arms. Except being heartbroken, she also lost her strong sense of self-esteem and could never win it back. However, it was not over. Leo, who had been standing there, came close to Penny with a dark face. There was a sense of oppression in his deep eyes.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 97 WHO WAS THE QUEEN?

Leo glowered at Penny. He couldn't restrain his anger when he saw her resentful and sinister glare and thought of Winnie's being bedraggled. "Penny, if you're being rude to Winwin again, I'll publicize the bad things you've done." Soon after Leo finished his words in a cold voice, he heard someone whisper. "Who is this man?" The reason why Daenerys didn't leave with Winnie was that she was waiting for this chance. Since Penny had embarrassed Winnie, she would publicize what Penny had done. "He is Winwin's ex-boyfriend. They had to break up because of Penny." After hearing this, there was a commotion all over the banquet hall. Who on earth was the other woman? At this moment, everyone was puzzled. "Daenerys, shut up. Who do you think you are? Be careful that I'll make it impossible for you to get by in B City." Penny warned her loudly in anger, but she dared not refute what Leo said because she was afraid that Leo would reveal the fact on the spot. However, what Daenerys said also made her lose face. "Who do I think I am? I'm the person who reveals the truth like you did years ago!" Among all the people present, only Penny and Leo knew what Daenerys meant. Hearing this, Penny's face was dark for a while and then was white for a while, changing quickly. Having achieved her goal, Daenerys turned around and left. Then, Leo also left after glancing at Penny angrily. Only Penny still stood there, feeling embarrassed. At this moment, their classmates began to talk about what they had just seen. "The man who came later looks familiar." "I think so." "Leo, the President of the Johnson Group. I saw him on the Internet yesterday." "Gosh! Winnie is so lucky. The two most powerful men in B City all came to protect her. She's luckier than people who win the lottery." One of the women exclaimed. Another woman also said in a louder voice. "Of course. People won't get too much money if they win the lottery. However, I can't imagine what great fortunes these two men have possessed." "Didn't Penny say that one of them is her husband? Her husband left with Winnie in his arms? Whose husband is he? Who is the queen?" More and more people joined the discussion, hurting Penny's pride. Being unable to bear such humiliation anymore, Penny left in embarrassment. After Brian and Winnie had just left the hotel, Brian reproached Winnie angrily before Winnie realized what had happened. "I had told you not to come to the reunion, but you didn't listen to me and come here. Did you feel happy when Penny humiliated you? Look at yourself. Aren't you fierce? When you quarrel with me, you act as if you will kill me. What's wrong with you today? Why didn't you refute..." Before Brian could finish his words, Winnie hugged him suddenly, astonishing him. "I felt sad, but I felt better when you appeared. Although you're scolding me so loudly, I still feel happy for the first time." Feeling both aggrieved and happy, Winnie said these words. She smiled, but tears streamed down her face at the same time. Although she was insulted today, she got something valuable. Although Brian didn't say much, he stood with her. That was enough. "Thank you. Thank you for protecting me. Now, I finally understand that there'll naturally be a man to protect her if a woman is weak." On the contrary, if a woman is too strong, there would not be any man who would like to protect her. Although she didn't know why Brian protected her, she was grateful that she didn't lose face in front of her classmates. Having been protected by him once in her life, she had been satisfied. "....." Hearing her expressing thanks to him, Brian was speechless. Why would he protect her? It was Penny, the woman inside that was his wife. Why was he afraid that she would be bullied? It was the woman who was abroad that was his beloved woman. What did Winnie, whom he was protecting, mean to him? Merely a temporary lover? Brian said nothing, but he held Winnie into his arms tightly. Leo and Daenerys happened to see it when they came out of the hotel. Leo was jealous while Daenerys was happy. At that time, Daenerys didn't foresee such an outcome. She just hated to see Penny being arrogant and wanted to ask Brian to come to make her less arrogant. It never occurred to her that he would really come. But... "Leo, why do you come here?" Daenerys asked in doubt. She didn't send a message to Leo. Leo no longer looked at Brian and Winnie, but he couldn't calm himself down. "I sent a client to this hotel. When I passed by, I saw you two." Leo said without any expression. He happened to pass by, but found that there was a quarrel inside. When he wanted to go in to protect Winnie, Brian stopped him. Leo felt very uncomfortable. It was a torture for him to just stand there and watch his beloved woman to be wronged and humiliated. "Come on, I'll send you home." Leo couldn't go to disturb Winnie because he was too ashamed and annoyed. He had to bear some responsibility for Penny's daring to treat Winnie so wantonly. When Leo and Daenerys just got on the car and left, Penny came out with a dark face. She also saw that Brian and Winnie was hugging each other. Seeing this, Penny hated Winnie more. She swore that she would take revenge and that she would ruin her life. Penny was in a bad mood and couldn't calm her resentment down, so she went to a bar have a drink to vent. In the bar, she sat down in a remote corner. After the waiter served her wine, she began to drink one glass after another. After an occasional glance, she found that a man, who was not far from her, was looking at her. She looked away in disgust. However, feeling that that man looked familiar, she couldn't help looking at him. After she thought carefully about where she had seen this man, she suddenly remembered that she seemed to have seen him in the Bennet Group. At that time, Brian asked about this man deliberately. He seemed to be from the headquarters of MT but was driven away later. Thinking of this, Penny came close to that man with a glass of wine in her hand. "Sir, would you mind my sitting here?" Penny said gently. "Of course, who will say no to a beautiful woman like you?" Daniel said gallantly. He also looked at her because she looked familiar, but he couldn't remember where he had seen her. Penny sat next to him and introduced herself openly. "My name is Penny Burns, the wife of Brian. You've once worked in the Bennet Group, right?" Hearing her self-introduction, Daniel suddenly remembered that he had met her in a lift, but he was surprised to hear that she was Brian's wife. "Oh, hello, Mrs. Bennet. Nice to meet you. My name is Daniel Wong." Daniel reached out his hand politely. Then, Penny shook hands with him. "You're right. I used to work in the Bennet Group, but then I quit." Speaking of this, Daniel suddenly remembered something about Winnie. He hadn't worked in the Bennet Group for many days, but he had heard a lot of gossip. He wondered whether Penny knew it or not. "Why did you resign? Were you not satisfied with the remuneration and welfare offered by the Bennet Group?" Penny asked with a hidden purpose. The reason why she asked this question was that she remembered that Albert had said that this Mr. Wong didn't get along well with Winnie. "Alas, I hope that you won't think too much if I tell you." "Winnie should bear some responsibility for my leaving the Bennet Group..." Daniel told her the reason of leaving the Bennet Group in general, but he told some lies during the narration to make him sound innocent. "I'm divorced and have no child. And I've been with Winnie. We got along well. However, Mr. Bennet saw us quarrelling on the roof deck. He said that I bullied was bullying Winnie and then beaten me up in person." Speaking of this, Daniel sighed with grievance as if he were the victim of this incident. He looked up at Penny and found that she had put on a dark face and that there was irrepressible anger in her eyes. Then he continued to add highly colored details to the story. "I thought that it would be over after I was beaten. It never occurred to me that Mr. Bennet would be so protective of Winnie. He not only fired me, but also made it impossible for me to work in my former company. In addition, not a single company employed me after I sent resumes to several companies."Daniel said while sighing and pretended to be poor. Then he drank a glass of wine bitterly."Are you saying that Brian is protective of Winnie?"Penny pretended that she didn't know anything and went on asking. But she indeed knew nothing about what Daniel just told her. It never occurred to her that Brian would fight with someone for Winnie."Alas, there're something that I don't t know if I should tell you. Although I didn't work in the Bennet Group for a long time, I had heard rumors. Otherwise, how was it possible that I quarreled with Winnie? I..."Daniel acted as if he were biting back some words."It doesn't matter. Just tell me." "Mr. Bennet is really protective of Winnie. Besides, I heard that Mr. Bennet has lived with Winnie for a long time."With her permission, Daniel didn't hesitate and told her directly."Winnie is the other woman? Do you have any evidence to prove their relationship?"Penny went on asking."No. If I had any evidence, I would have managed to let Winnie be my girlfriend long ago."Daniel was annoyed because he was beaten, failed to find a job and couldn't have Winnie as his girlfriend. Because of these things, he became very angry. Daring not vent his anger on Brian, he wanted to vent it on Winnie. However, after following Winnie for some days, he found that Winnie was always with Brian. And Brian cared much about Winnie. If he really harmed Winnie, he might lose his life. However, if he could use Penny and let her support him, it would be a different story. Daniel thought so. Coincidentally, Penny also wanted to use him."It seems that you like Winnie very much?" "Of course. If it wasn't for her, I would not come to work in B City. Now, I lose everything because of her. If I didn't like her, how is it possible that I'll accept these? If I didn't like her, I would already have left B City."Daniel told Penny that he liked Winnie openly. He liked Winnie, but he didn't fall in love with her. He was just under the control of a certain desire when he thought of her. Winnie was the most beautiful and sexiest woman he had ever seen. He had sworn that he must have her as his lover the moment he saw her for the first time. However, Winnie didn't give him any chance these years.

CHAPTER 98 AN E-MAIL

Penny gradually showed her hatred for Winnie, but she wasn't going to fully show it today. "Well, it seems that Winnie has missed a good man. I couldn't understand why she gives up such a good man and becomes the other woman." "I'm not sure that she's the other woman. I just heard it. You can observe before you draw a conclusion." Daniel knew when to stop. It was enough to get Penny to be angry with Winnie today. "Mrs. Bennet, can we exchange contact information? Can you recommend me for a post in the future if you find a suitable one? Even if I will continue to protect Winnie, I need to find a job to support myself. I hope that you will help me." As the saying goes, many kiss the baby for the nurse's sake. Daniel was just like that. "Well, I'll certainly help you." As she spoke, Penny took out her mobile phone. Then, they friended each other. What happened at the reunion didn't cause much impact on Winnie. She just continued her work and life as usual. These days, they were developing new software in the company, so Winnie naturally got busy. She worked from morning till night. Having no time to go to staff canteen, she had to ask Alice to bring lunch for her from the staff canteen. Sometimes she had to work even after she had come home. "Mommy, there is something wrong with Luke's computer. Will you take a look at it?" When Winnie was working, Megan suddenly opened the door and talked to her. "Okay, I'm coming." Winnie stopped working and went to the computer room. Luke was trying to fix the computer, but he failed. "Auntie, what's wrong with this computer? I can't fix it." Seeing that Winnie came in, Luke immediately asked her for help. "Let me see." Winnie said gently, came close to the computer and bent down. "What did you do before?" "I was just trying to modify the software program, but I seemed to operate it improperly. Then, the computer crashed." Luke answered in a low voice. Thinking that he had cause the computer to crash, he felt sorry. "Oh, it doesn't matter. I'll teach you how to do this." Hearing his words, Winnie knew what had happened. She often encountered such a situation when she developed a new software. "Luke, you should do it like this..." Winnie taught Luke while she operated the computer. Soon, Winnie fixed the computer and then went back to her studio. When she sat down in front of her computer, she found that there was a new e-mail. She opened the e-mail. After reading it, Winnie was stunned. "Klara deliberately tried to steal your phone." After reading the message, Winnie took another look at the name of the sender. She was sure that she didn't know this person. However, after careful consideration, she realized that it must be from someone in the company because that person knew both Klara and her. Thus, she could narrow down the list greatly. However, Winnie didn't pay much attention to the sender for the time being, because she could find out the sender easily as long as she tracked it down. Now, Winnie was wondering why Klara would try to steal her mobile phone and what the relationship between Klara and the person who robbed her of her mobile phone that day was. Winnie decided to keep silent and talked to Klara first. The next day, Winnie managed to find some time, asking Klara to come to her office and showing her that e-mail. After reading the e-mail, Klara was stunned for a while first and then calmed down. "Could it be that you believe it? In my opinion, it's more like a prank. I had never meant to steal your mobile phone." Klara pretended to be calm, but she felt uneasy all the time. It was not serious, but Brian would have a far worse impression of her if he knew it. She could know that it was Penny that sent this e-mail without thinking. It seemed that Penny was more sinister than she had thought. Klara knew that Penny was mean, but she never expected that Penny would betray her who stood with her. "The reason why I ask you about it is that I'm not sure what is going on. Since you say that it's just a prank, I rest assured. However, Klara, could it be that you don't know that I really lost my mobile phone?" Winnie wouldn't easily believe what Klara said, but she wasn't sure that Klara had done that. After all, there was nothing in her cell phone that Klara would be interested in. "I knew it. Albert told me. But wasn't your mobile phone robbed by someone? It had nothing to do with me." Klara immediately clarified that it had nothing to do with her. However, as she spoke, she suddenly realized that it was possible that Winnie's mobile phone wasn't robbed by accident. "That's great. There is something important in my mobile phone. If I can't find it, I'll ask Mr. Bennet to help me." Winnie had said these words deliberately. She wanted to see how Klara would react after she said so. However, Klara didn't have much reaction, except that her gaze was furtive. After Klara returned to her office, she had been thinking about what Winnie said. If Winnie told Brian this, Brian would definitely ask her about it. In this case, she would play the passive role. After considering for a long time, Klara finally decided to go to Brian and confess. After knocking on the door, Klara pushed the door opened and went in without permission because she knew that only Brian was inside. "What's the matter?" Brian asked indifferently. "Mr. Bennet..." Klara came close to Brian's desk with an embarrassed expression. "Just tell me if there is anything." Klara wouldn't look embarrassed unless something came up at her home, so Brian thought that she wanted to talk to him about her family matter. "Mr. Bennet, I'm sorry." Klara apologized in a low voice, making Brian puzzled. "....." Brian kept silent thoughtfully. "Mr. Bennet, I did something wrong. I tried to steal Winnie's cell phone for Mrs. Bennet." It took Klara a lot of courage to confess. Now, she felt uneasy and kept her head down, daring not to look up at Brian. That's because she could guess what the expression of Brian would be like at this moment. Brian frowned and looked at Klara with cold and sullen eyes. He didn't expect that Klara would tell him such a thing and couldn't believe that Klara would collude with Penny. Hearing this, Brian couldn't keep poised. He had always trusted Klara most. The fact that she tried to steal Winnie's mobile phone meant that she had betrayed him. "Explain it clearly." Brian ordered in an angry and cold tone that it would intimidate others. "Mr. Bennet, I'm wrong, but I didn't succeed. Winnie came back when I just began to search her bag." Klara was so scared that her heart trembled. At the same time, she regretted very much. However, she had done it. In order to continue to get his trust and to get his forgiveness, she could only force herself to tell the truth. "Before, Mrs. Bennet contacted me. She suggested that I should steal Winnie's cell phone and then she would drive Winnie away. That day, I was angry after Winnie scolded me, so I agreed in a thoughtless moment. That day, when Winnie came to your office, I went to her office. However, Winnie came back sooner than I expected, so I failed. Winnie knew this." Klara spoke in an extremely low voice. Having worked for Brian for four years, it was the first time for her to make a mistake. Therefore, her self-esteem was hurt. At this moment, Brian wore a dark face. His eyes were cold. "Did you send someone to rob Winnie of her mobile phone?" Brian asked angrily. "No, I really knew nothing about that." Klara hurriedly looked up and denied. When she met Brian's cold eyes, she immediately lowered her head. "I gave up after I failed that time. Later, Mrs. Bennet made a phone call to me to ask me to steal Winnie's computer, but I refused." "Steal her computer? Why did Penny want to steal Winnie's computer?" Brian felt puzzled. After trying to steal Winnie's mobile phone, Penny wanted to steal her computer. What on earth did Penny want to know?" Mrs. Bennet told me that there must be photos that could prove that you had an affair with Winnie in her mobile phone. After I got Winnie's mobile phone for her, she would threaten Winnie with the photos so that Winnie would leave. She said so. And I don't know anything else." Klara didn't feel relieved after taking the initiative to confess. What she cared about most was how Brian would handle this. Brian frowned and looked at Klara angrily. A moment later. "Klara, I have always trusted you. You betrayed me by doing so. Even if you have ulterior motive, you should be scrupulous in separating the public interest from the private interest. Winnie has never made trouble for you, and what she said that day was also true." Brian reproached her coldly and mentioned what happened on that day again. If he had talked it through at that time, it was possible that Klara wouldn't have resented Winnie. Klara was stunned. It was easy to understand what Brian meant. He had long known that she liked him. Besides, he also knew what she had done against Winnie. "Mr. Bennet, I'm sorry. I'm wrong. I'll never do that again. Mr. Bennet, forgive me for my husband's sake." Klara hurriedly cried pleaded for herself, otherwise she would definitely be driven away. When she mentioned her husband, there was a helpless expression on Brian's face. "I don't want such a thing to happen again in the future. If you did it again, I would not forgive you." Seeing that Klara regretted what she had done, Brian finally forgave her. After all, it was because of him that Klara became jealous. He should bear some responsibility. "Thank you. Thank you, Mr. Bennet. Something like that will never happen again in the future." Klara thanked Brian hurriedly. Although she had lost her self-esteem, she was quite satisfied with the result. Being able to stay with Brian was the most important thing for her. "Klara, you'll just treat me as your boss in the future. Pay your attention to something you should." Brian had to warn her to avoid that something worse might happen. Klara was sad and her self-esteem was hurt again. However, she had no other choice at this moment. "Yes, Mr. Bennet." "Go back to your work." Receiving his order, Klara immediately turned around and left. However, it was impossible for Brian to just move forward as if nothing had happened. Penny went too far. She must have something to do with Winnie's mobile phone being robbed. Thinking of this, Brian picked up his mobile phone and was about to make a phone call to Albert."Mr. Bennet." "How's the investigation?" Brian asked in a deep voice."Mr. Bennet, I come to make a report." Albert answered very seriously and then went on."I still found out the fact of the accident, but I found the person who robbed Winnie of her cell phone. However, that guy didn't admit that someone had asked him to do it and said that it was simply a robbery. I threatened that guy, but it didn't work. When he was sent to the police station, he still said nothing." Albert told him the whole story, but there weren't many useful clues.

Hey, My Twins Babies

CHAPTER 99 HACKER TECHNOLOGY

After hearing it, Brian was silent first. He couldn't draw a conclusion casually without any evidence. He couldn't let something without evidence affect the overall situation. However, Brian still doubted that Penny had done all these. He just didn't expect that Penny would do it in such a cautious way. "Don't waste time on these people anymore. Go to investigate Penny." Brian decided to do it in a different way. In this way, however cautious she was, he could find out some clues. "Yes, Mr. Bennet." Albert received the order. "What about the investigation about Winnie?" Brian asked again. "I went to the school they graduated from. All her classmates and teachers had a good impression of Winnie. As for Mrs. Bennet, they gave neither positive nor negative comments. In their memory, Winnie had been protecting Mrs. Bennet. Moreover, Winnie had given Mrs. Bennet the opportunity to receive a government-sponsored oversea education." "I know what you just said. Albert, you didn't work efficiently recently." Brian was unsatisfied with the result of his investigation because he knew all that things. He just felt surer after Albert mentioned. "Mr. Bennet, it's not that I don't work efficiently. Recently, there're too many things to do. I'm also responsible for the acquisition of MT. I can't finish all the work well by myself." Albert said helplessly. After Winnie came, there were suddenly a lot of extra things. And he had to do all of them all by himself. He really was about to wear himself out. Brian thought for a while and then said. "Transfer Calvin and Morgan back." Brian also realized that there were too few employees he trusted around him. He minded what Klara had done this time and couldn't trust her completely in the future. Therefore, he could only transfer his other two right-hand men back. "I'll go to the Personnel Department and ask them to make arrangements soon." Albert felt much relaxed now. When his two colleagues were transferred back, they would share the work with him. "Albert, don't let Klara know important things in the future." Brian reminded. In the past, both he and Albert trusted Klara, but they couldn't trust her anymore now. She was under the control of jealousy and sometimes couldn't tell right from wrong. It was easy to use her. "Yes, Mr. Bennet." Although Albert didn't know what had happened, he believed that Brian must have reasons to give such an order. "Well, continue the previous topic. What else did you find out?" Brian continued to ask. "Winnie had a good relationship with girls, but she was indifferent to boys. It wasn't because she was arrogant. The reason was that Winnie didn't want to play with men's emotions and therefore tried to disappoint her many admirers who she didn't like. Therefore, she had no boyfriend when she was in college." Albert paused for a while and then went on. "Mrs. Bennet says that Winnie is a liar, but she is not. Her classmates and teachers all said that she was from a rich family. There is no need for her to cheat other people." From the very beginning, Albert didn't believe that Winnie was a liar. Now, it was finally proved that she wasn't a liar. He was very happy. "She is from a rich family? What do her parents do?" Brian asked casually. He was in a better mood because Winnie didn't have a boyfriend when she was in college. "I haven't found that out, but I know that her parents had passed away." Albert felt helpless again. He worked efficiently, but he had to delay when he had to pay attention to everything. "Continue the investigation and find out everything about Winnie." Brian ordered seriously. Although Winnie wasn't a liar when she was in college, it couldn't prove that she didn't cheat other people when she was studying abroad. After all, Penny wasn't the only one who said that Winnie was a liar. Leo liked Winnie so much, but he also once said that Winnie was a liar. Therefore, Brian wanted to find out everything about Winnie and proved that Penny had told lies. Only in this way could he feel comfortable. After he arrived home from work in the evening, Winnie had already prepared dinner as usual. They four had dinner happily. After dinner, they four sat on the sofa together and watched TV. At this moment, Winnie stood up and came close to Brian. "Come with me." After saying a few words to kids, Winnie took Brian to her studio, turned on the computer and showed that e-mail to Brian. "What does it mean?" Brian asked in a deep voice. "Perhaps the sender meant it literally? I showed it to Klara and asked her about it today." Winnie observed his expression carefully, finding that he had no special reaction and that he was just too calm. "What did she say?" Brian asked in a colder voice. "She said that it was a prank, but I did see her rummaging through my bag." Winnie repeated what Klara had said. "You think too much." Before Winnie told him her doubts, Brian denied them directly. He denied her doubts so fast that Winnie felt uncomfortable. "Perhaps I'm just like the knave who thinks of others in terms of his own desires. It seems that you know Klara well and trust her very much." Winnie felt a sense of loss and said. She wanted Brian to analyze it for her, so she told him this thing. However, she forgot that Brian had a very special feeling for Klara and that it was impossible for him to doubt Klara. "....." Brian was speechless and didn't know what to say next. He didn't believe Klara, but he didn't want them to have a poorer relationship because of it. "Work hard. Don't let your work efficiency be affected by someone's prank." Brian could only talk like this. If Winnie continued to look into it, it wouldn't be so easy for this matter to be over. "No, I have obsessive-compulsive disorder, and I have to find out the fact." Winnie said stubbornly. Since Brian trusted Klara so much, she must find out the face and see if Klara was worth Brian's trust. After saying that, Winnie sat down in front of the computer and began to operate it. "How are you going to look into it?" Brian asked in doubt. "I can trace the source of this e-mail. If it doesn't work, I'll use hacker technology. Anyway, I can find the sender." Winnie said confidently. "Right, I should ask Luke and Megan to come over. I can take this opportunity to teach them the hacker technology." "You know hacker technology, too?" There was a surprised expression in Brian's deep eyes. "Of course. My job is to develop computer software. If I don't even have such skills, I'll be laughed at." After saying that, Winnie opened the door and asked Luke and Megan to come over. Then, she explained while operating. Winnie was really good at hacking. In less than 20 minutes, she locked the IP address of the sender. Winnie didn't know where the computer with this IP address was, but she knew that it was somewhere in the rich area where poor people couldn't live at all. "Luke, do you understand?" Instead of asking Brian to tell her the address, she asked Luke if he understood it. "Yes, I can do this, too." Luke answered with certainty. He was as confident as Winnie. "Well, I'll exit this page now and you'll operate the computer. Let's see if you can find this address." Winnie was not in a hurry to find out the sender. There weren't many such opportunities. Therefore, in her opinion, it was more important to teach kids. Winnie stood up and let Luke sit down. Then, Luke began to operate the computer. With his super memory and his love for computers, he began to hack for the first time. Winnie stood there, watched, and gradually smiled with satisfaction. However, Brian was sullen and wore a dark face from the beginning to the end, but he still looked surprised. The reason why he wore a dark face was that he recognized the IP address. The reason why he was surprised was that Luke could understand hacker technology Winnie taught him. In the past, he seldom paid attention to Luke. He even deliberately alienated Luke. Therefore, he didn't know that Luke had this talent. Winnie found his talent. It seemed that Luke had changed a lot when he lived with Winnie. Luke didn't disappoint people present and found the IP address again in the same amount of time as Winnie, making Winnie very happy. "Good job, Luke! You're the smartest kid!" Winnie couldn't help praising him, bent down and kissed Luke on his forehead. "Thank you, auntie." Luke smiled brightly. He had not smiled like this for a long time. "Daddy, am I smart?" Luke turned his head and asked Brian with expectations in his bright eyes. "Hmm." Brian indifferently answered him with just a word, which made his expectations disappear instantly. His smile also disappeared with displeasure in his eyes. He got to know how to operate it after watching it only once. Many kids couldn't do that. Shouldn't his daddy be proud of him? Why did he give him such a perfunctory answer? It was probably because his daddy still didn't like him and therefore didn't care about his little achievement. Winnie saw both Brian's and Luke's expressions. It made her heart ache to see the frustration in Luke's eyes. "Good job, Luke! Auntie is proud of you! What about going to the living room with Megan and having fun with her there? I still have to work for a while." Winnie hurriedly let the kids leave. The only way to prevent Luke from being affected by Brian emotionally was to distract him. After the kids left, Winnie somewhat couldn't restrain her anger. She couldn't figure out why Brian treated Luke coldly. She wanted to ask Brian, but she knew that he wouldn't answer. Therefore, Winnie could only refrain herself from asking for the time being. "Can you tell me where the computer is? You should know more about this rich area than I do." Winnie decided to focus on the current problem. She directly pointed out the key point so that Brian couldn't be partial to anyone. "It's in my home." Brian didn't hide it from her. He was unable to hide it from her. When Winnie said such words, she must have known the fact. If he continued to try to hide it from Winnie, she would definitely become stubborn again. "Oh...It's in your home? Then, it must be Penny who sent me this e-mail. She must have worked with Klara to steal my mobile phone. That's to say, I didn't think too much." Winnie had long anticipated that it had something to do with Penny. She said these words just because she wanted to see how Brian would react. "Why did they try to steal your mobile phone?" Brian couldn't explain. If he explained, he would contradict himself. After all, it had something to do with Klara. "You should ask them why they wanted to steal my mobile. How is it possible that I know it? The reason why you asked me this question is that you think I must have done something wrong. So...Forget it. I'll stop here. It's meaningless to tell who is right and who is wrong. It's just a mobile phone. After I lost the old one, I can get a new one." Winnie knew that Brian would definitely be partial to them and that she was just a scapegoat. No matter when, she would be the one who bore the responsibility in the end as long as she was involved. "The guy who robbed you of your mobile phone has been caught. It had nothing to do with Penny. It's just a coincidence."

CHAPTER 100 THE REASON TO BE INDIFFERENT TO LUKE

Brian could tell from Winnie's words that she was complaining. However, before everything was figured out, he couldn't alarm Penny in case she would be alert. And for the time being, he could only wrong Winnie. Winnie coldly grunted in her heart, thinking that she wasn't convinced by Brian's words. If she remembered correctly, she had told Brian that he didn't need to call the police. Even so, in the end, the police were alerted. Could it be that these few people colluded together to put on a show to deceive her? "Really? Who called the police? You? Did you do so just to clarify it for Penny and Klara? You didn't have to do so. Even if I know that it is the two of them who did it, with you protecting them, I can't do anything to them." Instead of being angry, Winnie felt sore in her heart. She was now Brian's woman.

And she didn't get a bit of favoritism from Brian. To him, she didn't have any value except in bed. Winnie walked out of the studio and came to the living room. Seeing Luke sitting there without any expression, she became angrier. She wondered that who Brian would care about in his heart if children weren't important to him. The next day, because the police had asked Winnie to testify whether she had lost the cell phone, she could only take a half-day off from work. She only intended to go to the police station to cooperate with the police. As for what the result would be, she didn't give a damn about it. She had figured everything out after Brian had revealed the truth to her. If Brian had any evidence against Penny and Klara, he wouldn't have chosen to call the police. For others, Winnie didn't have any problem with them. However, she just asked about the whereabouts of the cell phone. The police told her that the thief had lost the cell phone. Winnie thought that it was quite ridiculous for a thief to lose the cell phone. Winnie walked out of the police station and saw that it was still early. Thinking that she couldn't waste the off-time this morning, she drove to the hospital and found Kevin. When it came to other things, she didn't want to know about them. She just wanted to know why Brian was that cold and distant towards Luke. Only by finding the root cause could she solve the problem and make Luke sincerely happy. Winnie felt that Kevin surely knew the truth. Otherwise, he wouldn't have said that Luke's depression had something to do with Brian. "Why are you here?" Kevin was looking down at a case. Hearing the sound of the door opening, he looked up and felt surprised that the one who had come in was Winnie. "I came here so suddenly. I wonder if I will disturb you." As Winnie spoke skillfully and warmly, she curled up the corner of her mouth slightly, revealing her dimples. Kevin said flirtatiously, "No, no. Whenever a beautiful woman comes to see me, I will all be available." Winnie naturally made others find her an eye-pleasure. "My place here is in humble conditions. There is only a chair for you." Kevin pulled out a chair in front of the desk, asking Winnie to sit there. Then he got a bottle of mineral water gentlemanly, unscrewed the lid, and put it in front of Winnie. Winnie politely said, "Thank you!" After that, she continued to speak, "Your time is tight. So I will directly get down to the point." Winnie didn't want to disturb Kevin too much. After all, it was Kevin's working time. "What's the matter? Say it." "Luke's condition has gotten a lot better recently. But I find that as long as Brian is cold to him, he will be quite depressed. I also talked to Brian and asked him to show as much fatherly love as possible to the child. But he didn't cooperate well. Sometimes, when he is in a good mood, he will be good to the child. But most of the time, he is cold to him with an indifferent look, which is not good for Luke's illness." Winnie paused. At the thought of these, the faint smile on her face also disappeared. "What do you want to ask me?" Kevin, who was a smart person, could tell Winnie's meaning beyond her words. "I want to know why Brian is so cold to Luke. Luke is his biological son. Why should he be indifferent to him? I can only find a solution to it if I know the reason. Otherwise, Luke's illness will keep recurring." Winnie couldn't help but feel sad. She had done her best to help with the child's recovery. But Brian didn't cooperate with her. In that case, no way that Luke could fully recover. "He treats him so because of a woman." Kevin didn't hide the truth from Winnie. However, it was the first time he had mentioned this woman. The reason why he only told Winnie about her was that he probably felt that she was trustworthy. For the recovery of Luke's illness, Kevin had turned to Brian, only to fail. The reason why he told Winnie about the truth was that he put his hopes on Winnie, hoping that Winnie could convince Brian. Winnie was stunned at first. Then she looked at Kevin. "A woman? The woman who has been abroad?" "Do you know her?" Kevin looked at Winnie in surprise. He originally thought it was a secret between him and Brian. but he didn't expect Winnie would know about it. "Yeah. He told me by himself." Winnie curled up the corner of her mouth once again. But this time, she looked bitter. "This woman left because of Luke. Because of Luke's sudden appearance, this woman was angry, which was why she went abroad. So Brian has always been distant to Luke." Kevin had made the reason known to Winnie. As to whether the issue could be resolved or not, it was Winnie's problem. "It's funny. They failed to deal with their issues. Why should they vent off their anger on a child? The child doesn't know anything. Why should he shoulder all of these? Why did they give birth to the child if they weren't capable of shouldering the responsibilities?" " Dr. Kevin, can you be more specific?" Winnie was angry and heartbroken. And a mist rose from the bottom of her eyes. Years ago, Brian indeed had said that she made things difficult for him. At that time, she didn't understand. But now she finally knew why. For a woman, he wronged a child. "Answer me a question first before I am more specific." Kevin had to make sure of something before he knew what he should say and what he shouldn't. "Go ahead." Winnie was puzzled. "Why don't you ask Penny? Why do you think the responsibility for Luke's depression is all on Brian?" Kevin had been puzzled about this. In his opinion, Winnie seemed to ignore the existence of Penny. In Winnie's perspective, Penny was Luke's biological mother, wasn't she? Kevin's question stunned Winnie once again. She hesitantly looked at Kevin, wondering whether she should tell him the truth. But in her opinion, since Kevin had asked her so, he probably had guessed something. "Penny isn't Luke's mommy. She can't shirk her responsibility. Even so, she isn't helping Luke's recovery at all." Winnie finally told Kevin the truth. As for these words, she couldn't tell Brian about them. However, she thought that she could trust Kevin. Although Kevin looked carefree and unrestrained, in his heart, he was kind and warm. Kevin looked at Winnie jaw-droppingly. He was incredulous that she knew so much. "How did you know that?" "Luke told me." Since Winnie told Kevin the truth, she thought that she had to tell him the truth thoroughly. Winnie believed that Kevin would conceal it for her. "Did Luke know it as well? How did he know?" Kevin simply couldn't calm down this time. And his tone indicated that he was quite shocked. Luke knew the truth. But he didn't say anything while bearing all by himself. No wonder he would be depressed. "Luke happened to hear the conversation between the Chairman and Brian. But he never said anything. The child is quite understanding, fearing that speaking out will bring trouble to Brian, which is one of the reasons for his depression." "Penny isn't good to the child. If she can treat Luke as if he were her biological child, Luke won't be depressed." Winnie could only tell Kevin these details because she promised Luke and her promise to Felix. "My God! You and Luke know everything. That's why Luke is especially dependent on you. That's why he won't go home, right?" Kevin hadn't gotten over his shock. Originally, he thought that Brian had been hiding everything all well. He never expected that Luke would have known the truth early. He had always thought that Luke's depression was caused by Brian. But he didn't expect Penny to have anything to do with it. "Yes, Luke doesn't like Penny." Winnie nodded her head and affirmed it. As for the reason why Luke liked her, she thought it was because of the bloodline connection more. "I indeed didn't expect Luke to have so much pressure. Nor did I expect him to endure so much." Kevin finally calmed down a bit. However, thinking about Luke made his heartache. Winnie pleaded, "As for this matter, please help me keep it a secret. Luke doesn't want Brian to know about it. You should pretend not to hear my words and let things go as they are." Luke got along with her now. She didn't want to make a scene because of the possibility that the truth might be revealed. Kevin assured her, "Don't worry. I won't say anything." They went back to the topic they had discussed just now. "I'll give you a specific description of their relationship." "Brain and this woman were college classmates. They fell in love, which was known by his family later. But this woman's family background was average and did not meet grandpa's requirements. Therefore, his grandfather had been opposed to their relationship. And they could only secretly keep their relationship going on. Later, Brian was determined to support the woman's father, hoping that he could make his grandpa satisfied one day. But his grandpa couldn't wait, saying that he would only let him take over the Bennet

Group after he got married or had a child." Kevin took a slow breath and continued, "To better support the girl's family, Brian could only agree to his grandpa's condition and marry Penny. However, before that, because of the woman's health issue, Brian had gone to find a surrogate woman who gave birth to Luke without discussing it in advance." As Kevin said here, he stopped, thinking that Winnie surely would be shocked and dumbfounded after she knew Luke's mother was a surrogate woman. However, at this time, he saw that Winnie couldn't be calmer. Besides looking sad, Winnie didn't have any other expressions on her face at all, making Kevin puzzled. "After Luke was born, this woman felt hurt, went abroad in a fit of anger, and never came back." Kevin revealed everything that had happened between Brian and that woman to Winnie. It was unknown whether Brian would kill him after he found out the truth. "So he distanced himself from Luke and treated him coldly like that. He vent all his guilt towards the woman on Luke. But why didn't he ever wonder why Luke had to suffer this. Luke didn't know anything. He was just a child." As Winnie spoke here in anger, she could no longer finish her words. And she couldn't help but shed tears. She didn't cry because of Brian. Instead, she cried because of Luke who had shouldered the responsibilities for no reason for so many years. "Sorry, I'm a little excited. Dr. Kevin, you should get busy first, I'm leaving." As Winnie spoke, she got up and left quickly. She didn't want to be seen mentally breaking down by Kevin. Although Kevin was uncomfortable in his heart, he thought that judging from Winnie's overreaction, there should be a problem. Kevin thought to himself, "Winnie and Luke are casual acquaintances. Why do they have so profound and strong feelings for each other that they can't let go of each other? What makes their hearts be linked together as if they were a pair of mother and son? Wait. Mother and son?"
