

N. Machine 381

Chapter: 381

Chak wanted to complain to Mun Ku on what she just did, but Yeowun spoke first that stopped him.

“I am not following what you are saying.”

He had guessed there was something Sama Yi wanted, but he didn't expect it to be a marriage. He did think about the future ahead of him, but marriage wasn't on his mind yet. Sama Yi then asked him.

Chapter: 382

But this was what he really thought.

‘With the future Lord as my son in law, our clan will become the number one clan of the cult! This serves both of us well.’

Was he really persuaded? Yeowun seemed to be deep in thought and everyone turned to Yeowun. Mun Ku even had her eyes pointed down from concern. Yeowun, who fell silent for a long time, spoke.

Chapter: 383

“U-Uh...”

Sama Yi hesitated and Yeowun suddenly got up from the seat. Sama Yi became shocked and Yeowun bowed.

“I think your opinion differs from that of your son's. I think you and I walk the different path. I am grateful for your welcome. It is time for me to go.”

Chapter: 384

“I thank you for your hospitality, but I think what you wish is different from what I want. And for the marriage... I want to be together with someone I love.”

Yeowun then turned away. That's when he heard a pounding sound from behind and stopped. When he turned, Sama Yi was on his one knee. Sama Yi then bowed in respect and shouted.

“I was a fool and did not realize your vision! Prince Chun, please take away your anger.”

Chapter: 385

“So Prince, what is that you want to know?”

Lee Hameng asked and Yeowun told the other members to stay outside the room. As they walked out, Yeowun continued speaking on the subject.

“Left Guardian. Do you know who was the one who passed the sixth test 70 years ago?”

Chapter: 386

Lee Hameng whispered to Yeowun. If the Lord is back, then it meant other elders were back too. This meant the beginning of the war for Yeowun.

“Prince?”

But Yeowun was looking at only one place. In the middle of the parade, there was a black carriage, decorated with red silk and had the word ‘SKY’ embroidered over it.

Chapter: 387

‘Didn’t the ambassadors come last time?’

And unlike the last time, there was a large number of them entering the gate. Crowds then began to boo and taunt at members of Yulin clan.

“Booo!”

Chapter: 388

“9th Elder, entering the hall!”

When the elders entered, guards at the entrance shouted to alert everyone.

“Welcome.”

Chapter: 389

Elders from Sword, Blade and Lust clan glared at Yeowun, as their princes had lost their arms at Yeowun's action. If this wasn't the Grand Hall of the Demonic Cult, they would have unleashed their anger again. But they couldn't do it, as that meant they had undermined the Lord's authority and dignity and be punished.

The hall turned quiet at the heavy atmosphere full of emotions.

'Do you think we'll approve of you?'

Chapter: 390

"Here comes the Lord!"

And the man with black clothes with golden dragon embroider entered, and everyone got up and fell to their one knee.

"Glory to the Demonic Cult!"