

N. Machine 461

Chapter: 461

Yeowun remembered he had heard of this. Once in every year, the Demonic Cult held a holy ceremony for deceased Lords. It was the day when Father Chun Ma had died in the past. And on the ceremony day, the entire castle went through the ritual of burning, where cultists spent half their day bowing down in remembrance. The members who took care of this ceremony was the Lord, Guardians, and Elders, so they were only ones who were allowed to enter the Altar of Fathers at that time of the year.

“Inside the altar, there is a monument that Father Chun Ma left with his own writing.”

Yin Moha saw the monument every time there was a ceremony. The writing was said to be written by Chun Ma himself, so Yin Moha looked very closely every time and remembered it very clearly.

Chapter: 462

“Ah.”

Marakim then reached into his pocket and took out a blue pearl medal. On the front, it had the Great Guardian’s symbol engraved on it. But on the back, there was an engraving that said ‘Sky Demon Order.’

“S-Sky Demon Order!”

Chapter: 463

When Yeowun sent ominous demonic energy into his Sky Demon Sword, black light of force qi shot up from the sword.

“Ahh... I knew it!”

Seeing this in front of his eyes, Marakim was mesmerized. He was certain that it was the Qi of Sky Demon when he saw Yeowun using it to kill Kingbonki, and now it was confirmed.

Chapter: 464

On the night before, Chun Inji came over to Marakim’s room in secret.

“The Lord told me to keep it as a secret and gave me an order.”

“What order was it?”

Chapter: 465

Marakim asked multiple times on what was going on, but Great High Lord did not answer. And next day, he was gone from the cult. Marakim took up the order and had kept it as a secret until today. And as Yeowun heard this, he realized that Marakim considered former Lord, Chun Inji as his master rather than Lord Chun Yujong.

“As I was ordered, I waited him for 10 years.”

He waited for Great High Lord’s safe return. But Chun Inji never returned to the Demonic Cult. When he did not return, Marakim began to proceed with the order and learned martial arts of Sword Demon for two years and called elders of three clans and tried to teach time.

Chapter: 466

“I assure you, Kingbonki will not come back alive. You must know this if you have saw what he had been doing in the past.”

“...”

“If you let him stay with six clans, it will only decrease our forces. He is a poison.”

Chapter: 467

“So, everything was done by Great High Lord. Do you think he knew the existence of Blade God Six Martial clan?”

“I think so.”

Yeowun asked and Marakim nodded in agreeance. Until Blade God Six Martial clan appeared, Marakim wasn’t sure what danger might come to the Demonic Cult. But after fighting against them, he was able to confirm that they were the danger that Chun Inji spoke. He also suspected that Blade God Six Martial clan might have connection with Chun Inji’s disapperanace.

Chapter: 468

The group had grown too powerful to take care of it directly. It was important to scatter the group.

“Pahin.”

“Yes, my Lord.”

Chapter: 469

If the Lord was thinking Marakim was the killer, than he could use it as his defense. And soon, he was at the Lord’s office.

“My Lord, we have the Great Guardian here.”

“Send him in.”

Chapter: 470

‘It worked!’

Marakim was relieved. If he were to bring the body back, then it was going to be enough. But what’s concerned was that he was being sent out by warriors from palace guards. This was probably due to the Lord not trusting guardians anymore. And when Marakim left, the one armed man walked over to the Lord.

“There we have it. Marakim also sides with him.”
