

N. Machine 511

Chapter: 511

Ja Kinkeng and Hang Soyu also got out of their seats and bowed to agree with Bu Churyong. They were now asking Chun Yeowun directly who was in charge of the final approval.

'They're now bringing the Lord into this.'

Lee Hameng frowned as he watched them from Yeowun's side. They lost in their votes so they were now insisting that they should wait for the Lord to wake up.

Chapter: 512

Marakim became worried.

After the Great Meeting, same day after dinner. The gazebo behind the palace's Hall of Feast was lit, with tables full of various cuisines and liquor. There were three people. It was Bu Churyong, Ja Kinkeng and Hang Soyu. They were here because an invitation came to them an hour ago. A messenger from the Guardian forces arrived at the Blade clan's mansion, to the three elders who were discussing what to do now, and sent a message from Chun Yeowun. It was a short message, but it was what they were waiting for.

[I will talk.]

Chapter: 513

"Oh, wait a minute. Why don't we enjoy the special delicacy before that?"

"A... delicacy?"

It was the first word that Chun Yeowun said during the feast. The three Elders became confused and Yeowun pointed at the bull that the cook was working on.

Chapter: 514

Yeowun answered his question casually and the three elders became confused on what they should do. They first thought that they would talk about what they wanted and see what could be accepted. But they didn't think Chun Yeowun also had what he wanted on his side.

'Hm...'

It was puzzling. The three of them looked at each other. They wanted to share ideas by talking it through telepathic messages, but they had suspicions about something because of what happened at the Demon Dragon clan's mansion, so they couldn't do it. They were suspecting that Chun Yeowun could overhear telepathic messages. Bu Churying then spoke.

Chapter: 515

'You have made a mistake. How dare you anger us.'

Bu Churyong thought he had to take this chance to put pressure on Yeowun. And as three of them glared at Yeowun with similar looks, Yeowun sighed.

"Whew. It's hard trying to talk nice to you scums."

Chapter: 516

'I don't see any reason to have that in you anymore.'

Yeowun decided to take out poison parasite from Marakim's body. The poison parasite was sent down within the Great Guardians and only was removed when the host died. The only other way to remove it was to have a person with the qi of the Sky Demon order it. Marakim had seen how the reactant looked, but he had never seen parasite poison with his eyes, so he was shocked when he saw it coming out of his body.

'W-what in the...'

Chapter: 517

'They will go off the limit for their own safety.'

It was disgusting and bitter to see this as the cult that had been led by these kinds of people.

'They're lucky that they can live for now.'

Chapter: 518

And from the wall of the palace, drums began to ring. It was the signal that the ceremony was now starting.

“Ohh!! It’s starting now!”

“It’s finally starting!”

Chapter: 519

“Whoaaaaaaa!!!!”

Cultists who roared in cheers, filling the entire Demonic Cult with sound. With a long and loud horn sound, someone appeared at the entrance of the inner palace. Long hair and pale white face. He wore a formal black robe with a golden dragon embroidered on it. Chun Yeowun began to walk down the carpet that connected the palace to the stage. Unlike his appearance of a young man, the power felt within him was tremendous, and that made the cultists gasp in awe.

[Hehehe... did I tell you that the Lord is my apprentice?]

Chapter: 520

Yeowun smiled. Hu Bong was his first servant and the partner who had gone through many hardships with him. Yeowun took the torch and placed his hand on Hu Bong’s shoulder to send in energy to make him calm. Hu Bong became teary and spoke.

“M-My Lord. Congratulations. I will never forget this moment.”

“...So will I.”