

N. Machine 661

Chapter: 661

Huan Yi already heard that the guest was already within 10 miles. They had to be prepared to greet the incoming guest. If the Lord did not arrive within that timeframe, everyone starting from the Imperial Palace to all cultists would know immediately that the Lord had been absent.

"Hmm... that is concerning."

Marakim also nodded in concern and looked toward the north. That's when he found something in his sight. Something like a dot was coming in their direction at enormous speed.

Chapter: 662

'By the gods...!'

'A-Air walking?'

This was the air walking technique, where a man used energy to step on air to fly through. This technique was deemed a legendary stage of the stepping skill that equaled its legendary state to that of Air Sword flying, which all people of Yulin only dreamt of.

Chapter: 663

The carriage began to move. It seemed the person inside was getting out.

'That man is from the Imperial... huh?'

With the door of the carriage being opened, the person finally revealed himself. The man was plump with narrow eyes, with a goat-like beard. He did not look like anything that Yeowun had imagined as a person from the royal family.

Chapter: 664

"They are citizens of the Empire who should come bow in fear when the Emperor orders them to. But why am I, a King, going down to them instead?!"

Zhu Taikhan was furious at the fact that he had to take orders from the Emperor and go down to send these people messages by himself. And he didn't like this Demonic Cult faction, where they considered their Lord to be the 'Sky'. Even the Emperor of Great Ming himself only considered him to be the 'Son of the Sky.' It was very arrogant of them.

"Why are they so different from those who call themselves the Forces of Justice?"

Chapter: 665

Yon Namgun became wordless at the unexpected reaction. He did guess that cultists would not bow easily, but he didn't imagine the reaction would be this cold.

'They are not like ordinary martial artists. But this is going too far.'

The order seemed a bit much, but when facing cultists not willing to bow, Yon Namgun became furious as he was a commander of the Imperial Guard who protected the Imperial Palace's authority. He then frowned and tried to shout when he heard the telepathic message.

Chapter: 666

Acts of treason against the Emperor and his relatives were not allowed under the law of the Empire. But when these words were spoken, all cultists became dumbfounded.

'Hahaha. You have no choice!'

Zhu Taikhan became satisfied. It was likely that the cultists became arrogant because the Imperial Palace had been treating them with respect until now. But the cultists were still citizens of the Great Ming Empire and there was no way for them to stand against the Empire itself.

Chapter: 667

That's when a few clan leaders came in and struck the guards down.

"Protect the King!"

"Treason!"

Chapter: 668

"Aaaaargh!"

Yeowun then threw Yuking toward the gate where the cultists were gathered.

“Ugh!”

Chapter: 669

Yeowun scoffed. He then asked Zhu Taikhan who was behind Yon Namgun, “Let me ask you, your highness. Our cult executes those who impersonate the Lord. How does the Imperial Palace take care of an imposter trying to be a king?”

‘?!’

Zhu Taikhan frowned but he couldn’t say anything. Yeowun easily countered the words that Yon Namgun had said to him. If it wasn’t for the cult, the Imperial Palace would’ve also punished them heavily by killing the impersonator and their family.

Chapter: 670

‘What? What’s with that look?’

Yeowun, nor any of the cultists seemed to care. Yeowun was even looking disappointed as he shook his head.

“You’re not bold, but reckless. I was anticipating seeing someone from the government for the first time... but this is disappointing.”
