

Chapter 1 National Forensic Doctor

Chapter: 1

There is a pot of green radish in front of the window, with large leaves and full of energy.

There are two old desks put together in front of Luluo. There are a lot of books piled up in the middle, and there is also a very old-fashioned desktop computer with a Haier Brothers sticker on the back of the fuselage.

There is a half-bare broom in the corner of the table, and a dustpan with a crack.

In the morning, the sun was shining brightly, and the green radishes were more and more green.

Jiang Yuan arrived at the office, pulled out the chair, sat down, turned on the computer, and when the computer was turned on, he poured water for himself, and poured some for Luluo by the way.

The dust on the desktop was slapped, and after cleaning up, the computer turned on.

He coughed twice habitually, and opened a novel page. He saw chapter 403 yesterday, and he can continue today.

Jiang Yuan is a new forensic doctor in Ningtai County.

Tall and clean-looking.

A little bit free.

The forensic doctor he imagined was wearing a white coat and attacking serious cases. Where there is a case, there is him.

Actually...

It has been half a month since Jiang Yuan came to report. He has read more than a dozen novels and worked on three or four cases, but he has not seen a single corpse.

He opened the novel and continued to read. There were only him and the master in the forensic room. The master was about to retire, and he often came to work by stepping on the spot, and he didn't care what he did when he came. Anyway, when there is no corpse, forensic medicine is just a basic labor force.

...

"Bang!" The door was knocked open.

The person who came saw the gentle Jiang Yuan sitting in front of the computer, and looked harder: "Old Wu didn't come?"

"Captain Liu. My master should still be on the way." Jiang Yuan raised his head and replied.

Captain Liu is the captain of the Second Squadron of the Criminal Police Brigade. He glanced at the small office, took out his mobile phone and made a call, and said, "Then you come with me first, there are corpses!"

Jiang Yuan stood up in surprise and horror.

It started, his career started.

Sure enough, at this time, a screen popped up in front of him:

It is detected that the host is about to have the first corpse, and the task is issued: to do a comprehensive autopsy to assist in the detection of the case.

Jiang Yuan pretended to be calm and went out with Captain Liu.

Yes, he has a forensic system. He has seen this system since he graduated from medical university and returned to his hometown of Ningtai County after Kao Gong.

However, after working for half a month, the system did not move at all, and it was really frustrating to say that it was waiting for the body.

If he, Jiang Yuan, was not a law-abiding citizen, he would have wanted to make one himself.

County No. 1 Middle School. Fifty meters from the east gate, at the entrance of the alley.

The policemen who came first had already pulled up the cordon, and there was a tent in the middle, covering the sight of the outside world, which looked very formal.

"Xiao Jiang, you need to do some peripheral work first, and your master will be there in a quarter of an hour." Captain Liu was not too relieved of Jiang Yuan, and first gave a warning.