

National Forensic Doctor

Chapter: 15

Huang Qiangmin and the other three moved to the back of Jiang Yuan in a tacit understanding, moving lightly like a civet cat, without making the slightest sound.

As soon as Wu Jun on the opposite side raised his head, he noticed the movements of the three of them, he was stunned, and then went about his own business. Compared with entry-level new policemen like Jiang Yuan, the veteran policemen present are all well-versed fox-level players. They have a keen sense of smell and are familiar with each other.

Jiang Yuan happened to be wearing earphones, listening to the music inside, comparing his fingerprints without hearing anything outside the window.

Fingerprinting is a job that requires a lot of concentration. Especially for the fingerprints in the fingerprint library, there are very few that can be done overnight.

It is usually impossible to mark these old fingerprints step by step in a conventional way, because the same or similar steps, the trace inspection police responsible for uploading must have tried.

This is like a difficult problem. It is almost impossible to get the answer by following the classic steps in the textbook. It must be deformed, otherwise, it will not be screened into the category of difficult problems.

But how to deform, adopting this deformation mode, whether it is correct and equivalent, is a very test.

The bow pattern identification (LV3) obtained by Jiang Yuan is still not enough to kill the Quartet, Jiang Yuan still has to keep trying and practicing.

A murder case has just ended, and the work of the forensic post is relatively easy, allowing Jiang Yuan to play with fingerprints with peace of mind.

From Huang Qiangmin's perspective, Jiang Yuan's actions easily reminded him of his daughter's operations when she beautified the photos. Those black and white lines are constantly enlarged and shrunk, and occasionally shifted, which is quite complicated.

Huang Qiangmin wanted to ask for an explanation, so he couldn't help but look back at Lao Yan and Xiao Wang.

The two trace inspection policemen looked more stupid than usual, like two dumb cats, staring straight at Jiang Yuan's screen.

As soon as Huang Qiangmin turned his eyes, he knew what was going on.

It's like a beast coming to its prey, making the prey tense with fear; the boss coming to the secretary, making the secretary terrified and making the whole body tense; the wife coming to the husband, making the husband afraid and tensing up; And the whole body tensed up—Old Yan and Comrade Xiao Wang had obviously foreseen some kind of terrifying situation.

slap.

Jiang Yuan tapped twice again with his finger to confirm a new feature point.

Yan Ge and Wang Zhong couldn't help stretching their heads to look, their expressions were like elementary school students who are learning the problem of "chicken and rabbit in the same cage" for the first time, a little curious and a little afraid of difficulty.

Huang Qiangmin looked at them, inexplicably feeling a little distressed. The economic level of Shannan Province is average, and Ningtai County is a small county. Lao Yan and Xiao Wang are like the criminal police in many counties. After passing the trace inspection, I didn't get much systematic training. At most, I was able to participate in some training courses, so I stumbled and followed the seniors to complete the work.

In such an environment, some people can grow up quickly by relying on self-study. The fingerprint experts in the province have almost the same number of traces.

However, most people are still like Lao Yan and Xiao Wang, who have no learning conditions, occasionally have a little motivation to learn, and eventually grow into a cog in the police force.

In contrast, Jiang Yuan is more focused and confident.

Captain Huang coughed twice, and pulled Jiang Yuan out of his immersion.

"You helped Longli County make fingerprints for a robbery case?" Captain Huang waited for Jiang Yuan to take off the earphones, and asked immediately.

Jiang Yuan responded for a moment, nodded in agreement.

Captain Huang couldn't help but praised: "College students nowadays are amazing, capable, and educated. But...how come your matching fingerprints are all from Longli County?"

Huang Qiangmin drew a long voice, and there was an obvious hint in his tone.

"They uploaded a lot of fingerprints, so I just downloaded theirs." Jiang Yuan naturally couldn't tell, he randomly picked one that was closer to him from the soft persimmons in the whole place.

Huang Qiangmin nodded: "It's not bad to help the brothers' units, um, are you doing fingerprint matching?"

"Yes, I just found a backlog..."

"Which place?"