Chapter: 41

"In the past, if there were corpses on the scene, the cafeteria would cook red eggs." Wu Jun said while eating the eggs.

"Why is it gone now?"

"There are too many deaths, and the cafeteria is troublesome." Wu Jun said: "Now there are fewer homicides and more abnormal deaths. If you don't move, you will be a high fall, and if you don't move, you will drink pesticides."

Wu Jun ate the red eggs in two or three bites, and said again: "Hurry up and sort out the information, I'm busy today. If you can't find any clues, you won't be able to sleep at night."

"Okay." Jiang Yuan's mood became heavier.

The criminal police brigade, which is under the pressure of solving the case, is under the most uncomfortable pressure at this time.

There is a saying of 72 golden hours in the murder case. It is said that the 3 days from the occurrence of the case to the detection of the case are the most important, and it is also the time with the greatest chance of solving the murder case.

There is also a considerable scientific basis for this.

On the one hand, the shorter the time, the more traces and physical evidence of crimes are preserved, and the easier it is to discover the relevance of various clues and cases. Including eyewitnesses and insiders of the case, their memory rules are also clearest and most accurate within 72 hours, and then decay extremely.

On the other hand, during the first three days after the incident, the criminals had the most activities and were the most vulnerable psychologically.

Regardless of whether or not there is preparation before committing the crime, and how well the preparation is, after the actual crime is committed, the criminal's psychology will be greatly affected in the first three days. Considering the possible consequences of the crime, the criminal may cover up or hide. Maybe when asking questions, there will be a lot of contact with the outside world, and it is also the time when it is most likely to be caught. After this period of time, the criminal's mood and psychology gradually stabilize, and the hiding place is determined, etc. Even if the person is identified, arrest and interrogation will encounter difficulties.

In addition, the fatigue value of the policeman in charge of the case will also continue to accumulate over time.

In today's environment, the pressure to solve murder cases is under pressure. The police directly involved in the investigation of the case basically stayed up all night. After persisting in this way for two or three days, the fatigue is basically exhausted.

If the person can be caught within three days, then the police officers who participated in the war can grit their teeth and continue to interrogate them. But if you can't catch someone and let it go in one breath, it will definitely take double the time to make up for it.

For the new homicides in Ningtai County, 24 hours have passed without any new clues. This is definitely a disturbing trend.

"The hair DNA was sent out for an investigation, and the results were not very good." Wang Zhong got the news the first time, and quietly ran to the forensic office.

Both Jiang Yuan and Wu Jun looked over.

Wang Zhong said in a low voice: "The DNA laboratory in the provincial capital won the comparison. But there is an alibi. The other party works in a KTV and was dealt with by the security brigade. The time of the incident happened to be out of town to accompany the guests."

"How could there be pubic hair left in the victim's crotch when he was accompanying guests in other places?" Jiang Yuan thought for a while and asked a key question.

Wang Zhong laughed, and said in a low voice: "The victim who accompanied me in the morning took 500 yuan. Then I drove to the provincial capital. I also got the photo from the traffic police. There are witnesses beside her..."

"There is so much evidence of alibi?" Wu Jun was a little curious: "She is going to deliver food, why is she bringing witnesses with her?"

"Two people, 2000 per person." Wang Zhong stretched out two fingers.

Wu Jun clicked his tongue: "County towns are different from provincial capitals. Their value has skyrocketed to four times."

"Special gameplay also requires additional money." Wang Zhong corrected.

Wu Jun shook his head: "People's hearts are not old, I am now partnering with Xiao Jiang, and every time we go out, we are two together, and the salary will not increase by a dime."

Wang Zhong couldn't keep up anymore, he looked back at Jiang Yuan stiffly, and said: "The investigation of the unit and the place of residence has no results, and the fingerprints and traces have not found a match. The old residential area where the deceased lived, the nearby monitoring There are not many, and the video has not been found to be useful, and the relatives have not finished the investigation, but it is estimated that it has no effect..."

"What about now?" Jiang Yuan's focus is still on the case. This is the second murder case he has experienced, and he still has a strong sense of participation.

Wang Zhong was silent for a while, and said: "I heard that the current investigation direction is still based on the deceased's interpersonal relationship, and the final result is hard to say... However, if there is no result by tonight, the overall situation should be mobilized. "

The Ningtai County Public Security Bureau does not have any so-called detectives, or Niu Honghong's masters in solving crimes. In the face of cases, the means used are conventional means. If there is any big killer, it is the crowd tactics.

In a big city, even if a murder case is discovered and it is difficult to solve it for a while, at most it is to form a special case team and second some personnel, dozens or hundreds of people will be enough. But in small counties, homicides are discovered. When necessary, it is normal for thousands of people to investigate—not to investigate thousands of people, but to dispatch thousands of staff to conduct investigations. If necessary, they can give A college guy does DNA.

Chapter: 42

At this time, not to mention the criminal police brigade, everyone from the police station to the government officials will be dispatched, and some police stations will even borrow people from other units.

Jiang Yuan frowned slightly.

Doing investigations is the basic labor force, and he has LV4 crime scene investigation, which may be the strongest investigation in the county, so he should choose a direction that is more likely to lead to clues.

"Let's do a re-survey." Jiang Yuan offered.

Repeated investigations are a matter of course for current investigators, and it is also a basic requirement for forensic doctors to re-investigate on-site.

Jiang Yuan recalled the operations of the previous surveyors, and he already had a plan in mind.

The surveyors who belonged to the Criminal Squadron were at an average level in terms of technology and dedication. Jiang Yuan looked at the LV4 level of crime scene investigation, and he could always find the omissions.

Although I don't know if there are clues in these places, Jiang Yuan's sense of responsibility unconsciously swelled when the investigation of the case was at a standstill.

In the afternoon, after tidying up a bit, Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong rode their own electric bikes to the area where the crime occurred.

The small red-brick building located in the suburbs is still quite old-fashioned. The two-way, four-lane small road is planted with dubious trees on both sides and in the middle. The sparse shrubs prove that the maintenance level of the neighborhood is very average, but it took time to plant it. The trees still maintain the basic quality of the residential area.

This is the outer suburbs of the county, but because there are some factories nearby, it is more prosperous than many places in the county.

Of course, just prosperity and not prosperity. Looking around, there are patches of old residential quarters and new temporary buildings, which keep the environment at the level of old industrial areas.

Small shops Small shops are the mainstream business model in the neighborhood, and the fronts of small shops are mostly old-fashioned, which is difficult to arouse people's desire to consume.

And these shops that are too lazy to clean up the curtains also have no desire to install cameras.

The municipal construction here seems to have stagnated with time. The old road traffic is still well maintained, but it is about the same level as it was in the past, and newer or better things have hardly appeared.

The neighborhood where the incident occurred was more desolate than other neighborhoods on the same road. There was only the main entrance, where a few old men gathered, looking at everything around them with suspicious eyes. The other two gates of the community are now hand with big chains. These actions, which were originally convenience measures, are now regarded as the culprit.

"What are you doing?" Seeing Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong riding electric bicycles to enter the door, an old man bravely blocked the way with his body.

"Police." Both of them came here in casual clothes, so they took out their police officer IDs and showed them.

The old man frowned: "I heard that now there are people who make fake police officer certificates to deceive people. Are you a liar..."

"Call 110 if you don't believe me." Wang Zhong said, and then said: "We are here to re-survey the site, are you willing to be witnesses?"

The old man took out his mobile phone and was about to call 110. He was taken aback when he heard it: "What?"

"Let's go in and have a look at the scene and see if there is any evidence. You just stand inside and watch, and then you can just sign your name." Wang Zhongyan explained succinctly.

China's criminal case scene inspection witness system requires the investigative agency to invite third-party natural persons to witness the inspection and inspection activities of the crime scene. This is completely different from the American judicial system that often appears in film and television dramas.

The United States adopts the method of police self-certification, stipulates the on-site recording system, and requires the police to self-certify the fairness and standardization of on-site inspections. In contrast, RB and Russia also adopt the on-site inspection witness system, but they are different.

To put it simply, countries with a witness system require that the evidence collection of each case be watched by outsiders, so as to prevent perjury as much as possible. In countries like the United States that do not have a witness system, each police officer is required to restrain himself. Once false testimony occurs, all cases handled by the police officer can be doubted.

Although there are often imperfections in practice, as small policemen, Wang Zhong and Jiang Yuan both follow the norms.

In fact, finding one or two passers-by at random is still not very in line with the spirit of the on-site investigation witness system. Fundamentally speaking, this system requires people who have a certain understanding of the scene, a certain understanding of criminal investigation and are related to the case. For unrelated personnel to be witnesses, it would be even better if they could witness the survey site many times throughout the process.

However, when the public does not understand, witnesses have no financial compensation, the police are too busy, and the judicial system is not demanding, such a requirement is obviously unrealistic. Witnesses who will leak information.

The two old men who are under the retirement age but started to retire early due to the decline of the company are quite good. It is also more compliant than using auxiliary police as witnesses.

The old men at the door may be idle incubating eggs, or they may be full of interest in the murder case in the community. After asking for a while, they reluctantly watched the two young old men enter the scene of the crime together. floor.

Chapter: 43

Wang Zhong took the key from the office, lifted the security belt casually, opened the door and entered, and then locked the door to change clothes. He asked the two retired old men who were under the age to stand in a corner, not allowed to speak, not move, and not allowed to take pictures.

"Where do we start?" Wang Zhong didn't plan to come, and he didn't have the confidence to come for a re-examination, but Jiang Yuan had an idea, so he still came along.

Jiang Yuan looked around and said slowly: "Let's start from the beginning."

Following his voice came the translucent interface that the system slowly unfolded:

Mission: start from scratch

Task content: Conduct repeated investigations on the scene of Xue Ming's case to obtain clues and evidence.

Jiang Yuan stared at the system interface for a few seconds before it disappeared.

"Start from the beginning?" Wang Zhong listened a little silly, then leaned closer to Jiang Yuan, and asked in a low voice: "Is it necessary?"

"Try it." Jiang Yuan said, spread out the equipment, then picked up a glass from the shoe cabinet at the door, soaked some water with a cotton swab, and wiped it gently.

Although the time period of acquaintance, my qualifications are a little deeper. But deep down, Wang Zhong is convinced of Jiang Yuan. For skills such as fingerprints, the gap in strength is too easy to show.

After standing still for a moment, Jiang Yuan's actions made Wang Zhong speechless.

Ordinary surveyors wipe the cup, or in other words, when the surveyors in Ningtai County wipe the cup, they directly use a cotton swab to wipe around the mouth of the cup. Although this method can also wipe out possible DNA, it has never It's all just a shorthand. Or rather, a common practice of incompetence.

Jiang Yuan's rubbing method, but Wang Zhong has only seen it on rare occasions. I saw that Jiang Yuan first dipped the cotton swab in water, and then squeezed it until it was half dry. When wiping, he will not wipe a large area, but choose a position on the mouth of the cup, rub the cotton swab up and down, and wipe it three to four times evenly, trying to wipe the DNA that may exist on it.

After wiping one point, Jiang Yuan wiped again at a certain point after a period of time. After several times, the DNA extraction of a cup was completed.

Doing so will naturally take more time than swiping around in a circle, but the probability of extracting DNA is also much higher.

Although Wang Zhong had never tried Jiang Yuan's method of swabbing DNA before, but based on the details Jiang Yuan showed, Wang Zhong knew that Jiang Yuan's rank was really higher than the team's current survey.

For example, a cotton swab that is semi-dry but not wet transfers DNA more easily than a cotton swab that is dry rubbed, and it is also easier to transfer DNA than a cotton swab that is saturated with water. The so-called don't mix with mud, don't get wet.

Using the way northerners understand it as an example, a cotton swab is like a bath towel. If you rub your dry skin with a dry bath towel, you won't get much off the skin, and a bath towel soaked in water will only slip back and forth. If you can't remove much dirt by rubbing, you have to use a half-dry towel to rub the skin that is half-dry and not wet. The effect is the best, and the most things can be rubbed away.

To use the way non-northern people understand it as an example, a cotton swab is like a tongue. If you wipe your tongue dry to lick the dry skin, you won't be able to lick much. The effect of moistening the tongue with water is not good. The half-dry tongue must lick the half-dry skin for the best effect and the best state of friction.

Similarly, Jiang Yuan's method of wiping at one point is more effective than the method of wiping around a circle. Still using the way northerners understand it as an example, this is like rubbing at fixed points with a scrub towel, and using a scrub towel to pull a big saw, and the rubbed things cannot be counted. Using the way of understanding of non-northern people as an example, licking a spot is more effective than licking all over the place.

Jiang Yuan really has something, so Wang Zhong stopped talking, and simply followed Jiang Yuan to help him.

After working in the trace inspection position of the Criminal Division Squadron for several years, Wang Zhong has long understood that there are some things that you understand when you see them, or even easy to understand, but it doesn't mean that you can think of them, and it doesn't mean that you can think of them. If you use it correctly, it doesn't mean that you use it well, and if you use it well, it doesn't mean that you use it quickly.

Using a way that anyone who has participated in nine-year compulsory education can understand as an example, there are a total of five formulas in Eulerian geometry, and a total of one hundred and ten formulas in Newton's three laws. Normal people can understand it after listening to the class, but they may not be able to understand it when they see the questions. No matter which formula you use, you may not use it right if you think about it. If you use it right, you may not use it well, and if you use it well, you may not use it quickly.

Wang Zhong also appeared on the scene all the year round to do surveys. Seeing that Jiang Yuan could do it meticulously, quickly, and quickly, he was too surprised. Fortunately, when he was doing fingerprints, he was used to helping Jiang Yuan. Once he was acquainted with him, he gradually became smoother. He even felt quite comfortable doing it.

After wiping the cup, wipe the glass, after wiping the glass, wipe the mirror, after wiping the light, rub the rough one, after the thick one, wipe the thin one, after wiping the thin one, wipe the soft one, after wipe the soft one, wipe the hard one...

Survey work, from a large perspective, is of all kinds, but from a detailed perspective, it is all small and trivial matters.

The police say that the detection of the case is based on the accumulation of resources, which can be reflected during the investigation period.

Just like wiping DNA and fingerprints, laymen often think that as long as criminal suspects leave DNA or fingerprints at the scene, they will be found by on-site investigators, but in fact, there are no advanced instruments in the world that can accurately detect All fingerprints and DNA within a certain range

Like fingerprints, first of all, there are three types: dominant, plastic and recessive. The former two can be seen, while the latter, as the name suggests, requires certain means to see. And these methods also adopt different schemes according to the different materials of the location where the fingerprint is located. Or powder, or pipe, or smoke, or chemical, or different chemical, or different chemical...

In view of this, in order to obtain a fingerprint, the surveyor or trace inspection personnel first need to judge where there may be fingerprints, and then observe. The observation method can be carried out by naked eyes with the help of light or angle, or by breathing on a smooth surface. Observe with a magnifying glass or ultraviolet light. After the location of the fingerprint is determined, the fingerprint is extracted by brushing powder, or using iodine smoke or silver nitrate or other reagents for chemical extraction.

Chapter: 44

Therefore, if a spider-man really climbed over the ceiling, there is a high probability that the person doing the on-site survey will not find the fingerprints on the ceiling.

DNA is as much trouble as fingerprints.

After all, fingerprints can be seen. DNA can be seen sometimes, but sometimes it can only be guessed.

It is common to extract DNA from the victim's toothbrush. Of course, the police who do the extraction can't see anything. They just guess that there is a high probability of DNA on the toothbrush.

Switching to items with less high probability, such as shirts, bed sheets and other underwear, or water glasses, porcelain bowls and other items, whether there is DNA on them is completely guesswork.

The ability to do field surveys is clearly reflected at this time. Some surveys think from the perspective of a criminal suspect, guessing the other party's actions, so as to find possible clues, and paint in an orderly manner; Pack it up, or just cut out a few pieces, regardless of whether it is really useful...

However, in general, the more people involved in the investigation, the more capable they are, and the more time and energy they invest, the higher the probability of finding clues and evidence.

In Wang Zhong's opinion, Jiang Yuan's operation method is very strong, but he thinks it is more appropriate during the murder case. If it is a theft case, it is almost impossible to operate like Jiang Yuan's. The cost of making a tube of DNA is 100 yuan less for reagents alone, and the number of times that can be done per unit time is even more limited.

"Let's clean the bathroom again." Jiang Yuan cleaned up the bedroom, and the sky was already dark.

Wang Zhongting patted his head, pointed to a large box of evidence bags, and said: "Why don't you come back tomorrow, there are hundreds of copies of these, and give them all to the laboratory, they will all go crazy."

Jiang Yuan explained: "There are more than half of them. It is estimated that no DNA can be mentioned, and no reagents will be used. The murderer made it too clean. Look in the bedroom, the fingerprints in many places have been wiped clean. Then In addition to the fact that the victim bleeds so much, the murderer must have spent a lot of time in the bathroom, washing rags, maybe even taking a shower and washing clothes. The probability of DNA being mentioned in the bathroom is very high."

"Xiao Hu and the others also guessed the same way, and they all checked carefully." Wang Zhong said.

"The rubbing is still too rough." When Jiang Yuan was dealing with the corpse, he had paid attention to the operations of Xiao Hu and others, so he didn't have anything to taboo at this time.

"Oh... well, I will accompany you to work overtime today." Wang Zhong didn't think so before, but now he also began to realize that the level of the few surveyors in the team is indeed a bit random, just like doing fingerprints by himself. Like technology, the best evaluation is probably "usable".

And in the past few hours, those missing fingerprints that Jiang Yuan found may not be able to solve the case, but it has proved that he and Lao Yan's "useability" is insufficient.

"That..." The old man at the door couldn't stay still, and said, "We have to go home for dinner."

"Just sign and go back." Wang Zhong actually didn't expect the old man to stay for long. Witnesses are all like this, either they simply don't want to get involved, or they just walk around and talk, or they just have no patience.

Wang Zhong also had no intention of educating others, so he directly took the on-site inspection transcripts, turned to the signed page, asked the two to write their names, opened the door and let them out, only telling: "What you saw and heard today, it can only be said when asked by the court or relevant departments, and it cannot be leaked out at ordinary times, otherwise it will bear criminal responsibility."

When the two old men went out, they nodded impatiently and said, "I know."

Wang Zhong nodded as usual, closed the door and went back to the house, continuing to help Jiang Yuan wipe DNA and fingerprints.

The lighting in the bathroom is not good, and it is more difficult to wipe.

Jiang Yuan rubbed very hard.

Crime scene investigation LV4 not only improves his operational ability, but also his cognitive level.

And all kinds of crime theories actually explain a truth, the longer the criminal stays at the crime scene, the more things he does, the more flaws he exposes.

Like the murderer this time, he seemed to have cleaned up the crime scene carefully, and even took a bath for himself calmly, but as far as Jiang Yuan understood, this only showed the murderer's amateurism and arrogance.

The current DNA technology can even identify identity information from sweat. It is absolutely impossible to clean the bathroom to a flawless state in a short period of time. If it is really a little more professional, at least the bathroom should be covered with plastic, and the plastic will be taken away, buried or incinerated, and the leaked physical evidence will be much less.

However, in that case, there will be marks of tape or sticky on the site...

In fact, Jiang Yuan is not sure where the murderer's DNA can be wiped. He is young, physically strong, and crazy.

Wipe...

Chapter: 45

Jiang Yuan is still in the novice excitement period. He has just obtained the crime scene investigation LV4 skill, and the scene he has actually investigated is the one in front of him. Naturally, try and practice to your heart's content.

Among the currently surveyed skills, skill is of course very important, and meticulousness is essential. On the other hand, physical strength, energy and concentration are the keys to a higher level. It's as if Xue Huaiyi fell out of favor with Wu Zetian, because his experience and skills have improved, but is he disgusted instead? Obviously not. In the same way, the Zhang brothers will not fall out of favor because they are young and reckless and impulsive.

Of the above, what Wang Zhong lacked was not one or two. However, although he was a little tired, he was driven by Jiang Yuan and tried his best to support him.

Jiang Yuan especially wiped the ceiling and corners of the bathroom carefully.

As time went on, he became more careful and confident in his actions.

This house does not have dry and wet separation, but the bathroom area is small. When taking a shower, the probability of water splashing on the wall and ceiling is not low, and it is impossible to clean it thoroughly in a short time. The only problem is whether the DNA can be wiped. The bloodstains were probably washed away or destroyed, but this person is probably an amateur in washing away all traces of DNA.

Ordinary people, unplanned killings, normally don't learn related skills in advance. Even if you learn, you don't necessarily have to work hard, and you don't necessarily have to be proficient in learning, so there is a high probability of being picked up by the police who are hardworking, serious and proficient.

Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong dragged their bags back to the police station and went straight to the DNA laboratory.

Nowadays, there are more and more cases where DNA is used to directly solve crimes, and the investment of the police station in DNA laboratories is also increasing. Even Ningtai, a poor county, has built a DNA laboratory under the guidance of various subsidies and policies and in accordance with the standards given by the ministries and commissions.

This is also the gold-swallowing beast unit of the police station, a laboratory of three people in total, devouring more than 10% of the police station's funds every year, and it will increase from time to time.

However, unlike Wang Zhong's expectations, the DNA laboratory just silently accepted the piles of physical evidence bags and did not raise any objections.

They didn't even carefully examine and criticize the biological samples sent by Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong.

"The old money from DNA, why has it become easier to talk about?" Wang Zhong followed Jiang Yuan directly to the forensic office, and began to mutter.

In the forensic office, Wu Jun didn't go home either. Like most criminal police officers, he sat in the office and sorted out the materials he had made during the day. Standing up and rubbing his eyes, Wu Jun said slowly, "In the afternoon, the captain still lost his temper. The problem now is that there is no clue. The DNA laboratory is eager for you to send over the test materials so that you don't have nothing to do."

Jiang Yuan was delighted to hear it: "Does it count as having nothing to do if you don't work at night?"

"The captain didn't go home." Wu Jun said: "If they can't find anything, they will go to re-examine themselves."

Wang Zhong looked at Jiang Yuan, clicked his tongue twice, and said, "It's useless for them to go. As far as their current level of investigation is concerned, I'm not saying that ordinary cases are fine..."

Wu Jun interrupted Wang Zhong: "Do you think they don't know?"

"Uh..." Wang Zhong was speechless and went back to his office silently.

Jiang Yuan was quite satisfied, he tidied up and spread out the camp bed in the office.

Until the noise, the policemen who had been staying up all night started to quarrel.

"One person was found in the DNA comparison, and Team Liu took him there." Wang Zhong was the first to rush into the office, with secretions still hanging from the corners of his eyes.

"Who is better?" Jiang Yuan got up from the camp bed, took a sip of water, took the glass of water with his hand, and washed his face before he felt more awake.

Wang Zhong laughed twice and said, "It seems that you were quite confident yesterday."

"They wiped it first." Jiang Yuan replied very naturally. For on-site investigation, it is definitely an advantage to do it first. If you do it carefully enough, maybe there will be no one behind you.

Furthermore, whether the DNA can be wiped, or even detected, is a matter of probability.

When the DNA technology first came out, criminals didn't understand that the blood of the big beach was flowing on the scene, the big lumps of semen fell on the ground, and a lot of hair was left on the bed, so the success rate was naturally high. Nowadays, there are fewer and fewer criminals who are purely stupid, and it is not so easy to rely on "trace amounts" of DNA for testing.

Furthermore, the testing in the DNA laboratory is also quite particular, and the technology in Ningtai County is far from reassuring.

Wang Zhong smiled proudly: "Don't be modest, we wiped it out."

Wu Jun looked at Wang Zhong: "We?"

"I was with you all day yesterday... Oh, I'm just happy." Wang Zhong said with a heavy sigh, "You don't know, the feeling yesterday is really different from today's feeling. Yesterday is like using a day's work. Time to make up for the winter vacation homework. Today is like the kind where the teacher strictly checks the winter vacation homework, and the rewards and punishments are huge!"

Jiang Yuan is also very cool, and his cool is not only because he won the competition, but also because the newly acquired skills reflect the value. Thinking about the opportunity to acquire various skills in the future, I couldn't help but drink a glass of water, and then asked: "Where did the test materials be collected? The suspect has a criminal record?"

The data of DNA is much less than that of fingerprints, and the comparison can be done directly in the library, which means that there is a high probability that it has a criminal record.

Wang Zhong didn't hold back anymore, and said: "I was arrested once for picking quarrels and provoking trouble. The material for the comparison was taken from the cracks in the wall of the bathroom toilet. I think it should be the murderer. "

"What's the relationship with the victim?" Wu Jun asked.

Wang Zhongdao: "On the surface, it doesn't matter, but this is the problem."

"Well, it's okay, it's impossible to take a bath in someone else's bathroom." Wu Jun also leaned towards Wang Zhong's judgment. The bathroom was obviously cleaned and disinfected by the murderer. Most of the samples extracted before could not detect DNA. Now the re-inspection finally found one. If it is a coincidence, Wu Jun does not believe it. There are not so many coincidences in real cases, but flaws are more likely to be revealed.

"He hasn't been caught yet?" Jiang Yuan was a little worried about the arrest.

Wang Zhongdao: "Captain Liu is an experienced arrester. As long as the murderer doesn't escape early, he can be arrested."

"I won't run away. If you are willing to run, so many concealments are not in vain." Wu Jun's guess is guesswork, but he is actually not convinced about it.

But within the Ningtai County Bureau, Wu Jun was not the only one who did not fail.

The most worrying one is Huang Qiangmin, the captain of the criminal police team.

On the one hand, he expected good news from Captain Liu. On the other hand, he was afraid that his hopes would fail, so he had to urge other policemen with various clues to continue working. This approach made him feel divided, but his experience told him that any slack within 72 hours of gold is not allowed.

However, on the bright side, it is always a great thing to have important clues, and it is much better than yesterday's anxiety like a headless chicken.

Huang Qiangmin couldn't sit still in the office anymore, so he went out for a stroll, from the first floor to the second floor, all the way to the fourth floor, and came to the forensic office.

Several people in the office looked relaxed at first, but when they saw Huang Qiangmin coming in, their expressions suddenly tightened.

"You do what you do, I just take a look." Huang Qiangmin was inexplicably embarrassed, pretended to smile, and then asked naturally concerned: "How is work? Are you tired after staying up all night?"

He didn't think much about it, but when he spoke, his smile was directed at Jiang Yuan.

"A little tired, the camp bed is a little small." Jiang Yuan said something. People with a system must be willful after all.

Captain Huang was stunned for a while. He has been condolences to the masses for so many years, and the answers he gets are usually official answers such as "not tired". Unknowingly got up again, and said kindly: "It is said that young people are different now, and it is true that they speak differently from us old men. Well, you are also tall, and you must be tired sleeping on such a small camp bed... I will think about it later. Method....."

"Yesterday, I went to re-survey with Jiang Yuan..." Comrade Wang Zhong poked his head over.

There were only two traces in the team, and Captain Huang was familiar with them. Therefore, Captain Huang smiled at Wang Zhong with soothing eyes. When the criminal was 33.3 degrees, he said: "Good job."

Comrade Wang Zhong's heart twitched violently, as if he was a villain who had just been arrested after seventeen years of exile.

"No, I can't live in the dormitory for a while. The dormitory in the bureau is quite tight. I guess there is no way to do it in a single room. I will find a way to make a bed. You can use it for lunch breaks..." When Team Huang looked back at Jiang Yuan, The eyes are gentle, and the curvature of the corners of the mouth is also 66.6 degrees.

"Not for now." Jiang Yuan didn't quite understand the tension of the beds in the police station, but he really didn't need them either. Jiangcun community is not very far away, he is too lazy to go home, not unable to go home.

Wang Zhong blinked his eyes regretfully for a long time. His family is not from Ningtai County, but he has been working for so long, and he didn't even get a dormitory in the bureau.

Wu Jun watched from the side, showing a smile of understanding.

He has been in the county bureau for 20 or 30 years, and he understands the ecological model in front of him very well. In one sentence, it is drought, drought, and waterlogging.

In fact, the resources of the county bureau are also limited, and the human resources are also limited. Because, in order to retain talents, they are willing to pay more resources than prefectural and municipal bureaus, and in order to save this part of resources, it is inevitable to have a lot of dry land.
