

National Forensic Doctor

Chapter: 51

Jiang Yuan looked at the case directly on the computer, and after listening to Wang Zhong's words, he asked, "Since it's a big case, someone else should have checked the fingerprints, right?"

"Look at Team Shi from the Fingerprint Post of the Provincial Department." Knowing that Jiang Yuan didn't know anyone, Wang Zhong continued, "Team Shi's real name is Shi Gang, and he's fifty years old this year, so he's quite experienced in fingerprint inspection. However, I guess Team Shi didn't spend much time on this case, as there were several big cases in the province that year, and they were shelved afterwards."

"It's just millions of property losses, and the fingerprints are crippled, so they weren't selected for the fingerprint battle?" Wu Jun gave a summary.

Wang Zhong nodded.

The resources of the police force will always be limited. Even if the annual funding can be increased, we can find ways to raise some, but unless it is a major case, ordinary cases will always be troubled by various funding and resource problems.

It's like a fingerprint battle. If it costs money, a simple battle can cost a few dollars, but even if all the fingerprint experts in the province are drawn out to use as livestock, the land that can be cultivated is limited.

Moreover, to a certain extent, major cases are the ones that consume the most funds and resources, and it is precisely these cases that make ordinary cases even more difficult.

Human resources are no exception.

After listening to the conversation between the two, Jiang Yuan said with some uncertainty: "Even if the experts don't look at it very seriously, as long as they have seen it, the probability of me winning the comparison is not high."

Wang Zhong hurriedly said, "Here I have an idea."

"oh?"

"Experts always need more than 8 feature points to compare fingerprints. If we only compare six or seven, and then compare within the range of nearby villagers collected, we may be able to find the suspect."

This is also an impossible solution. If the criminal suspect is an ordinary villager, as long as he finds someone and defrauds them in a targeted manner, the result may be obtained.

Jiang Yuan asked: "Didn't you try this method back then?"

"I've tried it." Wang Zhong said shyly, "The fingerprints are seriously damaged, and there are not many feature points that can be extracted. There are several promising fingerprints. Finally, compare the feature points, and all the obtained ones are excluded. Conclusion. We can't talk about the stone team in the province. If there are less than 8 characteristic points, they won't give us a half-baked conclusion if they don't identify the same."

Face-to-face fingerprinting is different from uniformly submitting fingerprints, participating in fingerprint battles, etc. The latter must be operated according to norms or rules. It is impossible for a fingerprint expert from an outside unit to do this kind of special operation.

However, in the same way, if Jiang Yuan wants to do this special operation, he also needs the deeper participation of other colleagues.

Jiang Yuan didn't say a word, downloaded the fingerprint of the original case, and then looked at it silently.

He first marked it in the normal way, and after running several times, he couldn't find the same fingerprint, which means that there is very little room for missing.

"In this case, we have to talk to the policeman in charge of this case. If we can only compare according to six or seven feature points, then fingerprints can't be used as evidence, and he has to run the case." Jiang Yuan said He paused again, and said: "Besides, if you search according to the six characteristic points, you may indeed find the wrong person. Of course, you may not be able to match the six characteristic points..."

Hearing what Jiang Yuan said, Wang Zhong felt dizzy for a while, and couldn't help asking: "Did I come up with a bad idea?"

Wu Jun said calmly from the side: "You are assuming that Jiang Yuan can compete."

"Yes, yes, that's what I thought at the time." Wang Zhong was relieved.

Wu Jun chuckled: "You are setting Jiang Yuan on fire."

"Eh, I didn't, I didn't, I really didn't think so..." Wang Zhong quickly explained.

"Who is in charge of this case?" Wu Jun asked again.

"It's Team Wei... the deputy captain of Team Six, Wei Zhenguo." Wang Zhong said.

Wu Jun let out an "oh" and said, "That's okay, old Wei is easy to bully... he's easy to talk to, let's make an appointment to have a chat."

"Then let the police dog squadron eat fried rice." Jiang Yuan felt that Luo Nawei's place was convenient, big, with a kitchen, and he could pet dogs.

Police Dog Squadron.

Chapter: 52

When Da Zhuang saw Jiang Yuan, he was too lazy to shout, so he raised his head as a greeting.

If the dog doesn't take the initiative, Jiang Yuan can take the initiative, take a step forward, and first call: "Captain Li, touch the dog."

Li Li, who was hiding in the kitchen and swiping her mobile phone, didn't even look up, and shouted, "Da Zhuang, touch me."

Da Zhuang grinned, he didn't know what he was muttering, but he still lowered his head.

Jiang Yuan rubbed hard for a while.

The dogs brought by the female police officers are generally clean and hygienic, and their fur feels more comfortable to the touch.

Having had enough, Jiang Yuan went into the kitchen to fry rice again, cracked open the eggs, and explained to Li Li: "Yan Ge and Wang Zhong, who did the trace inspection, are here, and Team Wei from the Sixth Squadron is also here."

"I thought you'd be willing to do it. All right, they'll be fine if they don't pet the dog." Not only was Li Li not unhappy, but a little happy instead. As a member of the police force, her police dog squadron has been marginalized for a long time. Usually, no one comes here. It is really quiet to say it is quiet, and it is really boring to say it is boring.

After a while, Jiang Yuan's fried rice was ready, and Wu Jun and Wang Zhong stepped over to order it.

After a while, a dark-faced old policeman walked in from the other side of the courtyard wall, and before he could speak, Da Zhuang barked.

"This dog..." The old policeman cursed with a smile, then looked over and waved to everyone.

"Old Wei." Wu Jun also greeted, waited for someone to walk in, and then introduced to Jiang Yuan: "Wei team is the vice-captain of our sixth team, a veteran..."

"The vice-captain just sounds nice, but it's useless. It's okay to call you Old Wei, or Wei Zhenguo." Wei Zhenguo's face is dark when he looks at it from a distance, and his face is wrinkled when he looks at it up close. His chin is still a bit fleshy. Looks fattening.

"Captain Wei." Jiang Yuan stood up politely.

In the county bureau, it is usually customary to give the title of deputy team to the older police officers. There is no real power, no leadership position, and the salary is not even 10 cents more, which is nice.

"Old Wei is fine. I've heard people say the name of Forensic Doctor Jiang every day." Wei Zhenguo said politely, and then said, "Does Forensic Jiang want to investigate the arson case in the greenhouse in Wenxiang?"

Wang Zhong hurriedly said: "I just call Team Wei to take a look."

"Do you have a clue?" Wei Zhengguo looked at Jiang Yuan with half-closed eyes. He has been there for half his life, and he already knows the level of the technicians in the bureau. On the other hand, Jiang Yuan, although he is a newcomer, has performed brilliantly in two consecutive cases, which made Wei Zhengguo feel a little interesting.

Wang Zhong recounted what was discussed yesterday.

Wei Zhengguo's expression became more serious, and he couldn't help pondering.

"What do you think?" Jiang Yuan asked after waiting for a while.

"I understand your thinking. It is to delineate a criminal suspect. Then, I will arrest him and cheat him again to see if he can confess?" Wei Zhengguo concluded.

Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong looked at each other and nodded.

"It's not easy." Wei Zhengguo smiled, but shook his head, and said, "You're right, the case is likely to be committed by people near the place where the crime took place, and we took fingerprints back then. Once again, even if you are not sure, if you find a suspect to come out, there is still a high probability of fraud."

Jiang Yuan and Wang Zhong nodded again.

"We did it back then, but we couldn't find it." Wei Zhengguo gave the answer in a straightforward manner.

The two were taken aback, and Wang Zhong couldn't help but said, "I didn't see it. It wasn't in the records either..."

"You guys are doing this today, and when you're done, can you make a record?" Wei Zhengguo said very calmly.

"Hey... this... hey!" Wang Zhong's disappointment was beyond words. This plan was a strategy he had thought about for a long time, but he didn't expect that this road had already been passed, and it proved to be unworkable.

Wu Jun looked at Wei Zhengguo at this time, and said, "Captain Wei, you are an old investigator, if you have any ideas, just say them."

Chapter: 53

As far as Wu Jun knew about criminal policemen, veteran criminal policemen like Wei Zhenguo, not to mention full of wit and tricks, definitely had quite a lot of methods to solve cases accumulated over the years.

Moreover, Wei Zhenguo must have thought about this arson case, otherwise, he would have just rejected it on the phone, why bother to come to the police dog squadron to meet him. Da Zhuang didn't give him a handjob.

Wei Zhenguo nodded Wu Jun with his hand, and laughed: "Old Wu is more thoughtful, I do have an idea, I think I can try it."

"You say."

"Criminals in arson cases generally don't only commit one case. As far as I understand, people who engage in such tricks are addicted. Some people, even if they don't want to commit crimes in their minds, they just start a fire." He may not be able to control where and how it burns." Wei Zhenguo paused at this point, waited for a few people to sort out their thoughts, and then said: "Five years ago, the person responsible for the arson case of a greenhouse At that time, I sorted out a few surrounding cases involving ignition and burning, thinking about whether they could be combined, but the conditions were not very good..."

Wu Jun interrupted and asked, "A case that was not brought up five years ago can be brought together now?"

"At that time, I wanted to join the case. I thought that after the merger, I could find experts in the province to compare fingerprints. If Jiang Yuan could directly compare fingerprints, he could arrest people first and then consider joining the case." Wei Zhenguo solemnly The matter said: "Before I came, I checked again. Before the Wenxiang arson case, there were three cases in the surrounding area, all of which were small cases. Incomplete fingerprints, some were not collected or not collected. None of them matched people. But I think these cases have something in common..."

Wei Zhenguo snapped his fingers and said: "First of all, Wenxiang is a remote place, few outsiders go there, and the crime scenes are all outside the towns, so it is likely that the locals did it, at least someone who is familiar with the place. Secondly, Wenxiang The number of arson cases and surrounding arson cases, four in three years, I think, is significantly higher than other townships in our county. Third, after the arson case in Wenxiang, there was no arson case in the local area. Running away, this can also explain why the platoon can't find anyone."

"Then, let's solve other small arson cases, and see if it can be involved in the Wenxiang arson case?" Jiang Yuan translated Wei Zhengguo's strategy.

Wei Zhengguo nodded, and said, "My plan is actually similar to Xiao Wang's. It's all about sidestepping and turning around from the side. However, it's actually easier for us to investigate small cases. Because there are cases, arrest and interrogation are all good. Go through the procedure. After arresting people, we have a small case to hold it, and it is easier to try things. There is another one, in case I make a wrong judgment, at least the case will be solved, right? "

Several people seemed much more relaxed, and they all nodded and said yes.

In fact, Wei Zhengguo's plan is more than one level superior to Wang Zhong's.

The strategy of the old criminal policeman is indeed more mature.

"Let's eat fried rice first, and when we're done, go back and look at the case." Jiang Yuan brought fried rice to everyone in high spirits.

Wei Zhengguo took a bowl of fried rice, stared at the orange-yellow rice grains, and said in a daze, "It's quite rare to invite someone to eat this."

Jiang Yuan first recorded the several cases that Wei Zhengguo mentioned on paper, and then searched for them one by one on the computer.

As Wei Zhengguo said, of the three cases in total, one involved forest land, which was serious arson, but no fingerprints were recorded. Although the fingerprints of the other two were recorded, one burned a tractor that was about to be scrapped, and the other burned an old house that no one lived in.

The fingerprints found by the latter two at the scene are very stretchy, not to mention incomplete, and deformed.

Jiang Yuan reckoned that the policemen from the local police station who did the on-site investigation at that time did not consider the problem of fingerprints going too far, so they just used powder and tape to stick it...

The fingerprints were sent to the trace inspection of the Criminal Division Brigade, not to mention whether they were taken seriously, but based on Jiang Yuan's accurate judgment of the strength of Lao Yan and others, they couldn't handle such fingerprints.

Of course, there is nothing to blame for this. Just like most ordinary people can't get into key universities, key middle schools, or key primary schools, their parents are not industry leaders, their families are not famous, they can't become elites in their fields, and they don't have the luck to lie down and hang out. ...

The county bureau's requirements for technical police officers must not be at the level of TV dramas.

Fingerprints that do not reach the level of major cases are not valued by experts.

Cases with a value of only a few thousand yuan can only be dealt with conventionally.

However, it would be different if these three cases were involved in the arson case in front of the greenhouse.

"Sit down." Jiang Yuan returned to the office. Wei Zhenguo also followed.

As a criminal policeman, he is also a very busy person, but he still wants to see Jiang Yuan's level - trace inspection is the most familiar technical part of ordinary policemen, and he can basically check the fingerprints on the fingerprint card every day. it.

Jiang Yuan sat up straight, ready to take a good look at these fingerprints.

He first downloaded the fingerprints of the tractor burning case, then stared at the image, lost in thought.

When this fingerprint caught his eyes, Jiang Yuan felt familiar.

Chapter: 54

Jiang Yuan made the fingerprints of the greenhouse arson case over and over again for a week. Now when he saw the newly downloaded fingerprints, a picture appeared in his mind.

The pictures are not the same, but there is a certain degree of similarity. Considering factors such as the deformation of the fingerprints and the sun exposure, Wei Zhenguo said earlier, it is really possible.

Both have their own flaws. It may be difficult to prove that they are the same fingerprint. Merging two fingerprints into one fingerprint is also a very difficult operation.

However, compared with the Wenxiang arson case, in the tractor burning case, three fingerprints were collected at the fire site, and the completeness is stronger than that of the Wenxiang case.

Jiang Yuan shook his head, rubbed his fingers again, picked up the mouse, and skillfully dragged the fingerprint into Photoshop.

Color scale, adjust contrast, filter background...

Jiang Yuan is doing these things now, like killing fish for selling fish, shelling for selling abalone, and stripping for laughing, which is dizzying.

Wei Zhenguo has also seen trace inspectors do fingerprint matching before, the kind of difficult, hesitant action, it is easy to make people think that the fish seller is selling abalone, the abalone seller is selling smile, and the laughing seller is killing fish...

"This fingerprint is promising." Jiang Yuan quickly marked 10 feature points, and then threw them for automatic matching.

A row of 20 fingerprints was released, Jiang Yuan only looked at a few, and then stopped.

He put the two fingerprints on the same screen, made a gesture of tilting his hand to the left, and said slowly: "There is a problem with the direction, but basically the same can be identified."

"Hey, did you win the competition?" Xiao Wang jumped over to look at it first.

"This case of burning the tractor should have won the competition." Jiang Yuan took another look, and his heart felt much better in an instant.

The fingerprints of the greenhouse arson case were compared for a long time, but they failed to match. Jiang Yuan once thought that the corresponding fingerprints were not included in the fingerprint database.

But today's case tore through layers of veil in an instant.

Compared to the case of burning tractors, it is possible to solve a series of cases.

Wei Zhenguo let out a "hiss", and leaned over to look at it, muttering, "So fast..."

He wanted to come over to see how Jiang Yuan made his fingerprints, but he didn't expect that in just a short while, he could see that Jiang Yuan had directly compared his fingerprints—he also found the relevant fingerprints from someone familiar with Qinghe City. I have seen the trace inspection, but it is obvious that the trace inspection in the city is at least not easy to compare fingerprints of this level.

"Do you have any previous convictions for arson?" Wu Jun was also a little curious, wanting to see if the case was really committed by the same person as Wei Zhenguo said.

Jiang Yuan clicked on the detailed information, but shook his head and said, "No. It was the fingerprint collected by the local police station when reporting the loss of his ID card. Later, he was caught stealing with this fingerprint..."

Each police station has a task of collecting fingerprints, which is also a specific item reflected in the "combat power ranking list" of the police station and the county bureau. When necessary, no matter what business you are here for, I will ask you to collect fingerprints first.

Wei Zhenguo nodded lightly, took out his mobile phone, and sent a message while saying, "I'm going to meet this...Jiang Forensic Doctor, thank you for your hard work."

He is an old criminal police officer. Say hello to the captain of the team, and he can go into battle with two people.

While speaking, Wei Zhenguo had already walked to the door, waved his hand, and went out quickly.

Wang Zhong watched Wei Zhenguo leave, his expression suddenly became serious: "Jiang Yuan, Team Wei seems to like you quite a bit."

Jiang Yuan: "How can you tell?"

"Wei team blows beard and stares at other people."

"in this way....."

"Wei team can deal with this person." Wang Zhong sighed and said, "Jiang Yuan, you should seize the opportunity."

"What's the point?" Jiang Yuan looked at Wang Zhong in confusion.

Wang Zhong sighed deeply again: "Captain Wei...Captain Wei's daughter is so beautiful."

Wei Zhenguo went out in the afternoon, and returned the next morning with heavier eye bags and deeper wrinkles.

The one he brought back with him was a young man less than 20 years old, short and thin, with a nonchalant expression, only his eyes rolled quickly.

As soon as the formalities were completed, Wei Zhenguo immediately led people into the interrogation room.

The criminal police team's interrogation room is located on the first floor, just a small room of thirty to forty square meters.

There are iron bars in the middle of the room, separated by iron doors and iron locks. The half of the room next to the iron railing door is the interrogation area, where desks, computers and chairs are placed. And one end inside is the suspect restricted area, with only a single interrogation chair.

The elegant name of the interrogation chair in the industry is "tiger stool". The chair is made of all steel, and the lower end is fixed on the ground. The legs of the chair are equipped with ankle rings that just wrap around the suspect's ankles. The armrests are equipped with bracelets that wrap around the suspect's wrist. The backrest is hung with a police rope to tie the suspect's body on the chair.

This set of restraints not only prevents the suspect from violently injuring others, but also prevents him from harming himself.

For the police force, any injury in the interrogation room for any reason needs to be treated with caution, and it cannot be explained by a simple sentence or two.

"Open." Wei Zhenguo supported the criminal suspect with his hands, motioning for his colleagues to open the door.

Click.

The iron locked iron door opened.

Wei Zhenguo entered with the suspect, and signaled his colleagues to close the door.

Click.

The iron gate is closed with an iron lock.

After two beeps, the indifference on the suspect's face disappeared quietly.

Wei Zhenguo then pointed to the tiger stool and said, "Sit in."

The suspect swallowed: "Why? What crime have I committed?"

"Stop talking." Wei Zhenguo frowned, he could hold a mutton skewer without falling to the ground, and this time he was not used to the other party, and together with a colleague, he easily restrained him into the interrogation chair.

There were a few more "clicks", the lock was fully closed, and the suspect's brows could not help but frown, as if he could hold a cotton swab.

Click.

Kaka.

Wei Zhenguo and his colleagues opened the iron door and went out, closed the door, and sat on the office chairs opposite.

The walls of the interrogation room were extremely thick and sound-absorbing. After closing the outer door, the entire room was completely silent.

Disturbing silence.

Even those who have entered the interrogation room will still be depressed when they enter again.

Wei Zhenguo sullenly asked his colleague to ask first.

After the routine name and age, seeing the suspect's mood stabilized, Wei Zhenguo said darkly, "Lu Xin, do you know how we caught you?"

"I...you arrested the wrong person." Lu Xin stiffened her neck.

"People leave traces, and geese leave their voices. Now that technology is so advanced, what did you do, we really don't know?" Wei Zhenguo raised his voice and said, "I can send you in without giving a confession. You don't confess, the sentence will be longer."