

Chapter 32 Those Days

Hilda's funeral was held by Tracy alone.

During this period of time, Raymond tried more than once to get Hilda's body back but was stopped by Tracy every time.

Tracy alone was not able to handle Raymond so she went to visit his grandpa and told him what happened to Hilda and that she was going to take revenge on Raymond. Raymond's grandpa just sighed and told Tracy to hold a peaceful funeral for Hilda. As for Raymond, he would take care of him.

Since his grandpa promised, Tracy was not afraid of Raymond anymore. It was not surprising that since she visited his grandpa, Raymond hadn't come to cause trouble anymore.

At this time, Raymond was standing in his grandpa's study and asked with red eyes, "You know about everything?"

His grandpa sighed, "Yes."

"Then why didn't you tell me about that?"

"You should ask this question to yourself. How many times I have told you to keep an eye on the Miller family? But what did you say then? You were being so stubborn!"

That's right. His grandpa warned him several times but he didn't listen and investigate.

Mr. Morris senior thought of Hilda and felt pity for her, "I was about to tell you the truth back then but before that, I went to the hospital to visit Hilda."

Raymond immediately raised her head up and asked, "What did she say?"

"Hilda said that she was happy to see you being happy with Karen and she didn't want to bother your life. She said it was a big deal and it was just that you didn't love her anymore," Mr. Morris said with sympathy when he thought of Hilda's smile.

"Did she know...that my memory was changed by someone else?" Raymond asked his grandpa with the last hope in his heart.

His grandpa shook his head and said, "She didn't know about this." If she had known about this, how could she think Raymond was happy with Karen?

"Take my advice...Don't cause any trouble for Tracy. She is Hilda's best friend. When she came to see me, I could see tears in her red eyes.

As Raymond walked out of his family house, he received a call from Mark who said Lauren had been calling him these days and it seemed that she had something important to say.

Raymond's eyes turned cold and said to Mark, "Bring the men and the materials and wait for me in the Miller family.

Mark instantly realized that the Miller family was over.

In fact, Mark was confused about why the Miller family dared to call his boss after doing so many terrible things.

Meanwhile, Lauren took a breath of relief in her heart after hanging up the phone.

Since she went to the hospital last time, she had never met Raymond. She was afraid that he might start looking into the matter in those days. She was so scared that Hilda called him several times.

As she was about to give up in desperation, afraid Raymond would never see her, Mark called her and told her that Raymond would go to her family's house, reminding her to make sure all her family members showed up.

"What does Raymond mean? Will...will he propose to you today? Why does he ask all members of our family to be there?"

Hearing her mother's words, Lauren who was anxious just now turned very shy.

Chapter 33 How Karen Died

Raymond didn't come alone.

He was followed by his assistant and a couple of men who seemed to be his bodyguards.

Lauren's parents looked at each other and it was reinforced that Raymond came here to propose to Lauren, otherwise, why did he take so many people with him?

"Raymond, it is great to see you..." Lauren's father looked at Raymond with a silly face as if he was his son-in-law already.

Mike took a careful look at his boss and when he met his cold expression, Mike coughed and said, "Mr. Miller, it sounds a bit rude to call my boss his name. You should call him Mr. Morris."

Lauren's father froze immediately.

Raymond once said they could call him Raymond because he didn't want them to keep distant.

Lauren's mother was also confused and gave Lauren a look.

Lauren was uneasy in her heart and then looked at Raymond carefully, "What happened, Ray? I called you these days but you didn't answer. Did you still think about what Tracy said that day?"

Raymond rested his gaze directly on Lauren.

That pair of dark and sharp eyes were aimed at her.

No emotions in that pair of eyes but endless coldness.

"Raymond?" Restraining her anxiety, Lauren took a deep breath.

"Tell me how Karen Miller died," he opened his mouth.

Raymond's words made Lauren widen her eyes to the extreme, "Didn't you know about this? Why did you ask me? Ray, it was Hilda who wanted Karen's heart so she framed..."

"Your last chance," Raymond interrupted her and said indifferently.

Until now, Lauren realized everything.

Raymond had known the truth.

He had known everything, otherwise, he wouldn't have come to her and asked her so confidently.

Lauren trembled in fear and shook her head, "Ray, don't look at me like that! I am scared..."

"So you are not going to confess? Then I will let someone say for you," Raymond ignored her cry and ordered Mark to bring a man in with a cold voice.

Raymond sat stiffly on the sofa. Until she saw Dave was brought in with his hands tied, she knew she was over.

She had wondered why she couldn't connect with Dave these days. The man would even come to lick her toe if she asked him to. It was very strange when she couldn't connect with him.

"Say it."

Dave was the man among that group of men who brought to insult Hilda.

Dave raised his head and saw Lauren's pale face. He was not a tough guy and could read this was a dangerous situation before him if he didn't say it out.

He said everything, including Karen's death.

"Karen told us to frame another woman but I didn't know why she had taken drugs when she met us so we fooled around... We didn't know how she died in detail but she! Lauren Miller! came to us and gave us a large amount of money, asking us to tell others that Hilda was behind Karen's death..."

"Shut up! Stop saying that!" Lauren went forward to beat Dave.

But he was already taken away by those bodyguards after he revealed the truth.

"Lauren, tell me. Karen is not a suitable match for Hilda. How did you know the heart in her body was from your sister Karen Miller?"
