

Chapter 37 She Is Afraid Of Darkness

It had been two months since Hilda died and during this period of time, Raymond never slept well once. Every night, he slept very early because he wanted to see Hilda in his dream.

He wanted to tell her that he had already regretted it and that he had known about the truth earlier than she had thought. The reason why he pretended to not know was that he was afraid she would hate him more...

But after she died, he had never dreamed of her once.

Raymond leaned on the gravestone and asked in a soft voice, "Hilda, why don't you come to my dream to see me? You hate me, right? Then you should come and beat me. Don't hide from me! I couldn't fall asleep sometimes and I would always think of you at midnight when I woke up in fear. I almost forget your face..."

"Hilda, If I go to die, will you be alive?"

Raymond was so tired that he wanted to fall asleep immediately. If he couldn't fall asleep, then he could not see his dear Hilda even if she wanted to see him in his dream.

But his brain was very sober and couldn't sleep.

He touched Hilda's picture and said, "Please don't be angry with me... I...I will try my best not to bother you. If I couldn't control myself, I would come without letting you notice. I will hide from you... please don't think I am bothering you."

Raymond accompanied Hilda in front of her grave for three days and nights!

During the last three days, he had no sleep and no rest. He murmured at the grave and sometimes laughed as if he was talking to Hilda.

When Raymond's grandfather saw Raymond, he turned very anxious and upset.

Mr. Morris senior asked someone to bring Raymond back forcibly. But when his men approached Raymond, he immediately opened his eyes.

"What are you going to do?" His sharp gaze fell on the men approaching him.

The men stopped in fear and couldn't say a word.

Mr. Morris shouted in anger, "What do you look like? Raymond Morris, you should know you'll be the leader of our family and how could you collapse now? I am telling you now, no matter how hard you try, the fact that Hilda died will not change."

"Stop saying that!" Raymond's sharp eyes turned blank instantly at his grandfather, "I...I...am not going anywhere! I want to stay here to accompany her. Hilda was alone here and she must be very scared now. She is afraid of darkness. So I am worrying about her and keep an eye on her..."

"What are you doing?" Mr. Morris senior said furiously, "Raymond Morris, look at yourself now! Do you think Hilda will like you when you are like this?"

His grandfather's words were like a big hit on his head and Raymond stared at Hilda's bright smile for a very long time.

"No, she would not dislike me. I am Ray who she loved all along.
How could she not like me?"

Raymond believed more that he was going to stay with her.

Hilda was so afraid of darkness so Raymond decided to accompany her.

He was going nowhere. When she forgave him, Hilda would come to see him in his dream.

Raymond once swore Hilda would be the only woman he loved in this life... so he couldn't leave.

Chapter 38 Grandfather, She Hates Me

When Raymond woke up, he found himself in the hospital.

He was still during the infusion with the needle in the back of his hand. Then Raymond stood up with vacant eyes but soon he pulled himself up with a jerk and pulled the needle out of his hand, ready to run away.

"Raymond! What are you going to do?" His grandfather was just sitting in the ward and looking at Raymond who was in a frightful state. Then he added, "How long are you going to be like this? I have given you two months to deal with your emotions but look at you! Look at what you did!"

Raymond stood still at the door and said, "Grandpa...I just want to stay with her..."

"Then why didn't you do it when you still had the chance? When you aimed at the Parker family, what did I say to you? And what did you do? Now you are regretting it but it is totally useless! Her parents can't come to life and Hilda can't come to life either!"

When Raymond was about to deal with the Parker family, his grandfather came to him and gave him a dreadful scolding, not allowing Raymond to hurt the Parker family but he didn't listen...

Raymond didn't say anything but he used all his means to deal with the Parker family and then...

He indirectly caused Hilda's family to die.

Raymond fell into his thoughts: after her father died, she didn't want to live anymore.

Maybe at that time, she didn't want to wait for him anymore.

And that was why she would ignore him indifferently. Maybe she had already dug him out of her heart like she did to that heart on the operating table after she died.

She gave up on him, for sure...

Raymond's breath turned heavier and heavier as if his feet were nailed to the ground. With a pair of red eyes, he said in a dry voice, "I...regret it."

He could hear Hilda saying in his head, "Raymond, I regret it. I don't want to love you anymore."

His Hilda... He missed his Hilda...

"It is of no use regretting now! I am not blaming you because you lost some memories. But why couldn't you come and ask me? I still remember when our family had a crisis of money chain, it was the Parker family who helped us! If they hadn't helped us, you could not stay in this position so long!" Raymond's grandfather also regretted that he hadn't protected the Parker family.

He had thought of protecting them but the result was that he had protected none of them.

The people from the Parker family all died.

If Raymond hadn't found out the truth, it would be a much easier situation but now he knows about this and regained his memory with Hilda...

Then how could he hold up?

After the Parker family had a crisis, Mr. Morris senior didn't help them because he wanted to see Raymond's reaction when he found out that he was fooled around by the Miller family. If he had helped them, Mr. Morris senior thought Hilda and her parents wouldn't have died.

Everything was a mistake! Everything was not going on the right track!

"Yes, she is...is...dead. She left me forever because of what I did..."

Raymond's lips were chapped to the extreme and he looked at his grandpa with a feeling of sad helplessness. His red eyes showed all his weakness and he added, "I have no chance to see her! She hates me! Grandfather, she hates me..."
