

Chapter 6 She Is Dying

Hilda had a dream again.

She hadn't dreamed about that for a very long time.

In that dream, Raymond and she were locked in a room by a crazy woman who frightened and beat them day and night. Her dream was filled with her cry.

She was crying, "Ray, Kiki was so scared."

In that dream, she was so weak that she had to watch Ray being taken away by the crazy woman. All she could do was to cry and scream loudly.

"Don't be afraid, Ray. Kiki will protect you...Kiki can protect Ray..." Even though her voice turned hoarse; her words were choked by sobbing; and her body was trembling, she still stood in front of Raymond to protect him.

Then she slipped into another dream where Ray and she was in a car. Suddenly a heavy hit came and in that car accident, she was tightly protected by Raymond in his arms. She didn't hurt badly but Raymond's kidney needed to be transplanted because of serious injury.

Hilda had a heart defect and, regardless of her family's objection, she went to do a test for a match and signed her name on the donation letter.

However, she ended up being told that Raymond had forgotten her after he woke up.

Hilda didn't know where was her kidney because Raymond's transplanted kidney was not donated by her but by Karen.

During the dream, Hilda was trembling in pain and she looked at Raymond who treated her as a stranger but smiled at Karen and told her he loved her. Raymond even proposed to Karen...

Just when Hilda thought she would die in pain like this, someone yelled and screamed in front of her. She was suffocated as if someone was squeezing her neck. She was hurting all over her body.

Hilda was struggling and screaming but couldn't let out a single word!

She...is dying. She would die in this extreme pain very soon...

But...if she died, how about Ray?

No...She couldn't die...

Ray!

Pay, please save Kiki!

Bang!

The grip on her neck was gone instantly and Hilda opened her eyes immediately.

"Hilda, tell me who you were talking to. Who are Ray and Kiki you were talking about?" Raymond looked at her with a pair of sharp and red eyes.

The room was filled with all kinds of sounds from the medical equipment and Hilda was looking calmly at Raymond who was irritable.

She had never imagined that there was one day when she was asked who Ray was by Raymond.

What a ridiculous thing...

The man in front of her once promised, "Kiki, from now on, I will protect you."

If she told Raymond now that he was Ray and she was Kiki, would he believe her?

No, he wouldn't. After that car accident, he had never believed her.

Seeing Hilda close her eyes indifferently, Raymond burst out in a rage.

"Hilda!" he shouted when the door was opened. Lauren Miller at the door looked at Raymond in surprise who was above Hilda.

"Raymond! What are you doing?" Lauren immediately pulled Raymond off Hilda, out of control. She asked him in a loud voice, "How could you do this? My sister Karen had just passed away and now you are messing around with this woman! Have you ever thought about my sister!"