

Chapter 13 I Won't Help You

Susan was confused, "What happened? Why are you so flustered?"

Jessie looked around. They were all famous CEOs. She didn't dare to speak a word.

She pulled Susan to a corner and whispered, "It is reported that our lipstick is poisonous and people pass out after applying it. The policemen have arrived at the company. Now you must go there."

Susan suddenly panicked and subconsciously looked at Albert.

He happened to be looking at her, too.

Maybe she thought too much. He had promised not to play tricks.

Perhaps Albert noticed her confusion, he came over and asked, "What's the matter?"

Susan shook her head, "I'll go first."

Albert held her, "What's the matter?"

Susan was extreme anxiety. "I don't have time to explain to you now."

"I'll go with you."

"Whatever."

Then Susan left the banquet hall quickly with Jessie.

Albert followed her and said to Aaron, "Sorry, it's a little urgent."

Aaron smiled, "It's okay."

.....

The car accelerated to the company.

At this time, many people have surrounded the gate of the building. Many people are taking photos and videos with mobile phones.

Tomorrow's headlines must be this news.

Susan rubbed her temples. Current things haven't been solved yet, she was desperate when she thought of things tomorrow.

They pushed the crowd away and walked in.

Someone suddenly shouted, "This is the president. She sold those products to consumers without examining the quality?"

Susan didn't respond. A bottle of water was thrown over. It hit her head, the water also spilled all over her.

The people around then threw what they had in their hands.

She raised her hand to block those flying objects, but she was suddenly pulled into his arms, blocking all the chaos outside.

His chest was warm and secure.

Susan never experienced protection from Albert.

She was so relieved that she could give everything to him.

She hugged his waist and hid her face in his arms.

Letting all the storms stay outside.

Albert had bodyguards and the police around him,

so they quickly controlled the troublemakers.

Although the situation was stable, the curse continued.

When they came to the lobby, they saw a dozen people lying on the cart, pale and black lips.

It was toxic at first sight.

There was also a child.....

As soon as the child's mother saw Susan, she rushed up and raised her hand to beat her.

Albert frowned and stopped her. "What happened to your child?"

The little girl's mother cried out, "I haven't applied the lipstick I just bought. My daughter took it to play. Unexpectedly, she passed out directly and couldn't find out what poison she had. You evil bitch, tell me what you added in the lipstick!"

No matter how Susan forced herself to calm down, she couldn't calm down when she saw these people lying here silently.

Her whole body was shivering, and even her voice was trembling. "This lady, our company has been operated for a hundred years, and there has never been such a situation. There must be something wrong. We'll decide after we find out the truth."

"Find out? When you find out, my child is gone."

Albert held Susan's trembling hand and said in a deep voice, "You don't believe us? Are you questioning the police?"

"There was no problem before. Now there is a problem. Isn't she incompetent?"

At this time, the police captain said, "Please calm down, madam. We can understand your current mood very much, but losing your temper can't solve any problems. We need you to calm down. We'll decide after we find out everything."

"Please be quiet. We will give you justice. Now the operator of Laura's brand has arrived. Please cooperate with us to send the injured to the designated hospital."

The scene was controlled by the police and people evacuated soon.

.....

Susan was taken to the police station for questioning.

"Miss Susan, do you know all the things and processes produced by your company?"

Susan nodded, "I know about every process, and there can be no poisoning. Although our family makes cosmetics, the first degree in our family is traditional Chinese medicine. Including me, I am very aware of the exclusion and integration of various raw materials. Many formulas are developed by ourselves, so our products are finished products based on purely natural herbs. Now, these people are poisoned, which can only show that there is a problem with these lipsticks."

The captain nodded, "Since you know the process, it's much easier to do."

Then he took out a bag of things, "These are the lipsticks used by the injured. We left a few for inspection, and the rest will be given to you."

Susan took it. "Don't worry, officer, I will be able to prove my innocence."

"Your family has been standing here for a hundred years and has never evaded taxes. Product safety has always been the best reputation in the industry. We believe you, but we can't just let you go. We need evidence to prove your innocence. Miss Susan, if you can't prove your innocence in a short time, we can only arrest you."

"I understand."

The police officer nodded, "At present, you are only assisting and cooperating. It has not constituted a crime. You can go back first."

.....

On the way back, Susan's mind became more chaotic and her mood was greatly affected.

Albert asked to stop the production of this lipstick before. If she had stopped production at that time, would it not have happened?

Jessie muttered, "Who is so insidious? Trying to set us up."

Hearing what Jessie said, Susan said to Albert, "I don't go home today. Pull over and ask your driver to pick you up."

Albert's car was still in the banquet hall.

Albert's frowned. "Susan, do you think I want to take care of your business? Or do you suspect that I did it, so you have to check it alone?"

Susan was upset and said indiscriminately, "Since you made up with Lacey, my life has been a mess. You didn't do it, so it was Lacey who did this!"

The man's anger showed on his face, "If I want to do it, your company disappeared long ago."

"Didn't you have to act with me because of your face? Now my problem has become the target of public criticism. You can protect your company anyway, can't you?"

"Protect my company?" Albert sneered. "Fine. I won't help you."

Albert unfastened his seat belt, got out of the car, and slammed the door angrily.

Susan moved to the driver's seat. Now she has no time to pay attention to his anger.

Then she started the car and went straight to the factory.

On the way, she called the factory guard to lock the gate and not allow anyone to go out.

Now the event had just broken out. If the culprit was in the factory, he should not have enough time to leave.