With a menacing stride, he grabbed Hannah's chin forcefully.

"Test me, and it'll be the end of you!"

"Do you loan sharks truly believe murdering for money is a fair trade?"

The man's face displayed pure shock. He scanned Hannah from head to toe, demanding, "How on earth do you recognize us as loan sharks?"

Speak!"

"You don't strike me as seasoned kidnapers. With all those security cameras around my place, the moment they review the footage, you'll be pinned down. And the reason for why I can identify you lot?"

Hannah grinned slyly.

"From my casino days. I've come across plenty of your kind and learned to spot you. I've never borrowed externally.

You sharks were clearly directed to snatch me. Surrender now, or you'll lament in a cell."

The man's face creased with skepticism.

"You? At a casino?"

"The name Franklyn Vargas should ring a bell, shouldn't it?"

Franklyn, the notorious kingpin of the underworld casinos spanning from Valmere to Crakholis. While some whispered of a puppet master, he remained the undisputed ruler for years.

With a scowl deepening on his face, the man glared at Hannah.

"Don't try and convince me you're acquainted with Mr. Vargas. Do you take me for a fool? Really, you know him?"

"Why not dial him up and verify? If you're lacking his contact,"

Hannah offered with a serene demeanor, "I can gladly provide it."

"Boss, she's bluffing!"

The man's underling bravely advanced, exclaiming, "I can't fathom her scheming mind! Don't be swayed by her words. Let's undress her! Snap some pictures, and let's see if she still has the nerve to spread tales!"

The man locked eyes with Hannah's serene gaze, and a wave of unease washed over him.

Could this woman truly have connections with Franklyn?

No, it couldn't be! How on earth would Franklyn be acquainted with someone like her?!

The man felt he'd been duped. Clenching his jaw, he barked at his companion, "Untie the binds on her wrists! Remove her clothes! And do it fast!"

"Right away!"

Upon hearing the whispers about photographing Hannah in her vulnerable state, the trio in the parking area were instantly intrigued. They circled around her, ready to take advantage.

"Boss! We've never been with someone as lovely as her. Could you allow..

"Damn! Silence! Why are you bothering with women now?"

The man leading the pack, seething with rage, hurled his phone towards his henchmen.

"Snap a photo of her, now!"

Hesitant to defy their leader's command, the henchmen hastily untied Hannah's bindings.

Foreseeing their move, as soon as the rope slackened, Hannah delivered a powerful kick to the gut of the nearest man, sending him crashing to the ground!

With adrenaline pumping through her veins, she grabbed the nearby chair and slammed it onto the head of another assailant!

"Blast it! Catch her! She mustn't escape!"

"Grab her!"

The once silent, forsaken auto repair shop erupted in chaos within seconds!

With her newfound freedom, Hannah sprinted out of the shop without looking back!

Yet, once outside, she was ambushed by a group of men, those who had retrieved their money, and they closed in on her from all sides!

The gang leader, knife gleaming menacingly in his hand, charged out from the shop, yelling, "Where do you think you're going? Tempting fate, are we?"

With each word, he advanced towards Hannah, his eyes wild with anticipation, poised to strike her with his blade!

Encircled and outnumbered, Hannah found herself trapped with nowhere to retreat. In a desperate bid, she threw up her hand to deflect the impending slash of the knife.

Out of the blue, an overpowering grip enveloped her!

In the briefest of moments, Hannah realized the man shielding her was none other than Bryson!

Bryson's swift kick sent the lead man tumbling, who then yelled for his gang to charge!

Every man toting those conspicuous money bags, Brayden included, doffed their hats in unison. It was Bryson who had orchestrated their presence.

Shielding Hannah, Bryson made a grand stand. He removed his dark hat, casting an icy stare at the would-be abductors.

"Seize them now."

With haste, Bryson's squad advanced. Outclassed and overwhelmed, the kidnappers quickly found themselves restrained!

"Did they harm you?"
