

Never Say 483

“Do you honestly believe I wouldn’t dare hurt you, Hannah?”

Hannah looked at Edwin, her eyes brimming with disdain.

“Make your move if you think you can.”

Just then, the internet celebrity jumped in, adding more tension to the atmosphere.

“Edwin, you wouldn’t really strike a woman, would you?”

Maybe we should defuse this situation. Although she is a bit over the top.” She cast a cunning grin at Hannah.

“No need to put on a show. If things turn violent, Edwin will bear the blame.”

Edwin snorted in contempt.

“And what if I did decide to hit her?”

With those words, he inched closer to Hannah, his fist clenched and ready to strike.

His hand rose, targeted at Hannah’s face.

In an instant, Hannah’s eyes turned icy as she grabbed Edwin’s raised hand with decisive precision.

To Edwin’s astonishment, Hannah seized his wrist effortlessly and yanked it downward.

ninjanovel.com

Crack!

Edwin’s arm was abruptly dislocated by Hannah’s action.

“Ahhh!” As a spoiled young man, Edwin couldn’t endure such excruciating pain.

He staggered back, collapsing into a chair and clutching his arm while howling in distress.

The internet celebrity beside him, petrified, immediately rushed to his aid, propping up his arm and glaring at Hannah.

“You... You! I’m calling the police!”

“He initiated it. I was merely protecting myself.” Hannah gestured toward the ceiling.

“Cameras are watching. Do you really want to make this worse for him?”

The internet celebrity recoiled, assisting a sweaty Edwin without venturing another word.

“Leave. I need to have a private word with him.”

Cowed, the internet celebrity quickly exited without making eye contact with Hannah, leaving Edwin alone.