Chapter 16 Teaching the Scumbag A Lesson

Erin lowered her head slightly and saw that the driver of the car was none other than the handsome man she had met at the Royal Chamber.

After seeing her stunned and hesitant expression, Sean said, "Miss, get in the car; you look like you're in a hurry, and you won't be able to get a taxi here."

His enthusiasm to help made her stop in her tracks.

She was still hesitant to get into the car, so Sean had no choice but to get out of it. He retrieved a cardholder from his suit pocket and gave her a business card. "This is my card. If I try to do something to you later, you can call the police."

As he spoke, he guided her to the front of his car to read the license plate number. Sean flashed her a mocking smile. "It's easy to remember, right? You can give your best friend a call to tell her that you're with me and that if you don't call her back later, she can call the police on me. That would prevent me from doing anything bad to you."

Erin didn't know whether to laugh or cry at this absurdity and eventually got into the car.

The Lamborghini sped down the road. Sean was great at driving and was able to overtake car after car, but it also seemed to make the other drivers despise him.

In the car, Erin looked at him and said sincerely, "Thanks for helping."

Sean considered her. "To be honest, I don't know what's wrong with you."

Erin was baffled by his absurd comment. "I'm sorry, I don't understand what you mean."

The look of confusion and shock on her face made him laugh.

Sean looked at the high heels that she was wearing and said, "The Valentino heels that you're wearing right now were just released this month. The market price is around 20 thousand dollars. However, the shoes look too big on you, so you definitely didn't buy these shoes yourself. Therefore, someone else must've bought them for you. However, the combined price of the clothes that you are wearing now can't be more than a thousand dollars. That means these shoes aren't something you can afford."

His observant statement made Erin feel like he was mocking her, and she was instantly

Sean gave an ill-intentioned smile. "Nope, you misunderstand me. What I mean is, whatever you want, I can buy it for you as long as I'm still very interested in you."

Her emotional outburst made Sean's ears ring. He frowned and looked at her. "Why are you

He wanted to know how much she would price herself at.

Erin was flabbergasted. She glared at the man's handsome face. He had the bearing of someone who was wealthy and knew it, but how could he not know what basic human respect was?

She didn't want to waste her energy talking to this rich kid who had such a distorted view of life, so she calmly said, "Please stop the car at the side of the road."

He looked unhappy. "I'm not allowed to stop my car here. I'll drop you off at your office.

What's the address?"

Erin had only told him the name the street her office was located on when she got into the

Sean examined her again. She had an amazing body with pale skin. She was also curvy, and Sean yelled out in pain. He was completely unprepared for such an attack and had both of his hands over his eyes. He shouted, "What the fuck! Are you fucking insane? What the fuck

At this point, a bellboy was already coming toward them, so Erin ran away hastily.
