

Night Stand 41

Chapter 41

Allie smiled and quickly took a cup of tea to the sofa, "Dad, have some tea."

Allie's father was reading newspaper on the sofa. He put it down and looked at Allie lovingly, "It's too late. You should wash up and go to sleep. Girls can't stay up too late."

"OK." Allie nodded sweetly, "I know, dad. You should also take care of yourself."

"By the way," her father took a sip of tea and looked up and asked, "you said you had seen your sister in the shopping mall last time. Do you know where she lives now?"

The smile on Allie's face froze. She tried to repress her displeasure, "How should I know? I wanted to talk more, but she seemed to be busy and wasn't willing to talk to me. If I hadn't met her in the shopping mall, we would not know that she has already come back."

Her father sighed, "Well, we shouldn't let her live alone. If you're not busy, I want you to inquire where she lives. I want to have a look. I think I'd better persuade her to live with us. Otherwise, I'll worry about her."

Frowning, Allie was about to say something when she heard a cough behind her.

Sherley winked at her and walked to them with a big smile, "You're right. It's not safe for a single woman to live alone. I'll have someone inquire about it. Birmingham isn't a big city. It'll be easy to find her."

"OK." Allie's father picked up the paper.

bedroom, Allie sat on her bed, livid with rage, "Mom, why did you promise to dad that you will find her back? It was the same last time when I told the door calmly and said slowly, "Whether you tell your father or not, she will come back. It's impossible that she won't come to this house. We'd better take the initiative to tell it to your father rather than let her take us useful? Dad will reconsider about the heiress on her face, and snorted, "If I had been lucky enough to have a son, I wouldn't have let him choose between you and that girl. Fortunately, it's not a big problem now. What could she have achieved having fooled around for so many years? As long as you by her mother's words. She said proudly, "Of course. I bet she has only hooked up with some guy during the time weekend had quickly passed. Anna sent Tammy to the kindergarten on Monday morning and went to go to the headquarter to attend a

4 »

please wait a

JOLI LLUITICU IUULI

it?” asked Wayne. “Are you going to the hospital sigh of relief and gave him an insulated lunch box, “I made the chicken soup this morning. The lunch box

took the lunch box