

Night Stand 53

Falling in Love With A One-Night Stand

Chapter 53

“Drive me to Kingsford Neighborhood,” Ada ordered the driver as soon as she got into the car, completely ignoring her agent Jason, who had run out of the studio to stop her.

Today I will try on my wedding dress for the first time. Wayne knows how important this day is to me. How could he suddenly break the appointment? Besides, he hasn't had a wedding suit yet. The designer will come to measure his size soon. What on earth is Wayne going to do? It must be that Matthew who has done something to stop Wayne from seeing me! Ada thought.

When Anna arrived at Birmingham Grand Hotel, she showed her invitation card and then entered the hall with the gift that she had prepared.

The whole first floor of the Birmingham Grand Hotel had been reserved for the engagement party. The hall was magnificent, with colorful balloons all over the ceiling. And the guests were either rich or powerful.

Anna looked around and didn't see anyone that she knew. She didn't like such a noisy environment so she quietly walked to a corner to have some food.

In the dressing room on the second floor, a group of people in formal attire stayed with the bride-to-be Lilian.

They were all Lilian's college classmates. Although they hadn't seen Lilian for a long time, they all flattered her and congratulated her as if they were Lilian's good friends.

“Lilian, you are the most beautiful girl in our class. Jacob and you are a perfect match!”

“Let me be your bridesmaid when you get married, Lilian. Maybe I'll meet my future boyfriend at the wedding.”

“Wow! Lilian, you are so beautiful. I heard that Jacob specifically asked a famous designer from Italy to make this dress for you. It's worth about a hundred thousand dollars, right? Let me touch it. I've never seen such high-end fabric.”

Lilian chuckled and touched her dress. Then she said, “How much the dress is doesn't matter. What makes me satisfied is that the dress is unique in the world. And I heard that the designer is a master in the design field and only serves rich families in the world.”

Sitting aside silently, Jacob felt left out and became more irritable when hearing Lilian's words. So, he left the dressing room.

Leaning against the rail on the corridor, he lit a cigarette and smoked while looking idly at the people downstairs. Somehow, he felt as if he was an outsider.

“Handsome groom-to-be, you look unhappy. What's the matter?” Jacob's friend Sean came at this moment
