

Night Stand 71

Chapter 71

"You've arranged a place for us?" Anna was stunned and asked, "Where will we live? Carousel Hotel?"

She thought that it would be good if she could live in the Carousel Hotel so that she didn't need to commute to work.

"Perish the thought," Wayne said directly. "There's no vacant room in the hotel now."

"No vacant room? But when I checked the occupancy before..."

"Get into the car." Before Anna could finish her words, Wayne interrupted her, urged her to get into the car, and asked the driver to drive.

Soon, the car stopped at the gate of the Kingsford Neighborhood.

Looking at the villa in front of her, Anna thought speechlessly, Oh, God. After staying at home for a day, we came back to Kingsford Neighborhood again...

Then she asked Wayne, "Mr. Wright, is this the place that you arranged for me to stay in?"

"Yes."

Before Anna could say anything else, the maids had already carried her suitcases into the villa quickly.

"I don't think it's appropriate for us to live here," Anna said in embarrassment.

Wayne looked at her and said, "There are enough rooms in the villa for you. The driver will send Tammy to the kindergarten and pick her up after school. And this place is not far from Carousel Hotel. It's convenient for you to go to work from here. It's appropriate for you to live here."

After a pause, he added, "I won't let you live here for free. Matthew only likes the food that you cook so you'll have to cook the breakfast and dinner on weekdays and all meals on weekends."

Hearing that, Anna couldn't find any reason to refuse him.

"OK. Then we'll live here for the time being. Thank you, Mr. Wright," she said. Wayne nodded expressionlessly. "Let's go inside."

The maid then led Anna to the room next to the master bedroom.
