

Night Stand 82

Chapter 82

More than ten hours later, the flight arrived at Malé International Airport

As soon as Anna and the others got off the plane, they felt fresh and cool, and the breeze made them feel comfortable.

Tammy had been staying by Scott's side all the way. After getting off the plane, she felt tired and lay in Scott's arms with her arms around his neck, dozing off on the way to the hotel.

When they arrived at the hotel, Scott took Tammy, who was asleep to his room on the first floor and then moved the luggage into it. Then he arranged a room for Anna.

"Anna, you and Tammy will live in the room upstairs. That room is larger. And I live in this room."

Anna handed him a glass of water and said, "Thank you. Drink some water and have a rest first. I'll go upstairs to have a look."

Scott couldn't help laughing and said, "You don't have to be so nervous. I'm not used to your politeness."

Anna looked around and thought with a helpless look, How could I not be nervous?

There are so many cameras in the room. And at the corner of the living room, a cameraman was hiding in a tent. Anna felt as if she was being monitored.

"I feel that I may break down at any time in the following five days," Anna said.

"Don't be nervous. Relax. They'll mainly shoot the interactions of Tammy and me and they'll edit out your scenes."

After thinking for a while, Anna came up with an idea and brightened up. "I'll let Tammy stay with you during the filming from tomorrow. As long as you two don't have any interaction with me, I won't be filmed."

Scott was speechless.

"Then please help me take care of Tammy in the following days," Anna said and went upstairs to her room leisurely.

It was evening and the wind was blowing gently

Pushing open the glass door of the balcony of her room, Anna could see the reflection of the setting sun in the sea which rippled and sparkled. There were coconut trees by the sea, and some couples were taking a walk on the beach.

Anna leaned against the rail of the balcony and took a deep breath, feeling refreshed. She hadn't been so relaxed for a long time.
