

No Chance 1010

Chapter 1010 I Said It's Only a Guess

Vincent furrowed his brows slightly. In any case, Elisa should have some principles even if she and Gareth aren't on good terms. This involves Gareth's privacy, so how can she tell Will about it? After all, Gareth and Will have always been archenemies. There's no way they can actually be harmonious!

But she's fascinating. She actually told Will about it?!

Vincent had a terrible expression at that moment, and traces of displeasure were intertwined in his gaze.

But at the next moment, he felt something wasn't right. Elisa isn't such a person. Don't tell me Will is driving a wedge between them!

When Vincent thought about it, his gaze fell on Will, and he stared at Will.

Meanwhile, Will stared at Gareth. He saw that Gareth had returned to normal and stopped looking at Elisa. He smiled and continued, "Liz means it should be the same group of people from how they breached our confidential information."

Vincent's gaze immediately turned cold. "The same group of people?!"

He looked at Elisa as if waiting to seek confirmation from her.

Will fully and glance at Vincent. "This is didn't look at Gareth, and her gaze didn't meet his twitched. He looked at Gareth's icy gaze and said casually, "Why don't fell on Will, and his voice was apathetic. "How would you like want to

and didn't intend to her brows slightly. On the way home just now, she looked like she was resting, but her thoughts had never stopped. She was thinking about the person's motive. The person big companies, but why do they want to kill me? Why did they even have to make use of Linda the whole way back to glance at Vincent. "This is my guess. I'm not his gaze fell on Elisa. "What suddenly came to her senses and looked at Gareth subconsciously. She happened to see his pitch-black eyes looking at