No Chance of Remarriage: Get Lost

Chapter 1071

Jeremy didn't reply to him, but Elisa did.

She turned to him and explained, "It won't cure them completely, but at least it can delay the spread and extend their remaining time. We need to observe if it improves the situation. Perhaps... it might work too."

Her voice became smaller as she finished the sentence in uncertainty.

After all, she wasn't entirely sure about the outcome, but she wanted to let him know so he wouldn't be too worried.

Jeremy shot a glance at Gareth. "Don't worry. I'm sure it will be successful this time as well. We have done so many experiments just now, and none of them failed. Since each time has been a success, I believe this time around it will be the same too."

Thomas was still driving, but he shot a glance through the rearview mirror and realized that Gareth and Elisa were looking grave in the backseat.

Judging from the topic they had been discussing, he didn't understand why Elisa was involved.

What does she have to do with this? And why is she replying to Gareth's question about technical knowledge in medicine? What have I missed in a day? And where are they heading to?

With the doubts in his mind, he had arrived at the destination.

Sam was already waiting for them when they got out of the car.

The mansion they had been living in was in the city's suburbs. With a patient in the family, they didn't want to live in the busy city.

It was also quite a safe area.

Upon seeing their arrival, Sam walked forward and smiled at Jeremy. "You're here."

Then, his gaze landed on Gareth, Elisa, and Thomas.

"They are my friends. Let's talk more once we are in the house. We'll take a look at Aunt Nory," he quickly explained.

"Sure, sure. Come with me."

Time was crucial, especially for cancer patients. After all, no one knew how much cancer would spread in a minute. It was best to start the treatment earlier.

They didn't speak until they reached Granny Nory's room.

When Elisa and the rest reached the bed, they found an emaciated woman lying there without any energy. She couldn't even open her eyes when she heard their arrival.

No Chance of Remarriage: Get Lost

Chapter 1072

Granny Nory's eyelashes fluttered. She meant to say, 'Stop wasting your time and let me go. I've had enough of being half-dead, half-alive, and I don't want to give my family any more trouble. Just let me die peacefully...'

Sam seemed to know her thoughts, but he didn't provide any consolations, knowing them to be futile.

At last, he drew a deep breath before saying, "You may start now."

With that, he looked at Jeremy, expecting him to carry out the following procedures.

To his surprise, Elisa marched over with the syringe in her hand.

When she was about to administer the shot, his gaze faltered. What is this young lady doing here?

He glanced at Jeremy again, noticing he was just doing some disinfection work, as though he was just her assistant.

Though confused, he was stopped by his good manners from inquiring into the matter.

After all, Jeremy wouldn't be another person's assistant. The fact that he was willing to do so proved that Elisa was much more capable than him.

The youngsters nowadays are so outstanding. How is it possible?

As Elisa started the injection, nervousness started to kick in within Sam's body. He inhaled slightly and held his breath.

Granny Nory showed no resistance at all. Not a single sound was heard from her as she was simply too ill.

Sam watched as Elisa retracted the syringe. Seeing that she made no attempt to carry out any more steps, he took a step forward. His gaze lingered on her briefly before he turned to Jeremy. "How... long do we have to wait?"

Is this it?

Jeremy replied calmly, "It takes around ten minutes for the results to be revealed, but that's because it's a smaller sample. I guess it will take more time now."

Sam nodded. He was still nervous, but there was nothing much he could do apart from waiting.

Meanwhile, Elisa's gaze had never left Granny Nory.

The latter was lying on the bed in a still manner. There were no signs of convulsions after the shot.

"Let's give it more time," Elisa said simply, unsure of the outcome as well.

It was not for Sam's sake that she made that announcement. Instead, she was telling it to Gareth, who was silent the entire time.

Jeremy nodded, "Alright."

Jeremy's uncle asked a few people to bring the chairs over.

Some of them had taken their seats.

No one had the intention of speaking.

They just stared at the person in front of them, observing the reaction of Granny Nory.

Another hour passed, and Jeremy couldn't take it anymore.

His gaze fell on Elisa, and he said, "I think we can carry out the tests now."

Elisa looked at the time on her handphone and nodded confidently, "Sure."

Jeremy didn't want to wait any longer and stood up immediately. He was in charge of drawing blood.

Elisa stood at the side quietly. Gareth did not leave his chair and kept his eyes fixated on Jeremy and Granny Nory

Soon enough, Granny Nory had her blood drawn.

Jeremy ran the tests immediately.

They did not bring the complete equipment this time, so they could only run a minor examination. A larger device was needed to run a thorough examination.

Jeremy and Elisa were the ones who decided to do it by themselves without relying on anyone else. At this point, they could only trust themselves.

They brought some equipment here to see if their intended results were achieved. If it did, they would have hope to continue to the next step. If it didn't, then...

There would be no need to continue.

And they could only find new people to test on.

Jeremy was quite nervous. Even his hands were trembling.

He had always wanted to cure Gareth, but he was at his wit's end and could only try his best to extend his time.

Elisa had a plan. Elisa was his idol, Mystic Orchid!

Elisa could cure them!

Now, they were only left with the final few examinations!

If this were to go well, then everything would be fine!

At this thought, his heart was pumping out of his chest. He paused and looked at Elisa, "Why don't you try it?"

Elisa was significantly more skilled than Jeremy, and his emotional state wasn't at its best. He was afraid of making any mistakes during the examination.

Elisa nodded and walked towards him to handle the task on her own.

Jeremy's uncle was observing everything as it happened, and his eyes looked confused. Who exactly is this young girl?

Of course, he knew this young girl was Elisa, but... this situation confused him.

Chapter 1074

As he asked this question, everyone looked intensely at Elisa.

There were only a few people in the house, but the people who were watching them were not only the ones in the house.

The family of Jeremy's uncle was all waiting outside so as not to disrupt them.

Now...

Everyone held their breaths to avoid missing out on Elisa's reply.

Even though they could only view her back, they were unwilling to let go of any details.

Seeing the results, Elisa took a deep breath and shifted her gaze onto Jeremy. She nodded confidently. "Let's proceed to the next step."

Jeremy's eyes lit up, and he immediately walked over to Elisa to see the results. Staring at the positive results, he looked at his uncle excitedly, "Uncle, based on Grandma's situation, we can undergo the next examination. As observed, it is effective, and we can continue with the next examination! But..."

As he was about to continue, he paused and seemingly looked troubled.

Jeremy's uncle, Eric Chase, immediately looked at him, "Jeremy, is there something you're not telling us? We have already accepted the most difficult part. What else are you keeping from us?"

Despite his words, Eric's gestures and expressions were hinting something else.

He was implying that if... there was undesirable news, don't share it openly. His mother was around, and he wanted to ensure she knew there was still hope.

Even though they had come to this point, they never gave up and kept searching for various ways to overcome this problem.

Jeremy nodded and reassured Eric before he continued, "My concern just now was that the upcoming examinations couldn't be carried out here as we couldn't bring over the necessary equipment. Grandma will have to follow us on a short trip."

In reality, they had to go elsewhere because they were not specialized in this area of research, and the equipment they had right now was not advanced enough.

Eric let out a sigh of relief, "I see. Do we have to go now?"

He was extremely cooperative. As he noticed Jeremy's excitement, it proved there was a way!

He had interacted with Jeremy numerous times all these years, so he knew him like the back of his hand.

From his expression just now, it was likely that his mother had a great chance of recovery. How could he miss that?

Despite his mother's pain, he didn't want to let go of this opportunity.

He wouldn't let the slightest chance be neglected.

Seeing how cooperative Jeremy was, he could finally sigh with relief, "Let's get going now."

"Alright! Can I have two people to give me a hand?"

Chapter 1075

Gareth was waiting by the side the whole time. He started to feel tormented by the lengthy process.

Elisa participated throughout the examinations and didn't have time to tend to Gareth.

When all the examinations were completed, Jeremy looked stunned.

"This...!"

Eric looked at him worriedly, "What happened?"

Why did Jeremy stay silent after saying one word?

His sudden utterance, along with his complicated expression, left many in confusion.

Eric didn't dare to gasp at the situation to prevent his mother from noticing anything odd. After the examination, he requested someone to push his mother to the waiting room outside.

Jeremy also didn't reply and glanced at everyone before setting his eyes on Elisa, "This, doesn't this mean that...!"

Eric looked at Elisa again.

Gareth also stared at Elisa. Even though he looked calm, the anxiousness in his eyes couldn't be hidden.

Elisa replied, "As of now, everything is progressing well. We will need a few follow-ups to get a grasp of her condition better."

Eric's eyes lit up. He immediately looked at Elisa nervously, "This means that...!"

Elisa nodded at Eric, "We can't confirm if we can cure Grandma fully, but the results have significantly improved. We can speculate that she will have at least another two months to live."

"The pain should be slowly subsiding now, and she won't suffer. She will also regain her vitality."

"Really?!" Eric immediately looked more energetic. His eyes filled with disbelief.

He was thrilled!

Previously, when it was revealed that she only had two months to live, he wasn't too happy.

After all...

Two months is a very short time. If Granny Nory continued to live in pain, she must rather...

However, as he heard that his mother would no longer suffer from the pain and would slowly regain her energy, he was thrilled!

If there is no suffering, she should live as long as possible.

No Chance of Remarriage: Get Lost

Chapter 1076

Jeremy was his junior. If he weren't, he would've bowed deeply to him!

After all, we have gained two more months!

"Don't mention it. It's our responsibility."

This success couldn't be credited to him. Still, Elisa had only recently revealed her identity as Mystic Orchid, meaning she wanted to keep a low profile and didn't want anyone else to know. He was not in a position to share about it.

"Oh no... If it weren't for both of you, my mom wouldn't survive until today. I'm indebted to you. If you need any help from me in the future, just let me know!" Eric assured them confidently.

Eric paused and tried to inspect Jeremy, "What should we do next?"

Jeremy kept quiet and looked in the direction of Elisa.

Elisa thought briefly before answering softly, "We need a few more days to examine Grandma's condition. If possible, I hope you can text me in two hours."

"No problem! Can I add your WhatsApp number? I will contact you in two hours." Eric was very sincere when speaking with Elisa. He could tell she was the critical operator, so he treated her with great respect.

Elisa nodded and took out her handphone, "I'll scan your QR code."

"Alright! Sure!"

Eric opened his WhatsApp application and brought up his QR code for her to scan.

Elisa didn't say a word as she scanned the QR code.

"Let's go," Elisa said as she looked at Gareth.

Gareth understood that she was going to carry out her next plan.

He nodded lightly. Jeremy immediately looked at Eric, "Uncle, you can follow Elisa's instructions from now on. I believe that Grandma will get better soon!!"

"I hope it comes true!!" Eric sounded entirely moved. Afterward, he looked at Elisa gratefully.

Elisa didn't reply. She just greeted Eric and followed them out.

When they were in the car, Jeremy looked at Elisa immediately. "What are your plans after this?"

"Continue our tests on people with a few days left to live. If there are significant improvements in fifty individuals in a row, we can develop it further."

Jeremy nodded in agreement, "That's right, if there is no error, we can cure patients with advanced stages of lung cancer."

Chapter 1077

Thomas took his gaze away from the back mirror but had a troubled expression.

Even though he didn't know much, he could make sense of one part of the story. Ms. Benett... who was previously Mrs. Wickam, was highly skilled!

He still couldn't wrap his head around what had happened and was afraid to guess further.

After all... Jeremy had to follow all of Elisa's instructions, so what level of medical skills did she possess?

Or maybe, she had another identity?

Thomas' curiosity grew.

Soon after, they began their journey. They were no longer heading to someone's house. Instead, they were gathering in one place.

They continuously did the examinations on more than ten people.

It turned out that, other than one person who did not have a similar condition, all nine others had the same condition as Granny Nory!

Jeremy was startled when he saw the final results!

His abrupt reaction was very unlike the steady character he had in the past.

He took the results of the test and walked towards Gareth. He held onto Gareth's arms, and it didn't matter to him whether Gareth minded it or not.

He immediately said, "Gareth, you can be cured. You can be cured!"

At this moment, he only cared about Gareth rather than Gareth's grandmother.

After all these years, his pain could finally come to an end!

His close friend, whom he truly cared for, could finally live on.

Gareth did not try to break away from his grasp.

What Gareth hated the most was physical touch. Even when Linda cared for him, he could endure her physical contact only because he considered her his life savior.

Ever since he knew the truth, Gareth despised that woman greatly.

Jeremy also knew of his personality but couldn't suppress his excitement. Gareth understood that all his feelings were genuine. He only pursed his lips and took over the laboratory sheet from Jeremy without saying a word.

The laboratory sheet clearly stated the data on every item, which showed significant improvements from the past test results.

Out of ten people, nine showed positive effects. Gareth pursed his lips tightly and slightly trembled as he stared intensely at the laboratory results. He did not utter a single word.

Elisa stood by the side, looking at him with mixed emotions. If it weren't for Grandma, she wouldn't have known that Gareth had such a severe illness.

Chapter 1078

Jeremy's gaze slightly shifted, and he wanted to say something, but before he could open his mouth, Gareth said indifferently, "Let's begin."

Elisa silently disinfected herself and brought out a set of medical appliances.

Gareth stood in front of Elisa calmly. He was aware of her actions and knew what she would do next. He knew the treatment would start right after completing a series of examinations.

Elisa stayed silent and let him handle the rest.

Gareth removed his coat, lifted his hand, and unbuttoned the buttons on his sleeves before rolling them up.

Soon, his bare muscular arms were shown in front of Elisa.

Elisa stayed silent and injected the needle without any concern.

Jeremy could sense Elisa's determination. She was much more efficient than those before her as she never hesitated.

The end of his mouth twitched. Those two were like enemies. No matter what happened, the fact that Elisa allowed Gareth to go through the trial must mean that there was not much to worry about. Even if there were any mishaps, Elisa would have been ready to overcome them.

However... her current attitude seemed like she had no concern for Gareth. If something terrible happened to Gareth, it would be what he perceived. These two looked like enemies, which frustrated the people around them.

Soon, the medication was injected into his body. Elisa pulled out the needle without glancing at Gareth and sat at the side. Many patients were waiting outside, but this was Jeremy's hospital. It was thus up to his personnel to communicate with the patients. She took out her handphone as she sat down.

She was waiting for time to pass.

Now...

It was already late.

But everyone was still wide awake. Jeremy was overwhelmed and nervous as he went to sit beside Gareth. He stared at Gareth, worried that something terrible might happen to him.

Soon after, the door slammed open. Elisa lifted her gaze and saw Vincent rush in. He scanned the whole room and saw Gareth sitting in his white shirt. He immediately stood before Gareth and asked, "What is going on?"

Vincent disregarded the presence of Elisa. He didn't understand the situation as he only heard two things from Jeremy.

No Chance of Remarriage: Get Lost

Chapter 1079

Jeremy didn't reply. Vincent looked in his direction and seemed to realize something was wrong. He turned to the left and finally saw the woman sitting nearby.

Elisa nodded her head as a greeting gesture.

Vincent regarded her with suspicion. Why would Elisa be here?

However, as he looked back at Jeremy, he couldn't bear to say anything. He felt something wasn't right but could not pinpoint it directly.

Elisa didn't know about Gareth's condition. If he just questioned him blatantly, it wouldn't feel right.

But now...!

He felt rushed!

Right now, he couldn't care less and glanced at Jeremy.

His intentions were clear. He wanted Jeremy to talk to him outside. Despite signaling twice, Jeremy didn't move at all and instead calmly said, "We don't know how things will turn out, so we are still waiting for the examination results."

Vincent shot a look at Jeremy. Why would he say this here?

Didn't Gareth want to keep his illness a secret?

Especially towards Elisa. Gareth had requested them not to let Elisa know about this. But now... what kind of situation is this?

In such a short time, Vincent was bewildered by many unanswered questions. Seeing how confused he looked, Jeremy's overwhelming feelings were relieved.

Looking at Vincent's locked gaze towards him, Jeremy finally said, "Just wait for the results, there are still a lot of uncertainties for now, but we have been running a few experiments. Among the eleven people we've tested, ten were successful."

"Successful... What do you mean by successful? Complete recovery?"

"Based on the current research, this isn't a drug dedicated to stage four cancer. Instead, it is used to treat stage two to three cancer. The people we found earlier were all patients with stage four cancer. We didn't want to harm anyone, so we specifically selected patients with few days left to live. After we examined them, we found that the data showed improvements, and their pain was lessened, giving them more time to live. What happens after still requires continuous checkups."

"Is it true?" Vincent was in disbelief. Yet again, he took a suspicious glance at Elisa, who was sitting at the side quietly. "Were you the one to discover this drug?" Unable to suppress his doubt, Vincent turned his gaze to Jeremy and questioned him.

Jeremy smiled wryly and said, "How could I have such capability?"

His answer dumbfounded Vincent.

He did not say a word while waiting for Jeremy to explain further.

However, Jeremy suddenly became quiet. Once he gained his composure, he answered thoughtfully, "Just wait and see. You will know soon."

No Chance of Remarriage: Get Lost

Chapter 1080

Vincent felt confused.

He looked over at Thomas, and seeing how he shook his head, Vincent felt even more bewildered, "What is happening?"

Thomas' eyes quivered slightly, "I don't know the whole story as well, but Ms. Benett has been leading this whole operation while Mr. Chase has been assisting her."

"What the f*ck?" Vincent was shocked at the revelation.

He opened his eyes widely and looked in their direction in disbelief. He realized Elisa had already started running a few tests. The medical equipment had also begun to operate. In the meantime, she was saying many medical jargons while Jeremy took notes beside her.

Vincent was bewildered by everyone. What the h*ll is going on?

Thomas rubbed his nose, feeling quite... pleased.

His confusion earlier had finally been passed to someone else.

Vincent looked like a lost dog as he walked forward and stared at Elisa with a silly expression. At times, he looked over to Jeremy like they were the only ones in the room. If someone looked at him, he would then wiggle his tail.

His gaze followed them everywhere. Gareth didn't say a word during the process, allowing Elisa to examine him as needed.

What the h*ll is happening?

Elisa...! This woman must be crazy!! How can she know all this?

Looking at the situation by itself, one wouldn't understand why both Gareth and Jeremy, these two intelligent guys, were acting out of character. One willingly allows Elisa to examine his body while the other willingly assists her...

What outstanding ability does Elisa possess to make these two act this way?

But why was this happening? Precisely what is the reason?!

Vincent was still confused by the situation as he tried to take in the scene that unfolded before him. He froze without uttering a word. Whatever happened, it was beyond his expectation.

Until...

The series of procedures had all been conducted. Vincent couldn't stand it anymore. He wasn't impatient to know what had happened with Elisa. Instead, he couldn't help but ask about the results.

He immediately jumped beside Gareth and asked, "So, how is it?"

Elisa glanced at Vincent. Despite what type of person Gareth is, it can't be denied that he had two reliable buddies. Both Jeremy and Vincent treated him genuinely and showed strong loyalty.

He earned it.
