

No Chance 127

Chapter 127 How Thick-Skinned of You

Elisa and Julia raised their heads.

Monica's face turned black when she saw Elisa.

"How thick-skinned of you to come to our house!" Monica snapped.

Elisa sat silently.

Monica was an elder. Grandma would be in a tight spot if Elisa talked back to Monica.

Even if Elisa didn't care about others, she cared for grandma. She mustn't argue with Monica when Julia is present. Although Julia would side with her, she shouldn't strain Julia and Monica's relationship any further.

Julia glared. "Monica!"

trouble for our family and even worked with our enemies. How could you stared at hadn't pushed her over the edge, she wouldn't have done all those

the way they had treated her on the Web.

the court case, she had countless other points to be used. The ten billion compensation was only the tip of the iceberg. She could have multiplied that amount, of your title, then? Have you ever been respectful towards me in all the years you have been my daughter-in-law? Elisa has been devoted to you...!" Monica paused, unable to come up with words before she regained her composure. "All that she has done is a performance of her so-called devotion! The things thing that you have done

unable to

she had married into the family, all she had cared for was herself. She hadn't cared for Julia at all. Julia was soft-hearted and had never pestered Monica. After