

No Chance 1299

CHAPTER 1299 HOW DO YOU WANT TO END YOUR LIFE?

Gareth lifted an eyebrow as he glared at Vincent.

"He's a nemesis! Don't you know that there are people who romantically pair the both of you?" Vincent said excitedly, "What would happen if you two ended up together?"

The edges of Gareth's features hardened.

He knew who Vincent was referring to.

Many people on the Internet said that Gareth and Will were the real couple, and Elisa was the third wheel holding them back from revealing their relationship.

Without Elisa, Gareth and Will would be tormenting each other every day. It would be their unique way of showing their love. Both had a prominent family background, attractive faces and were well-versed in many areas. They were the match made in heaven.

As for Elisa, despite having a wide range of skills and being incredibly talented, her power and wealth were far beneath Gareth and Will. She was incompatible with any of them and would hold them back from achieving more success.

When Vincent saw these comments, he laughed hysterically. He even imagined the wedding of Gareth and Will, but he wasn't sure who was the bride and groom.

There were heated arguments on Twitter about this topic as well.

Some argued that Gareth was manlier, so he was suitable to be the groom, while others disagreed. Their fans constantly argued on Twitter, hoping their idol would be considered the groom.

Gareth furrowed his brows. "When did this happen?"

Vincent cackled with laughter when he imagined his friend being paired romantically with Will. "I was afraid you would explode, so I didn't tell you."

The corners of Jeremy's lip started to twitch. "It's been quite a long time, and the interest in the topic has never faded. It never trended, but many people were discussing it."

Gareth's pupils flared red, and he immediately took out his phone to text Thomas.

He didn't want the rumors to spread any longer.

Vincent sneered, "You can't even handle this? Will Darcey didn't remove the posts, and here, you're already admitting defeat by acting rashly. Although you can't be together, you have to show who's the boss! Let your supporters help you handle the argument. You'll surely defeat him!"

A vein popped up on Gareth's neck as he stared daggers into Vincent's direction and said, "How do you want to end your life?"

"F*ck! Don't threaten me like that. Are you really that heartless? I'm confident that I mean much more to you compared to Will. Am I right?"

Gareth was rendered speechless.

Jeremy couldn't help but laugh at the situation, but he knew that Gareth would be furious if they continued to tease him. Hence, he immediately changed the topic. "That's enough. What's the point of arguing over such trivial matters? You're leaving tomorrow. Have you prepared everything? Do you need our help?"

Vincent finally kept his composure and said, "That's right. If you need anything, let us know right away. I won't risk my life for you, but I'll try to help you."

Gareth and Jeremy became speechless.

They were used to Vincent's mischievousness. Gareth calmly replied, "I'm good for now."