

No Chance 134

Chapter 134 The Reason Behind the Divorce

"Check this out," Mrs. Meek instructed. Linda looked over when prompted.

Reporters rushed to ask their questions.

"Elisa, I've heard that since your divorce from Mr. Benett, you've been dating Mr. Darcey. Do you intend to wed Mr. Darcey?"

Linda sneered at the question. "Elisa is her own worst enemy. It's only time that she destroys her own reputation."

Rose scoffed in agreement. "Without Mr. Wickam, she is nothing. Now that the cat's out of the bag on who Iris is, Gareth can't even stand her face."

Linda's previous smile was replaced with a frown. Wasn't she in the same position?

Mrs. Meek noticed her expression and quickly attempted to divert her attention. "Let's pay attention to the live broadcast."

In the live, the reporter questioned again, "Ms. Elisa, during your marriage, you had past conjugal visits with Mr. Darcey. Does this mean you divorced Mr. Benett just to be with Mr. Darcey? Were you openly cheating with him?"

mood improved just from watching Elisa being berated by behind Elisa for the whole time, started to break down in Damn it!

so many reporters? This is of the booth. Why hasn't there

they let even a single reporter

in! Why do they have worried Elisa will blame me for looked over to furious. She planned to head hand and glared at the question, but their question faced the reporter who was responsible for the questions. "Since this is turning into an interview, I must warn you that anything you say to me at this point, will be held against you. Possibly your very downfall when I plan your bankruptcy. Why? Because I am

This is a

The surrounding mob panicked!

are known to be cruel when it comes to questions. However, their treatment of them is based solely on the interviewee's notoriety. Unfortunately for them, they've crossed the wrong person, at the wrong time —the infamous top lawyer, known for her