

No Chance 1501

Chapter 1501 Immensely Possessive

Elisa narrowed her eyes and asked, "If it was neither of you, who else wants to kill me?"

Mr. Carrerra?

No way!

Mr. Carrerra was prejudiced and debased.

But he wouldn't kill someone so quickly without torturing them to his heart's content.

Furthermore, no matter how incensed he was, he would hold back for Winslow's sake and wouldn't go overboard in the casino.

But the shooter had fired two consecutive shots and killed himself. Elisa felt that the person behind the scenes was someone powerful.

If it wasn't Eden, it was...

Eden pursed his lips and made a sound. It interrupted Elisa's thoughts.

"You can suspect us, but we have the right to explain ourselves. Elisa, if I wanted you dead, you would have died long ago when Irene's people took you away."

"Irene and I are helpless and miserable. If you don't believe me, you can ask the casino boss. Didn't he arrange for people to personally follow us?"

Before Elisa could answer, Eden asked another question.

Elisa immediately kept quiet.

If it's not them or Mr. Carrerra, who can it be?

Don't tell me there's someone more powerful?

Elisa grew curious when she thought about it.

What about her was worth so much that all these people tormented her and wanted to eliminate her?

However, no one could answer her question.

Right now, she couldn't investigate immediately.

Eden knew Elisa was pondering.

He hesitated momentarily and asked Elisa, "If you want to find out, why don't you come with me? I'll take you somewhere."

"No need."

Elisa turned him down without thinking.

Under such circumstances, she would never follow Eden.

Before he could say anything else, she hung up.

After that, she continued watching over Gareth.

Little did she expect her cell phone to ring again.

She thought it was Eden again, so she answered without looking at her screen and spoke impatiently.

"Didn't I say there's no need? Are you done, Eden?"

On the other end, Will furrowed his brows and was worried when he heard her say an unfamiliar man's name and sensed her impatience.

"Did something happen, Liz? Who is Eden?"

He was supposed to come along to the auction in Moranta this time.

But an emergency unexpectedly happened in the Darcey family.

He couldn't join her because he had to deal with it.

And now, Thomas had returned with Ganoderma Caligo, but she was still nowhere to be seen, so he couldn't help but worry.

Elisa was slightly surprised. She immediately glanced at her cell phone and realized it was Will's number. She wrinkled her brows slightly and was annoyed at herself for being so distracted.

Elisa's gaze dimmed slightly. "I'm sorry. I didn't look at the caller ID."

"It's fine. I'm more concerned about what trouble you're in. Who is Eden?" Will didn't care if Elisa had lost her temper with him.

Because he could accept her and love every part of her.

However, he could hear that something was wrong.

Elisa didn't want him to worry, so she wanted to avoid the topic.

"He's just an annoying troublemaker."

But Will didn't believe her.

Furthermore, Elisa had Gareth around her.

Gareth was an immensely possessive person. With him around, how could such a person appear around Elisa?

Chapter 1502 Wouldn't Help In The Slightest

Therefore, it only meant one thing. The man called Eden was evenly matched with Gareth!

Gareth and Elisa hadn't immediately returned to the country, so they must have met with trouble there.

When Will realized it, he spoke openly. "Liz, tell me where you are. I'll come at once."

Will would always keep his word.

Elisa answered calmly, "I'm almost done with everything here. I'll come back once Gareth and I are done. You don't have to come and help."

Gareth had taken two bullets for her. If something also happened to Will when he came here, she would be swamped looking after the two of them.

"Liz, how are..."

Before Will could finish, Elisa immediately said, "I'm good. I'll call you once I'm back. I have something to do, so I'll hang up."

Will's handsome face was solemn and silent on the other end of the phone.

After Elisa hung up, she was about to keep her cell phone, but her eyes met Gareth's clear gaze.

She was slightly astonished. "When did you wake up? How do you feel?"

She had a complicated expression when faced with the man before her. He had taken such a risk for her. Was he... worried about her? Or... was he afraid that no one would cure Grandma if she died?

It was rare for Gareth to see the concern and a moment's hesitation in her eyes.

But the next moment, he noticed Elisa's expression was intertwined with suspicion.

Elisa didn't realize it. On the other hand, Gareth had exceptional drug tolerance.

He had been administered local and general anesthesia but had quickly woken up!

She felt that Gareth could test drugs for her with his body once he recovered!

Gareth caught a glimpse of her thoughts from her eyes.

He scoffed softly. "Are you afraid you can't find anyone to test drugs for you? You just need to say the word."

Will would be first in line, and Eden would be second.

And five of Mr. Carrerra's subordinates that she had incited to rebel against their boss!

Elisa looked at him, slightly surprised. "Gareth, why do you sound so jealous?"

She had just been on the phone with Will.

She hadn't said much. Even if Gareth can tell what I'm thinking about, why is he jealous?

Gareth kept quiet, but his thin lips were pursed tightly into a straight line.

"If you have the strength to lose your temper, you might as well preserve it and rest well."

Elisa rolled her eyes at him and didn't want to speak to him too much. She still had complicated feelings and didn't dare to look at him for too long. She turned and looked at her cell phone.

At this time, Gareth suddenly realized something.

If Thomas were here, the current atmosphere wouldn't be so tense.

Gareth pursed his lips and brushed away his frosty and displeased feelings.

"It hurts."

"Of course, it hurts. You've been through two surgeries. According to my calculations, you should have woken up tomorrow afternoon, at the very least. But now it's... four in the morning. If you don't want to die, Gareth Wickam, you should shut up and go to sleep!"

She didn't want to argue with him at this critical juncture.

However, Gareth deliberately said, "Elisa Benett, in any case, I'm your savior. Is this how you treat me?"

Elisa was dumbstruck.

She turned to stare at him.

She feigned disdain. "Can you speak nicely, Gareth? You can only ride it out if it hurts. This is normal post-surgery. Giving you a painkiller now wouldn't help in the slightest."

Chapter 1503 He Would Never Release the Man!

"Mm." Gareth nodded in response. Although he had good drug tolerance, his body displayed genuine reactions.

He was swollen, and his voice was weak and hoarse.

"Stop talking and rest. I'll be here." Elisa didn't continue bickering with him. After that, she leaned back in her chair.

She was also sleepy at this time.

Gareth didn't say anything.

For some reason, he felt unbelievably calm after what Elisa said.

He even... felt indescribably at ease.

He couldn't move now and couldn't pull Elisa to him.

In the end, after hesitating, he said to Elisa, "Sleep beside me."

Elisa was dumbfounded.

She suddenly sat up and looked at him in disbelief.

In the three years they were married, they rarely met.

Everyone knew how much he hated her.

They had barely spoken while they were married for three years.

The only time they had... She didn't know how much he had loathed and detested her then.

Now that Gareth had taken the initiative to say such a thing to her, she felt that the sun would rise from the west.

"Gareth, you were shot twice, but your mind wasn't affected."

Elisa wrinkled her brows tightly and looked at Gareth closely.

Mm. This is Gareth. He's real.

Just as she was about to say something, Gareth slowly started speaking and interrupted her.

"You operated on me twice, and you've been staying by my side. You must be tired. And you must be worried about leaving me alone in my current condition, right?"

She couldn't deny that what Gareth said was reasonable and fair.

She was tired. Moreover, she wasn't confident enough to leave Gareth alone.

Elisa silently sighed at how much effort he was exerting to speak. "Stop wasting your strength talking. I'll stay with you for the next few days. I won't go anywhere but won't sleep next to you. After all, men and women should have boundaries."

Gareth's gaze dimmed slightly. His expression would have turned cold in the past, but not this time. After what had happened, he was more certain about something.

He couldn't lose her.

But just as he was about to speak, Elisa said, "Although you were injured because of me, I have to make things clear to you. We were a couple in the past, but we've divorced. We were only husband and wife in the past."

"What you need most right now is rest. Don't overthink or lose your temper."

Elisa urged him in the end.

Gareth didn't answer, and Elisa didn't say anything else.

Therefore, the room was hushed.

Gareth could even hear the soft sounds of the liquid medicine dripping.

But Elisa suddenly thought of something and broke the silence.

"By the way, Gareth, I suddenly remembered something. When I attended the dinner party with Uncle Winslow, I met a relative of the man by Nicole's side. The man's family looks very powerful. We're in Moranta. I suggest that you let the man go as soon as possible!"

Although Gareth's thoughts were interrupted by Elisa, he turned her down bluntly after hearing what she had to say.

"No."

Gareth had never feared anyone, including the man by Nicole's side. He wouldn't let Aaron go!

Elisa choked at Gareth's words.

Chapter 1504 He's Out Of His Mind!

This stupid man. He rarely reached a consensus with her. He persisted in his views and stuck to his ways!

She wanted to berate him but restrained her anger when she saw him lying weakly in bed.

She pursed her lips and said, "If you were healthy now..."

"Am I currently paralyzed?" Before Elisa could finish speaking, Gareth interrupted her coldly.

His furrowed brows showcased his current feelings.

He didn't like what Elisa said.

Elisa was startled.

She wanted to pummel him violently when she heard what he said.

Although she restrained herself, she couldn't help but say, "I never said you were disabled. Gareth Wickam, you know what I mean. Stop arguing with me for the sake of it!"

"You were shot and injured, and recovering will take a while. Even though you have good drug tolerance, you must recuperate for at least ten to fourteen days in your current condition. Let me ask you. If someone points a gun at you now, can you immediately get up and take the gun away from them?"

Elisa's intentions were clear.

He couldn't deny that what Elisa said was true.

But the problem with it was that they were now in the casino.

The person behind the scenes had failed the first time. Could they still make a move a second time?

"You..."

Elisa couldn't believe it when she sensed Gareth's thoughts.

If Winslow was there, she guessed he would have said something like, "Are you going to shamelessly blame KKCD?"

Elisa shook her head and said, "Once your condition stabilizes, I will contact Thomas to send you back. It's not a long-term solution for you to stay here. Moreover, you shouldn't be staying here."

This was what Elisa thought.

She even had thoughts of releasing Aaron.

Gareth sensed her thoughts but didn't point it out.

He said, "The drugs aren't out of my system, and I took two bullets. If I return at such a critical moment, aren't you afraid..."

However, it made Elisa raise her brows. "What should I fear? Those people are targeting me, not you. Anyway, hasn't Thomas taken Ganoderma Caligo back with him?"

Thomas didn't meet with any trouble when bringing it back.

Gareth was injured because he took the bullets for her.

Therefore, those people didn't intend to target Gareth.

As for Aaron...

She decided to release him in the morning.

Gareth's expression turned solemn. "I can't leave if they're targeting you. If an accident like this happens to you again, at least I can stay with you and protect you, right?"

Gareth said it as a matter of fact.

Did this mean she could use him as a shield?

She knew Gareth was being kind, but she couldn't do such a thing.

Her safety couldn't be established by Gareth or anyone else getting into danger.

Gareth's gaze turned cold when he saw Elisa silent.

"If you don't want me to stay and help, are you thinking of asking Will to come over?"

Elisa was dumbfounded.

They were having a pleasant conversation. Why did Gareth drag Will into this?

Elisa initially felt slightly complicated and guilty toward him, but she never expected him to say such a thing. Right now, she felt that Gareth was seriously out of his mind!

Elisa said, "Gareth, I'm very grateful that you took the bullets for me."

Chapter 1505 The Next Sunrise

When she saw the man's dark expression, she said, "I'm afraid even when I think of it now. Have you never thought about all the possibilities of what could have happened? What if the shooter was more accurate? Do you think you'll be able to lie before me and say such things?"

"We've divorced. It's my freedom to do what I want and look for anyone I want. You have no right to interfere in my life. I want to tell you that regardless of our involvement with each other, we are living beings. If it were anyone else, I wouldn't have stayed still and watched them die either."

Gareth only raised his brows slightly when faced with Elisa's clear stance. He answered indifferently, "Really?"

A faint smile seemed to be on the corners of his lips.

Just as Elisa was about to answer him, she heard Gareth ask her a question.

"If you would have done it for anyone else, why do you keep trembling even when you speak?"

And her hands. He clearly sensed her fingers trembling momentarily.

Just like she said, humans were living beings. They couldn't be ruthless.

He was ignorant in the three years they were married. He didn't observe her carefully or try to understand her.

At that moment, he couldn't express his feelings and emotions.

But the most noticeable part was how his chest felt. It was as though it were pinned by something heavy.

It felt stifling. It was even tough and uncomfortable to breathe.

The feeling was more noticeable when she spoke to Will on the phone.

Elisa was silent and kept quiet when she heard what Gareth said.

Did she feel that way at the moment?

But Elisa didn't think that it was anything to be ashamed of.

She looked up.

"So what if I was trembling? Just like what you said, we were married. In any case, I used to genuinely like you. Wouldn't I turn to stone if I had no emotion left?"

"But our relationship was barely maintained in the three years we were married. Don't raise your hopes and make your family happy. Don't think I will agree to reconcile with you just because of my subtle feelings!"

Elisa made her stance clear.

She didn't want to return to the past and be as stupid as she used to be.

Gareth denied it. "I never thought so. I just think that..."

But Elisa didn't want to hear him talk any longer.

"Do whatever you like. It's your problem. It's late, and I'm tired of watching over you. If you can't sleep, count sheep. I'm going to sleep now!"

After that, Elisa got up and walked out.

People were keeping guard at the door. She instructed one of them and left.

Around seven in the morning.

Mr. North arrived.

He found out from the person on guard that Elisa had returned to her room.

The doctor wasn't around, so Gareth should have been alone in his room.

It was an excellent opportunity for Mr. North.

But his collar was pulled viciously from the back before he could open the door.

After that, he was pushed to the side forcefully.

He felt pressure on his knees before he came to his senses.

'Thump.'

He suddenly knelt on the floor.

At the same time, he saw clearly who was before him.

It was Winslow, his boss.

Winslow had a dark expression and was livid.

"What did I tell you? You shouldn't lay a finger on Gareth. If you continue to have such thoughts, you won't live to see the next sunrise if I notice it."

Winslow rebuked and warned Mr. North angrily.

No one was allowed to touch Gareth. It was undoubtedly because of Elisa.

If no one could lay a finger on him, did it mean that Gareth could continue committing crimes here?

Chapter 1506 Stupid Man

Moreover, Mr. North couldn't accept being detained in the underground room and defeated in the showdown!

Mr. North looked up with a reluctant expression!

"Boss, Gareth Wickam isn't good news. If he dies, no one will disturb Ms. Benett anymore. Furthermore, he and Ms. Benett are divorced. On what grounds does he deserve to be on the receiving end of her kindness or intimidate people in the casino?"

"Because he's Liz's ex-husband. Mr. North, you're my most valued subordinate. I don't want to repeat myself. I said that you can't lay a finger on Gareth. It's final."

"If you want to disobey me and can't restrain yourself, you can get out of KKCD now!"

Winslow spoke viciously.

Mr. North was silent and felt upset.

No matter how reluctant he felt, it was no match for how upset he felt.

He had worked at KKCD Casino for many years and treated it like home.

He also treated Winslow as family.

At present, Winslow was thinking of Gareth for Elisa's sake. Winslow had discovered Mr. North's purpose more than once and spoke to him viciously.

How could Mr. North accept it?

He could leave Gareth alone, but he couldn't lose his home.

Under such a contrast, Mr. North could only compromise.

Winslow saw Mr. North give in, and he patted Mr. North's shoulder as he gave advice.

"You know you're at peace when you can pander to the person you hate most with a smile."

"Brie is a woman, and it's inconvenient for her. You'll look after Gareth at this time."

Mr. North understood everything since Winslow started talking.

Mr. North followed Winslow's orders precisely.

However, he was preparing to look after Gareth when Elisa came to Gareth with the herbal tonic she had prepared.

Gareth had woken up early.

When Elisa opened the door, Gareth smelled a strong herbal scent.

He knew it was Elisa.

She quickly walked to him.

She put the medicine aside and wanted to slowly help him sit up.

But men and women had different strengths. On top of his injury, Elisa didn't dare exert too much force.

When she almost couldn't support Gareth's weight, Mr. North appeared.

"Let me help you, Ms. Benett."

He had come forward as he said it.

Gareth leaned against the headboard with Mr. North's help.

"Thank you, Mr. North."

Elisa thanked Mr. North.

But her thanks made Gareth wrinkle his brows tightly.

When had he thanked anyone?

Elisa noticed Gareth's expression and reached out to tug his hand.

After that, she turned and told Mr. North, "I can do the rest myself. You can leave first. I'll call you if I need anything else."

"Alright."

Mr. North nodded and left.

After he left, Elisa spoke to Gareth.

"In any case, he came to help. How can you act that way? Gareth, you wronged him. How do you always act like you're better than everyone?"

She was also referring to when he had just regained consciousness.

He had clearly saved her, and she was touched, but what happened after that?

He acted as if she was ungrateful and seemed highly impatient.

Gareth said coldly, "I don't need his help."

Pfft!

He's so aloof!

If he didn't need Mr. North's help, why did he accept it?

This stupid man. She felt conflicted and confused.

Chapter 1507 She Deserves It!

However, she didn't want to argue with Gareth about it.

"This is the herbal tonic I prepared. Quickly drink it while it's warm."

As she spoke, she handed him the herbal tonic in a bowl she had just placed down.

Gareth slowly raised his left hand, which was connected to an IV.

He put on an act and coughed.

"Feed me."

Even if Gareth hadn't said anything, Elisa would have done so anyway.

When Elisa thought of how she would release Aaron, she mentioned it to Gareth.

"I'm going to release Aaron and Nicole later. You don't have the energy to deal with them at this critical juncture. You must do it anyway when the Tabor family asks you to release Nicole."

Gareth couldn't deny what Elisa said.

But ever since Gareth had instructed Thomas to detain these two people, Gareth had never thought of releasing them.

But then again, he wasn't fearful. He could ignore everything, but not Elisa.

Ultimately, Gareth acknowledged it in a low voice and agreed with Elisa.

After feeding him the herbal tonic, she felt his pulse again.

It was still weak.

Elisa couldn't help but sigh. "You didn't listen when I asked you to return previously. You insisted on..."

She suddenly stopped and felt slightly frustrated.

Never mind. What's the point of saying anything?

Gareth was shot because he was saving her.

She wasn't an ungrateful person.

Therefore, she told Gareth, "I'm very thankful you saved me. I'm bound by duty to you if you need my help."

Gareth's gaze turned cold, but the next moment, he said coldly, "I didn't think of it, but after what you said, I thought of something. No one else but you can do it."

Elisa knew what was coming when she heard no one else could do it.

She wanted to retract it, but looking at Gareth's solemn expression at the moment, Elisa knew the damage was done.

She could only smile and wait for Gareth to continue.

Sure enough, it was what she had expected.

Gareth said, "Grandpa and Grandma are getting on in years, and they're getting weaker. They don't have many desires other than wanting us to remarry. Elisa... this is the only thing you can help me with now."

Elisa was dumbstruck.

What did I do?

I made my bed, and I must now lie in it.

The next moment, Elisa said indifferently, "Gareth, other than this, I can think of ways to help you with other things."

"It hasn't been long since we divorced. Furthermore, what do Grandma and Grandpa want? Not only do they want us to remarry, but they also want great-grandchildren. I can't fulfill that dream of theirs, so I must turn you down."

As Elisa spoke, she got up and left the room.

Gareth watched her figure, and the corners of his mouth pursed into a straight line.

He had a solemn and cold expression.

...

On the other end.

Nicole and Aaron had been locked in the small, confined room for a few days. No one had come to rescue them, and they lived each day in the dark.

Nicole counted the minutes. If Gareth didn't let them go in five minutes, she would widely spread the video of her in Elisa's skin mask on various domestic platforms!

And Elisa, who was far away in Moranta, would be clueless!

Nicole sneered. She deserves it!

Even if Elisa found out, the damage would be done. Who would think that the video was fake?

Five minutes.

Four minutes.

Three minutes.

The smile in the corners of Nicole's smile deepened. Very good.

Chapter 1508 Clueless

Elisa had brought it on herself.

Across from her, a man looked at her with a faint smile. "I like seeing you like this."

Nicole's expression froze, and she quickly came to her senses before looking at him. She was displeased.

Aaron narrowed his eyes. "Honey, you look adorable when you're plotting against others."

Nicole looked at him coldly. Ultimately, she said indifferently, "I'm advising you not to be so meddlesome."

Aaron immediately raised his brows and said with a beam, "How am I meddlesome? I've always supported you. Don't you know that?"

His voice was always so calm and at ease.

Nicole glanced at him indifferently and didn't say anything else.

It was time!

Just as Nicole had arranged, Elisa's video spread on the Internet!

Elisa's cell phone was charging in her room.

She was unaware of public opinion about her and the accusations hurled at her.

Rachel called her repeatedly and was very anxious. "What on earth is Liz doing?! Why isn't she answering her phone?!"

Not only had she called Elisa, but she had also looked for Elisa in her group chat. Rachel and Sheena discussed this for a long time but couldn't contact her!

Rachel's brows furrowed tightly, and she paced in the house, but...

She no longer hesitated when she thought of how Elisa was with Gareth. She called someone else!

Before she said anything, the other party said excitedly, "My dearest! You finally called me because you miss me!"

Rachel was dumbstruck.

Stupid depraved man!

She was utterly flabbergasted at how he always harassed her like this!

Rachel didn't want to beat around the bush. She asked directly, "Has Gareth contacted you recently? Did he say what's going on there? They were looking for Ganoderma Caligo, but why is Liz nowhere to be found?"

She was anxious because she couldn't contact Elisa.

Vincent's expression immediately turned dark!

"D*mn! Don't you miss me? Why do you always think about others?!"

"Stupid! I have no time to talk about such things with you now! Are you in contact with Gareth? There's an urgent situation!"

Vincent furrowed his brows and said, "Why would Gareth contact me since he's with Elisa? Don't worry. With Gareth around, how could he let Elisa get into trouble?"

Even if Gareth seemed incompetent, he was still a man.

Although if he hadn't been able to maintain his three-year marriage with Elisa, in any case, he deemed Elisa as his woman.

Even if it were all in the past, Gareth wouldn't ignore her.

Be that as it may, Rachel still felt that something was unusual about this.

She frowned, and her expression was dark. "Did you see what was released online?"

Vincent wrinkled his brows, perplexed. "What was released online?"

Elisa hadn't returned, and he hadn't progressed with Rachel.

He couldn't develop any strategies recently, so he didn't have the time to care about gossip on the Internet.

Rachel gave up when she saw how clueless Vincent was.

"Alright. It was a mistake to call and ask you. Quickly give me Gareth's cell phone number."

It was better to ask the person in question rather than Vincent.

She also wanted to ask Gareth how long they had to look for Ganoderma Caligo!

Vincent was instantly displeased. "... You called to ask about another man. It's fine that you don't care about me, but you're asking for another man's number. Rachel, you..."

Vincent indicated that he was hurt.

But this made Rachel feel disdainful. She couldn't help but chide Vincent. "D*mn! Can you get yourself together?! It's nauseating when you're like this. Quickly give me his number. I don't have the time to spout rubbish with you!"

Chapter 1509 Gareth's Ex-Wife

She was worried about Elisa.

They had been best friends for many years. With what Rachel knew about Elisa, Elisa would never run out naked so eagerly.

Rachel couldn't ignore it when such negative news was released about Elisa.

Elisa had her cell phone and would never ignore calls unless something had happened to her.

Therefore, Rachel had to confirm it with Gareth.

If Gareth didn't answer either, she had to make a trip to Moranta!

Vincent knew it was about something important, so he stopped shooting his mouth off with Rachel. Just as she had requested, he quickly sent Gareth's number to her.

He didn't hang up, but Rachel ended the call without a word when she saw that he had sent her Gareth's number.

Vincent's handsome face immediately turned cloudy when he heard the dial tone on his cell phone. His face was dark.

This stupid woman! Am I so unimportant to her?

Since Elisa hadn't returned and was now with Gareth in Moranta, he hadn't wanted to disturb her and wanted to look for strategies on his own.

Nevertheless, with the current situation, he thought it would be better to wait for Elisa.

Elisa was calm and reliable!

But he didn't know Elisa wouldn't actually help him or participate in anything. After all, Vincent had a criminal record, and Rachel wouldn't be moved. Vincent had to work hard on his own. Elisa wouldn't advise him, but she wouldn't stop him either.

After Rachel received the number, she immediately called Gareth.

Gareth's cell phone was on the bedside table. But where was he?

He hadn't laid down since Elisa and Mr. North had helped him up to lean against the headboard.

Therefore, he immediately heard his cell phone ringing when Rachel called him. He picked it up.

It was an unknown number. Gareth frowned and was on guard.

Until Rachel's voice rang in his ears.

"Gareth, what the heck is going on? Liz is helping you out of affection and not duty. Why does it feel like you're trafficking her? Where's Liz?! Why isn't she answering my calls?"

Rachel had a particularly nasty tone. She was clearly losing her temper.

Compared to Rachel's fiery rage, Gareth seemed cold and indifferent. "She's busy."

Rachel was Elisa's best friend, so Gareth had to be tolerant of her.

Rachel was dumbfounded.

She still felt something wasn't right. "Why doesn't she have her cell phone if she's busy?"

"She's letting people go."

Gareth was concise and indifferent.

Rachel was baffled.

What is going on?

As she was about to ask further, Gareth didn't intend to speak to her any longer.

"I'll ask her to call you when she returns."

After that, Gareth hung up.

Rachel wasn't surprised to hear the dial tone. Gareth was always like that, but it would be okay if he could ensure Liz's safety.

At that moment, Elisa was before Nicole and Aaron.

Nicole was surprised when she saw Elisa.

Because Elisa had a cold demeanor and looked at everything disdainfully.

The video had rushed to the top trending list on various big domestic platforms. Moreover, it was going viral.

Especially since it was the daughter of the Benett family, the current acting president of Benett Corporation, and Gareth's ex-wife.

Nicole shut her eyes and could imagine the news headlines and how others attacked Elisa verbally.

But what was the result?

Elisa was still so calm after she found out.

At that moment, Nicole admired Elisa deeply for how composed Elisa was when she was in trouble.

Nicole thought Elisa had come to criticize her but never imagined that at the next moment...

Chapter 1510 Poor Character

Elisa was actually loosening Nicole's restraints.

After that, Elisa also untied Aaron!

Nicole didn't understand what was happening. "What are you doing, Elisa?"

Gareth hadn't even seen them after he instructed Thomas to trap them there.

They were held there the whole time without food or drink.

And now, Elisa didn't even know the vulgar video had been exposed and was trending. She didn't say a word and was even untying them.

Therefore, Nicole couldn't understand Elisa's current actions.

Elisa said indifferently, "Isn't it obvious? Or do you like being treated like this?"

Nicole clearly didn't.

But the more Elisa acted like this, the more uncomfortable Nicole felt.

She was initially prepared to catch Elisa off guard.

But what did Elisa do?

She didn't react at all.

Just as Nicole was about to say something, Aaron walked to her. "Nicole, let's leave the casino."

Elisa couldn't be bothered to talk to Nicole anymore.

But before Elisa turned away, she spoke to Nicole viciously. "Nicole, if you dare to do this again, I guarantee you won't get away so easily!"

After that, Nicole was left with Elisa's long, cold, and resolute figure.

Nicole subconsciously backed away when she saw it.

Aaron was worried about Nicole and immediately held her. "Are you alright, Nicole?"

She was sick of Aaron from the bottom of her heart.

When Aaron touched her, her first instinct was to push him away.

She said coldly, "I'm fine."

"Let's go." Upon seeing Nicole like that, Aaron didn't say anything else.

Nicole composed herself and left the room without turning around before leaving KKCD.

After releasing the two of them, Elisa returned to Gareth's side.

Gareth's physical condition was her current priority.

However, when her eyes met with him, he said, "Rachel called just now."

"Oh."

Elisa answered indifferently before looking for her cell phone.

She realized she left it in her room.

When she turned, Gareth called her. "Aren't you tired of walking up and down?"

As he spoke, Elisa saw him pass her his cell phone.

Elisa was slow to realize that Rachel had called Gareth because she had left her cell phone in her room.

At that moment, if she used Gareth's cell phone to call Rachel back, wouldn't that be...

Gareth's voice interrupted her thoughts. "What are you thinking about?"

"Nothing." Elisa shook her head.

Although she thought of it, she still used Gareth's cell phone to call Rachel back.

At that moment, it was as though they were telepathic.

"Liz?" Rachel asked doubtfully on the other end of the phone.

Elisa nodded. "Mm. It's me. Why were you in such a hurry to look for me?"

"D*mn! You're asking me why I'm looking for you? A video of you running naked from a room was exposed in the country. It's been shared wildly on various big platforms, and it's going viral. Do you know that people online have been swearing at you for having poor character?"

Upon hearing it, Elisa fell silent. Her expression visibly turned cold, and Gareth could sense something wrong.

She thought of Nicole's reactions. No wonder Nicole had looked at her like that and asked such questions.