

No Chance 1601

Chapter 1601 Calm in the Face of Danger

She felt her stomach roll and found herself hanging upside down before realizing that she was in a warm embrace.

Will was embracing her.

She remained confused for around ten minutes before realizing she was in a car accident.

The truck did not slow down as it crashed into them, leaving the car severely dented.

The vehicle had flipped one hundred and eighty degrees and slid out of the road.

Her stomach lurched, and her head felt like it had collided with something.

At the same time, she felt something heavy on top of her.

She pushed gently and was surprised that she moved Will easily.

Then, she saw that he was covered with blood. He looked like he had been fished out of a pool of red liquid as blood dripped from him.

Worse, he was unconscious, and his leg was stuck.

Elisa struggled and climbed out of the car door.

There were already many passersby surrounding the accident scene.

The driver was not severely injured, likely protected by a seatbelt and airbag. Luckily for him, the windshield did not shatter but was covered with web-like cracks.

It seemed his injury was not much worse than hers.

Elisa bore with the pain and asked the crowd to call the emergency services.

Then, she rushed to the other side of the car and tried to get Will out.

Unfortunately, she could not do it by herself.

Will was trapped under the severely out-of-shape door. If she was not mistaken, his pelvis was stuck.

She feared it could be injured.

However, Elisa did not have time to ponder about it. She immediately fed him a white pill she had formulated to coagulate his blood.

Otherwise, he could die from severe blood loss.

Then, Elisa tried to free him again, but her efforts only worsened things.

She suddenly felt something cool on her hands.

It was her tears.

She felt suffocating from the sense of helplessness.

At the same time, she was afraid. It would take some time for the fire department to arrive. She feared the wreckage would cut off blood circulation from the trapped body part. The nerves would die from prolonged insufficient blood circulation, which could lead to permanent disability.

"Wake up, Will. Please wake up!" Elisa prayed that Will would wake up soon.

Unfortunately, the heavens would not grant her wish and even played a cruel joke on her.

Elisa suddenly smelled gasoline and followed the smell to track the source. It turned out the oil tank was leaking.

She widened her eyes in shock. Their situation had taken a turn for the worse.

It meant the car could explode at any time.

Elisa shouted to the crowd, "Please help me move him. The oil tank is leaking!"

However, most people only retreated upon hearing her. They feared getting involved in the explosion.

The crowd exchanged glances, waiting to see who would dare to help her.

Thankfully, there were still a few good people in the world.

Soon, four to five men stepped forward and worked with Elisa to free Will from the wreckage.

These people risked their lives because no one knew when the car would explode.

"We will lift this part together on the count of three," Elisa directed and remained calm in the face of danger.

Soon, they succeeded in lifting the wreckage from Will. Then, they moved his bloodied body from the destruction and rushed him to the hospital.

The media reported the severe car accident and highlighted how passersby worked together to rescue the victims.

Moreover, the camera recorded Elisa and Will's faces and showed them in various media outlets.

Chapter 1602 Not as Interesting as Gossip

However, this immediately caused a heated debate among the public.

"Isn't Elisa going to remarry Gareth? Why is she with the Darcey son?"

"What a dumb question. Isn't it obvious? She's cheating on them. She's such an erratic woman. And she's divorced. I don't know what these two excellent men see in her."

"Don't you know that men love unruly women like her? This proves it! The more unruly a woman is, the more a man loves her."

"Nonsense. Do you know how Elisa is acting? Depraved!"

...

After that, many Internet users started to verbally attack and abuse Elisa.

Some even photoshopped Elisa onto black and white obituaries. Elisa didn't know about all this, but Rachel immediately saw the news.

She was incensed.

"Vincent, can you be more helpful during crucial moments? I want to go back now. Arrange a private plane for me!"

"Woman, didn't I tell you that I'm bankrupt? Otherwise, would I have to try every possible way to get involved with you? We wouldn't be trapped in Hilesin because the plane broke down!"

Vincent sighed deeply.

At that moment, he didn't know Elisa was severely attacked by public opinion. He just thought Rachel wanted to quickly return to the country and go to Elisa's side to stop any possibility of Elisa and Gareth's relationship developing.

Vincent had a distressed expression.

Rachel was annoyed when she saw Vincent like that.

Rachel pulled and tugged his sleeve anxiously.

"Can't you ask your good friends for help? Elisa is in trouble, so I have to return immediately. At once!"

Vincent knew that Rachel valued her friendship with Elisa the most.

From Rachel's current expression, it seemed like Elisa was in serious trouble.

"What happened?"

"Look at it yourself!"

Rachel handed Vincent her cell phone.

After a moment, Vincent no longer had a distressed expression. He turned serious and solemn. "I'll contact someone."

Vincent worked quickly when he was serious.

Around two hours later, they returned to the country in a private jet.

...

On Elisa's end.

Will was pushed into the operating theater, and Elisa waited outside anxiously.

Looking at the lit-up 'In Surgery' sign, she had complicated feelings.

When she watched television in the past, if one of the main characters was injured, the other would pace outside the operating theater or refuse to sit still.

She didn't understand in the past, but she did now.

Because, at present, she couldn't help but pace outside. When she sat down, she felt frantic and wanted to do something.

She kept praying and was thinking about how she could enter the operating theater.

Therefore, she didn't know that the public was cursing at her.

The commotion of public opinion pushed Elisa into the limelight.

Perhaps some people didn't know of Elisa or heard of her name before today.

After all, she wasn't of a particular social class. It was normal.

But her name was heard all over live streams today.

Everyone enthusiastically discussed the relationship between the three.

Ordinary people loved to read about gossip.

Social welfare or science and technology wasn't as interesting as gossip.

Chapter 1603 A Hostile Gaze

Gossip about cheating and love triangles in a wealthy social class was exactly what people were most concerned with.

Furthermore, the main female character in question was so pretty.

Different opinions appeared while everyone was cursing at Elisa.

"I have to say that Elisa and Will are actually quite well matched. They're both good-looking."

"As expected of wealthy people. I've never seen someone so beautiful. Has anyone seen Elisa in person? Is she as gorgeous as she is in the photos?"

"Me! I've seen her in person at the company. She's stunning in real life. Breathtakingly ravishing! She's a good match for Mr. Darcey."

A particular woman was dumbstruck.

'Crash!'

A sound rang in an office. Jocelyn Oxley swept everything off her table to vent.

She had immediately been worried about Will when she saw the trending topics in the morning and wanted to visit him in the hospital in the afternoon.

She had asked her friends to investigate which hospital he was in.

She never thought she would see such comments.

She hadn't wanted to believe it at first.

She naturally trusted Will's character.

She had liked him for so long, and they had grown up together. She understood his character and disposition the best. How could he be entangled with a shady woman?

But she couldn't tolerate how everyone online started to see Will and Elisa as a couple after gossiping about them.

Furthermore, she didn't fully understand Will's recent well-being after being overseas all these years.

What if he really likes someone else? What if that happens? What should I do?

Jocelyn couldn't wait and wanted to rush there when she saw how pretty Elisa was and how well-matched Elisa was with Will!

She immediately arranged for a car and came to the hospital.

With the hospital director's directions, Jocelyn arrived outside the operating theater aggressively and immediately saw Elisa, who was there.

Elisa was also slightly injured, but they were superficial wounds. Her clothes were also somewhat torn.

Her face was also dotted with cuts.

She didn't know when Will would come out, so she hadn't dealt with her bruises.

Her hair was messy, but she possessed a simple beauty.

In short, her injuries didn't affect her overall attractiveness.

Elisa leaned against the railing as she looked down at her feet. She wasn't showing much emotion, but she naturally looked unfriendly.

She was still pretty.

It was precisely because of this that made Jocelyn angrier.

Jocelyn gritted her teeth and made her way over.

Elisa felt a hostile gaze staring at her. When she looked up, she saw an unfamiliar girl standing near her. The girl was dressed fashionably and looked wealthy with one glance.

The girl was staring fiercely at Elisa and walking over threateningly.

Elisa frowned. She didn't remember having any grudges with the girl.

But Jocelyn was still approaching Elisa.

When Jocelyn was near Elisa, she raised her hand and wanted to hit Elisa.

But Elisa stopped her calmly.

Elisa was somewhat forceful, and Jocelyn couldn't free herself even after struggling.

She stared at Elisa rudely and was just about to hit Elisa with her other hand when Elisa seemed to see through her tricks.

Before Jocelyn raised her hand, Elisa said coldly, "I advise you not to move if you don't want a fractured hand. My patience has its limits."

Chapter 1604 Selfish Motives

As Elisa spoke, her grip tightened, and Jocelyn cried out in pain.

Elisa didn't overdo it. She didn't actually break Jocelyn's wrist. She loosened her grip.

Jocelyn held her hand and looked at Elisa tearfully. She wanted to hit Elisa but didn't dare to. She didn't know how else to intimidate Elisa without force.

For a moment, Jocelyn didn't know what to say.

Elisa said, "Do you have the wrong person, Miss? I've never seen you. You don't have to greet me with... a slap, do you?"

Elisa felt that the girl was quite weird.

Jocelyn grew angrier when she heard it.

"The wrong person? How can I mistake your charming face that you seduce men with?" Jocelyn spat. She looked at Elisa as though she were looking at a pile of disgusting garbage.

Elisa, who was usually good-tempered, was enraged this time.

Anyone who was almost hit for no reason and accused of seducing men would get angry.

Furthermore, Elisa always had a lousy temper.

She leaned closer to Jocelyn, and Jocelyn backed away in dismay.

"You... Are... Are... Are you trying to hit me in the hospital?!"

Elisa smiled. She didn't know why the woman was so shameless.

Who was the first to make a move?

How can she hit me? Why can't I hit her?

"You better state your intentions while I still have my patience. I don't have the time to waste with you here. My friend is in the operating theater, and I want to wait for him here quietly. You better not disturb me. Otherwise... you have to bear the consequences."

Elisa glanced at the girl from top to bottom with a disdainful expression.

It was her response to Jocelyn's initial glance at her.

Jocelyn was furious. She glanced at the hospital director beside her and pointed at Elisa as she panted with rage. "What are you waiting for? Why don't you quickly throw this filthy woman out? Who does she think she is to stay here and spout nonsense to me?!"

The hospital director looked at Elisa and then at Jocelyn, seeming to be in a difficult position. Ultimately, he simply hung his head and pretended not to see anything.

Jocelyn was livid. On the other hand, Elisa sized up the crazy woman before her thoughtfully, trying to figure out who she was since the hospital director seemed to be at her beck and call.

That's right. Jocelyn had turned into a crazy woman in Elisa's eyes.

Jocelyn was determined to hit Elisa. It was only natural that Elisa thought Jocelyn was mad.

"Did you come to see Will Darcey?"

Elisa asked with furrowed brows.

It was a woman's intuition that the person before her had a close relationship with Will.

Jocelyn was incensed.

"Who do you think you are to say Will's name?"

Elisa was left speechless, but it confirmed her suspicion that the crazy woman was here for Will.

But she had never heard him mention a fiancée or girlfriend. If he had either, he wouldn't promise to pretend to be her boyfriend or... confess his feelings.

Elisa assumed the woman in front of her was a mad woman pursuing Will.

Elisa shook her head. She realized she didn't know Will at all.

"If you're his friend, you can leave. He's still undergoing surgery and can't see anyone. I'll let you know at once if there's news."

Elisa initially had good intentions and didn't want Jocelyn to wait here blindly. But of course, she also had selfish motives. She didn't want to face the crazy woman alone.

Chapter 1605 Get Lost!

But she never thought that Jocelyn would get angry. Jocelyn pointed at Elisa and started berating her.

"Who do you think you are? Do you think you're his girlfriend?! Let me tell you that Old Mrs. Darcey approved of me as the Darcey granddaughter-in-law. I grew up with Will since we were young. You can't interfere in our relationship. You should be the one to leave!"

Elisa felt annoyed that Jocelyn was berating her while pointing at her. It took her a lot of effort to control herself and not lay a finger on Jocelyn.

Elisa sneered. "Really? So why haven't I heard Will mention you?"

She doesn't want me to mention Will by name? I'll do it on purpose.

"It's because I was overseas. I'm back now. Every Tom, Dick, and Harry has to step aside. Perhaps Will took pity on you in the past, but he doesn't like you. Don't get ahead of yourself."

Jocelyn spoke self-righteously but didn't know Elisa wasn't paying much attention.

No, Elisa wasn't listening at all.

Elisa was utterly ignoring Jocelyn.

Jocelyn's chest started heaving violently. It was apparent that she was furious.

"It's impossible. You're lying!"

Jocelyn's face was filled with rage. She was also confident that Elisa was lying.

Elisa had nothing to say to such a crazy and irrational woman.

She simply leaned against the railing again and kept quiet.

Jocelyn couldn't take being ignored, but she didn't dare to do anything to Elisa. She could only order the hospital director around.

"In the name of the Oxley and Darcey families, I command you to throw this woman out. She offended me, so she's in trouble!"

The hospital director hesitated slightly.

He was an outsider. Only the person lying in the operating theater knew the truth.

He could only guess the two women's identities through what they were saying.

It was evident that he took Elisa's silence as a guilty conscience.

He thought she couldn't retort.

What Jocelyn said was clear. He pondered which woman was more important.

"Why don't you leave for the time being, Miss?"

Elisa glanced at him. A familiar voice rang before she could say anything.

"Who dares to do such a thing?!"

Looking toward the voice, Gareth walked over and fixed his gaze on Elisa.

She didn't look at him.

Gareth walked to Elisa's side and stood firmly. He looked at Jocelyn and said, "This isn't a place you can act irresponsibly. Elisa isn't someone you can manipulate, either. Watch your temper. Otherwise, get lost."

Jocelyn's expression changed. The man's forceful demeanor made her particularly frightened.

She knew who he was!

However, Elisa and Will had an ambiguous relationship. Why is he protecting Elisa?!

"You...!"

"Get lost!" Gareth's gaze was dangerous.

She was taken aback and didn't dare to say anything. Her tears fell in a rage.

It was apparent that the young woman felt more aggrieved today than ever.

After dealing with Jocelyn, Gareth's attitude changed completely as he spoke softly in Elisa's ears, "Don't be afraid. I'm here. I've instructed people to suppress the rumors spreading outside. They're doing their best to minimize the impact."

Elisa acknowledged it softly and kept quiet.

She could solve it herself whether or not he turned up.

But what was happening outside wouldn't have been solved so quickly.

"Thanks," Elisa spoke briefly.