

No Chance 175

Chapter 175 Had So Much Fun

Rose took a deep breath, "Mrs. Wickam just called and told me that Old Madam Wickam is feeling much better now. She also said that someone will come see you and that they will overlook this."

Linda gritted her teeth, "Why does it matter if they overlook this? Now everyone will think that I'm a hypocrite! They'll think that I made up stories about my relationship with Elisa. Elisa was kind enough to remind me, but I acted like the dog who bit the hand that fed me! I even tried to surpass her! How will I ever clear my name?!"

She had spent years protecting her image, and now it was all for naught! Elisa had torn apart her façade!

"Gareth barely said a word to me today! He even glared at me! He doesn't love me anymore! How will I face him now? What will people say about me?!"

Rose tried to talk sense into her. "The Benett name still holds some worth. No one would dare speak ill of you. Linda, dear, don't worry about your image. Your priority right now is to make sure Gareth marries you. We're all businessmen here. This will benefit all parties. No matter what they say about you, you are still the person who saved Gareth's life."

Norman nodded seriously, "That's right. We can slowly try to fix what Elisa said about you. There's still a chance you can comeback from this. Don't give up so easily! There is no chance the Wickams will call this off!"

this, Linda finally to give her some space to vent after what had was still angry, she knew that her parents were

"What should I was also afraid that mutual benefits outweigh feelings. Sooner or later, Gareth and she were going to doing and build a good image for yourself. Pretend to set aside what had happened in the past.

Remember, you are kind

eyes

"Monica highly approves on your marriage with Gareth. I'll sit down with her and find a solution together. If possible, there are ways to

Linda's features tensed. "Mom..."

It's just... She had never done this before, and was a girl. How would she even bring this up