

No Chance 188

Chapter 188 Your Mother Deserted You

Elisa's lips twitched into a smile upon hearing that. She knew very well that Linda was quite resilient. If it weren't for the incident the day before that completely ruined her plans, she would not be so irate to destroy her perfect reputation all this while.

Smiling, Elisa replied, "I never wanted to be with Gareth again, but it's a different matter for you. It seems like Gareth doesn't care much about you either. Even if you sleep in his bed for another year, he will only ever feel pity for you. Using gratitude to bind him into the marriage, is your situation any different from mine in the past?"

"Of course it's different!" Linda retaliated sarcastically without a second thought. "You are not me, after all, and I would never use gratitude to control him. The fact that he doesn't like you doesn't affect him liking me. Just you wait, Elisa."

Elisa nodded with a smile. "In that case, I send my best wishes to you. I also hope that you can get out of this awkward situation so that others won't think of you as a clown. Otherwise, even I will feel sorry for you."

"You—"

life wouldn't be so miserable now! Even if no one told me directly, I know that I'm being tragically mocked behind their backs! And this is the next second, she suddenly smiled before approaching Elisa. "Do you think you've won, Elisa?" she asked in a frowned before looking into a sneer and continued, "Do you know what is the main failure of it your husband or your family! You will never get any recognition from others." The more she elaborated, the happier she became. Once again, she said in a low voice, "Because you're a daughter, you are useless to your mother. She dumped and looked at her instinctively. "What do you mean by