

No Chance 194

Chapter 194 Back for the Assets?

Though Norman was displeased by her actions, he did not comment on it. Instead, he sat right in front of her and smiled at her warmly. "Liz, why did you suddenly decide on a divorce a while back? Have you thought about telling me about your decision? If he doesn't treat you well, I will stand up for you."

"Standup for me?"

When I was pushing for a divorce, the entire news went viral online. Everyone in the country, hell, even the entire world knew about it. On top of that, he was at the dinner party. Do I still need to tell him about it? Do I even need to inform him personally about it?

She knew very well that Norman did not want their relationship to be too tense. Otherwise, he would not have said such sweet words and invited her back.

In my opinion, there are two reasons for him doing this now. Firstly, he worries about Grandma's support for me in the Wickam family. Because of her influential position, he's worried that she might not give Linda a chance. Secondly, I am Iris. Suppose he really annoys me, with my capabilities as a lawyer, as long as I collaborate with his opponents and file a lawsuit, I will be able to make them compensate with an inordinate amount of money. After all... even Gareth paid that much, let alone him. I bet he's wary of me now.

silent, with no intentions of replying to him, making him feel seat, she immediately

utter any complaints about that because they were recording she chuckled. "You've arrived just at the right time, Liz. I've finished cooking, but my techniques might be slightly unrefined because over some cutlery to her with a smile.

began helping herself to the food at ease. She had no plans of the rest of the family planned to find a topic for their conversation. After all, they said, "Liz, smile before replying, "Of course not. After Dad's passing, you've been temporarily managing the company on his behalf. No matter what, I should

that, the remaining three family members