Chapter 211

"Damn! This is getting exciting! It's rare for both of them to show up at the same event. I'm excited to see what's going to happen between these two infamous presidents, who are rivals to each other!"

The crowd's eyes were filled with disbelief as they discussed among themselves.

"The appearance of both of them shows the importance of the car racing event this time!"

"You bet! The race is not the highlight, but the program that follows thereafter!"

The scene gave rise to many discussions among the audience.

Naturally, Gareth and the others did not hear the gossip. Staring at Will, Gareth was relieved for some reason when he perceived that the former came alone this time,

Vincent's face darkened at once. "Damn it!"

If it weren't for that stuff, I would never fawn over a tomboy like you!

Elisa laughed in spite of herself. "Come on, Rachel, you should guard your tongue. After all, there are so many people here."

Gareth gazed toward Elisa and knitted his brows. The elegance she emanated through her composure was so natural that it was unconcealable.

Even Will, who sat further away from Elisa, looked in her direction. Obviously, he was curious about this woman too.

"It's possible. I think there's no problem treating it as a practice."

"If she just wants to practice her techniques, she could have registered on her own. Why did she choose to represent the Semoa Group?"

"Has she done that? It's not mentioned anywhere though. Perhaps they already knew each other?"

The crowd started discussing among themselves.

Looking at her, Gareth had an uncanny feeling that something was off. The more he looked at her, the more she seemed familiar, but he kept denying it.

Vincent had already gotten up, but his face instantly darkened when he realized that Gareth was not even looking at him. "Hey, I'm representing your company, but you are so cocky!"

When they saw that woman, they immediately got up and discussed about her until now. What’s going on, and what’s the deal with her?

Even though Will had such thoughts in his mind, he remained seated.

On the other hand, after Elisa got into the queue, a figure suddenly appeared behind her. When she felt the sense of familiarity and turned around, she was stunned to see Gareth behind her. Her eyes immediately widened in surprise as she thought, Is he going to join the race himself?

Meanwhile, Gareth also stared back at her firmly with his cold, emotionless eyes.

Right after that, sarcasm flitted across Elisa’s eyes. Initially, she wanted to use her phone for a bit, but she was worried that Me might recognize her phone, so she merely stood still.

Unbeknownst to her, when she lowered her head, the tiny mole behind her ears caught Gareth’s eyes, and his expression immediately changed he was utterly shocked.

In no time, Elisa became the highlight of everyone's conversations. Everyone stared in her direction, stunned at how she quickly rose to first place from the last just moments ago.

Gareth focused all his attention on her car until he lost sight of her. Elisa!

With that thought in mind, he closed his eyes in an attempt to control his anger.

Meanwhile, Vincent had also been paying attention to the race. He was actually shocked to see his best friend's reaction. What's wrong?

If it weren't for the inconvenience, he would have walked over to ask Gareth what had happened.

At the same time, Will also noticed Gareth's emotions. His frown deepened as he thought, Who is the woman who represents the Semoa Group? Why does she trigger such emotions in Gareth? Apart from that, she... looks rather familiar.

Who is she? Why does she look more familiar each time I see her? Judging by her performance, could she be Wisteria, who has never revealed her face? I heard that Wisteria is also a woman.

Will's eyes flickered. He shot a glance at Carle and arched his eyebrows. So he's friends with Wisteria. No wonder Gareth and I never succeeded in teaming up with her.

Shortly after, Gareth returned from his race with a time of seven minutes – it was two minutes ahead of Elisa.

She glanced at his timer with ease. It seems like he's also holding back.

When Carle saw where she was looking, he immediately said, "Don't overthink it."

"I don't overthink stuff," she replied with a smile.

To her, it was natural to win and to lose, as there weren't any winners who never had to suffer the taste of defeat. Nevertheless, she would give her all in the competition with Gareth in the final round. After all, she really wanted to compete seriously with him.

"Damn! It might really be her! Since they are so close to each other, why didn't Elisa appear today? On top of that, that woman seems close to Carle and Rachel. I should have known!"

The more Vincent elaborated, the sharper Gareth's gaze became. He looked almost murderous at this point.

Gritting his teeth, Vincent said, "I think it's really plausible that she's Wisteria. In the three years she was married to you, she stayed at home most of the time, and she only went out occasionally. At the same time, both Wisteria and Iris disappeared after she got married to you..."

The temperature in the car dropped several degrees; even the driver shuddered after knowing this fact.

Vincent looked at Gareth instinctively. "Gareth, you... should try to rein your feelings in."

Ever since the divorce, Elisa had been trying to get back at him, as though she wanted revenge. Vincent quickly smiled and said, "The project is very important to you, and I'm sure you won't lose to her. On top of that, I bet she still has feelings for you, seeing how she's making all this effort to provoke you. I bet she wants to attract your attention."

With that, they went to the cars.

The group was split into two, each taking a car. As Edward wanted to have a conversation with Elisa, they sat in the same car, with Carle sitting in the co-driver seat while both Elisa and Edward sat in the backseat.

Meanwhile, Sheena and Rachel were in another car.

Edward smiled widely at Elisa. "Young lady, what's your name?"

Elisa's eyes flashed before she smiled. "I'm Wisteria."

“Wisteria!” Edward’s jaw dropped. He had no idea that the woman in front of him was a professional that was incredibly difficult to hire.

No matter how experienced he was, he was unable to control his emotions at that moment, the surprise he felt could not be hidden at all.

Carle turned around and saw his quiet father, who was trying to digest the information, he smiled. “How about it, Dad? Isn’t it a

Hence, he was more amiable toward Elisa, and he didn’t act like the chairman of a company at all.

Even though Semoa Group was not as influential as Wickam Group or Darcey Group, it was important enough in Bayswe. Otherwise, he would not be seated next to Gareth in the race just now.

They chatted for a while more before reaching the destination. After they got out of the car, the chauffeur drove away.

They conversed happily as they walked into the private room. Just as they were about to take their seats, Carle pulled out a chair for Elisa.

“Here you go, Wisteria.”

Her eyelashes slightly fluttered as she sat down. Then, he took the seat beside her.

Vincent cleared his throat. "Haven't you... accepted it? You guys are already divorced, and you have your separate lives. She can do whatever she wants, and we will just deal with it. On top of that, she's just a woman without anyone to back her up. Are you worried that she might gain the upper hand?"

Gareth snorted coldly. Just a woman? This woman made me lose tens of billions! It's not a small sum in the slightest!

Vincent was also thinking of the same thing, so he quickly cleared his throat again. "I was just too careless that time! And I said that I wanted to appeal, but you stopped me. Perhaps I could win that, you know!"

Gareth put his cutlery down, even though he had not eaten much. Vincent quickly said, "You have stomach problems, but you still don't eat enough. Do you want to die young? Also, it's not good to waste food!"

With that, he passed Gareth a fork.

Gareth frowned and refused to take it, but he insisted. "Gareth, please don't give me any more trouble. Do you need someone to supervise you when you eat? Are you a kid?"
