"But..."

Before she could finish, Elisa interrupted her as she smiled and looked at her. "Don't worry. I'll be fine."

Kira opened her mouth, but she suddenly didn't know what to say. She could only sigh in exasperation.

"Then... be careful."

"Okay."

...

While she was waiting, the time to meet came.

Elisa packed up her things and went to Mr. Whitford's location.

When she arrived, Mr. Whitford was already there. She was a little surprised.

Mr. Whitford saw Elisa's outstanding figure that couldn't be hidden. Infinite joy flickered across his eyes at once. He immediately got up and smiled at Elisa. "You're here, Ms. Benett. It's such an honor for me to be asked out for a meal by you, Ms. Benett."

Elisa smiled. "You're too kind, Mr. Whitford. I'm very thankful that you were able to meet me, Mr. Whitford."

The other two gazed at his cell phone.

Seeing the incoming call, Vincent suddenly said cheerfully, "Look, my goddess is calling me. I really like this girl. Should I bring her over and introduce her to you?"

"No."

The other two answered in one voice. It was clear that they didn't want to waste their time meeting a woman that wouldn't have any relations with Vincent in the future.

Vincent's face darkened. "D*mn!"

He got up and walked out. "I'm going out to take this call. I'll be back shortly."

The other two didn't make a sound. Vincent strode out in large strides.

He knew that the fellow couldn't let her go but was still pretending that he didn't care.

He wanted to see what Gareth would do next.

Vincent crossed his legs, and there was still a devious smile on his face.

Jeremy looked at Gareth and advised him. "There's nothing that Philip can't do. This person is very bold. Moreover, you and Elisa are divorced. Elisa poses no threat to him."

Vincent smiled. He sat crossed-legged and said leisurely, "That's not necessarily the case. Doesn't Will have his eye on Elisa now? With him around, Mr. Whitford might be afraid and may not dare to do anything to Elisa. I saw the two of them sitting together just now, and he looked quite well-behaved. I'm afraid he might sign the contract willingly this time."

Gareth was dumbfounded.

Seeing him aloof from the start until the end and having an unbelievably dark face, Vincent laughed out loud. "Alright, I was just gossiping with you. Let's continue with our fun. Come on, let's drink. You have to celebrate the fact that I have a girlfriend."

Philip didn't rush to say anything. In fact, he looked at Elisa thoughtfully.

Elisa's expression was particularly at ease. She didn't show too much emotion.

As expected, he did add something to the food.

But he was the only other person in the room, so Elisa wasn't afraid.

Philip smiled. "That makes sense, Ms. Bennett. But you know that many things aren't just done for nothing. Seeing that you've been out in the world until now, I'm sure you know the ways of the world well, don't you?"

"Since you're so well prepared, Ms. Bennett, show me your proposal. Let me take a look at it."

Elisa smiled as she took out her proposal.

Previously, when Philip discussed partnerships with others, he had never been manipulated like this before, especially by a woman.

But now, because of this woman, he was in a passive state. But if what Elisa said was true, even if he was being manipulated, he was fine with it.

Philip took the proposal that Elisa had passed to him. At that moment, he wasn't in a rush to do anything with her. In fact, he started to look at it seriously.

The more he read, the more fearful he got. But since he was an old geezer, after all, none of it was shown on his face.

Philip only put the proposal down once he was done reading it.

There would be times where anybody would feel reluctant when asked to do anything.

Furthermore, Mr. Whitford had put a lot of thought and done a lot of research on a gorgeous woman like Elisa. If he let Elisa leave, it would be impossible for him to be contented.

Elisa stepped back at once. She looked at Philip. "Do you have other questions, Mr. Whitford?"

Philip smiled and looked at Elisa. "Wouldn't you say that everything can be discussed, Ms. Benett?"

"Why don't we sit down and have a few drinks while we continue eating? I'm pretty satisfied with the contract. If we finish the meal together, I will work with Benett Corporation."

Elisa wrinkled her brows slightly. Philip smiled as he said, "But if you really don't want to, then... it's fine if we don't work together."

She looked at Philip rather meaningfully. "Did you drug the food, Mr. Whitford?"

Philip was dumbfounded.

"Do you insist on humiliating me, Ms. Benett?"

Vincent smiled. "You don't have to worry about that, Ms. Benett."

As soon as he said it, he took a big bite of food.

Mr. Whitford's face changed.

Elisa wanted to stop him, but she was too late.

Her expression changed slightly. She was about to say something when Vincent spoke up again. "Let me repeat myself one more time. Let her go. Otherwise, I'm afraid there'll be some kind of misunderstanding between us."

Philip knew best whether the food was drugged. Seeing Vincent eat the food, he didn't dare to keep Elisa here. He was afraid that there would be trouble in the future, so he looked at Elisa immediately. "You can leave. Let's talk about the partnership next time."

Vincent furrowed his brows instantly. "What partnership? What is there to partner with? You can just partner with the Shane family in the future, Mr. Whitford."

Vincent spoke as he ate.

He was really hungry.

He felt like crying.

Everyone knew that Vincent, Jeremy, and Gareth were as close as biological brothers.

The condiments that he added were ingested by Vincent!

Vincent's face suddenly darkened. "Are you mad? You put it in the food?"

Chapter 319 A Family Full of Good Tricks

Elisa raised her brows in surprise. She had only contacted Philip's assistant a few times. Although the assistant had always been very polite, this time, she could feel the assistant trying to win her favor.

What had just happened between Vincent and Philip?

Did Vincent help her?

Elisa pursed her lips, and she finally said, "Alright. I will get the person in charge to contact you. Happy partnership."

"Happy partnership. Do you have any other instructions, Ms. Benett?"

Instructions?

Pfft.

Vincent must have done something to make Philip come to a compromise so quickly. It seemed like she had to bear this favor of his.

"No, there's nothing else. Goodbye."

Did Philip give her some rules to follow?

Philip was an old geezer. Not only did he set certain rules for some girls, but he would also play dumb once he got his pants on.

Many people had been disgraced by him for nothing. They couldn’t even close the deal.

But... it couldn’t be ruled out that Philip really liked a certain woman, or he signed the contract because he liked a certain project.

After all, he was never the type to suffer losses.

Even if he liked a certain project, he would never sign the contract without taking advantage of the person.

As for Elisa...

Many people started to discuss this fervently.

“Did Elisa do it?”

“I think it’s impossible. She’s too special. Even if Philip is bold, I don’t think he would dare to do anything to Elisa? Maybe her project is really that good?”

“Don’t be silly. Ms. Benett made it clear that she wanted to make things difficult for Elisa. How could she make Elisa do something simple? Maybe the proposal was really bad. If that’s the case...”
