Chapter 321 Mr. Wickam Can Tell

They still thought Elisa had it in her. After all, she was a top-rate lawyer.

But from how they saw it now, she was better at being a lawyer.

Linda saw the scorn in everyone's eyes as they looked at Elisa. The corners of her mouth curved slightly as she smiled at everyone and said, "So I'll be the host tonight and treat everyone to a meal. Are all of you free tonight? It's alright if you're busy."

Ms. Benett was the chairman's daughter! Who had the right to say no?

Even if they didn't want to go, they had to.

Of course, many wanted to watch the action. If they were lucky, there might even be juicy gossip for them!

"Ms. Benett is being so kind. Of course we have to go! I don't have anything to do tonight."

"Me neither."

Elisa nodded and made her way over.

“Let’s go,” Thomas said as he led Elisa to the elevators.

It was the president’s personal elevator.

The receptionist didn’t care about anything else. She took out her cell phone and started to discuss it in the group chat with other staff members.

—Pearl Ward (Reception): ‘Elisa just came over! And Mr. May was the one who received her! They went up in the president’s private elevator!’

With just one message, the whole company was in an uproar!

Elisa took the documents he passed to her. She didn't say anything as she walked out.

She could wait for Thomas to inform her of the specifics.

But when she reached Benett Corporation and was about to head to the office, she was stopped by Yara.

Elisa recognized her. She was Linda's assistant.

Yara looked at Elisa with a complicated expression. She paused for a moment before saying in a soft voice, "Ms. Elisa, Ms. Linda is looking for you. Please follow me."

Elisa nodded and didn't say anything.

When she arrived at Linda's office, she saw her sitting behind the office desk as usual. Scorn flickered across Elisa's eyes.

She had already started investigating what Linda did before and she hoped that Linda would hold on until the end.

"So Linda, if you're afraid that his feelings for me will be reignited, quickly think of a way. Otherwise, I'll really leave with him tomorrow."

"If this happened last time and our places were switched, what would you tell me? I think you would say, Liz, many things are out of our hands. I don't want to ruin your relationship, but... he wants me to go. For our company's sake, I can only follow along. Don't worry, Liz. I will keep my distance with him, so it won't cause any misunderstandings between the both of you."

Elisa mimicked her well and sounded exactly like her.

Linda was speechless.

Bang.

In her rage, Linda slammed the table.

"You're too much, Elisa!"

Elisa's lips twitched. "Mm. Since you don't like me, I'll return to my station. I'll be waiting for you to..."

Her smile deepened. "Host my celebration dinner at night."

"Is Elisa in need of money? She's Iris after all."

"It was just an example. Since she joined the company, she has to stand out from the rest and make a good name for herself."

...

Scorn streaked across Linda's eyes. Perhaps Elisa was expecting her to make a move, but she wouldn't have expected Linda to make Philip come here.

Maybe Elisa was incredibly charming. When Philip heard that there was a celebration dinner in Elisa's honor and he was invited, he agreed with much eagerness.

She would tell Elisa all this in the end.

She wanted Elisa to understand the consequences of provoking her.

The number of people was informed beforehand, so there weren't any extra chairs. Coincidentally, the last seat available was next to Elisa.

Of course he knew full well that Elisa wasn't worthy of such treatment! If it wasn't for Gareth!

He gritted his teeth. When everyone was just about to clearly see what he was really thinking, Philip suddenly laughed. "You're too kind, Ms. Linda. Ms. Elisa is my savior. I won't forget it for the rest of my life. Can I pour you a glass of wine, Ms. Elisa?"

Everyone looked at Philip with some doubt. He was being too eager. It didn't seem like he gave Elisa any sort of rules.

This was completely a one-sided defeat.

From the beginning until the end, Elisa didn't say a word. Her expression was exceptionally at ease. It was Philip who kept trying to win her favor.

But in such a situation, it should be time for her to make her stand.

Everyone looked at Elisa. It was obvious that they wanted to see her reaction.

Elisa didn't disappoint. She looked at Philip with a calm expression and said, "You're too kind, Mr.
Whitford. Have a seat."

Philip secretly breathed a sigh of relief. Thankfully, Elisa wasn't the type of person to be swollen headed after being praised. If it was another woman, she would have taken it out on him after being tormented by him previously.

The rage in his heart dissipated a little at that moment.

"Elisa."

Elisa's footsteps stopped. She had a bewildered expression.

At the time, Linda felt like something wasn't right. She made Yara push her out.

At the other corner, Elisa had already turned around, and she looked at Gareth. "Mr. Wickam."

Linda's expression changed slightly. She signaled to Yara at once to stop.

Elisa turned and saw Gareth's cold gaze. She was slightly puzzled.

"Grandma hasn't slept in two days."

Elisa's expression dulled and her eyes were filled with worry. "Why?"

Gareth glanced at her coldly. "It's all thanks to you."

Elisa's face paled as she looked at Gareth, baffled. "What do you mean?"

When Elisa hung up, she still felt like something wasn't quite right. She made a call to the butler of Wickam Manor.

"Ms. Elisa?"

"Mr. Jones, how has Grandma been doing lately?"

"Um..." There was hesitation in his voice.

Elisa's heart tightened. "Is there really something wrong with Grandma?"

Mr. Jones sighed. "Old Madam Wickam hasn't been sleeping well for the past two days. Old Mr. Wickam is deeply worried."

"Why is this happening?" Elisa unconsciously gripped her cell phone tight.

Gareth said that it was because of her. Was it because she asked for a divorce?

Jones sighed again. "Ah. Old Madam Wickam is getting on in years. It's only natural that she will sleep less. She's seen a doctor and taken medicine.

Elisa's expression froze. She didn't think that Gareth would intentionally wait for her here.

When everyone else from the office saw Gareth and Vincent, many women were star struck. They wanted to throw themselves at those men.

After all...

No matter Gareth or Vincent, from the way they saw it, the two of them were so outstanding and out of reach.

If either man wanted to be with them... it would be great!

The women had heard that Mr. Shane was an exceptional man. What if he had his eye on them?

Many women couldn't control themselves as they giggled and played with their hair. They wanted Vincent to take a second look at them.

When one of the female employees passed by Vincent's side, her foot suddenly slipped. "Ah!"

She planted in Vincent's direction.

Many women looked over at once, and some saw red!

How could she! How could she use such despicable methods! If they knew that she was going to do that, they would have done it earlier!

Vincent didn't think about it and immediately avoided her.

Fortunately, or unfortunately, the female employee fell into the arms of Philip.

Her eyes were closed, and her face was filled with panic. When she was suddenly embraced, she was instantly ecstatic!

If Mr. Shane was willing to hug her, did it mean that he was willing to give her a chance?

Onlookers saw that there was a smile in the corner of Philip's lips. He deliberately copped a feel with the hand that held on to her waist.

Everyone was speechless.
