Chapter 331 Eh? Why Are You Here, Ms. Benett?

Gareth's face darkened. Elisa somehow couldn't break free from his grasp. With a slightly nasty expression, she said, "Let me go!"

"Are you hard of hearing, Elisa? Didn't you hear what I said to you before?" Gareth's face was unbelievably black.

But Elisa smiled. "Then listen to this recording."

She played the recording of Linda instructing her not to go.

Gareth furrowed his brows at once. He didn't want to talk about Linda.

Elisa smiled. "Look, after we divorced, you have no relationship with me anymore. Linda is my cousin. Since she keeps saying that she is doing things for my own good, I have to help her accomplish that, don't you think so?"

Gareth looked at her with a cloudy expression. "Has your conscience been eaten by dogs? What Grandma needs most is for you to go and see her, but what are you doing?"

Linda's expression changed slightly. D*mn it! Garry must have heard Vincent's voice. Why does this man have such a big mouth? And such a loud voice too!

She immediately looked at Vincent and maintained a worried appearance. "I... I was worried about Garry and Liz, so I came to take a look."

Vincent suddenly laughed. "They are like an old couple. Even if they are divorced, nothing would happen even if they slept in the same bed. No one would be at a loss. You don't have to worry about a single thing, Ms. Benett."

Linda's expression changed abruptly. She looked at Vincent solemnly. "Don't say that, Mr. Shane. Garry and Liz aren't that kind of people!"

Vincent laughed. "Really?"

Jeremy had previously told him that Linda was a little strange. Jeremy had even analyzed Gareth's thoughts.

Regarding Linda, to be honest, even if she had saved Gareth in the past, he didn't have much affection for her.

Linda looked at him, puzzled. "Mr. Shane, what do you...?"

Vincent smiled. He didn't say anything and turned the corner instead,

Chapter 333 Why Are You Looking for Me?

Gareth suddenly frowned. He didn't know why but he felt like Linda had changed.

She was different from before.

But he couldn't pinpoint exactly what had changed.

But when he thought of how she was his savior and she had been through so much trouble, he couldn't bear to criticize her in the end.

Vincent followed Gareth to his car. He said brightly, "So what in the world are you thinking about right now? You're unable to completely cut things off with Elisa, so what about Linda?"

Gareth's brows wrinkled tightly. "Can you shut up?"

Vincent was amused. "Are you being impatient with me? This is your hurdle to pass, bro. You have to think about it properly. If you don't want to be with Linda and you can't fulfill your promise, you have to let her know. Don't keep her on her toes when she can't get it. Do you know what the consequences will be once time passes?"

Yara breathed in slightly and paused for a moment before replying softly, "Ms. Benett, are you happy with your retaliation today?"

Elisa looked at Yara but did not say anything. She was assessing what Yara was up to.

Yara was implying something, but it did not seem like Linda put her up to it. Linda would never send Yara to pass a message if she was up to something.

"What are you trying to say?"

Yara breathed in and pushed aside her nervousness. She looked at Elisa calmly and said, "In regard to today's incident, if I didn't stir it up in secret, I believe you wouldn't have been able to retaliate against Linda as easily and successfully as you did."

Elisa narrowed her eyes. She could not deny that her plan went smoothly this time.

Elisa narrowed her eyes but did not say anything.

Yara understood that Elisa was suspicious of her. Thus, she remained calm and said, "Ms. Benett, I know you don't trust me, but I will prove my sincerity from now on. I ask that you give me a chance. I can't guarantee for other people. But if you are willing to accept me, I shall be your greatest ally on Linda's side."

Elisa smiled. "Is there anything else?"

Yara shook her head. "There's nothing else."

She saw that Elisa was not going to speak, so she stood up and said politely, "In that case, I shall stop bothering you. I hope you will consider my request. If there is any lie in what I said just now, calamity shall befall my family."

Although most people in modern society are not religious, people would still not dare to swear something bad on their family. Furthermore, Yara was someone who cared about her family. Thus, she would wish for something bad to happen to her family.

Yara slowly sank into her memories.

Ten days before Linda got into an accident, Yara had already finished researching and given all the findings to Linda. She waited nervously for Linda's response.

Linda soon finished reading the documents and smirked.

Yara said nervously, "Ms. Bennett, are you sure you want to do this? If the matter is exposed, the consequences are severe."

Linda sneered. "How can one hope to achieve anything if one doesn't take risks?"

Yara opened her mouth to persuade Linda not to proceed with it, but she knew it was useless.

Furthermore, Yara was unwilling to do this but had no choice. She faced all kinds of pressure and threat to proceed with it.

Then, Linda said, "I need you to observe Ryan Meek for these two days. He is a ruthless man. Since he planned something against Gareth, he will carry it out in secret. Also, contact him and tell him I would like to have dinner with him."

Ryan was Gareth's enemy, but he was also a distant relative of Linda's mother. Their degree of consanguinity was so distant that they did not usually interact.

Yara turned to Elisa. "How may I help you?"

"It's concerning Linda's discharge from the hospital two days ago. There must be something strange about it. I hope you can help me obtain evidence."

Yara nodded. "Sure."

Seeing Elisa did not have anything else to say, Yara left straightaway.

Then, Elisa stood by the window as if to look out for Yara. But she also seemed to be in deep thought.

What Linda wanted the most was to marry Gareth. Previously, Elisa would not care about it. Who Linda wanted to marry was none of her business.

But...

Linda kept trying to cause her trouble and even harmed Elisa's family. Thus, she would not let Linda have her way.

Therefore, the first step was to

"But you..." Julia did not know what to say.

She pitied Elisa for all that she had to go through.

Elisa's biological father had passed away too soon. After she got married, her husband did not love her, and her mother-in-law treated her badly. That was why Julia kept trying to make it up to her.

Elisa smiled. "Grandma, don't worry about it."

Julia sighed. "Okay..."

After that, Elisa and Julia chatted amicably. While spending time with Julia, Elisa was able to experience the loving warmth of a family member. That was why she maintained a good relationship with Julia all these years.

At the same time, Julia always treated Elisa as if she was her biological granddaughter. Elisa also treated Julia as her biological grandmother.

Elisa stayed and chatted with Julia for the whole afternoon. No one came to disturb them.

Initially, she planned to leave before dinner but Julia held onto her and refused to let her leave. She insisted that Elisa stay for dinner, so Elisa had no choice but to stay.

He looked at Julia and said, "Do you dislike seeing me that much?"

Julia looked at Gareth in confusion. Can't he see that Elisa doesn't want to see him?

Does he not have any common sense?

Thus, Julia frowned and said, "Aren't you busy?"

Gareth did not know how to respond to that question.

Meanwhile, Elisa was stunned.

It was not her place to say anything. However, if she was being honest, she was tremendously pleased with this moment.

She enjoyed watching Julia putting Gareth in his place.

It's good to see him being taken down a notch!

Elisa's eyes flashed with mockery. Still, it is good this way because it will help Grandma with her recovery. She can't withstand any emotional blows and triggers in her current condition.

Gareth remained silent.

Elisa ignored him completely. For the rest of the time, Elisa and Julia chatted happily. Once they finished dinner, Elisa and Gareth got ready to leave.

Julia seemed glad to see Elisa and Gareth standing side by side. She had a gentle smile on her face.

Then, she chuckled and said, "Both of you should take care during the business trip. If there is enough time, you should go sightseeing and not miss out on the local scenery. Also, even when you are busy with work, remember to take some time to rest, okay?"

Elisa nodded. "Okay, Grandma. You should go to bed early tonight and remember to take your medication on time, okay?"

For the last part, Elisa deliberately imitated Julia's tone.

Gareth could not help but smile a little, but no one noticed.

Julia instantly broke into a soft laugh. "I know. I know. I'll do as you say."
