Chapter 491

Elisa and Carle turned to look at the entrance.

When Carle saw Edward, he wore a smile and hummed, "Hey, Dad."

The moment he walked in, Edward caught sight of Carle holding Elisa's hand and was relieved to see Carle in good spirits. He pretended not to see their intimate interaction and only gazed at Carle. His voice was much gentler than it used to be.

"How are you feeling?" He asked in concern.

Carle nodded at Edward with a smile.

"I'm very good. Don't worry about me, Dad."

Edward nodded.

In fact, he went to talk to the doctor before coming to the ward, and he was finally put at ease after ensuring that Carle was fine.

Cole did not continue from thereon as he had clearly expressed his meaning.

If Gareth continued detesting Linda, it would only cause a greater hurdle for Will to pursue Elisa.

After all, Gareth and Elisa had been husband and wife for several years and had lived under the same roof.

If the two reconciled, Will would be devastated.

Cole could tell that Will was genuinely fond of Elisa, so he was trying to look out for Will.

However, just as he thought Will would agree with his point, the latter uttered indifferently, "From now on, you only have to glean information but don't meddle with my affair"

Cole was surprised.

"I've said this before — Carle is like a brother to me, and I've never had romantic feelings toward him.

Besides, you girls are well aware of how much I loved Gareth back then.

Although I'm ready to move on after our divorce, and I don't have any feelings for him anymore, this doesn't mean that I can immediately fall for someone whom I've always deemed as an elder brother"

Sheena was at a loss for words and sighed in exasperation while Rachel cast a side glance at Sheena with her eyes filled with curiosity.

"Sheen, you love Carle so much that you're willing to do so many things for him. Don't you wish to be the one staying beside him?"

Elisa, too, looked at Sheena.

Truth be told, she admired Sheena's selfless love.

Elisa's hands that were placed on the steering wheel stiffened as she was in a quandary. She remained silent because she didn't know how to answer the question.

Pressing her lips, she started the engine.

The traffic was extremely heavy that day, and they only arrived at their destination after more than an hour.

Rachel was exhausted by the time they reached home. She sat at the dining table and said, "I'll order delivery for us."

Elisa answered calmly, "Food outside is not nutritious. I'll prepare a simple meal; it won't take long."

With that, she changed into casual clothes and walked into the kitchen.

Rachel quickly stood up and wanted to help her, but Elisa stopped her.

"I'm just cooking some noodles. There's nothing much to prepare. Go ahead and take some rest first."

However, Rachel still took out some vegetables and helped to wash them.

Soon, two bowls of egg noodles were served.

Seated in the passenger seat, Rachel seemed to be in a good mood.

"I'm so glad to see Carle getting better day by day. Given his progress, I reckon he can be discharged soon."

Elisa smiled.

"Yeah, I didn't expect him to recover this fast either."

Rachel couldn't help laughing when she was reminded of Carle's behavior just now.

"Did you see how anxious he was just now when you said you were going to leave? As much as he wanted you to stay, he had to control himself. He behaves like a kid."

Looking troubled, Elisa sighed, "I have no idea what I'm going to do next. What if he still can't accept it?"

The smile on Rachel's lips was dismissed at once and was replaced with a concerned look.

"Yeah... What if he acts like that day again... What should we do..."

One couldn't care less when he or she was in utter despair.

Elisa kept a level head.

Despite being in a panic, Rachel did not lose her senses and quickly wound down the car window.

The van that was coming in their direction was huge, so the cars behind noticed something wrong too.

Before Rachel could do anything, the drivers started reversing their cars.

However, their speed was too slow.

Ashen-faced, Rachel gasped, "What should we do, Elisa? The van is going to crash into us soon...The cars behind are reversing too slowly!"

Biting her lips, Elisa stepped hard on the accelerator and turned the steering wheel swiftly while Rachel was still in a fluster.

The next second, her car drifted and changed direction! However, despite her swift action, they were stuck in the middle of other vehicles, and the road was extremely dangerous.

The van driver caught the opportunity and accelerated once again.

Meanwhile, Gareth was working in his office.

The next second, the silence was broken as Thomas flung the door open.

Gareth knitted his brows when he saw Thomas.

Thomas was a prudent man, so Gareth could tell from his action that something must have gone wrong.

Just as he was thinking about it, Thomas blurted in a fluster, "Mr.Wickam, Ms.Elisa got into an accident!"

Gareth's heart jolted.

"Who did that?!"

"Ms.Elisa got into a car accident.Her car fell off the cliff"

At once, Gareth was stupefied.

He sprang up immediately and gasped, "Where is she?!"

Rachel and Sheena turned to look at the entrance to see two tall men walk into the ward.

Rachel stopped sobbing when she saw their solemn faces.

"Gareth, Thomas, what brings you guys here?"

Gareth didn't answer Rachel but strode to Elisa. He pressed his lips and frowned as he looked at Elisa, who lay unconscious on the bed.

Both Rachel and Sheena had a bad impression of Gareth.

Thomas was aware of the incident, so he said, "We've heard about the incident and have informed the police. They're investigating the matter"

Only then did Rachel's expression soften.

"What did the police say?" She asked.

Thomas hesitated for a moment before saying, "Both van drivers have fled. The police are tracing them now"

Rachel's eyes which were originally filled with anticipation turned dull.

"This is clearly a premeditated murder! The mastermind must be Elisa's enemy! Could it be..."

He must have regretted it! If He isn't worried for her, why would he get me to give her a checkup?

Gareth furrowed his eyebrows, ignoring Jeremy's expression. He asked in a low voice, "What about her brain? Will there be any aftereffects?"

"No, she just needs plenty of rest. But since it's a murder attempt, she needs protection. A gutsy person might just waltz in to harm her in broad daylight. You will never know" Gareth frowned.

No one knew what he was thinking. He seemed to be more uneasy than before.

Rachel and Sheena were anxious.

Rachel nodded subconsciously.

"You're right! I should rest now to act all lively in front of Elisa like nothing had happened!"

Sheena sighed in relief as she nodded.

"That's right! Go rest now. I'll keep you company"

"No, you don't need to. I just had a little graze. It's better if you keep Carle company. Don't let him question why none of us are with him. Besides..."

She paused.

"Elisa won't be able to leave her bed in the meantime. How are we supposed to keep this from Carle?"

Sheena's eyelid fluttered.

Rachel seemed to have an idea as she uttered, "I have an idea!"

Sheena's eyes lit up.

"What is it?"

"Let's say that the company sent me on a business trip. I dragged Elisa along because the problem is challenging, and I can't solve it without her."
