

No Chance 53

Chapter 53 To the Wall

After hearing that, Julia had completely lost her temper. “Monica! Listen to what you’ve just said! Get your *ss upstairs!”

Monica frowned upon hearing that. This time around, she, too, defied Julia’s wishes and continued to speak to Elisa darkly, “Elisa, I’m sure you know the ugly truth without me saying it out loud. Now, you have two choices.”

Elisa arched her eyebrows. “Go on.”

Her nonchalant reply angered Monica further. However, the latter believed that Elisa would start panicking when she hears what she had to say.

“First, finalize the divorce. From now onwards, you will be strangers to us, and we won’t give you a single cent. Second—”

“Save your breath. I’ll take the first option,” Elisa interrupted decisively, making Monica almost lose her sanity.

Her lips curled into a slight smile, but she no longer looked at Monica. Instead, she said to Julia, “Grandma, it’s not early anymore, and I don’t have intentions to stay for too long. Have a great evening.”

Julia nodded. “Sure. Take care on your way home.”

and tell them today was a prank!

not stop chuckling. “Mrs. Wickam, didn’t you say that I had two choices? If that’s the case, why do you ask me to apologize? I put so much

“You—”

Elisa rose from her seat. “Mrs. Wickam, I hope that we will never meet again. In the past, I tolerated everything because you are older than me, but from now

as

“Elisa Benett!”

had been difficult for her to be their middleman. She time around, Elisa nodded and immediately turned around to in a difficult position. Even though the latter took pity on door, she saw a figure standing right outside. The man’s sharp step back involuntarily to abated, but she still fumed angrily, “Gareth, keep an eye on Elisa! She defied my wishes just now! The scandal between you guys has already been was speechless upon hearing that. She heaved a sigh and decided to stay out of at