—Carle: You let Elisa cook that with you? She's still recovering —Sheena: She's fine? I'm her best friend, so shouldn't I know better? —Carle: Alright my apologies. Have fun queens. —Rachel: Yeah apologize. We know you intend to keep Elisa hostage. How dare you try to steal her without consulting me and Sheena?! —Carle: I beg for your forgiveness. Elisa had promised me a meetup after so long. So how much to bribe her away from you? —Sheena: Hah, money can't buy quality time. What if I want Elisa for myself too? Are you prepared for the competition? Sheena punched her, thinking it was a joke, but she had no idea how deeply it had crushed his heart. She genuinely liked him, but she was in so much pain that she was unable to respond. Carle had only eyes for Elisa. She realized Elisa was

call me for dinner, I would have gone if I knew it. He sent a sad emote. Elisa promptly responded. —Elisa: Your physical condition will be a burden, and it's too late. Wait until you're fully recovered. —Rachel: That's correct, you shouldn't be acting so hastily. Even if Elisa were to consent to it, you're really acting too pushy over her. Am I being too pushy? Why is she acting like this? I feel like she's becoming colder toward me. No? He sent a private message to Elisa. —Carle: Elisa, is this actually true? You know I truly just wish to see you. But I won't push if that's what you want. Rachel heard Elisa's notification, "Did he message you privately?!" Elisa turned her mobile phone to the two of them, "What should I do?" Elisa felt lost. She needed both of their guidance. Sheena couldn't help sighing, "Why can't Carle give me a chance? Then we both won't have to be in this predicament." Elisa typed a few words on the screen. —Elisa: Don't think too much. Take good care of yourself first. —Carle: Okay. But Elisa, tell me if I did anything wrong. Please. Elisa's remorse grew, and she sent a short 'okay'. The group was silent. Rachel rubbed her head, "I feel that we should talk to Carle's family about the matter and let them handle it." Sheena nodded, "His mother will definitely dote after her son, she should think of a way." "Then... let's find a way to ask her out for a chat these few days?" Rachel looked at Elisa for confirmation. Elisa nodded, "This is the only way to go about it now." They decided to end the matter and carry out their tasks. They took pity for Carle. Everyone in the house was aware of the situation, except for Carle. He must be kept in the dark about this. For his sake, I can't let him know... Emotions are high. Sheena's feelings for Carle was getting complicated. Sheena kept all this at heart... Wickam's Group. A stern man was processing documents in the office. Gareth had the same strict look, amply dissatisfied with the documents on hand. A chubby middle-aged man wearing a black suit stood across him. He wiped the perspiration from his forehead as he adjusted his spectacles. Gareth is currently examining a paper that corresponds closely to the plan he requested. He spent a month studying this strategy, and while he is happy with the plan he came up with, his president is to be said. Now that Mr. Wickam wished to maintain his integrity, he refuses to acknowledge his feelings for Elisa. Leaving him in charge of keeping an eye on her is uncomfortable and extremely exhausting. I'm just an employee, but even a blind man can tell he's obsessed with this woman. I'll save my skin and not say anything. Thomas obediently complies with Gareth's commands. Thomas coughed quietly, realizing that Gareth had never given any commands. "Is there anything else you wish to update?" Gareth clenched his jaws and remained silent. Thomas left after realizing their meeting has concluded. There was no one else in the office save Gareth. The man took up the phone irritably but immediately slammed it down once more. Now what. Should I question Elisa? She has the freedom to do as she pleases, right? What's the point of my warning to her? What warning is there now that it's at this point? For a moment, Gareth stared blankly. He remembered what Jeremy Chase had said to him. "Gareth, you're in love with her. Admit it." "There's nothing to be ashamed of," coaxed his friend. "And there's nothing to deny. Ignoring your emotions won't do you any good, so be honest with yourself. Don't you think you're turning paranoid?" "You're both divorced, so it's not in point, Gareth had lost his patience to continue listening to them. "Stop disturbing me in the future. My patience has its limit." With that, he hung up the phone. His patience was depleted, and he was tired of their acting. After putting down the phone, he suddenly thought of Elisa again! He could even imagine Elisa and Carle being lovey-dovey, which made his face darken at once. He pressed his temples in frustration and attempted to focus on work. However, he overestimated himself. Ever since he knew about the matter, his mind was a complete mess! Knitting his brows, he called Thomas and ordered solemnly, "Bring the meeting forward. Inform the relevant parties to gather at the meeting room twenty minutes later." Thomas was startled, but he didn't mull over it and quickly hummed in response. Thereafter, Gareth hung up the call. Thomas was in a quandary. If he passed on the message to bring forward the meeting two days earlier, the staff would surely freak out as they might not be prepared yet. As a result, Gareth would likely get mad, but no one would dare to complain about him bringing forward the meeting. Everyone was on tenterhook except Thomas. He knew Gareth was frustrated and wanted to remain occupied, so the poor staff had to suffer in return.... After a long day, Carle finally left in the afternoon. Actually, he intended to stay for dinner and leave

"Let's not be bothered by what has already happened. We're sisters. You don't have to worry about such a small small issue. We know each other well." Sheena was assured when she heard these words. She nodded solemnly and stopped standing on ceremony. Nonetheless, she would always remind herself not to act recklessly next time. Mistakes could be forgiven for the first few occurrences, but if she repeated them, it would cause estrangement between both of them, even if Elisa didn't take it to heart. The last thing she wanted was to lose a close friend like Elisa. Thereafter, Sheena and Rachel left while Elisa walked back into the building. However, she did not expect to see a tall figure standing in front of her apartment when she stepped out of the lift. Elisa frowned when she saw the man glaring at her coldly with his eyes filled with hostility and sarcasm. "Elisa Benett." The man spat word by word. Elisa had no intention of talking to him, let alone allowing him to enter her house, so she turned and walked back into the lift. However, before the lift door could close completely, Gareth placed his hand on the door and forced it to halt. Then, the door opened gradually. Elisa stared at Gareth and didn't want to say a word. She was tired of being pestered by him. "Gareth Wickam, what on earth do you want?" She asked wearily. No words could describe how annoyed she was at this man. Gareth entered the lift and pressed the button to the ground floor after closing the door. With her brows knitted, Elisa remained silent because she didn't want to be entangled with him. Besides, her wound had yet to recover, so she tried to avoid being tugged by Gareth. Little did Elisa know that Gareth remembered she was injured and hence didn't pull her just now. Soon, the two arrived at the ground floor. Gareth remained silent and emanated a cold, fearful aura, yet Elisa did not fear him. As soon as the lift door opened, Elisa stepped out of the lift, but Gareth held her arm gently and went forward with her cooperatively without straining her. Elisa stopped and stared at him coldly. "What exactly do you want? Everything is going according to your plan now, and I didn't refute you. When will you let go of me?" Gareth stared at Elisa frigidly and snorted, "Everything is going according to my plan? Do you mean that you're just playing along?" His words were filled with bitterness and sarcasm. The next second, he blurted, "Get into the car." Elisa furrowed her brows. "What the hell do you want?" She abhorred him for behaving like a maniac. "Elisa Benett, don't make me repeat myself!" Elisa lifted her arm to shove Gareth away but to no impossible that she couldn't tell! Annoyed, Elisa looked at Gareth in confusion. "What on earth are you trying to say?" What a ridiculous man! "Grandma wants to see you." Elisa was rendered speechless as she stared at the man in a fluster. I can't believe you're using this excuse again! "Grandma could contact me on her own if she wants to see me. Why are you always the messenger?" Looking calm, Gareth tapped his bony fingers on the steering wheel and answered impatiently, "You should know Grandma's intention." Elisa frowned. Obviously, she didn't buy Gareth's statement. "I'll visit Grandma during my free time, but not with you." "Elisa Benett, my patience has its limit." Elisa scoffed and retorted instantly, "Your patience is always limited, isn't it? Besides, whether your patience has reached its limit or not has nothing to do with me. Gareth Wickam, please remember that we're no longer related. Don't make me think that you regretted it." Gareth's face was gloomy, but he didn't refute Elisa this time, as if he didn't you've given them a chance. Furthermore, you'll be partnering in my project too. I can't think of any other motives that can only be achieved by reconciling with me." Just then, Elisa paused for a moment as she thought of something. Then, her smile stiffened. Looking into Gareth's cold eyes, she wore a sarcastic smile. "Or, would you rather sacrifice your marriage in order to defeat Will?" Gareth blurted frostily, "I can promise you three things. Firstly, I'll never divorce you. Secondly, I agree to have children if that's your wish. Thirdly, Benett Corporation will never topple, and you'll be the company's leader." Elisa's heart jolted as her body froze. She could feel her heart squeezing. If she had been given these promises in the past, she would be in seventh heaven despite knowing that Gareth's heart belonged to someone else, not her. Although Gareth was a cold and heartless man, he was a man of his word. So, he would definitely keep his promise once he offered it. As long as Elisa did not betray him, he would stand by his promise. If the entanglement between them never existed, Elisa might be moved. But now... Elisa smirked. "I'll avenge Benett Corporation on my own. As for you... I'm sorry to say that I

Gareth's car, so she did as she was told. "So, why on earth did you bring me here? Do you think you can stir me emotionally? Or, you're just this childish?" Despite saying that, Elisa had a hunch that Gareth had other intentions. Gareth darted a cold glance at her, but his expression remained indifferent and wasn't as fierce as before. The sky gradually got dark, which made it harder to perceive Gareth's expression. At the same time, his eyes turned more complicated. This time, Gareth didn't bother to wait for a response from Elisa but swiftly grabbed her wrist before she could dodge. Elisa was frustrated because she couldn't break away from Gareth. Damn it! My physical strength is no match for this man. Seeing that Elisa still remained still, Gareth furrowed his brows as if he had lost his patience. "Should I carry you in?" Elisa was dumbstruck. Her eyes were filled with resentment, yet she couldn't break away from him no matter how hard she tried. On the other hand, Gareth controlled his strength well so that he wouldn't hurt Elisa even though he was gripping her wrist. "Gareth Wickam! Do you know how detestable you are?!" As soon as Elisa yelled that, she could feel the atmosphere tense up instantly. Gareth stood at the spot and spun to face the stubborn woman. Just as Elisa thought he would further provoke her, Gareth carried her in his arms all of a sudden. Caught off guard, Elisa gasped, "Gareth Wickam!" She was afraid of falling, so she subconsciously encircled her arms around Gareth's neck. He had never carried her back then when they were married, but now, he was actually carrying her in his arms! This was a scene that she had once yearned for. Elisa got goosebumps closed the door and gently put Elisa down. Elisa didn't want to enter the house, so she turned to walk in memories of this place, she had conflicting feelings. Sure enough, Gareth hit the bull's eye by bringing her here. Elisa stood motionless on the spot. In contrast to her frustration, Gareth looked extremely comfortable. He cast a glance at Elisa nonchalantly and said with a calm look, "Go and take a look upstairs. I've not changed a single thing you fixed up." Elisa's heart skipped a beat. Indeed, she had put a lot of effort into this home. Even the picky Gareth did not think anything was wrong with the setting of the house, and he even felt comfortable. But alas, he once didn't bother to spare a glance at it. In fact, he had come back a few times after the divorce, and he felt depressed after seeing the careful decoration. "Shall I carry you?" There was a slight change in Elisa's
