returned to Elisa previously. His assistant was slightly puzzled. "Mr. Benett, what do you...?" "Just do as I say." "But... the keys to your previous house have been returned to Ms. Elisa." Norman's expression stiffened slightly. In an instant, he furrowed his brows tightly. But he thought of how he would have endless wealth when he successfully got hold of Gareth's classified information. When that time came, no one would be able to stop him... Thinking about it, he gritted his teeth at once. "Rent a house with three bedrooms and one living room. A decent environment and surrounding area will do." The assistant had a suspicious expression. "Do you... mean it?" "Yes!" "Alright. I'll do it right now." The assistant didn't know what was going on with his boss, but of course, he had to obey Norman's instructions.... At Wickam Group, they naturally noticed it when their fifth level of security was breached. At that moment, the IT department was working overtime. They had previously ridiculed the IT department of Twitter for working overtime and thought that those people chose the wrong jobs, unlike them, where they had it easy. As long as they put barriers in place, there wouldn't be theft. After all, with Wickam Group's reputation, who would have the nerve to pull the tiger's hair? But now...! They were going mad! Who is it? Who is so unbelievable?! Who can breach five levels of security in one afternoon? At that moment... they were reworking frantically! And this matter caused a sensation in the Wickam Group. When Gareth found out about it, his expression was unbelievably cold. Endless cold sweat was him a warning. Gareth looked at them coldly. "Everyone has to work overtime tonight. Change the sequence of the first five levels." "Alright." Everyone breathed a sigh of relief. They couldn't make any promises to Mr. Wickam. But working overtime and changing the order of the first five levels were possible! Gareth didn't say anything. He got up and left. Thomas followed Gareth back to the office. At the next moment, Gareth turned on his computer and got to work. Thomas' eyes flashed slightly. His boss was also a genius hacker. In Thomas' computer as he stared at it. But..... At that moment, the person that Gareth and the IT department of Wickam Group were desperately trying to track down was sitting on her couch with a bowl of fruits as she watched television. It was as though she couldn't remember what she did in the afternoon. Her cell phone suddenly rang and distracted her. —Rachel: 'Babe, let's go shopping tomorrow?' —Elisa: 'Pfft. Aren't you afraid that I'll get hurt?' —Rachel: 'Haha. Not anymore. You've recovered so well. Furthermore, am I not helping you avoid something? Don't forget that tomorrow is Carle's day off. You made an appointment with me beforehand to break free from him.' Elisa came to her senses in an instant, and she replied at once. —Elisa: 'A good friend indeed! I'll come to pick you up at eight tomorrow.' —Rachel: 'D*mn! That's too much! I want to sleep in tomorrow since I'm on break!' Elisa's lips curved slowly, and her expression was exceptionally at ease. She continued chatting with Rachel as the television was on. It was clear how relaxed she was feeling. However... of how contented she was feeling, it was like a war was happening on the other end. Rose was livid. She raised her hands and swung them at Norman's face angrily. Norman grabbed her hands. His face was dark as he said angrily, "Stop being such a wench! I'm doing it for our future!" "Norman! You're crazy! You sold our house without my consent, and you even moved my money! Norman Bennett!! How can you go overboard like this? Are you trying to bankrupt the family?!" Seeing Rose rush up to him, Norman pushed her down on the couch and said impatiently, "I have so many shares in Benett Corporation. How can the family go broke? What do you know, woman? You're short-sighted, and you're looking for trouble!" Today, Rose had been with Linda, but she was feeling extremely frazzled and wanted to look for Norman. She never imagined that what she discovered was and her chest was heaving. "Are... are you home. Remember to visit Linda." Norman left after that. No matter how much Rose screamed and shouted, he didn't look back as he walked away in an exceptionally curt manner. At that moment, Rose felt that their marriage was at its end. But...! Norman had taken out all her savings. What should she do?... The next day, Jean reached Rachel's house at eight, as she had previously said. Rachel yawned and covered her mouth as she walked down. She said in a seemingly tired manner, "Oh my god. You brat. You came at eight! I was still dreaming that I was playing poker with cute guys!" Elisa's lips twitched. "Please be ladylike and proper." "I'm serious! That cute guy was the most handsome celebrity that I've ever seen! I wonder if this is a prophecy. Maybe that was my future husband! You ruined my happy fate, Liz!" Elisa was dumbfounded. She didn't want to entertain the love-struck fool, so she pulled Rachel to the car. "Let's go. I thought we were going shopping. Let's have breakfast first." "Alright. Let's go to the place we always used to go to. I miss the French toast and eggs benedict!" Elisa chuckled. "Alright. Let's go." "Mm!" As they were heading to breakfast, Carle called Elisa, but she said that she had to go shopping with Rach today. They had to buy women's essentials, and many intersections with her. That's right. It was Nicole. She was standing with another girl as they listened to the shop assistant recommend lingerie to them. And now, Nicole wasn't interested in what the shop assistant had to say. Her attention was on Elisa. Seeing another shop assistant lead Elisa and Rachel to the east corner, Nicole made her way to them. "What a coincidence, Ms. Benett." Elisa slowly turned. Seeing Nicole look at her smilingly, her lips curved slightly. "Ms. Tabor." If Nicole hadn't said anything to Elisa, Elisa wouldn't have taken the initiative to greet Nicole, but now, she couldn't be rude. Moreover, nothing had ever happened between them, but Elisa wanted to avoid Nicole because of Gareth. Rachel's gaze also fell on Nicole, and envy streaked across her eyes. Rachel had previously seen Nicole on the television screen. She used to think that camerawork made Nicole look beautiful. But now, from the looks of it, she didn't look the least bit inferior in person to how she did on screen. Ah. Why was everyone around Rachel gorgeous? Her self-esteem suddenly plummeted! Nicole's best friend walked over as well. Seeing Elisa and Rachel, she smiled and nodded at them before her gaze fell on Nicole. "Nic, why did you suddenly come here? Aren't you going to buy anything?" Nicole smiled. "I'm in no rush. I'm just chatting with some old friends I met." The shop assistant was clear about Nicole's identity, and she didn't dare to show displeasure. She could only stand at the side politely, waiting for instructions. Elisa lifted her eyes slightly. Seeing Nicole carefree, relaxed, and easygoing, Elisa didn't feel good about Nicole, but she didn't dislike Nicole either. Perhaps it was strangers coming together by chance. Nothing much happened. But she was well educated. The way she spoke was likable, and it made a good impression on others. Like now, Rachel had a pretty good impression of Nicole. Nicole looked at Elisa and said gently, "Since we met by chance, would you like to have lunch together?" Nicole's best friend looked at her, puzzled. What is Nic doing? She had never taken the initiative like this, and many people knew that she liked Gareth. And Elisa's identity was a little awkward. She still had an unclear relationship with Gareth until now, but Nic was going so far as to get close to her. Something was fishy. Elisa smiled. "I'm sorry, I have some personal matters to deal with at noon, and I can't get away." Rachel stood at one side and didn't say anything. Nicole seemed to sigh in regret. "Since that's the case, let's have a meal together next time. You can't turn me down again, Ms. Benett." Elisa smiled. "Alright." Nicole didn't say anything and continued browsing lingerie with her best friend. Elisa looked at Rachel. "Let's continue looking." Rachel looked at Elisa suspiciously. "Both of you..." Elisa's lips curved slightly. She didn't plan on elaborating with the shop assistant on one side. The shop assistant was tactful. Everyone who came to the shop today

She didn't think about it anymore and immediately started introducing the items.

Rachel thought that the shop assistant before them was outstanding. She could even be promoted to store manager.

Rachel bought six sets in one go.

Before they left, she kept complimenting the shop assistant.

Rachel thought that she was very eloquent.

Elisa couldn't help but chuckle.

"It's a big brand after all. They certainly have to employ excellent staff"

Rachel couldn't help but laugh and nod.

"Haha. You're right."

"Anyway, what was up with that woman? Is she treating you as a love rival?"

After all...the relationship between Nicole, Elisa, and Gareth...was slightly complicated.

At that moment, the two of them were walking, and although there were people around, Rachel's voice was soft, and she didn't mention Nicole by name.

Elisa's eyes dulled slightly.

"Huh...? Then what did you mean by greeting her just now?"

Melissa had been friends with Nicole for a few years.Her thoughts were simple, and she wasn't very bright.She had been relying on the support of Nicole for the past few years, and Nicole had protected her quite well.

At the very least, other people wouldn't dare to do anything to Melissa because of Nicole.

But...

After being by Nicole's side for so long, Melissa wasn't much wiser.She had a stubborn character, but she didn't have a bad heart.

Nicole smiled.

"I simply admire her, and I just want to have a meal with her' "Huh? Admire? Isn't that wanting to be friends? But since you're not friends, why did you ask her out for a meal?"

Nicole immediately said in exasperation, "Alright, let's look around for a while more before we eat. What do you want to eat?"

Melissa was confused.

"Nic, I don't know what's going on...Please tell me what you're thinking about."

Grandma's voice sounded very frustrated and upset.

Elisa immediately said in exasperation, "How can that be, Grandma? I'm not lying to you!"

"Are you free tonight? Do you want to have dinner with me? No one is around. It'll just be two of us."

Old Madam Wickam's voice sounded particularly feeble, as if afraid that Elisa wouldn't agree.

If they were talking in person, Elisa was afraid that she would have to see Old Madam Wickam's restless manner.

It was evident that Elisa didn't want to see Grandma like that. She could only smile and say, "Alright. I will come over tonight."

"Really? Are you lying to me, girl?" Elisa chuckled.

"When have I ever lied to you, Grandma?"

If no one else was around, she would be happy to go over to chat and eat with Grandma. She hadn't wanted to go over previously because not everyone in the Wickam family liked her.

Old Madam Wickam seemed to be in a good mood.

On top of just waking up from her afternoon nap, she was in high spirits.

The both of them chatted, and they looked like they were related.

There were no barriers or boundaries between them.

They talked and laughed, and it was unknowingly dinner time.

"Old Madam Wickam.Ms.Benett.The food is ready.Would you like it to be served now?"

Julia was a little startled.

"Look at the time.Yes, serve the food."

"Alright." Julia smiled.

She got up, and she was still holding onto Elisa's hand.

Do you mind? Julia didn't know how to respond and couldn't say it brazenly.

Elisa smiled.

"Grandma, I know that you like this," she said as she took food for Old Madam Wickam.

She didn't bring Gareth up at all.

Julia breathed a sigh of relief.She smiled as she nodded.

"Yes.Eat up, Liz! I instructed them specially to make your favorite food today!"

As she spoke, she also took food for Elisa.

The two of them talked and laughed and completely neglected Gareth.

There was a warm atmosphere around them, and it unexpectedly made Gareth seem like an outsider.

It was as though Gareth was already used to such air and didn't feel uncomfortable at all.

He even... had an indescribable appetite. But...

Because of Gareth's presence, Elisa decided not to stay any longer in the end. She looked at Old Madam Wickam and smiled lightly as she said, "Grandma, I've been here for quite some time today, and I have some work to do. I'll come back another day"
