Chapter 631

"What do you know? The Three Musketeers are the best in the world.No matter how excellent Wickam Group's hackers are, can they beat The Three Musketeers?"

Rose was unconvinced.

"Do you think The Three Musketeers can shake up Wickam Group's position?"

"Of course!"

Norman had a disdainful expression.

"Do you think The Three Musketeers are incompetent?"

"But...!"

"They breached it! Only the twentieth level is left!"

Before Rose could finish, Norman looked excitedly at the proof that Elisa had sent.He replied to her in a delighted manner.

At that moment, Gareth seemed to pity Norman.

After all, two billion was down the drain.

At that moment, Norman had waited until dawn.

When he received the message, he instantly said with gratitude, "They must have succeeded!"

Although Rose kept berating Norman for going too far and thought that he had been tricked, at that moment, the expectation in her heart lit up, and she immediately leaned forward to look at Norman's cell phone.

She never imagined that...She would only see one word.

Norman was numb, but Rose was one step faster in coming to her senses.

Seeing that Rose had picked up his phone and started to type, Norman immediately got up and rushed to Rose, wanting to grab his cell phone back.

"You're mad! Give me back my cell phone!"

Rose gripped the cell phone tightly and didn't plan on returning it to Norman.

She said furiously, "Who is the madman? Can't you ask for your money back since she failed? It's two billion! You have so much debt right now, and we don't have a house. You've been a shareholder for so many years, Norman. Why are you giving all your money to others? Do you think it's easy to earn twenty billion? Is this all you have after so many years?"

Norman's brows furrowed tightly, and he yelled furiously, "It's because I didn't have so many shares back then! I didn't have my current position either. Hasn't what I earned this year multiplied? Don't you dare send it, Rose Meek! Maybe she's just trying to trick me, and perhaps she will still crack it!"

Rose was frustrated, and she said hotly, "It's obvious that she doesn't want to offend Wickam Group in the end. She knows when to stop. She doesn't have to do anything after receiving your money. How are you so stupid, Norman? You're a moron!"

"Wench! Lunatic!"

Norman saw the chance and took it as he snatched his cell phone back.

Gareth came to his senses in an instant and his brows furrowed tightly.

"Nothing."

He got up after that.

What he needed to do right now was to calm down.

At the next moment, he said in a low voice, "Don't forget what you promised me"

Elisa nodded indifferently, "Visit Grandma twenty times. I don't need you to remind me. I'll do it"

Gareth didn't say a word as he walked out. It was as though Elisa was used to his hurried coming and going.

When she heard the door shut, she got up and stretched.

She picked up her cell phone and took a shower before returning to her bedroom and laying down.

Seeing Norman send messages ceaselessly on the back end, Elisa blocked him.

Asking for two billion was cutting him some slack.

He didn't care at all.

Norman was a nobody. He wasn't interested in what nobody did.

Gareth was driving.

If Thomas was in the passenger's seat, he would've been able to tell that Mr. Wickam was in...a pretty good mood today? Gareth felt like time had passed quickly as he drove to the office.

Even when he was at his office desk, he didn't feel sleepy at all and planned to continue dealing with work matters.

It was just that...

When he looked at the computer, the scene of Elisa sitting in front of the computer and concentrating on cracking Wickam Group's classified information appeared in his mind subconsciously.

Levels of confidential information were like passing clouds before her.

He knew that no one could stop her if Elisa wanted to crack it.

Twenty levels were like a simple game to her. She didn't need to take too much trouble.

How much is Elisa hiding from him? No one could understand his complicated feelings the instant that he found out that she was Black-Eyed Susan.

He had once thought that the woman he married was a vain pretty face that would do anything to achieve her means. He thought that there was nothing good about her.

Elisa smiled and nodded. "Mm. I understand. You don't have to explain it to me, Kira."

Kira instantly smiled and nodded back. "Mm. I understand. Please look at the documents when you have the time. If there's anything you need, let me know any time."

Elisa nodded. "Alright."

Kira didn't stay any longer. She talked for a while more before she left.

Elisa stared for a while at the door that Kira had shut before she started working.

Rachel shook her head again. "There's a different meaning. We're all childhood friends and longtime friends of their family. No one wants such a situation to happen. Mrs. Semoa won't be unreasonable."

Sheena sighed. "I was a little worried. Logically speaking, Mrs. Semoa shouldn't act that way."

Shenna hung her head. She was feeling guilty. She shouldn't have criticized Liz that day, but... Mrs. Semoa was more concerned about Carle than she was. He was her son, after all.

Sheena grew increasingly worried.

On the other hand, Elisa was calm. "What happened that day was indeed my fault. I think it's understandable even if Mrs. Semoa blames me and reproaches me. Don't overthink it, Sheen. I must be responsible for what I did."

Rachel wrinkled her brows tightly. "We're all friends. You're guilty because you treat Carle as a friend. But in such situations, dating is between two people. He pursued you relentlessly, Liz, and you didn't want to accept him. You could only turn him down. I can only say that everything is a coincidence."

Sheena sighed as though she wished that it could be acknowledged. She nodded. "Mm. That's right!"

When Carle was in high school, she knew that her son liked Liz. She felt that the two of them could get together in the future since they were well-matched in various aspects.

It was a shame...

Holly sighed silently and didn't say anything.

Elisa also sighed slightly. She looked at Holly and saw that Holly didn't have her usual cold expression. Instead, there was a gentle smile on her face. Elisa's guilt and complicated feelings increased.

"Mrs. Semoa, with my current situation, you should know that... I am not worthy of Carle."

Holly's eyes flashed slightly, and she looked at Elisa subconsciously. "We don't mind."

Elisa's gaze trembled slightly. Sheena and Rachel were a little perplexed.

Although they were close to Carle, they didn't interact much with his family. They would meet older members of his family from time to time, but they didn't know them well.

An ashamed look streaked across Elisa's eyes. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Semoa. I caused this mess, but you have to clean up. However... I have no other way. I'm afraid that I will agitate him again if I say it to him."

Sheena couldn't help but sigh. "That's right, Mrs. Semoa. Carle really can't be agitated any more, but if things continue this way, he will find out the truth. I hope that he is mentally prepared for it and that he won't suddenly break down from suddenly finding out..."

Rachel pursed her lips and drank a sip of orange juice. She couldn't help but say in exasperation, "Carle loves too deeply. He's had feelings for Liz for so many years and has never changed. If he turns around, he will see that there's someone else who loves as deeply as he does. There's someone who has liked him all along."

Holly's eyes flashed slightly. Following the direction of Rachel's gaze, her gaze fell on Sheena. Seeing Sheena look down unconsciously, Holly was sure that Rachel was talking about her.

She looked at Sheena in astonishment. "Sheen...?"

Sheena came to her senses. "Hmm?"

Holly was sure of it!

Looking at Sheena's flushed complexion and concealed awkwardness in her eyes, Holly smiled lightly. "Sheena likes my son?"

"Yes, I will do this." Elisa nodded in agreement. After chatting for a while, Holly could not help but feel regretful about Elisa. She was disappointed that Elisa had married another man and could not love her son even now.

Still, finding out about Rachel's feelings comforted her sadness.

Holly liked Elisa, Rachel, and Sheena.

She would be happy to have any one of them as her daughter-in-law.

Unfortunately, she did not have two sons. Otherwise, she would have wanted both Rachel and Sheena as her daughters-in-law.

After chatting for a while, Holly smiled, "All right, I've been out for too long and need to head back to the company. Thank you for taking care of Carle. It must have been tiring. Let me treat you all to lunch another time."

“Haha, it’s nothing, Mrs. Semoa. We are Carle’s close friends and grew up with him.” Rachel was more excitable and did not find anything wrong with what she said.

On the other hand, Elisa wished to avoid a misunderstanding, and Sheena was too embarrassed to speak.
