

No Chance 76

Chapter 76 Who was it then?

"Father, don't say that. It's not your place to take the blame," said Elisa. She shook her head out of disagreement. She recounted, "maybe I was never meant to be in Gareth's life. Fate just had other plans."

Mr. Wickam mirrored her with a disagreeing shake of his head. "My dear Elisa, fate destined you two to be in each other's lives" he refuted.

Elisa paused at Mr. Wickam's statement. Is this his true intention? To make me and Gareth reconcile?

"Mr. Wickam..."

With her speculations being confirmed, Elisa delayed her response.

Mr. Wickam gave a defeated sigh. "Liz..." Mr. Wickam chided.

"Elisa Benett. You were, and still are, the love of Gareth's life", he contested.

That statement made Elisa chuckle. "Hey Dad, no offense, but you should really stop with the white lies," she confronted. "I know you think I'm still mad about that payment, but really I'm over it."

Mr. Wickam shook again in disagreement. "No, Liz, listen to me. I'm not lying to you."

naturally, she didn't believe a word and didn't pressure her further. However, he continued to reaffirm

now. If things moved on, and if it weren't for

Yes, it's true. Gareth was kind to her and that was what made her fall for him in the first place. Ever since she laid toward her had changed. This gave Elisa the realization and clarity to re-evaluate Gareth's feelings towards her. It was just you was his biggest priority. There was not a day he didn't let his guard down raised her head in surprise, "How kept in the dark about response. "If anything, he's the one carrying the disappointment. Gareth wouldn't make such changes turned pale at that statement. With clenched

you are a victim in this whole ordeal."

Mr. Wickam's. "You believe me?" Elisa

know the

turned tenser by the second. "Tell me on to that uncertainty. Elisa did not want to think about what could go wrong, know the