present situation, so she pretended she didn't hear anything and ignored Linda....The sky darkened. Elisa and Rachel returned to their respective rooms after finishing their meals.It was a risky area, and it was getting late. It wasn't safe to go out.Elisa went into the suite and saw Gareth sitting on the couch with a cloudy expression. She didn't want to talk to him, so she changed her shoes and walked to her room.Gareth looked at her coldly. "Where did you go?" "Downstairs to eat with Rachel," Elisa replied indifferently.Gareth continued looking at her icily. "Do you treat me as a fool?" Elisa was flabbergasted.What she said was the truth. Does Gareth think that she's deceiving him?"It's up to you to believe me." Elisa returned to her room after that.But...Elisa didn't know that Gareth had been waiting to eat with her. Gareth stayed seated on the couch with a dark expression. His cell phone rang, and it was a call from Thomas. He answered the call and said, "No preparations needed."He hung up after that.On the other end, Thomas seemed to have understood something. He had seen Elisa and Rachel together when he was downstairs.Gareth had hung up on him before he could say anything. Thomas touched the tip of his nose. Right now, he could picture his boss' malicious expression. Ms. Benett... must be in for a rough night...Just as Thomas was thinking about it, Gareth got up and made his way to Elisa's room. He said coldly, "Open the door."He had heard Elisa closing and locking the door just now.Elisa was didn't say anything and waited for the man to continue.Gareth opened his notebook and put it on the coffee table. "Come here."Elisa pursed her lips. She had just showered and didn't want to sit on the couch.But from Gareth's attitude, she had no other way. She frowned and walked to sit next to Gareth before naturally looking at the screen of his notebook.Her brows wrinkled slightly. "I've studied Phoenix Bridge. I know everything, and no further plan is needed. I can take you around tomorrow and explain everything."Gareth instantly smelled her fragrance after she sat down abruptly. His cold eyes suddenly deepened, and he was inexplicably restless.But after a moment, he restrained himself before turning to look at her. "Am I the boss, or are you the boss?"Elisa was startled.She wanted to swear.She really wanted to curse at him and didn't hold herself back. She looked at him coldly. "Can a boss oppress their employees? Moreover, I've never been your employee!"She truly felt that Gareth was finding fault on purpose and wanted to teach her a lesson. She thought he wanted to look for problems and make her think of you want to amend the proposal after the inspection, we can..."Elisa expressed her thoughts.Nothing she said was fluff. She got straight to the point and was concise. Everything she said was essential yet straightforward, and she talked for twenty minutes straight.At first, Gareth had a nasty expression because of Elisa's attitude. But when she spoke about work earnestly, he started to be attracted by her plan. Elisa's mind was also particularly nimble. They were reorganizing the project, but she could come up with a proposal so quickly. At that moment, Gareth's admiration for her could almost be seen.But Elisa wasn't looking at his expression. She was used to his cold demeanor.After everything was growled, "You stupid woman. Couldn't you tell me that you were going to eat? Didn't you know that I was waiting for you?" Rachel laughed in her rage at the jerk. "Did I ask you to wait for me? Have we ever eaten together peacefully? Were you really waiting for me? Pfft... I'd be a fool to believe you!" Vincent ground his teeth. "Why can't I wait for you to eat together? You're being so unreasonable!" Rachel laughed in her rage, and she looked at Vincent in a slightly confused manner. "How can you say that I'm being unreasonable? What relationship do we have for you to call me unreasonable? Have I been nagging you? Am I an ex-girlfriend who assaulted you? How am I being unreasonable?" Rachel had a sharp tongue. When met with someone like Vincent, she didn't hold back and said whatever she wanted to. Vincent was dumbfounded. He gritted his teeth. "Bringing you along was a freaking waste of space!" After that, Vincent got up and walked out. When he shut the door, Rachel heard a loud noise and was worried that the door would fall out. "He's crazy!" Rachel said as she went to her room. He can do anything he wants. What does it have to do with her? Did he wait to eat with her? She felt that the jerk was finding fault. How can he be so kind as to wait to eat with her? He made an exception by bringing her along this time. He wouldn't pay so much attention to her if not for that thing. Hmph.....After Vincent her?" Gareth didn't say anything, and he silently drank from his glass. Rachel didn't eat with Vincent because it was clear that she didn't treat him as a friend. She didn't have any messy feelings for him, so it was normal for her to do so. Then... what about Elisa? Gareth's expression instantly turned cold. Even Vincent could feel the surrounding temperature reducing and immediately turned to look at the source. He saw Gareth's frosty eyes before asking curiously, "What's going on with you?" Gareth pursed his lips and didn't say a word. But Vincent suddenly came to his senses, and his thoughts chased his restlessness away. At the next moment, he looked at Gareth high-spiritedly. "Could you also be furious because Elisa didn't wait to eat with you?" Gareth wrinkled his brows. "No." "D*mn! That's obviously the case! Haha... I'm not the only incensed one." Even though Gareth was shrewd and insightful, Vincent, Jeremy, and Gareth were like brothers who had grown up together. It could be said that they understood each other. Even if Gareth denied it, Vincent could tell that Gareth was unhappy about it! In the blink of an eye, Vincent suddenly felt it was fair. At long last, he wasn't alone any longer. Gareth's sharp gaze swept toward him. "I'm different from you." "Different? How are you different?" "Rachel really doesn't have you in her heart," Gareth said simply and concisely. Vincent's expression instantly turned nasty. He ground his teeth and said, "D*mn! What does it have to do with me if she doesn't have me let you go." Gareth's eyes flashed slightly. Vincent was in high spirits when he saw it. "To be accurate, by appearing at the banquet with Will and requesting a divorce in public, she has truly given up on you." Gareth drank and didn't say anything. Vincent clinked glasses with him. "After that, she did a series of things and didn't need you, nor did she approach you. If not for the fact that you took the initiative to look for her, I'm afraid she might have vanished on her own accord." Gareth was calm and collected, but Vincent felt that the glass in Gareth's hand was about to be crushed. "Ah. You're like this. Won't you admit that you've fallen in love with her?" Gareth immediately scoffed. "Is she worthy of my love?" "Is she not? Otherwise, why are you so eager to bring her out? Is it really for work?" "What else could it be?" Gareth's cold eyes swept to him. "That's nonsense. You clearly want to spend time alone with her! Even though your grandma forced you to personally pick roses for her, with your personality, did you really do it because your grandma forced you to? Who can force you to do anything you don't want to?" Gareth furrowed his brows, and Vincent continued. "But you still did it for her personally to prove it to her. The next day, everyone at the company saw your confession to her. You even let the media report it recklessly to defeat your rival in love. You're so devious, Mr. Wickam." "Nothing good comes out of a scoundrel's mouth." Gareth drank again. He couldn't be bothered to say anymore. But Vincent was overjoyed. "You even prepared a surprise for her after that. You took the trouble to give her such an exquisite pair of heels, Mr. Wickam. Can't I even joke about it?" When the heels were mentioned, Gareth's expression darkened instantly. This time, he didn't try to hide it. The air around him grew like a cold winter wind. The pit of his stomach grew cold as well. Vincent noticed it, and his curiosity was piqued by Gareth again. He looked at Gareth and asked, "Can you tell me what happened that day? Why couldn't Elisa restrain herself in front of your grandma?" Gareth didn't say anything. He finished his one drink in one go and poured himself another before doing the same. Vincent could clearly feel that he was in a bad mood. Otherwise, he wouldn't drink in such a manner. Vincent knew that he couldn't agitate Gareth any more. He asked differently, "Do you want to talk about it? I don't think it's good to hold it in alone. Moreover, don't you want to get married again? Even if no feelings are involved, isn't Elisa the most suitable person? You can tell me about it, and I can help you look into redeeming the relationship." Gareth pursed his lips and didn't say

When Vincent saw Gareth's dark face, he continued, "So, you have to tell me. What on earth happened?"

"There's nothing to say." Gareth put down his glass. At that moment, he wasn't in the mood to drink any longer.

He didn't want to tell anybody what had happened that day, and it wasn't because he had been humiliated by how Elisa had treated him. Rather... he didn't want anyone to know what had happened between them in the past.

Vincent was confounded.

He had tried hard to persuade Gareth but couldn't get any answers. He suddenly lost his head at this impasse. "D*mn! I should have ignored you since my life is in shambles anyway!"

Gareth glanced at him indifferently. Gareth had cautioned Vincent previously. It was pointless to advise Vincent anymore.

The two of them started to drink in silence.

When they had their last drink, Vincent gritted his teeth and said, "This woman will get more than she bargained for sooner or later!"

"Don't lose more than you gain." Gareth got up after that. "It's late. Let's go back."

Elisa sat silently in her seat and didn't say anything else to this man.

The man in the passenger's seat wasn't showy and had good manners. He knew Elisa and Gareth had a delicate relationship, so he didn't say anything else to Elisa.

Elisa took out her cell phone and casually looked at it. There were clearly four people in the car, but it was so quiet it was almost as if the vehicle was empty.

They reached their destination shortly.

Dennis looked at Gareth and Elisa as he spoke politely. "This is a good area for development, but it's a little rough. It can be a little unsafe, so please be careful. I brought with me many bodyguards that are dispersed all around. If anything happens, they will appear to protect you."

Elisa and Gareth didn't say anything. Thomas smiled and said, "Thank you for your consideration, Mr. Moore."

He got up and walked out.

Julia gritted her teeth. "If you interfere between the two of them, we are going to get a divorce!"

'Bang!'

Darren suddenly shut the door loudly.

Julia was slightly enraged and cried out in her fury. "Don't talk to me again!"

Darren, who was outside, heard it. In his rage, he glanced at Julia through the window and saw that she had stood up and made her way upstairs.

They wanted to kill Elisa!

"Be careful!"

Gareth was the one who said it.

Of course, Elisa had noticed these people charging at her. When the first person attacked her, she turned to the side. She grabbed his arms and raised her leg to strike the man's crucial region!

'Pow!'

Elisa was ruthless. In an instant, the man howled in grief!

Other assailants who wanted to wipe out Elisa behind the man felt their bodies stiffen. Their actions slowed down subconsciously.

Elisa's heels stepped on the wrist that was holding the dagger. The man was already in extreme pain, but as the sharp and delicate heel stepped on the veins of the back of his hand, he was in even more pain that his cold sweat flowed uncontrollably. In that instant, Elisa picked up his dagger.
