

No Chance 841

Chapter 841

She instantly returned to her senses and smiled at him mockingly. "You don't have to do that. I will be fine, and I'm sure Grandma wouldn't blame you. You can leave now."

Gareth looked slightly greenish as he suppressed his urge to strangle her. Without another word, he headed upstairs.

Elisa's frown tightened, feeling annoyed as she watched him walk away.

There was nothing she could do to chase him away. After hesitating, she ignored him and returned to her room. We are like strangers now, yet we have to live under the same roof. If Vincent and Jeremy knew this, they would undoubtedly tease him – especially Vincent.

Late at night, Gareth still did not feel sleepy at all. He coughed uncontrollably with a frown on his face. Regardless, he didn't say anything and took a deep breath to suppress the urge to cough before closing his eyes.

The next day, Elisa thought Gareth would leave after waking up. When she went down to prepare breakfast, she was shocked to find food on the table, with Gareth sitting in front of it.

When he saw her, he said coolly, "Come over for breakfast."

Elisa's frown tightened unhappily at Gareth. Even though she didn't comment on it, she had made herself clear enough.

However, Gareth feigned ignorance and went to the couch to read the documents.

After a moment of silence, Elisa said coldly, "Why are you doing this? What's the point?"

Gareth snorted. "You are asking me what's the point?"

"I feel like you're acting like a creep right now. I am starting to feel like you can't live without me. Please don't create such an illusion – it's disgusting. Can you leave now?"

The veins on Gareth's forehead bulged. He looked at Elisa sarcastically. "You'd better not believe the illusion. You're not good enough."

"Get out of here, then! Don't you know it's annoying to see you here?" Elisa's anger was triggered by his reply, which was why she had taken such a tone toward him.

Gareth opened the door immediately, but Elisa was nowhere to be seen.

His face immediately darkened. After checking through all the other rooms, he concluded that Elisa was not in the house anymore.

She escaped from the second floor! Damn it!

A vein throbbed on Gareth's forehead. Elisa's actions were utterly unforeseen. His anger went over the roof.

She didn't leave a note, showing how much she hated his presence.

Through her actions, she was telling him that he was not needed in her life.

Bitterness instantly streaked across Sheena's eyes. "I haven't seen him in a long time. He's been avoiding me intentionally since he found out about my feelings. He must be afraid to give me false hope."

Rachel furrowed her brows at once. "You can't go on like this. It's complicated between you, but we're such old friends. Why don't we ask Carle to come over for dinner tonight?"

Elisa had a complicated expression. She thought of what Carle had said previously, not to ignore him. But now, he was avoiding Sheena...

Sometimes, human relationships are complicated.

She thought about it and nodded. "Sure. I'm okay with it."

Sheena wanted to see the man and said softly, "I'm okay with it too."

Rachel nodded. "Alright. I'll ask Carle now."

Sheena was nervous.

Chapter 845

Gareth was in Elisa's house and hadn't left.

Thomas scratched the tip of his nose and felt slightly awkward. How could he tell Gareth what Rachel had said...

If he were too honest, Mr. Wickam would be in a bad mood, which might affect everyone.

But...

If he weren't frank, he would be deceiving Mr. Wickam. Thomas was in a difficult position.

He hesitated for a moment before saying softly, "Mr. Wickam, I just called Ms. Markee. Ms. Benett is at her place with Ms. Gilo. The three are together, so Ms. Benett should be fine."

Gareth's expression was ice-cold. He didn't say a word.

Thomas had a slightly uncomfortable expression. In an instant, he didn't know how to tell Gareth, but at such a stage, so he could only go on. "Ms. Markee said... she will take good care of Ms. Benett and that you don't have to do it for the time being. They don't want to bother you..."

At that moment, that was all he could say. He couldn't say anymore.

Rachel nodded. "That's right. You have to stay with us. Otherwise, let Gareth take care of you."

Elisa was dumbfounded.

Rachel hesitated for a moment, but she couldn't help herself. "Actually... I understand Gareth's behavior. He's held himself back these few days. You were involved and hurt because of him, but you keep expressing that you don't need him. If he didn't care, he should be overjoyed. He could have asked anyone to look after you or ignore you since you have us."

Sheena nodded. "Yes. I think so too. Liz, perhaps he's starting to notice you since you're different from before."

Elisa's lips twitched. "Never mind. He can do whatever he wants. Ignore him. It's fine as long as he doesn't disturb me."

"Pfft. Just stay with us. He'll still get someone to keep an eye on you. If you're alone, he will show up. Perhaps he might think you're acting coy for him to show up."

Elisa was rendered speechless.

Sheena immediately nodded in agreement. "That's right. It will cause a misunderstanding."

Carle nodded and walked into the washroom. This time, after Elisa sat down, Sheena chose to sit next to Rachel noticed and knew what was going on, so she immediately walked to sit across from Elisa.

She deliberately left a seat for Carle across from Sheena.
Unease instantly flickered across Sheena's eyes. "Rach..."
Her voice was very soft. Only the three of them could hear it.
Rachel smiled and threw her a coy glance. "Don't be afraid. Persist bravely!"

But he thought of something and asked in a baffled manner, "Why isn't alcohol served tonight?"

"We knew you were driving, and drinking so often isn't good. I've been breaking out lately."

"You should eat less dairy."

But after he said it, he realized nondairy-based food was on the table. He suddenly smiled. "You're being so healthy?"

"Of course."

Sheena let out a breath. Breaking out was a good excuse.

Everyone chatted and joked around. There was a good atmosphere.

But...

Carle suddenly looked at the three of them and said softly, "Actually, I have something to say."

"Go ahead," Sheena said, but she was slightly worried.

She didn't say anything else.

It seemed like Carle sighed in relief and then smiled lightly.

"I might have been too stubborn previously, or perhaps I loved you too deeply. I thought about how to get you to accept me every day. I even used my injury to emotionally blackmail you into being with me."

"To be honest, after I woke up from my coma, I was elated when I heard that you accepted me.

However, I was also worried that you only accepted me because I had been in an accident. There was something strange, but... I wanted to deceive and trick myself."

When Carle was speaking, he couldn't help but smile as he shook his head.

Sheena opened her mouth and wanted to say something, but she couldn't find the words.

Carle smiled and said, "I was thoughtless and didn't notice so many things about you. I pursued Liz in front of you relentlessly. I even discussed with you how to pursue her, and you bottled up your sadness to help me come up with ideas. I'm sorry, Sheen."

Sheen shook her head immediately. "No, this has nothing to do with you. I never said anything before, so none of you would know."

She didn't want to trouble everyone. She was afraid that if she said anything, they couldn't stay friends.

Sheena took a deep breath and hung her head slightly. She didn't have the nerve to look at Carle.

Carle said softly, "I'm very sorry, but I know if I say too much, it will make you feel worse. Although I want to give up on Liz, I can't start a new relationship so quickly. Sheen, can we be friends like we used to be?"

He was actually rejecting Sheena explicitly so she wouldn't think too much.

In an instant, Sheena's heart was in agony, but she hadn't lost her rationality. If she turned down Carle's offer to be friends now, he might choose to distance himself from her. There was no way he could forget Liz now.

Sheena nodded. "Alright. Let's be friends from now on and not overthink anything. We've grown up together and have such a good relationship. I
