

No Chance 971

Chapter 971

Amidst everyone's attention, Elisa took the opportunity to speak.

She commented, "For this contract, I ask that you look closely at article 24. It clearly states..."

Elisa began to point out one loophole after another in the contract.

Norman's lawyer was dumbfounded.

There was no issue with each separate clause, but Elisa could detect disparity when comparing two clauses due to her professional expertise.

Norman thought to himself, how...how could this be happening?!

Norman couldn't understand what Elisa was saying, but he wasn't blind. He noticed how pale his lawyer's face had become.

Norman internally panicked. What...what is going on?!

"What's happening?"

lawyer whispered back. He could no longer refute Elisa's statements.

given to Rachel was still in her possession. She followed Elisa's points and examined the contract admiration, "My goodness! She's a genius!"

to her stunning us every time. I don't even them no chance

"I never thought she

the contract as Norman could not respond to the claims. Yet, specifically asked Elisa to print a copy to study the

I didn't expect...

in

that the many outstanding attorneys exceptional! Superb to the point exclaimed, "Exceptional! Look at the attorney Norman chose. He's not very competent, is Vincent could find the flaw," said Charli.

Chapter 972

"The hell you mean I'm a dead man?"

Rachel withheld her words. She wore a surprised expression.

Am I mishearing things?

Without thinking, she turned around to see Vincent seated behind her. Rachel looked at him, and her eyes filled with terror.

Rachel stared at Vincent's cold expression. She cried, "What are you doing here?!"

Rachel thought she had seen a ghost. She thought to herself, how is this possible?

How did Vincent manage to sneak up on us?!

What a mystery!

Not only was Rachel taken aback, but Charli was also skeptical.

did he get here?

expression darkened. He countered, "Why?

some reason, but she refrained from showing it. "Sure, you can be glance. She didn't want to say more to him.

unintentionally hid her guilt.

Charli grinned.

the two, but wore

of her experience, Charli could judge around them had stopped watching the trial and instead turned suppressed his feelings. He stated coldly, "I'll settle the score with you indolent to pay him attention, Rachel looked blankly at him and turned to face meantime.

had finished

defending party was anxiety spiked.

could never succeed, he had felt restless for the last repercussions and challenges he would experience if Elisa were

Chapter 973 What Other Choice Do We Have

Norman's expression soured. He knew it was the only way, but he was not content! Rose continued as she wasn't finished.

She looked at him gravely.

"It doesn't matter if she has swindled the income for the past few years. At least we don't need to give her another portion, or else we would have to give her extra money along with the shares. We would lose even more."

He clenched his teeth.

"No! It is not a good idea! Why should I give her any of the shares?! I put in so much effort to kill Nelson. She stole two billion from us. We don't have a single penny left from recent years' income. Suppose she is to take back the shares plus the income worth a few billion. In that case, not only will we have no income, but we will have to compensate more than two billion despite our efforts! How are we supposed to pay then?!" She furrowed her eyebrows and sighed.

"I know this is one of the last resorts, but...what other choice do we have?"

His expression darkened as he ignored her and called his assistant.

The assistant picked up right away. He sounded wide awake.

"Mr. Bennett."

me a way to contact

"Are you..."

His expression was sullen.

and see

to worry much if they bought the eyebrows as she looked fixedly at Norman. Is This nothing much could be said

a time and try

last resort could be their assistant responded not long after Norman ended the call. But all he gave was displeased, but it was a reasonable effort considering their situation. He called the number without disturbing the man if it judge's assistant. He pay the assistant for his would

while

Chapter 974 Deal With It Accordingly

"It's just that...I called to ask if you could contact the judge for me.It's about tomorrow's case with Elisa Benett.I want to ask the judge if he can..." He said resignedly as his voice trailed off at the end.

His intentions were clear.

The assistant ought to quit his job if he didn't understand.The assistant sighed.

"Mr.Benett, I apologize, but I cannot help you with such matters."

He could frankly reject Norman since he had made his intentions clear.

Norman's expression changed, but he tried again, thinking the assistant might be asking for more.

great importance to me.Please help me and have a word with the judge.I guarantee that your efforts will not

The assistant sighed immediately.

you, but I really can't.Let's not talk about how bribing is frowned upon by society.Even if it's acceptable, you must look at your opponent.Iris.There's no way looked upset.But she had expected the assistant's reaction, which could not accept

to convince the man, but he was refute her.If the judge is blatantly biased toward you, do you know how severe the penalty will be for him? Iris can sue phone silently.He was continued, "Not only is Iris competent, but she also has great influence.You know that she is the chairman of Benett Corporation.She's also been close with those from Wickam and Darcey Group.Do you think the judge could refuse if all these parties pressured

Norman fell silent.

assistant had made his

would accept bribes.He was a firm man

Chapter 975 Speaking with Eloquence

"Mr.Norman took away my father and I's properties.I've tried negotiating multiple times, but it hasn't worked.Hence, I was forced to take legal action.I have the right to demand Mr.Norman return all the shares, including the profit from all these years"

Enraged, Norman was at a loss for words! All of it?! But before he could think more, Elisa continued.

"When I said all the shares, I meant all the shares Mr.Norman currently has so that he has none left."

Norman was dumbfounded.

Linda and Rose, sitting among the audience, were glowering.

"Is Elisa crazy?!"

Linda gritted her teeth as she did not dare to speak too loudly. She said disbelievingly, "In any way, Nelson gave some shares to Dad, and it's done legally with a contract! How could she...!"

But as she said it, she realized that something was not right.

the contract?! Rose was thinking of the same thing. Her expression was grim, and her must have a plan. That's why she can speak with such eloquence. It looks like the judge is on her side. Her voice was calm.

she could do was accept the situation and find ways to retrieve

the upper hand if

her teeth as her blood claiming? Nelson died long ago. We all have the right to inherit his properties began transferred some of the shares to my client before he passed. He did not have a will when he passed on. Naturally, all his relatives have a wasn't as fluent as before when he for relatives to inherit as if he was expecting Elisa to have Norman's expression was dark.

could see him as he sat at

could not shares! On say that my father's contract to transfer the shares has

Chapter 976 Defendant, Please Compose Yourself

"Mr. Norman and his family played a part in my father's death. They do not have the right to inherit."

Norman was shaken up as his expression changed drastically.

"You're spouting nonsense!"

Rose and Linda were filled with panic! They were not expecting Elisa to say such a thing! The situation grabbed everyone's attention.

Even Vincent forgot about his irritation toward Rachel as he looked at Elisa, thunderstruck.

My God! This woman is crazy! How can she announce that publicly?! Does she have all the evidence? If she doesn't, she will be unable to finish everything in one blow, and the other party will keep their guard up.

Vincent observed Elisa. Her calm face showed no other emotions. His interest was piqued, and he felt resigned. Ahh, if only I could use my phone. I could stream this moment to Gareth! But it did not matter. He would have to pass on the situation to Gareth later anyway. He would let Gareth see how...unique Elisa was. Elisa's revelation left everyone at the scene shell-shocked.

once through the microphone since he appeared in the court. His sudden outburst was out of instinct. He felt everyone's eyes on him. He was a public figure skeptical of him and thought he was a monster?! He couldn't control you go to such lengths for the shares? How can you accuse me of something like that?

back his thoughts as he was courtroom resonated with judge furrowed his brows as

"Defendant, please compose yourself."

Norman not to interrupt

felt more

anything else, the judge turned

what evidence do you

Elisa, Iris was her name as a representing lawyer. That was why the judge addressed her as Elisa continued, unperturbed.

some evidence. First, I'll play a Chapter 977 The Microphone Was Muted!

Realizing that they were about to release the recording, Norman quickly interjected, "Your honor, she's lying! I would never do something like this. You can't..."

The judge frowned. He was displeased by how Norman acted but responded courteously, "True or false? The evidence needs to be examined once it's been presented."

Norman, "!!!"

What must he do?! What can he do?!

He didn't know if Elisa's recording was real. But they had plotted to kill Nelson. What would they do if she really did have a recording of them saying these things?

He was panicking.

He turned to the lawyer next to him, "Quick! Think of something!!"

His lawyer looked close to tears. He mumbled, "There's nothing much we can do, Mr. Benett. True or not, we must listen to the recording before refuting it."

Norman clenched his teeth.

at Norman with disgust—the audacity of this man,

recording was played for everyone need to go to move on to the

We need to go to move on to the next step. Quick!"

The person talking right now is my aunt, Rose Meek, also

Rose, "!!!"

Damn it!!

find this recording?! How did she get her hands on started panicking!

play.

a few days since he had his heart attack. Why

"This is my cousin's voice. Linda Benett, Rose's daughter."

Linda, "!!!"

That b*tch!!!

Linda stayed still. She didn't want them to look innocent and aggrieved.

Chapter 978 Traces of Medicine

"It drives me mad with anger whenever I think about how much I had to grovel before them for so many years with a smile on my face!"

Rose snickered. "It's all in the past. We're at the end of our suffering. These years, I haven't done anything except cook for the both of them. I've had to bend to their every whim. There's only so much a person can take. Thank goodness he doesn't have much life in him anymore, and Benett Corporation will soon be ours!"

"That's right! The fruits of our labor!!" Linda cackled.

"Thank you for keeping up with the act for me for two years." Norman smiled. "Once the shares are in my name, and I'm chairman, you will never have to suffer such humiliation again!"

"You're amazing, dad! But shouldn't we keep that medicine you used on Norman? In case we need it again in the future?"

"Hmph... No. It's just a normal supplement you can find at any drugstore. You wouldn't have any issues after ingesting it. No one knows about Nelson's allergies to it, not even his best friend, James."

in case..." Linda it to prevent Elisa from suspecting us. Nelson has always taken this supplement. It'd look suspicious if it were to wouldn't have gotten away

Just keep pretending to be incapacitated; sooner or later, Gareth will be yours! What are you recording ended

the audience all had different expressions on their

from lunging at Elisa to grab her microphone. But that would only make him appear more guilty.

allergy records and the supplement, as mentioned above, that he

Elisa can stay so calm right now is looked at her but said nothing.

Chapter 979 Tampered With

"Nonsense! That is completely ridiculous!" Norman spluttered, but as his microphone was still off, people sitting a distance away from him could not hear him.

Those surrounding him heard him quite clearly.

But they ignored him. They were all stunned by what Elisa had just revealed.

How could Norman and his family do something so cold-blooded?!

They were in disbelief! Yet at the same time, they knew that things like this happened more often than they realized. It was human nature, after all!

People would go to great lengths when it came to money.

People without conscience would hurt their own family and friends for it.

No one paid Norman any mind. They didn't even want to look at him. All eyes were on Elisa, waiting for her to say something.

stood up and picked up her files of evidence.

something anything with her when she came to court. She said whatever she wanted, but it was so convincing and indisputable that no one could there something special in those files?

voice sounded in the large room.

medicine they gave my father. I've also her files, bringing them to

No one would be able to hear what he had

and the

may speak."

be fabricated. How could she prove that her agreed with his bothered with both of them. She addressed the document. Please nodded.

Chapter 980 Will Not Be Moved

Everyone looked a little unsatisfied, as if they had been left hanging right before the ending of a movie.

The judge had left, and there was nothing they could do.

Elisa rose to her feet. She knew that the case would not conclude today.

People started to stand and leave. Elisa had no plans on lingering either.

Rachel and Charli stood and hurried over to where Elisa was.

Rachel, in particular, was in high spirits. She was extremely curious about what was in the files Elisa had handed in. She especially wanted to know what would happen to Linda and her family.

But this wasn't the place to ask Elisa. She quickly ushered Elisa out.

Before they had taken three steps, someone called her name. The voice sounded tight. It was as if whoever it was was trying their hardest not to let their anger get the better of them.

"Elisa."

and turned towards avoid letting it show to get on Elisa's better side. Rachel burst out in laughter. Norman's face grew even more him

whispered, "I've booked a table for us at a restaurant. Let's go couldn't help but roll her

he had laughed in back at him. "No thanks. I free lunch. Some way or another, you'll was a darkened even he this had happened, I'm still your uncle, Elisa. Are you going to in disbelief.
stared at him without
"I've booked a table for us at a restaurant.
too much respect for herself to continue entertaining his