

No Chance 99

Chapter 99 Evading the Question

Dust to dust, ashes to ashes. She decided not to associate with people of influence anymore and she was even less keen to be caught between Will Darcey and Gareth Wickam.

Will sighed. "I won't make trouble for you, and I won't force you to go against Gareth. Can't we be friends?"

Elisa drew a tight smile. "We're not in the same social circle."

She knew that Will wanted to give her a car, but she was adamant to reject him.

After a moment of silence, Will uttered a word that Elisa never thought he would. "Elisa," he whispered, but Elisa was unconcerned.

"Mr. Darcey, I need to go. Goodbye." Before he could respond, she hung up the call.

Elisa leaned back into the car seat to rest her mind. She arrived at the rendezvous point half an hour later and called Rachel.

Elisa!

as well. Where are

Rachel exclaimed as she words, Elisa glanced around to look for her friend, only to see Rachel dashing towards her with a white bag slung over her are gorgeous! Why do you look good in everything? And did you know that tiffany blue matches you beautifully! You look glanced at Rachel's flowery dress and giggled. "You out a guffaw as she hooked her arm through Elisa's arm. "Which showroom would you like to Surveys shops of

know that you're trying to distance yourself from Darcey and Wickam Groups, group – her hatred for Gareth would not dissuade her from buying a car from them. She would profit from the business – Gareth's

go to

buy would

to Wickams. Surely, you'd like to profit your