

Chapter 15

Chapter 15

"You bitch! Get back here!" the guards roared, chasing after Sarah.

"General Manager Katherine! I need to talk to you!" Sarah shouted, picking up her pace.

Standing in front of the podium, Katherine's brows knitted in irritation. What could this madwoman possibly want now?

Not that it mattered anyway. She had no intention of acknowledging her.

If not for Robin's words back in the CEO's office—his firm command that she take no action against Sarah or Marcus—she would have killed this bitch already!

Someone so ungrateful and ruthless didn't deserve to live!

Meanwhile, the guards finally caught up with Sarah, grabbing her arms and forcefully pulling her back.

"General Manager Katherine, please! I need to talk to you!" Sarah cried out desperately.

Katherine kept her gaze elsewhere, acting as if she hadn't heard a word.

"Can't you see General Manager Katherine doesn't want anything to do with you? Move!" one of the guards snapped angrily, shoving Sarah even harder.

"General Manager Katherine! Please, just give me this one chance! It's a matter of life and death! Please!" Sarah pleaded, struggling against the guards' grip.

"Let her come. Let's hear what she has to say," Robin suddenly said, his voice just loud enough for Katherine to hear.

Katherine's brows knitted slightly. She couldn't understand why Robin would still concern himself with this ungrateful woman. Did he suddenly feel sorry for her?

Even so, she gave a slight nod and gestured to the security guards. "Let her come."

"Yes, boss." The guards immediately released Sarah.

Her eyes lit up as she hurried forward. "Thank you for giving me this chance, General Manager Katherine."

"Just get to the point," Katherine said coldly.

Sarah flushed slightly but quickly recovered. "General Manager Katherine, I've always looked up to you. You're my role model. That's why I'm telling you this. Because I genuinely want what's best for you."

"Oh?" Katherine mouthed, genuinely surprised. "Go on."

"It's about the loser beside you, General Manager Katherine."

"Oh, no," Liam shook his head. This bitch was about to dig her own grave!

Meanwhile, a cold gleam flickered in Katherine's eyes, but her expression remained composed. "Oh, really? What about him?" she asked.

Emboldened by Katherine's response, Sarah turned to Robin with open disdain. "General Manager Katherine, you shouldn't be associating with a loser like him! He's nothing but a leech! Keeping him around will only ruin you!

"Just yesterday, my mom told me about some woman who helped this pest purchase Dragonroot. Now, I'm realizing that the woman in question is actually you, General Manager Katherine.

"Don't you see what I mean? Just one day together, and he's already making you buy a herb worth millions. Isn't it obvious? He's only using you to drain your wealth!"

Katherine let out a low chuckle. "And what if I enjoy being drained by handsome men like him?"

Sarah's face twisted in shock. "What?"

But as she caught sight of Katherine's amused expression, she quickly composed herself and laughed. Of course, General Manager Katherine was joking. There was no way she would actually mean that!

Rolling her eyes, she pressed on. "General Manager Katherine, how can you possibly enjoy that? If you surrounded yourself with men like him, how would you have ever gotten to where you are today?

"I know you're just teasing. But seriously, you should get rid of this loser immediately. If you really need a man by your side, why not choose Marcus? He's the best match for you!"

"Oh?" Katherine exchanged an amused glance with Robin before shifting her attention back to Sarah. "Isn't this Marcus you are talking about your boyfriend?"

Sarah flushed. "Yes, General Manager Katherine, but you can always have him."

Standing by the door, Marcus was practically buzzing with excitement. That's my Sarah! My bitch! She always knew what was best for him. If he could be with Katherine, wouldn't all his troubles disappear?

But his excitement was short-lived. Katherine's next words shattered his hopes in an instant.

"But I only like men like Robin. If he would have me, I'd gladly give myself to him." She shot Robin a flirtatious smile.

BOOM!

The conference hall plunged into stunned silence. Had Katherine, the powerful General Manager of Eagle Industries, really just offered herself to Robin?

The room seemed to hold its collective breath, unsure if they'd heard correctly.

Katherine, the powerful General Manager of Eagle Industries, was saying that if Robin wanted her, she would willingly give herself to him? Did that mean Robin wasn't the one pursuing her, but she was the one pursuing him? What kind of insane luck could a man have for Katherine to pursue him?

The men in the room all gazed at Robin, their eyes brimming with envy and jealousy. If only it were them Katherine was pursuing!

Sarah's expression twisted at the sight of this, her anger boiling over. Her fists clenched at her sides. "General Manager Katherine," she said through gritted teeth, "how can you want this for yourself? Robin will only drain you dry! That's the only thing he's good at! He did the same to me!"

"Did the same to you?" Katherine's expression turned cold in an instant. "If I heard correctly, it was you who drained Robin dry. He gave you his bone marrow out of love. With the little money he earned, he bought you fruit every single day he visited you in the hospital. And yet, you have the audacity to claim he used you?"

"Let's not even talk about how you repaid him. After everything he did for you, you dumped him and ran into another man's arms. And if that wasn't enough, you had your new guy beat him half to death, lock him in a cage, and leave him for the dogs. With all that, do you really think you have the right to insult him? You ungrateful, ruthless woman! Get out of my sight this instant before I lose all restraint and deal with you myself!"

"And don't ever say I'm your role model again. I don't need someone as wicked, heartless, and ungrateful as you looking up to me. It would only bring me bad luck!"

Sarah's face flushed with humiliation. She had only been trying to advise Katherine out of the kindness of her heart, why was she scolding her so harshly instead of being grateful to her?

What was so wrong with what she said?