Chapter 12 You Are So Tempting

"Stop." After Alena Wright figured it out, she immediately spoke.

"What's the matter?" Christiano Cohen immediately stepped on the brake, pulled over to a stop, and asked.

"It suddenly occurred to me that I left something on the bidding site. I may be dropped it. I will go get it back." Alena Wright said immediately.

"I'll take you back." Christiano Cohen said.

"No, you don't need to take me back. You have been much more tired than I am during the recent event, so you should go back earlier. I can just take a taxi by myself." After saying that and before Christiano Cohen could react, Alena immediately opened the door. She called a cab on the side of the road and moved.

Christiano Cohen was about to follow her when he suddenly received a call.

His brows suddenly frowned tightly, "Okay, I'll be back soon."

Then, when he turned his head to look again, the taxi Alena Wright was riding in was no longer visible.

When Alena Wright returned to the bidding site, the guests had already left, and she did not see Waylon Gray.

Her heart suddenly panicked. Could it be that the other party had succeeded?

She did not dare to call the police then because the other party wanted to catch Waylon Gray's handle. She was afraid that it would be self-defeating if that matter was made up and would cause more trouble to Waylon Gray and the Monarch International.

Alena Wright was anxiously sweating all over and immediately ran to the monitoring room, threatened the security guards, and even raved out of her identity as the young lady of the Gray Family. Only then did she get the surveillance video.

During the surveillance, she saw Waylon Gray staggering out of the room and then entered a safe passage. A man followed, and there was no sign after that.

That was what happened half an hour ago. Alena Wright did not know if it was too late. If something happened to Waylon Gray, then it would be on her conscience.

Thinking of that, she was stunned in a cold sweat.

Alena Wright didn't know where the matter had progressed, didn't dare to move the crowd, or even dared to startle others, so she could only follow the safe passage and look for it thoroughly.

When she was on the 15th floor, she finally found Waylon Gray.

"Waylon Gray, are you okay?" Alena Wright immediately stepped forward and helped the person up.

Who knows that as soon as the strength in her hands relaxed a little, Waylon Gray immediately fell.

Alena Wright was taken aback for fear that something would happen to Waylon Gray, "Are you okay?"

"I can't die for the time being." Waylon Gray said in a weak voice.

Hearing what he said, Alena Wright breathed a sigh of relief, "I will call the police right now."

"Don't!" Waylon Gray immediately stopped Alena Wright and said, "This matter can't be a big deal. You can't let anyone know about it, just you."

Alena Wright was puzzled, "Why?"

She didn't dare to call the police before because she was afraid that Waylon Gray had already been subjugated. If she contacted the police, Waylon Gray would be even more in danger. Now that she knew that he is safe, she had no worries at all.

"Don't let others know that I was trampled upon. Otherwise, I will become the laughing stock of City A." Waylon Gray took a sigh of relief and said, "You should take me out of the hotel first. Be careful. Watch out for me."

Alena Wright was speechless. Although she only wanted to roll her eyes at Waylon Gray's face-saving behavior, she still respected him and did not call the police.

"Okay, I promise you!" She said and carefully helped Waylon Gray to leave.

They were almost spotted by the people looking for Waylon Gray several times during that period, but under Waylon Gray's guidance, they avoided them without any risk.

Finally, the two people dodged everyone and successfully reached the underground parking lot.

Waylon Gray handed the car key to Alena Wright and asked, "Can you drive?"

"Will---" Alena Wright didn't continue with her snide comments and immediately took the car key, and after putting Waylon Gray into the car, she directly led him out of the hotel.

After they left the hotel smoothly, Alena Wright breathed a sigh of relief, thinking that Waylon Gray's condition was not good, so she turned to look at him, only to find that Waylon Gray's face was red.

"Waylon Gray, are you okay?"

Waylon Gray felt like he was soaked in magma, and his whole being was about to be burnt to ashes.

He knew that he had fallen into the drug that was given to him, and just now, but he was able to suppress it with his proud resolve. At that moment, Alena Wright was by his side, smelling the faint fragrance of her body. His willpower had collapsed.

Waylon Gray had never been a person who would wrong her. Anyway, that little woman was also in his favor.

Since it was his fancy, he would be his person sooner or later. Now he could enjoy his benefits in advance, so he ordered, "Stop!"

Alena Wright thought that something had happened to Waylon Gray and immediately stopped by the roadside.

"How are you?" Alena Wright saw Waylon Gray's flushed face, and even his eyes were a bit red. She was a little anxious, thinking he had a fever, so she stretched out her hand and wanted to test the temperature on his forehead.

It was just that before her hand touched Waylon Gray's forehead, she was grabbed by Waylon Gray's big hot hand.

Then, after a while, Alena Wright felt her body hang in the air.

She hadn't realized what had happened before she was suppressed by Waylon Gray.

"Hey, you!" Alena Wright just opened her mouth and wanted to talk when Waylon Gray kissed her lips.
