

NPC Become 581

Chapter 581: The Breath of a Thousand Islands Player!_1

Qing Tian:

Right now, her mind was filled with question marks, just like the part of the Xinyan panel that she had obtained through "Detection".

Level 27?

Any monster that was five levels higher than them was already considered an Elite monster, and a monster that was ten levels higher was already a Boss-level monster. What kind of monster was that that was almost 20 levels higher than them?

Also, although he could only see the skill name, just from the style of the name, he knew that it definitely did not have anything to do with the "ordinary and ordinary" written at the bottom of the note.

After calming down a little, Qing Tian focused all his attention on the last sentence.

Fox-faced Witch..

So this "ordinary" sparrow was just a pet that the fox-faced witch fed to him??

Then how strong was the other party?

It was known that there were a total of nine worlds in the Fallen Gods world.

According to the official settings, the level limit of the world's creatures was 90. Only the Nine Gods could break this limit. Therefore, the players could more or less deduce that the level limit set for them in each version should not exceed 20 levels. Moreover, the higher the level limit, the smaller the number would be.

According to this logic, a creature that was over level 20 would only appear in the next version, and the witch master behind it was even more so. How could such an NPC be released by the game as soon as the server was released?

Could it be that in the Thousand Islands...

What kind of super-large main storyline could there be!?

“Chirp chirp! ”

The little sparrow stood proudly on the head of the girl who had been very arrogant before. She enjoyed the shock of these two strangers at this moment.

But of course, she would not forget about the important matters. She used her little wings to point at the Players not far away, before pointing at herself. “You mean...You want me to call them over?” The female assistant asked tentatively,

Seeing Little Sparrow nod her head like a human and even look a little hurried, Qing Tian and the female assistant looked at each other and could only do as she was told.

They had undoubtedly triggered some kind of mission event, but unfortunately, this event did not seem to be exclusive.

Just like that, not long after, countless curious and excited eyes in this gathering place were all focused on the empty ground...On a sunny day, bring an umbrella but not a blade.

To be precise, it was on the head of a sunny day.

Yes, it was.

After spending a long time with a certain wolf cub, Xinyan had secretly learned many habits. For example, as a Forbidden Demon, one had to put on the airs of a Forbidden Demon.

Hence, as the first lucky player that Xinyan came into contact with, Sunny Day was very honored to become Xinyan's pet.

The girl's cool look from before had disappeared. At this moment, this big V looked like she had nothing to live for. She was going crazy. Fortunately, there were no fans here. Otherwise, she would never be able to meet anyone in the future.

"F * ck! A level 27 sparrow? Damn it, he's already as strong as me!"

"A series of humans are inferior to sparrows?"

"What do you think will happen if I attack it?" A smart player in the crowd suddenly had a thought.

This wasn't strange. After all, it was a game, and the actions of the players could be explained. However, this guy was soon drowned out by the cursing of the other players around him.

"Brother, I'll sit at the children's table."

"Damn it, if you want to die, don't drag us down!"

"That's right! It doesn't matter if you die, but what if it flies away?"

Fallen God " adopted the real-name system, and a person was only limited to a single account, so most players would still control their own strange thoughts and not do something too out of line and crazy. After the initial discussion, the players began to ponder.

“It seems to be taking us somewhere?”

“I know! Could it be that the fox-faced witch specially sent her to guide us to

“Eh? Really?! I can finally meet that mysterious newbie NPC from our Thousand Islands?”

The Players who realized this became more and more restless. Sunny Day Umbrella Without Blade, who was currently being a bird for Xinyan, also thought the same.

She was secretly excited. Finally, the fox-faced witch had made her next move. Moreover, she had coincidentally bumped into her at the first moment. This was a godsend opportunity.

On the other side, when Xin Yan saw that it was almost time, she finally flew away from the top of Sunny Day’s head and started to lead the players to the clean water source at a speed that was so slow that the players could keep up with her.

When they arrived at their destination, Xinyan did not dawdle. Before the players could react, he sped up and flew into the sky. In the blink of an eye, he was gone.

” Where’s that little bird?” “Yeah, why did it disappear?” “Where is this place?”

“I didn’t see the fox-faced witch anywhere.

The players who were led to a small stream were dumbfounded. They looked left and right, and they all looked at each other in confusion.

Until a player exclaimed.

“Wow! Come over quickly, the water in this stream...”

As the player spoke, he stepped into the stream.

“Come out quickly! The water on this island is poisonous! You’ll lose HP!” His companion was anxious when he saw this and hurriedly wanted to stop him.

Many other players also turned their attention back because there were actually quite a number of newbies like this. There were countless players who were killed by the poisonous water every day..

Chapter 582: The Breath of a Thousand Islands Player! 2

But this time...

“This is clean! It’s clean water!”

The players who were already half-submerged in the stream even held a large mouthful of water with both hands and directly put it into their mouths.

The surrounding players finally couldn’t sit still.

Really?!”

“After he said that, I realized that the color of the stream here is indeed much lighter than the purple color in other places! ”

“No, look, the purple color of the stream now is just the purple color of the sky.

When you hold it up, it’s actually completely transparent! ”

“It can drink! It was indeed drinkable! My character hunger is already increasing! ”

This was a huge discovery for the gamers.

As the Fox-faced Witch's Blessing allowed them to defeat the island's aberrant monsters, the players who successfully gained EXP slowly leveled up. Hence, the problem of hunger became more and more serious for the players.

If they were all at the lowest level, it would not matter even if they died. However, they had accumulated so many levels with great difficulty. If they died from non-combat accidents like starvation and thirst, the players would be furious.

Therefore, the players were excited to see a clean water source.

Everyone took out small bottles and rushed to fill the stream with water. Looking at their character status bar, their thirst was rising bit by bit. Many players actually felt a sense of happiness in their hearts.

"Wuuu... Gulp, gulp, gulp...Wow! This stream water is so delicious, Big San, have a taste! "The female assistant came to the girl with two bottles filled with water.

However, the girl's expression was not as happy as the other players.

"Umbrella?"

"It's nothing." The girl shook her head.

But in reality, in the heart of Sunny Day, who carried an umbrella without a knife, she began to have a different feeling about the " Fox-faced Witch ". This feeling was very subtle and difficult to describe. If she had to describe it, the girl felt that this NPC seemed to be a little more than many NPCs she had seen before...Temperatures?

So, the purpose of sending that little sparrow was to guide us to a clean water source?

Soon, in the game forum, there were more and more discussions about " clean water sources ". It was only then that Qing Tian found out that it was not just their stream that was used as a catalyst. In many parts of Sakuragi Island, players had discovered that the originally polluted water sources were now drinkable as if they had been purified!

As for who had made these changes, if not for the fact that a certain wolf cub had left a trick up his sleeve and changed the settings for Xinyan, the Players would have had to guess for a while.

But now...

[Thank you, Sister Witch, for letting the child drink the first mouthful of clean water in his life!]

[Speaking of which, that little sparrow is really cute. Why haven't I seen it before?!] !)

[I think the fox-faced witch is secretly in love with me. She knows that my thirst is about to bottom out, so she purified my water source. So where are you? I really want to see you! Let's go both ways! Sob...

[The person above is a demon. Speaking of which, since Sister Witch has raised sparrows, could she have raised other small animals, such as...]

[If you want to be a dog, just say so!]

Sunny Day Bring An Umbrella Without A Sword realized that the players on the forum had changed. The Thousand Islands players had started cursing Sakuragi Island, causing the forum to be filled with a foul atmosphere and resentment. Now, there were even party posts and discussion posts.

The players 'hostility was visibly reduced, and most importantly, there was a faint sense of unity.

It started when a certain Flame Field streamer noticed that there were so many Thousand Islands players players on the forum. They were so excited to be able to drink clean water that they started to post. He couldn't help but mock and despise them in his stream.

This instantly aroused the anger of the Thousand Islands players.

After all, the thing that could unite people the most was often the adversity that could bring them through thick and thin.

Following that, the fans of the Flame Domain streamer scolded back, causing the scolding war to grow bigger and bigger. In the end, it even turned into a rivalry between the players from the Flame Domain and the Thousand Islands.

This could indeed be said to be the general trend.

It was like the rich and the poor.

Flame Domain enjoyed the best resources among the five countries. Whether it was the Fire God Sect or the Knights, they had already begun to try and become the first large-scale NPC faction to recruit players.

There were also people like Liz who, with the help of the wolf cubs, gave the players all kinds of preferential treatment in advance, causing a large number of players to take the initiative to follow them. This also made the other Fire

Domain nobles jealous and began to follow suit, fighting for player resources.

All of these factors added to the Fire Domain's players, allowing them to live a good life. Their levels were high and far ahead of other players.

On the other hand, the players from Thousand Islands.

It was no wonder that the streamer couldn't help but mock him. He was so excited just by drinking water. The sense of superiority was the root cause of the conflict between the players.

[I'm dying of laughter. Didn't you just choose a good place to be born? What's so great about it?]

[I really hate those players who are not only high and mighty, but also gloating. If you have the ability, why don't you come to the Thousand Islands for a few days?]

[Exactly! " You said that our Thousand Islands has no future and we don't even have NPCs. I'm afraid you don't know that our fox-faced witch sister casually raised a pet bird.. Its level is about the same as the commander of some knight group in the Flame Domain!]

Chapter 583: The Breath of a Thousand Islands Player!_3

[Since we're talking about NPCs, haven't you Fire Domain players been boasting about the existence of that closed beta super main storyline NPC called Vivian? But how many days has it been? Where is Vivian from the Fire Domain? It couldn't be that he hadn't shown his face at all, right? No way, no way?]

[To be honest, I think our sister witch from the Thousand Islands is not necessarily weaker than Vivian from the Flame Domain.]

As they cursed, they suddenly changed the topic to the comparison between Vivian and the fox-faced witch. It was not surprising. After all, the little girl was a representative NPC in the hearts of the players of the Flame Domain. The status of the witch in the hearts of the players of the Thousand Islands was naturally unshakable. After all, she was the only NPC among the players.

This could be considered to have brought the flames of war between the two sides to a new height.

Some of the rational players in the Fire Domain, especially Vivian's fans, could not sit still anymore after the players from the Thousand Islands started to trample on them. They took the initiative to charge out. A few of the famous and loyal fans of the Fire Domain, such as Fallout and Long Road, started to flash and start a party.

However, in the end, strength was still the deciding factor. No matter how much the Thousand Islands players scolded each other, it could not change the fact that they were indeed lagging behind the Flame Domain players in every aspect.

Hence, very quickly...

[Brothers, we can't be looked down upon by the dogs of the Flame Domain! We have to work hard and farm monsters to level up. We have to surpass them and slap those dogs in the face!]

[This...Wasn't it a little difficult...After all, the resources of the Flame Domain are really...]

[What are you afraid of? Our Thousand Islands doesn't lack the strangest thing about being a vassal! Also, we have to believe in Sister Witch. She will definitely give us a mission!]

[That's right! It's probably because the time hasn't come yet. As long as we persist, our NPCs will win the plot!]

[Lead the team to efficiently kill the cursed dogs! Only players above Level 5 were accepted.]

[Coordinates: a46, Witch Witch Sister's Blessing has appeared, quickly come to kill monsters!]

[Buying all recovery items at a high price...]

Most of the Thousand Islands players were holding their breath because they had more or less experienced something similar in reality.

For example, colleagues relied on their relationship with the leader to get to the top easier than themselves, who were hardworking and hardworking. For example, classmates relied on their family background to be accepted by PhD supervisors easily. For example, tall, rich, and handsome people could hook up with the goddess of their dreams with just a flick of their fingers...

These unfair and inborn differences might be difficult for them to resist in real life, but would they have to do the same in the game?

Could it be that just because they didn't choose the hot Flame Domain and came to the Thousand Islands, they were inferior to others?

NO!

Hence, as the hostility between the players from the Flame Domain and the Thousand Islands grew, a wave of leveling craze began to sweep through the Thousand Islands players.

The players who wanted to quit the game because of the harsh environment on Sakuragi Island, or those who were originally casual players, were also motivated by this. The amount of time they spent online began to increase significantly, and their activity increased.

Of course.

A certain young lady, who was in the center of attention, was not aware of all this.

At this moment, the fox-faced witch was knocking on Sakai Risa's door again with her pet sparrow..

Chapter 584: Profession Stone Stele

"So, why are you here to ask me for help this time?" Sakai Risa sat in the study room of the small house. She held her cheeks in her hands and asked the little girl opposite to her with a tired expression.

Due to the Players' current strength, they could only explore the periphery of Sakuragi Island. Therefore, Sakai Risa's temporary residence in the depths of the island had not been discovered by the Players.

However, just because the players did not discover Risa, it did not mean that the hidden Witch was here, nor did they discover the large group of outlanders who had suddenly landed on the island.

Before the players even set foot on Sakuragi Island, Bella had already been paying attention to them from the moment they created their accounts and descended into this world.

Or rather, in the Nine Nations Continent, all the existences who had reached a certain level of strength had more or less vaguely sensed something the moment God Fall's open beta was released. If he had to describe that feeling, perhaps it was...

A sense of the times.

Bella vaguely remembered that the last time this feeling appeared was at the end of the Chaotic Era. The Nine Gods rose out of thin air, divided the continent, and established new rules and order.

Bella, who had encountered players in the closed beta, had a vague premonition of this. She thought of a prophecy in the legends. However, when this day really came and the prophecy came true, Bella's mood was still a little difficult to add.

There was excitement and excitement because as a Demoness, she actually hated the Era of the Nine Gods. It was too boring, but there was also a faint fear and panic hidden in her heart. After all, the end of an era was bound to be accompanied by death.

It was just like the demons, monsters, and evil spirits of the old era. Almost all of them had been wiped out by the Nine Gods. Only the Demoness, who did not belong to the pure evil camp and were more inclined to chaos and neutrality, were lucky enough to escape the disaster. However, their status was far from what it used to be, and they only dared to move in the dark.

Therefore, whether it was to avoid being crushed to death in front of the wheel named "Era" or to take a step forward and use this wheel to build her own carriage, Bella needed to obtain a large amount of information.

Coincidentally, in terms of intelligence, Bella dared to pat her chest and say that at least among the witches she knew, no one could compare to her.

The 'Thousand-faced Witch' was not Bella's nickname for nothing.

Her unique "clone" ability allowed her to spread her identity throughout the nine countries...In the Eight Kingdoms, Bishop Eugenia of the Flame Domain had been eaten by the Fallen Abyss Bone Dragon. Bella had not had the time to replenish her food.

Under normal circumstances, each clone was a separate consciousness body. However, when she encountered special circumstances, such as now, Bella could switch her mental strength back and forth between the clones. This allowed her to easily grasp all kinds of information that was happening in the eight countries in a very short period of time.

Of course, as a Demoness, how could she not create chaos? Bella used each of her clones to secretly form a big hand behind the scenes, guiding some things to develop in a way that she thought was interesting.

For example, she was a clone of the Cold Winter, and a certain " Executive Officer " secretly released the method of brainwashing control and revealed it to those foreign people who were captured to become test subjects.

For example, her clone in Green Maple, a certain innkeeper, had started to secretly collect and stock up on rare cards. Then, she would turn around and sell them to those foreigners, making a lot of money. Recently, she had also learned a business method called " drawing cards " from those foreigners, and she was planning to give it a try.

Another example was her clone in Gui Li, a secretary of the Five Elements...

But of course, the price of doing so was that it would consume too much energy. That was why Bella was still in a depressed state when Vivian in the witch costume took the initiative to approach.

As a clone in the Thousand Islands, Sakai Risa also wanted to cause trouble on the stranger. However, she did not expect that this silly little girl opposite her would make a move before her on the stranger again.

Sakai Risa did not need to guess to know that Vivian was looking for her for those foreigners.

As expected.

After Vivian briefly described the predicament of the players on Sakurai Island to Sakai Risa, she began to look hopefully at the woman opposite her. ‘ Lady Risa, I wonder if I can get... Buy some recovery medicine formulas?’

Ever since she purified the water source, the number of outlanders dying of natural causes had drastically decreased. However, death from battle was still unavoidable. The root of the problem was that once she lost her Blessing Halo, the outlanders would have no way to recover.

Vivian knew that it would be difficult for her to change the situation on her own, which was why she was here. With Sakai Risa’s identity as a former member of the society, it should not be difficult for her to get the medicine formula.

As for why she did not ask for medicine directly, Vivian knew that there were too many foreigners on the island. It was difficult to rely on the outside world to supply them. Moreover, foreigners were born with strong learning ability, so teaching them to the fishermen was the best way.

“There is, but the problem is...Can you afford it?” Sakai Risa finally became interested.

As if performing magic, she placed the scrolls in front of the desk and explained to Vivian,”

” This is the Dragon Tongue Medicine, which is specially used to detoxify poison. This is the Clear Witch Water, which can alleviate the abnormal condition of the body. This is the Grass Whisker Ointment. After applying it on the wound, it can quickly stop the bleeding and accelerate the healing.. This is...”

Chapter 585: Profession Stone Stele (2)

Every formula that Sakai Risa took out was exactly what Vivian wanted, but the little girl secretly touched her deflated wallet. Before the little girl could ask about the price, Sakai Risa seemed to have seen through it, and the corners of her mouth curled up.

Without Vivian asking, she continued,“” If it’s the Dragon Tongue Potion, it’s cheaper. The formula is only about one to two thousand gold coins. Although the Grass Whisker Cream is common, it has a large sales volume. The formula is worth about seven to eight thousand gold coins. However, the Clear Shaman Water is more expensive. This is because it was developed by our society after many years of research. It’s a special medicine that outsiders can’t sell. However, on account of our relationship, I’ll sell it to you...30,000 gold coins.

Seeing Vivian’s face getting more and more depressed, the little girl’s face became completely dejected when she heard that the recipe was worth tens of thousands of gold coins.

Lu Zi, who was beside him, looked down on him. After coughing heavily, she began to translate.

‘ Lady Vivian, what Lady Risha meant was that even if you gave these formulas to the foreigners, it would be useless. Let’s not talk about whether they could concoct it or not. Just the ingredients of those drugs, even the most common grass paste paste, could not be found on Sakuragi Island because all the vegetation here had long been deformed under the influence of the curse. It was impossible to concoct the drugs. Lady Risha had tried this many times.

“Humph. ”

Sakai Risa had a bored look on her face. She crossed her arms and snorted, but did not deny it.

“This, is that so...” Vivian clenched her fists.

Does that mean that even if we have the building blueprints, we can’t build

The little girl quickly realized this, and Lu Zi nodded to confirm.

” Yes, the construction of our current hut was also based on Lady Risa’s purification method that our society followed in advance. It was not easy to remove the curse on the mutated tree before it could be used for living. Just those foreigners... It’s very difficult to do.”

Luzi had been rather vague about the matter. It was indeed very difficult and impossible to completely purify the curse. He had learned from Xinyan that even the power of a Forbidden Devil could only keep the water source clean for three days.

“I... I see. I’m sorry to disturb you. If there’s nothing else, I’ll take my leave. ”

Vivian sighed and was about to leave the house. Sakai Risa saw the little girl’s disappointment but did not give up. She still insisted on improving the conditions of the foreigners on Sakuragi Island. After hesitating for a while, she could not help but call out to Vivian.

“Wait a minute.”

While Vivian was looking back in confusion, Sakai Risa looked reluctant, but she quickly took out new scrolls one after another.

“These are...!” Vivian did not understand, but Roko, who was beside her, was surprised by her superior.

There were seven to eight of them, and they were all secret scrolls that recorded ” professions “!

As long as one read and understood the contents of the scroll, they could become a corresponding professional. This could be considered a family heirloom among the people of the Thousand Islands. Even one of them could form a sect or force. Only Sakai Risa, as the former head of the society, had a rich family background. That was why she could afford such a large sum in one “Anyway, I’ve been demoted now, and I only have Luzi at my disposal. I have nothing to do with these things, so why don’t I lend them to you? You can also collect rent and interest.

Vivian picked up one of the scrolls. After a few glances, she immediately understood its purpose and was grateful to Sakai Risa.

“Thank, thank you, Lady Risa! Wait until I finish engraving, then I’ll give them back to you immediately!

“Alright, alright, let’s go. I haven’t slept well these past few days. I want to rest.” Sakai Risa was not used to the little girl’s sincere thanks. She waved her hand and urged Vivian to leave.

After the little girl left...

“Lady Risa...”The price of those scrolls is several times more expensive than the medicinal formula that you took out previously.

Lu Zi said expressionlessly.

“So I lent it to her on purpose and then charged her a sky-high rent. Wouldn’t that be very profitable?” Sakai Risa did not mind at all.

Lu Zi was speechless.

Although her mistress always said that she would do something to Vivian, Roko had long noticed that so far, Lady Risa had not been able to get even half a copper coin from her. Instead, she continued to give this and that to Vivian.

“Lady Risa, do you need me to help...” Lu Zi asked after recognizing her Miss ‘attitude.

Although she was an administrative officer, she was not weak. Roko had learned her profession through the scrolls that Lady Risa had given her.

However, unlike ordinary scroll professions, she was given special treatment. She was a rare profession of a higher level, the Wizard Water Mage.

But this time, SaSaka shook her head and stopped Roko. It wasn’t because she was stubborn, but because...

“Hmph, forget it. What if those foreigners think that you’re the one who has been helping them silently behind the scenes? That silly girl isn’t having it easy either. Do you have the heart to pick peaches halfway?”

Lu Zi was speechless.

It was only after Sakai Risa mentioned it that Roko realized this. Indeed, Lady Vivian had been deliberately hiding her identity for some unknown reason. If she appeared in front of a stranger rashly, it was very likely that she would be mistaken.

At the same time, Roko was even more surprised that Lady Risa could think so carefully for Vivian.

It was only then that she understood why Lady Risa had deliberately reminded her not to go out too much in the past few days. It turned out that...The source was here.

I understand, Lord Riesa.”

“Yuck Time to sleep!” Sakai Risa waved her hand and stretched as she walked towards her bedroom.

After Vivian received the Class Advancement Scroll, she immediately began to engrave it. Because there were so many players, it was too inefficient to look at the scroll one by one. Moreover, the scroll was borrowed. Just in case, the little girl would not let the players get it directly.

Therefore, Vivian’s solution was to find some relatively large stones. With the help of Xinyan, she cut the stones into the shape of a stone tablet. Then, the little girl picked up the carving knife and engraved the contents on the stone tablet one by one according to the scroll.

Even though the entire process was much easier with Xinyan’s help, the little girl still had to engrave the densely packed contents on the scroll, stroke by stroke. This was a huge drain on her mental strength.

It took almost three days for Vivian to wipe the sweat off her forehead. She did not even notice that her hair was stuck to her cheek. The little girl only looked at the dozens of stone tablets in front of her and took a long breath.

Finally...It was done!

More than a dozen stone tablets corresponded to different professions. Vivian believed that with the learning ability of foreigners, it should not be difficult to master these basic professions.

The only thing that made the little girl feel a little regretful was that the number of stone tablets was still too small. Compared to the entire Sakuragi Island and the outlanders, it might still be a drop in the bucket.

But at the very least...

Vivian put on the fox mask again and secretly placed the stone tablets one by one near the areas where the foreigners gathered.

When the last profession stele was set up, the fox-faced witch was not in a hurry to leave. Instead, she brought her little sparrow and found a hidden corner near the stele to secretly observe.

The little girl wanted to confirm that the people of the foreign land could understand and discover the use of the stone tablet.

He didn't make her wait.

After a while...

Coincidentally, a group of foreigners was gradually approaching in this direction..

Chapter 586: The Change of the Big Earth Dog's Mentality

"Sigh, Brother Dog, why do you think our Witch went offline at this critical juncture?"

A lackey next to the big mutt sighed with a disappointed expression.

Ever since the Flame Field and Thousand Islands players started fighting on the forums, it wasn't just the Thousand Islands players who started working hard to level up. The Flame Field players did the same.

After all, the players at this stage did not have the means to cross borders. If they could not PK, then those who could PVP would only show off their character attributes, rare classes, skill panels, and so on.

Originally, the Thousand Islands players had already lost at the starting line. However, who knew that when the roof was leaky, it would rain overnight. It seemed that since the day before yesterday, the blessings from the fox-faced witch had not appeared even once.

Because these three days were the time for Vivian to concentrate and carve the stone tablet, she did not continue to launch the halo domain for the players.

However, the players did not know that most of them thought that it was bad luck that the Witch's Blessing happened to appear in some remote place with few people. However, later on, there was not even a post on the forum that reported the location of the Blessing. The players then realized that it was not the Blessing that was remote, but the person who released the Blessing, the Fox-faced Witch, had disappeared!

This news was a huge blow to the players on Sakuragi Island.

Originally, even though they were behind the Flame Domain in terms of timing and geography, the Thousand Islands players still firmly believed that the source of their comeback was the Fox-faced Witch, the mysterious NPC who had been secretly helping them.

But now, this pillar of support had suddenly disappeared. The Thousand Islands players had just started fighting with the Flame Domain on the forums and needed her the most. How could the Thousand Islands players not feel as if a bucket of cold water had been poured over them?

"Think about the good side of things. I believe that the fox-faced witch will not abandon us. Her disappearance now must only be temporary." The big mutt comforted the little brother.

“Boss is right! Sister Witch is the only one in this godforsaken place. If the officials still dare to take her away from us, then we’ll really charge forward! ”

‘ But I’ve checked the closed beta data. The official website seems to have done something like this before. It was very popular during the closed beta. That NPC named Vivian was also killed by the official website in a sudden plot, and she disappeared without a trace...”

“Vivian is Vivian, and the fox-faced witch is the fox-faced witch. How can they be the same?”

On the other side, the players would never have thought that the Fox-faced Witch they were talking about was hiding nearby.

Vivian saw that the strangers were finally about to pass by the stone tablet and could not help but feel nervous. However, these strangers seemed to be talking about something very intense and did not pay attention to their surroundings at all.

How could this be!

Thus, the fox-faced witch waved her sleeve, and a small sparrow hidden inside flew out despite her reluctance.

After Xin Yan picked up a small stone from the ground, it flashed over the head of the leader of the group of outlanders.

“Aiyo!” The dog suddenly felt something hit the back of its head.

It was only when they turned around and looked in the direction of the stone that the big dog finally noticed it. They had passed by that stone and did not pay much attention to it at that time. However, if they looked carefully now, they could still clearly see it...Stone tablet?

“Look, that stone seems a little strange. “The big mutt quickly called out to his underlings and approached the stone tablet together.

The material of the stone tablet itself was nothing special, just like the rocks that could be seen everywhere on Sakuragi Island. This was why the big dog did not notice it at first, but when they really walked in, the players were surprised to find that there were many small words and symbols carved on the stone tablet.

Because of the system's support, the players did not need to understand. A notification automatically sounded in their minds.

[Ding, you have discovered the Thousand Islands Branch-Basic Sequence I-Warrior (Warrior) Secret Text. After reaching Level 5, you can change your class by reading the secret text!] The big dog was speechless.

The lackeys behind him were speechless.

After a brief silence, the crowd was greeted with cries of alarm and screams.

"F * ck, Boss! This is..."

"Am I seeing things? Turn... Class change?"

"Brother Dog, Brother Dog, quickly slap me and see if it's an illusion... Pa! Wow!"

Brother Dog, why did you really smoke...Wuuuu..."

"I can feel my palm. It's not an illusion. It's real!!! We can learn our classes now!" The big mutt retracted its trembling palm.

If Flame Domain's players saw this scene, they would probably laugh their heads off and think that they were making a big deal out of nothing. Wasn't it just a class-change path? It wasn't some hidden rare class. Was there a need to be so excited?

This was the classic example of a well-fed man not knowing the hunger of a starving man. It was no wonder that the Thousand Islands players had such a huge conflict with the Flame Domain.

Even the most basic profession could provide a large number of additional attributes in the early stages, and most importantly, it could give players... Skill!

Among the group of people, only he met the requirement of Level 5. He did not hesitate and chose to change his class without even blinking.

[Ding, you have comprehended the profoundness of [Warrior] by reading the contents on the stone tablet.. Congratulations on successfully changing your class!]

Chapter 587: Big Mutt's Change of Mentality (2)

The big mutt had never felt that the voice of the system lady in its mind was so sweet.

He quickly opened his character panel to confirm his new class.

[Warrior]

[Sequence: Warrior]

[Profession Attributes: Strength +0.7, Endurance, Constitution +0.5]

[Thousand island branch bonus: Agility growth +1]

[Class Level Limit: 15]

(Third, the main force of the training. They follow the rules of samurai and are proficient in swords and sabers. Compared to ordinary warriors, although they lack the range of lethality, they are more flexible. They mostly rely on techniques to win. It is said that masters who practice the samurai path to the extreme can often decide the victory in one move.)

In an instant, his entire body felt as if it was filled with warmth. The realistic experience of God Fall was extremely strong. The 3-5 Strength attribute, endurance, and stamina attributes brought by the class made the big mutt feel that his body had become much stronger.

Of course, the most direct factor was his Agility attribute. It had increased by a total of 5 points. The dog felt as if it had unloaded a few kilograms of iron. It was extremely light.

Apart from these hardware improvements, in terms of software, the big mutt took a deep breath, moved his fingers, and quietly held the hilt of his novice sword.

Following the big mutt's shout, his followers around him only felt a white light flash. It was so fast that they could not see it clearly. When they came back to their senses, only a faint sword shadow dissipated in the air.

The basic active skill of the class [Samurai]-[Sword Drawing/Sword Technique]!

Although it could only be used once per battle, it could be considered a very high coefficient bonus in the early stages. Once it was a critical hit, if the equipment was luxurious enough, there was a possibility of "insta-killing monsters".

Apart from that, the big mutt waved the beginner's sword. Initially, it was just a casual slash, but now, it suddenly became very well-practiced, as if it had really made some achievements in swordsmanship.

This was all thanks to the other passive skill of the [Warrior],[Sword/Sword Entry Level Mastery].

It was not an exaggeration to say that the big dog felt that he could take on three or four of his own just a few seconds ago, when he was just a White Slate without a class.

Suppressing the urge to quickly find a few monsters to test it out, the dog began to think about another problem.

Based on his own experience, the benefits of this Profession Change Stone Tablet were undoubtedly huge. As the first to discover the stone tablet, what should they do now?

The first thought that popped up in the dog's mind was very honest.

Swallow it all!

First, he would find some cover to hide the stone tablet. Then, he would let his team set up camp here and send his underlings to patrol the surroundings at all times. He would intentionally or unintentionally prevent other players from getting close to this place.

Then, he would use the power of his new class to help his brothers farm monsters and level up efficiently until more and more members met the level 5 requirement for the class change of [Warrior].

He believed that it wouldn't be long before everyone in their guild became professionals. This force would definitely be able to look down on the players of the Thousand Islands. It wouldn't be an exaggeration to say that it would be unstoppable.

At that time, they wouldn't even have to hide the existence of the stone tablet anymore. This was because the other players from the Thousand Islands who didn't have any classes would be powerless against them. They could just stand there and do whatever they wanted.

As long as they relied on the stone tablet, they could quickly recruit players and expand their guild's influence during the golden period of the server launch. With this momentum, they might really be able to occupy a seat among the players of Fallen God in the future.

The underlings surrounding the big mutt had more or less realized this, and they all revealed uncontrollable excitement.

After all, the standards of these people were actually in the most awkward middle tier. They couldn't compare to those big clubs with financial backers or old Super Guilds. However, when compared to those below, at least they had more brothers and were united, surpassing many small guilds.

Therefore, everyone was actually holding back their enthusiasm and wanted to try to break through this bottleneck. Therefore, when Fallen God was released, they almost pinned all their hopes on it. Back then, when the big dog was qualified for the closed beta, it was the brothers who put in a lot of effort and thought of ways to get it for their boss.

Therefore, with such an opportunity that could almost fulfill their wishes, even if it was just a nouveau riche, one could imagine how tempting it was to the big dog and the others.

so...

Although the group of underlings did not speak, their fiery eyes were all staring at the big dog. The meaning they wanted to express was self-evident. They were waiting for the boss to give the order to speak.

so...

Just as the mutt's head was about to heat up and the words 'take it all for yourself' were about to fill his mind, the figure of a little girl suddenly flashed across the depths of his memory.

That was...Vivian.

For... Why did he suddenly think of this annoying NPC?

This was because the current scene was so familiar with the closed beta.

When Red Flame Town was the first line of defense against the invasion of Fallen Abyss, the closed beta players were united under Vivian's organization. Vivian even specially spent money to rent weapons and lend them to the players for free. However, at that time, he was blinded by profit and wanted to take the equipment for himself..

Chapter 588: Big Mutt's Change of Mentality (3)

And later...

The result was self-evident. Who would have thought that the seemingly silly and sweet NPC was actually a super witch who liked to act!

During the closed beta test, Vivian would not show mercy to anyone who wanted to fish in troubled waters like him. The dog remembered very clearly that he was chased and killed by the black wolf summoned beast several times until he replenished the experience points he had given Vivian.

It was also from this time that the dog began to dislike Vivian. After all, who would like a black-hearted NPC who had caused him to die several times?

However, if he thought about it from the other side, would everything be different if he had not been so greedy and blinded by temporary benefits?

At least for now, he would not give up the Flame Domain and choose the Thousand Islands just because he still hated Vivian.

At this point, the mutt finally understood why the shadow of the NPC from the closed beta suddenly appeared in his mind at this time.

This was his subconscious telling him not to make the same mistake a second time.

"Post it on the forum." The mutt sighed.

“What...What?”

A few of his lackeys were stunned, doubting their ears.

The dog understood what they meant, but it still shook its head.

Right now, the Thousand Islands players are in a difficult period. The Fox-faced Witch has suddenly disappeared. Instead of hiding the stone tablet and keeping it for ourselves, I think it's better to openly post the location on the forum so that everyone can come and benefit. ”

“Boss...” A small number of his underlings still revealed a look of pity.

However, most of the brothers began to respect their dog brother after hearing the big mutt's words.

“F * ck! Brother Dog, your plan is too big!”

“Boss, you're right. Our Thousand Islands players really need a heart tonic.

“Indeed, I also think that now is the time to unite against a common enemy. We Thousand Islands players should stop scheming internally. Otherwise, those sons of bitches from the Flame Domain will laugh until they bloom! ”

“I support Boss!”

The big mutt's group of people had a very strong sense of cohesion. Once most of them made a decision, even if some people were dissatisfied, they would not secretly cause trouble.

Hence, the dog took about half an hour to write the location of the Profession Stone Stele, its functions, its attributes panel after its Profession Change, and its new skills. Finally, it completed the strategy post and posted it on the forum.

However, who would have thought that when he opened the forum and wanted to check his own post, the big mutt realized that while he was writing the post, someone else had already posted a similar class change post! It was the same profession stele, but it was a different profession!

Phew...

Seeing this, not only did the big dog not feel pity, but he also heaved a sigh of relief. This way, he would no longer feel that he had lost anything. Because look, there were still players who were as honest as them and chose to reveal the location of the stone tablet to the public.

Although the fact that the dog hated Vivian did not change, because of this, he still felt a little grateful. The lesson he learned from the witch in the closed beta had indeed changed him a little.

But of course...

There would always be one or two players who could not resist the temptation and had not been beaten up like the big dog.

This was something that Vivian had never considered.

This was because the young girl's pure mind would never have thought that the foreigner would take the stone tablet for himself.

Therefore, at this moment...

A certain wolf cub who seemed to have been offline for a long time and didn't know what to do secretly narrowed his eyes and licked his claws..

Chapter 589: The Little Wolf Cub Is Taking Action

"Stop! In front of us is the guild base of our Sacred Fire Guild. No outsiders are allowed to approach!"

At the entrance of another profession stele on Sakuragi Island, there was a large group of unaffiliated players. They were furious and indignant as they looked at the people with the " Sacred Fire " on their IDs.

"What Guild Residence? Stop talking nonsense. We've all seen the posts on the forum. There's clearly a Profession Change Stone Tablet behind you! "

"That's right, how shameless. Someone was kind enough to report the location of the stone tablet and post it on the forum, but in the end, you shameless people rushed over and occupied it.

"Everyone, ignore them and charge straight over! "

"Right, charge over! What right do you have to not let us in!

Among the crowd that was stopped, there were a few players who met the class change requirements. They were the first to be unable to hold back. They shouted loudly and wanted to lead the other players behind them to break through the blockade of the Sacred Fire Guild.

On the other side, the few members of Sacred Flame who were guarding the entrance did not panic at all in the face of the menacing unaffiliated players. On the contrary, their faces were filled with disdain and eagerness to try.

"Hmph hmph, since you refuse to do a toast only to drink a forfeit, don't blame us for not showing any mercy..."

With a cold snort, the leader of the Sacred Fire players immediately released a wave of mana.

His hands quickly formed a seal in front of his chest. Then, a rune phantom formed by magic power condensed and faced the many independent players who were about to rush over.

"Spiritual Talisman-Burst!"

Before the solo players could react, the rune shadow turned into a stream of light and flew towards them under the other party's command, followed by...

Boom!

The flames of the explosion filled the players' vision and stopped their charge. The players at the front were the most affected, and some were even blown away.

"Ahem...Cough cough..." As they crawled up with their faces covered in dust, the top players among the unspecialized players revealed angry and unwilling expressions.

To be able to reach Level 5 in such a harsh environment on Sakuragi Island, they were definitely the top tier players in the Thousand Islands Guild. They were either skilled or hardworking. However, they could not even take a single blow from the members of the Sacred Flame Guild.

This was due to the difference between a "professional" and a "white board" but a large part of the reason was also due to the occupation stone tablet occupied by the Sacred Flame Guild. It was considered a very aggressive magic occupation.

[Thousand-island Branch-Basic Sequence I-Spiritualist (Spellcaster)]

This was one of the few classes that had AOE damage from the start. It was no wonder that the Sacred Fire Guild was so bold. They were willing to risk the players' charge to forcefully occupy the stone tablet.

And reality proved that their strategy was indeed successful. Three or four members of Sacred Fire who had changed their profession to become Spirit Curse Masters stood at the entrance and took turns to cover the spell area damage. The unaffiliated players who were all White Slate players could do nothing to them. Other than gritting their teeth and staring at this group of people, there was nothing they could do.

The leader of the Sacred Fire Guild was quite scheming. He also knew that if there were more and more unaffiliated players in the future, or if other large guilds fought over them, even if they had large-scale damage methods, their mana would still be insufficient. Therefore, they released an announcement in advance.

Recruit independent players to become peripheral members of the guild and help them "guard" the stronghold. Those who performed well could become official members of the Sacred Flame Guild and change classes to Spirit Shamans.

The moment this announcement was made, the originally united independent players immediately fell apart.

Although everyone said that they wanted to strongly resist, there were still people who could not resist the temptation and betrayed the Sacred Flame Guild, helping the wicked.

This made things even worse for the group of unaffiliated players who could not be defeated in the first place. They had no choice but to give up. They could only watch as the profession stone tablet, which was clearly a public resource, became the private property of the Sacred Fire Guild.

Flame has already opened three or four branches. There's still a large group of newcomers who want to join us.

Beside the Profession Stone Stele, a few core members of Sacred Fire surrounded their president. They were all beaming with joy.

Their guild leader, the ID, held the torch high and laughed at the players who cursed him on the forums.

"A bunch of fools. Since there's an advantage, why not take it?" Brother Torch mocked.

"That's right! I think there are quite a few guilds who were clearly the first to discover it, but they were actually willing to release the stone tablet to share it!? Especially that "Warrior" profession stone tablet that was posted on the forum by something called Big Mutt. I feel that it's even more powerful than our "Spiritual Shaman". In the end, it was also made public. What a waste of a heavenly gift. If you really don't want it, you can give it to us!

“That’s why Guild Leader is so decisive and quick-witted. He brought us to control the stone tablet at the first moment, haha!

Just as the upper echelons of the Sacred Flame Guild were still chatting merrily and imagining the future, who would have thought that a member would suddenly run in in a panic?

Chapter 590: The Little Wolf Cub Is Taking Action (2)

“Yes... President, bad news!”

When they saw the nervous look on this member’s face, their first reaction was that there were other guilds eyeing them and wanting to come over and snatch their territory. However, who would have thought..

“Shadow Hound! A lot of Shadow Hounds suddenly appeared near our guild! ” Shadow Hound?

If they had heard this name before, the members of the Sacred Flame Guild might have been nervous. However, now that they had a class, they were no longer afraid of such a monster.

On the contrary, the appearance of a large number of Shadow Hounds should be a good thing. This would save them the trouble of farming them one by one. If the monsters gathered together and released AoE skills, wouldn’t the experience be gained as quickly as cutting grass?

“No, no, no, President! The level of these cursed dogs is much higher than what we have seen before! And, and... There was also a huge one leading the way! The monster’s name is terrifyingly red!”

The messenger member saw his boss ‘misunderstanding and quickly explained that the greater the threat the monster posed to the players, the more popular the name would be.

Before the upper echelons of the Sacred Flame Guild could react, the screams and screams were already very close to them.

“Yes...” Another member of the Sacred Flame Guild ran over as if he was running for his life.

The result is just that I have just reached the half-step, even the voice is all that is not all, I can only see from the back of him, the appearance of the purple fog claws of the evil dog, mercilessly tearing the player’s body, turning him into white light and sending him to resurrection.

“What? Ten... Level 13?” Brother Torch, the leader of the Sacred Fire Guild, was shocked when he saw the monster interface after casting a detection spell.

One had to know that the Shadow Hounds on the outskirts of Sakuragi Island were all around level five or six. The highest they could reach was level ten.

Was this the leader of the super large monster that the member had mentioned just now?

They were so unlucky to encounter a BOSS?

Even now, the Sacred Fire Guild’s Guild Leader still felt that the situation was under control. After all, the Level 13 Shadow Hound was definitely difficult to defeat. However, if the Guild members who had been scattered by the surprise attack were reorganized, Brother Torch was confident that he could conquer it under his command.

On the contrary, the benefits that a Boss-level monster could bring him could probably allow him to level up a few times in a row. Although it was dangerous this time, it also brought him opportunities!

Unfortunately, Torch Bro’s beautiful fantasy was shattered in just a few seconds.

That was because...

One, two...Five...Ten!

The Shadow Hound that he thought was the " Boss " just now appeared in front of him one after another. This made Brother Torch realize that these were just...It was just a small monster.

The real leader was actually...

The members of the Guild who were stationed in the occupation stele didn't even scream. They had probably been slaughtered, leaving only the Guild Leader and upper echelons at the center.

A monster that was about seven to eight meters tall and three to four times the size of the Shadow Hounds slowly appeared from the shadows. At this moment, the Sacred Fire Guild's guild leader was already scared silly. He trembled as he threw a detection spell, and what he got was...

[Shadow Beast King]

[Level: 25]

Puchi!

It was an instant kill.

The leader of the Sacred Fire Guild even used the skill of the Spirit Spellcaster. He was then used by the Shadow Beast King to dodge and leap, and the huge claws pierced through his entire body.

However, it turned out that even if he used the skill, it would be useless. The higher-ups of the guild beside him still tried to struggle, but in the end, the " Spiritual Talisman-Explosion " that could have blown up a few independent players earlier landed on the Shadow Evil Beast King's body like a tickle.

In the face of the absolute level gap, the members of the Sacred Flame Guild had no way of resisting.

When the last player beside the Profession Stone Stele turned into white light and disappeared, the scene was completely silent...No, it should be said that it was dead silent.

At this moment, the players of the Sacred Flame Guild would never have thought that a small black dot would suddenly appear on the head of the super

BOSS Shadow Beast King, which they regarded as the "Death God"

Looking closer, it was not a small black dot. It was clearly a small black dot that was not obvious because of the huge difference in size...

Little wolf cubs?

Yuck

Liao Zixuan lay on the Shadow Beast King's head and rubbed his eyes with his little claws.

The Shadow Hound had the word "dog" in its name, which meant that they could not escape the bloodline suppression of the wolf cubs. During the period when he was separated from Vivian, one of the things Liao Zixuan did was to recruit them.

Back when he was still a child, he was able to make Xue Li's people submit to Fallen Abyss. Now that he had entered the growth stage, it would be even easier for him to do so. Furthermore, although the curse on Sakuragi Island was also very powerful and was inextricably linked to Thunder God, it was still nothing compared to Fallen Abyss, the public enemy of the entire world. "Alright, let's go. Let's go to the next one." The little wolf cub sent a voice transmission to the Shadow Beast King, waving its small claws on its head like a commander.

After receiving the order, the Shadow Beast King let out a long howl. The dozen or so Shadow Hounds that followed him also entered space and disappeared from where they were.

Although Liao Zixuan said that he wanted the little girl to act on her own, he could not rest assured. Although he was not with Vivian and could not get the news, Liao Zixuan could still learn about the little girl's every move through the forums and the posts of the players.

All in all...

He felt that Vivian had done a good job, even a little self-taught, whether it was the profession stele or the purifying spring water.

However, after thinking about it carefully, perhaps it was Vivian's instinct to help others selflessly. There was no need for him to teach her anything.

The wolf cubs were helpless, but they would not interfere with Vivian on the surface. They would only do things that required violence on behalf of the little girl in secret.

For example, the scene of the Sacred Flame Guild being wiped out.

Vivian had placed a total of 14 Profession Change Stone Tablets on Sakuragi Island. Five of them were taken by forces like the Sacred Fire Guild as private property, while the remaining nine were successfully used to serve all the players on Sakuragi Island as the little girl had planned.

To be honest, this ratio surprised the wolf cubs.

In his impression, the gamers should not be such a selfless group.

However, the number of stone tablets that were willing to share was nearly twice that of the monopolist. When the wolf cubs learned of Vivian's plan, they had even made preparations. All 14 stone tablets were occupied by the guild forces.

He could only say...

The unity and cohesiveness of the Thousand Islands players in this life seemed to be quite extraordinary. Liao Zixuan's memories of his previous life were not like this.

Anyway...

The five guilds that thought they were smart but were actually unlucky were all massacred by the little wolf cubs using Shadow Hounds.

At first, they thought that they were just unlucky. After seeing the Shadow Hound leave, they wanted to occupy the stone tablet again. However, after the second and third time, they finally realized that these monsters were definitely doing this on purpose!

[My evaluation is as good as meow!]

[Thank you, cursed dogs. You've really helped us Thousand Islands players vent our anger. Those brainless guilds have lost both fame and fortune this time, haha]

[I announce that in the future, Cursed Dog will successfully be upgraded to

Cursed Father!]

[Brother, it's not that bad. It's not that bad.]

[But speaking of which, why would those Shadow Hounds attack the guild that occupied the stone tablet? They didn't attack the public stone tablets? Could there be someone controlling it from behind? And how did these Profession Stone Tablets appear?]

[Confusion +1]

After the little wolf cub's intervention, the Thousand Islands Forum was filled with cheers. At the same time, the doubts in the hearts of the players increased, which was what Liao Zixuan wanted to see.

Because this way, it would be compatible with his second plan.

Vivian could accept doing good deeds without leaving her name, but the wolf cub could not accept it. He felt that his little girl should be sought after and loved by the players, and Vivian was indeed worthy of this treatment.

Instead, they would use a more sophisticated, ingenious, and "game ' method to slowly unmask the " fox witch " for the players.

[Ding, you have successfully created a special drop item "Mysterious Slate (1)"]

[Mysterious Slate (1)]

[Description: A long, long time ago, a legendary story that happened on Sakuragi Island was recorded on it.]

[Method of obtaining: Random drops from monsters on Sakuragi Island]
