

O Summoner 1141

Chapter 1141

Adrian wanted to be the first to test out the plan as he would be the fastest one to do that. Creepysoo managed to group up about thirty undead. Adrian looked at the distance between him and the Dragon of Revelation. Only three of his soulbounds are currently summoned as well since Limit Break has ended.

"Sirius is still weakened but he can carry some undead inside his shadows. Kanlaon would make sure that the mouth will stay in place. Charon will also be able to store some undead as well. Let the plan commence." Adrian stated as he started.

Sirius hid about fifteen undead in his shadow and went back inside Adrian's shadow. Charon hid some undead inside his coffin with his skill Soul Keep. Kanlaon could be seen flying in the sky with the three dragon kings and killing flying monsters that are in their way.

"Paradox, calculate the coordinates of the transport location." Adrian commanded as the Cube of Paradox started to spin at a fast pace and calculating the coordinates.

"Coordinates have been obtained. Shall we proceed with the transfer now?" The Cube of Paradox stated in its monotone robotic voice.

Adrian then took Creepysoo and jumped in space with him when the coordinates have been set. If the caster of the spell is not near, then it would have a chance of failing which is why he also needed to be there. When their vision returned, Adrian and Creepysoo could be seen on top of the Dragon of Revelation with the latter looking at them with great annoyance.

The Dragon of Revelation wanted to attack them, but it is currently in the process of accumulating energy. If it were to stop then it would not be able to destroy the world. It needs to feed off the lives that it reaps with its Breath of Calamity. The Dragon of Revelation has no other choice but to command those in servitude of it to take care of the two.

"I really need a skill that can freeze space." Adrian stated as he suddenly flew higher as a freezing breath is suddenly fired at the Dragon of Revelation.

Kanlaon only used his Ice Dragon ball in full effect and fired off a series of spells in the ice elemental category. One of the heads of the Dragon of Revelation is covered by ice to make sure that it does not move but the ice starts to shatter immediately. That small second is what Adrian needed as Sirius and Charon appeared behind him.

Sirius and Charon released all the undead directly at the mouth of the Dragon of Revelation. The people wanted to know why they are sending undead to their deaths, but it seems to just be cannon fodder ones like skeletons and zombies. When all the undead have been sent inside one of the mouths, Creepysoo immediately started to chant.

"Corpse Explosion!" Creepysoo shouted as all thirty undead exploded inside the throat of the Dragon of Revelation.

The head that was affected by the Corpse Explosion suddenly shook as the energy that was accumulating in its mouth suddenly vanished and also exploded. The Dragon of Revelation suddenly roared in pain as this is the first time that it has experienced it as even the attacks earlier could not even be described as tickling because of its dragon scales.

[You have successfully stopped one of the heads of the Dragon of Revelation from accumulating energy for the Breath of Cataclysm.]

[The Dragon of Revelation can no longer reach a 100% charge time.]

[The Dragon of Revelation has deemed you an eyesore and will proceed to exterminate you.]

The first two notification made Adrian and Creepysoo cheer but the next one made their jaws drop. The head that had an explosion suddenly opened wide as it tried devouring Adrian and Creepysoo. Adrian immediately used Enhanced Blink to get away as fast as possible, but the dragon head is fast.

"You can drop me off on Kanlaon, big brother. You cannot carry me and evade forever." Creepysoo stated and Adrian agreed as he did just that.

Adrian tossed Creepysoo in the air as Kanlaon caught the undead prince. Adrian then proceeded to summon his Primordial Armament: Daggers. He also proceeded to use Perfect Assimilation with Sirius and hid in the shadows to avoid the detection of the Dragon of Revelation.

Adrian and Creepysoo's stun became very effective which made the other people push forth with their plans as well. Adrian's group carried their share of undead through the battlefield and cheered when their plan could actually succeed. The only problem is the fact that some of the enemies got relayed to stop people that are carrying undead.

Those that wanted to copy Adrian's group immediately got into a predicament, but they are not the only ones with the ingenious plan. Hou Yiwei gathered the dragonkin under him as they took to the skies. Each of them faced off against one of the dragon heads and poured all their breath attacks on the mouth of the Dragon of Revelation.

At first, they did not have any signs of succeeding but the accumulated damage that the dragon head from the inside started to take effect. That dragon head started to actually cough which made the energy accumulated to explode from the inside as well, but it was not as powerful as the Corpse Explosion.

"Push forward onto the next!" Hou Yiwei commanded the dragonkin as he is accumulating stamina again to transform into his dragon form. His breath attack would be more powerful in that form than his humanoid form.

With the dragonkin being added to the targets of the Dragon of Revelation, it decided that it needs more protection from the sky while it is accumulating energy. It also started to also close its mouth to prevent things from being sent inside of it. The energy accumulation might be slower but it would still reach a suitable amount as all seven heads started to accumulate energy once more.

Chapter 1142

The Dragon of Revelation needs more forces in the sky which is why it created more powerful lizardmen. The lizardmen that it created started to grow wings, but they are fewer compared to the ones that do not have them. The lizardmen that spawned with wings managed to divert the attention of the dragonkins that flew in the sky.

Adrian's group of friends have finally arrived beneath the Dragon of Revelation. Solstice and Lycan had people block them, but they easily out speed them since night has already arrived. The two paused for a moment as the undead that they are carrying cannot be delivered inside the mouth as all seven mouths are closed.

"It seems that it has become wary of attacks from the mouth. We need it to feel a prickling pain so that it can open its mouth." Adrian stated as he suddenly rose from the shadows.

"Maybe I can be of help with that." A voice suddenly stated as an invisible player suddenly appeared, and it was none other than Nightshade.

"Care to elaborate?" Levin Cloud stated as he suddenly sprouted from the ground.

"That thing is still a god right? I can feel my weapon itching to hit it, but it seems to sense me whenever I get close to it. Also, I cannot cross that canyon." Nightshade stated as he pointed to the large canyon where the body of the Dragon of Revelation lies.

"As long as you can make it open its mouth then I can get you close enough." Adrian stated as he suddenly pulled Nightshade by the collar and told everyone to be ready.

Adrian then unfurled four of his wings and immediately took to the skies once more. There were some lizardmen that they encountered on the way, but he managed to evade them with such ease. Nightshade then looked back at the others and thought how they would reach the head as they did not have wings like Adrian.

Solstice and Lycan could be seen to make a great jump and landed on the neck of the Dragon of Revelation. Those two then proceeded to run like it was flat ground despite them being in a vertical position. Levin Cloud created a plant and made it grow continuously to reach the head of the Dragon of Revelation. The others followed with out of the box ideas that made people speechless.

"The stats on those two must be crazy." Nightshade stated as he could not believe that something that can only happens in movies could be seen being done by Solstice and Lycan.

"Get ready as we are almost there. I will proceed to toss you now." Adrian stated.

"Okay! Wait what?!" Nightshade stated and wanted to protest but he is already in the air away from Adrian.

Adrian needed to toss him away because a flock of flying lizardmen suddenly grouped up on him. He started to use Soul Emergence to go behind one of the lizardmen to stab them to death. He proceeded to do this continuously until the flock dropped to their deaths. He looked back towards Nightshade to see what he was doing, and he could see the guy floating in the sky.

"Aspect of the Reaper!" Nightshade stated as his body suddenly got covered in a familiar energy that Adrian has. It was death energy, but it was not nether energy which means it must be another death realm.

Death energy started to cover Nightshade's body as a cloak made of it has manifested. The cloak looks tattered and worn down as if a real grim reaper appeared before them. The grim reaper wielded its scythe that suddenly grew to such a large degree.

The grim reaper used the scythe and swung down towards the heads of the Dragon of Revelation. The Dragon of Revelation suddenly felt the danger and made use of the hordes of flying lizardmen as its shields. The hordes of flying lizardmen dropped like flies as it blocked the attack, but part of the attack managed to connect to at least two dragon heads.

The attack from the scythe barely did any damage to the body of the Dragon of Revelation but it still made it scream in pain. The god slaying weapons target the very essence of gods which is their souls which is why being attacked there would make any being scream. With an opportunity presenting itself, the group immediately dropped as much undead as they could.

"Corpse Explosion!" Creepysoo once again stated as a powerful explosion happened in one of the dragon heads.

The accumulated energy once again broke down and vanished but one of the dragon heads have already collected enough. One of the heads of the Dragon of Revelation suddenly looked up in the sky and released a dark and heavy energy sphere. This dark and heavy energy sphere shot towards the sky and immediately destroyed the barrier that separated their current area with the world.

The spell that the Three Daemos Elders is fueling suddenly shattered just like that with just one attack. The cocoons that protected the two Daemos Elders also shattered as they vomited blood because the barrier is tied to their mana. Ascalor and Bronx could be seen weakly standing up as they viewed the powerful energy sphere tearing through the sky itself.

When they thought that a part of the world would get destroyed by the Breath of Cataclysm, another barrier suddenly appeared to block the attack. The Breath of Cataclysm that one of the dragon heads released suddenly started a clash against this mysterious barrier. It was only when one of the dragon kings spoke of the name of the barrier that the group learned of it.

"The World Barrier!" The Light Dragon King stated as she knew that it was a powerful barrier said to have repelled attacks from the dark gods back then but it also uses a lot of accumulated faith and mana to even hold.

The World Barrier is not simple as it is the accumulation of faith and mana of the believers. It is also connected to the God of Protection casting it which means any damage to it will be felt by the one using it. The Goddess Bastet could be seen wincing in pain as she could feel the great damage that the Breath of Cataclysm has done to the barrier.

"Faithful followers of protection! The Dragon of Revelation is now trying us. Make sure that our resolve to protect the world is not something that could be easily shattered." The Goddess Bastet stated which everyone heard including the ones in battle with the Dragon of Revelation as the pocket dimension has been lifted.

The World Barrier and the Breath of Cataclysm clashed with all their might, but the power of the World Barrier has yet to solidify. The first World Barrier created suddenly got destroyed but the power of the Breath of Cataclysm also fizzled out a little bit. The remaining power of the Breath of Cataclysm hit the great North Sea and created a huge explosion of water.

The power of the World Barrier is centered on the areas where people are praying which means the areas that will take great damage will be those that do not have people or intelligent beings praying. If the World Barrier did not prevent the Breath of Cataclysm, then part of the northern continent would have been destroyed by now.

"Children of this world! I ask for your power once more to create a more powerful barrier." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated but one could see that she has been damaged to an extent as she is tied with the strength of the World Barrier.

Due to the fizzled power of the Breath of Cataclysm hitting the great North Sea, major tremors could be felt throughout the world. The tremors that they felt after the World Barrier got destroyed is the result of a blocked attack which means getting a direct hit would be incredibly dangerous. Numerous pillars of light shot out to the sky once more as the power of the people's faith is sent to the Goddess Bastet.

If the Goddess Bastet was a greedy goddess, then she would have used this power of faith to become a greater god and descend in this world, but she did not. She used all the power of faith that she accumulated to create another World Barrier that is more powerful than before. The World Barrier is needed now as two heads of the Dragon of Revelation has finished accumulating energy.

Two spheres of intense energy shot out and clashed with the World Barrier this time. The World Barrier could be seen quaking as it tried with all its might to protect the world from suffering great damage. The two Breaths of Cataclysm could be seen making numerous cracks on the World Barrier, but it did not break it this time.

The Goddess of Protection Bastet could be seen extremely exhausted as she used all her might to block the two shots. She did not expect that such a thing would be possible, but it seems that even the hidden demigods have begun to move. The hidden demigods lent the Goddess Bastet some of their divine energy which reinforced the barrier.

The hidden demigods did not do so at first because they do not want to aid a lesser god that might just want to steal their energy. When they saw that the Goddess Bastet protected the world with all her might, they helped her by giving some of their divine energy by praying to the Goddess of Protection directly.

The World Barrier became extremely sturdy as a result and managed to block two shots of the Breath of Cataclysm but that is the most that they could do. The hidden demigods are hiding because they are also recovering their powers. They became weak as they have been injured in the last war with the Dark Gods like Pann.

The Goddess Bastet expressed her gratitude by thanking the demigods through the prayer channels. What she did not expect is that there is a sealed dark god that prayed to her for protection as well. She did not know the entity of this dark god but the fact that they also want protection means that they want to protect inhabitants of this world as well.

The Goddess Bastet might be a lesser goddess, but she will rise to become a greater goddess soon and she knows the truth of the Gods of Pandemonium. The Gods of Pandemonium are not all created in Pandemonium as some were from the outer edges of the known universe. Some of the Gods of Pandemonium are actually from the place where the Dark Gods come from.

In fact, the oldest of the Primordial gods are said to have been a being that is not from Pandemonium. It is but a speculation from the Ancient Gods as the oldest of the Primordial Gods no longer live. Not all gods of Pandemonium see each other as there are others that tend to be secluded and only talk to their followers, but they are said to be as powerful as the Ancient Gods.

Another reason for the World Barrier being stronger is the fact that one of these sealed dark gods praying to her and giving up some of their divinity in the process. The Goddess Bastet will not tell this to the other gods as this is the least that she could do for that sealed dark god as they might also be reborn as a God of Pandemonium.

The Dragon of Revelation roared and the pressure in the area suddenly doubled. All those of Draconic origin could be seen kneeling. Kanlaon and the dragon kings could be seen greatly inhibited while the others that are not strong enough are far worse. Those that cannot withstand Dragon Roar with a combination of Dragon Might are seen face planting on the ground. All foes and allies alike are experiencing this.

[You have failed to resist.]

[You have been affected by Ancient Dragon God's Roar.]

[You have been affected by Ancient Dragon God's Might.]

[All your stats will decrease by 15% for ten minutes.]

[You will deal less damage to the Dragon of Revelation by 30%.]

[You have a chance to be dealt with Terror when attacking or getting hit by the Dragon of Revelation.]

All enemies and allies alike have been affected by the Ancient Dragon God Roar and Ancient Dragon God Might. The only ones that are unaffected are the lizardmen that are created by the Dragon of Revelation. The Dragon of Revelation once again started accumulating vast amounts of energy in all of its seven heads once more.

"Three minutes left! Attack with all your might!" Hou Yiwei shouted as he led the dragonkin.

Even though the dragonkin are the ones greatly affected as they have dragon blood in their veins, their great courage affected the others like a disease. As if the others are pushing their limits, all of them charged towards the Dragon of Revelation and started unleashing all their skills towards it.

"Paradox, calculate the chance of winning based on your observations." Adrian asked the Cube of Paradox as it has already collected enough data.

"Affirmative. From the collected data and debuffs affecting the master, the allied forces have a 31.4% chance of being successful. An 80% chance that the surface world becoming unlivable because of the Breath of Cataclysm. If the World Barrier is strengthened further, then damage to the world might drop by 50%." The Cube of Paradox stated.

"Calculate the odds of me dealing great damage and stopping at least one of the dragon heads from firing when I use Realm Ender." Adrian stated as he received the skill, he wanted the most when he fused with Sirius.

"Percentage of attack succeeding when the master does the plan will be 75%. Probability of stopping at least one dragon head from firing a Breath of Cataclysm is 99%." The Cube of Paradox stated.

"That is good enough chance then." Adrian stated.

"Probability of master dying and not reviving is 100%." The Cube of Paradox added.

The last one shocked Adrian because he was banking on his revival as he has yet to die. If he dies, then the accumulated reward for this raid will not go to him. It was some sort of dilemma to him because he has a lot of contribution for this raid and him dying would mean he gets nothing.

"Should I be greedy and sacrifice parts of the world for the great rewards that I will receive?" Adrian asked himself as he seriously pondered.

This is just a game after all but then he looked around him. All the NPCs and players are giving their all trying to prevent the Dragon of Revelation. They are giving their all despite this being a game, but their hearts are telling them to protect it. He then looked at his friends and even they have this desperate face that says they must succeed.

"Fine. I guess I owe everyone here since they protected me when I evolved to become an Arch Demon. I should repay that favor now." Adrian stated as he looked at the ticking clock as there is only one more minute left.

"Paradox, use all Primordial Energy and Nether Energy on our last attack. We should at least blow one head off since we will die anyway." Adrian stated as he knows how powerful all the nether energy in his body is.

"Affirmative." The Cube of Paradox replied.

Adrian's body surfaced from the Shadow Realm as he is filled with immense energy. Both Primordial and Nether energy is circulating at its fullest in his body that made both allies and enemies steer clear of him. His twin daggers emitted a dangerous glint that would make anyone steer clear of him.

"Soul Seeker." Adrian muttered as he tossed the dagger on his left hand.

The Dragon of Revelation could feel the tyrannical aura coming from the small dagger aimed toward it but could not dodge as it is accumulating energy. It commanded the flying lizardmen to block the dagger, but it seems to have locked into the Dragon of Revelation's head as it flew all the way to one of its heads.

The dagger plunged towards the middle of the dragon head and the Dragon of Revelation did not feel any damage. The Dragon of revelation actually got scared for a minute there but the dagger that had incredible power did not have any damage at all. It was all just a show of power, or an illusion created by a desperate wish of a demon.

"Realm Ender." Adrian stated as illusionary chains suddenly started falling off his body.

Adrian's body started to become pure energy itself as his Primordial Energy and Nether Energy combined. The weird thing is that the nether energy did not swallow his primordial energy and only enhanced it further.

[You have used both Soul Seeker and Ream Ender in succession.]

[You have created forth a miracle and will be able to temporarily fuse the two skills together.]

[You have created the skill, Soul Ender.]

[You will die after executing the skill as your current body will not be able to handle the strain of the power and revival would be disabled.]

Skill Name: Soul Ender

Tier: Divine

Type: Unknown

Effect:

-Deals Apocalyptic damage to a singular entity.

-Deals greater damage to beings that are mostly made of souls like gods.

Cooldown: None

Cast Time: None

Mana Cost: None

Description: A skill born because of the fervent wish of the user to stop an overwhelming power. This might be the only chance such a skill will be born once again as only special situations can create miracle such as this.

"Soul Ender!" Adrian stated as his body that exploded with great energy suddenly vanished from the ground he was standing on. He appeared on top of one of the Dragon of Revelation heads.

Chapter 1145

Adrian suddenly appeared on top of the one of the Dragon of Revelation's heads where the dagger landed. His form looked like he was covered with nether energy and Primordial energy at the same time that made him look like an ethereal cosmic ghost. He plunged his other dagger in the area where the soul dagger pierced.

At first, the Dragon of Revelation did not feel any pain, but Adrian's energy soon seeped inside the very soul of the enemy. When the combined Nether energy and Primordial energy seeped inside the soul of the Dragon of Revelation, the enemy screamed in utter pain that one would get only when they are dying of such unbearable pain.

The screech of the Dragon of Revelation reverberated all throughout the area that made it shake. Adrian's body could be seen disintegrating as the effects of the Soul Ender skill started to take a toll to his body. Adrian is not the only one disintegrating though as the head of the Dragon of Revelation where Adrian plunged his dagger started to turn into ash.

All those in the area watched in horror and awe as the head of a dragon god could be seen being erased from existence. A miracle basically happened as they know that they cannot stop the Dragon of Revelation but one of them did it. They can only see the miracle man become particles of light as he died due to the result of the miracle.

Only one dragon head might have been destroyed but the succeeding pain of that head spread to the ones near it. Three of the seven dragon heads became unable to accumulate energy while the Dragon of Revelation is in intense pain. Four of the seven dragon heads still released their respective Breath of Cataclysm, but the power is not as intense or powerful than the previous ones.

The Dragon of Revelation could only hurriedly release the accumulated energy as it is suddenly started to sink back into the summoning magic circle. The World Barrier prevented some of the damage while it dissipated the others. Some parts of the world became bombarded by the Breath of Cataclysm, but no huge casualties are recorded.

[You have done the impossible and injured a godly entity.]

[You have received the title Divine Enemy.]

[You have received the title Miracle Creator.]

Adrian can only see the fruits of his sacrifice as the Dragon of Revelation is pulled back into its sealed area. The Dragon of Revelation could be seen struggling to not be sealed once more as it wants more destruction to the beings that destroyed one of its head. Adrian vanished from the mortal world as with a smile seeing that he has done his best.

Adrian opened his eyes and could see that he is now in Limbo. He is currently in his smaller Netheros form inside Limbo as he is the Shephard of Souls and an authority of this place. When one of the Anubis saw Adrian, it immediately went toward him in a hurry as if he is to send a message.

"Champion Equinox! The God of Death Abaddon would like to talk with you." The Anubis that came close to Adrian stated as it was given a message by the God of Death Abaddon.

Those that were in Limbo are clamoring because one of the Anubis is actually respectful to an individual. Just as they thought that it was already weird that one of the Anubis is being respectful, a door made of a beautiful black metal with diamond runes suddenly appeared. When the door appeared, all of the Anubis suddenly bowed which made those that died become filled with curiosity and fear.

The door suddenly opened and a large figure that is donned in glorious black armor emerged. Adrian saw the one that appeared and also promptly knelt down in show of respect. He is still the God of Death and Adrian is his Champion.

"All of you may rise. Champion Equinox, come with me as we need to discuss something incredibly important." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"I shall obey." Adrian replied as both him and the God of Death Abaddon entered the door. Limbo went back to normal when the door summoned by the God of Death Abaddon vanished.

In the sky in the far north, a weird circular gate could be seen appearing and opening with a great creak. The winged beings that inhabited these skies could be seen fighting another winged being with a flaming sword.

"You are too late to stop us child of the Fallen. The gates to the Silver City have already opened. Die knowing that you have failed to stop the real Angels." Pristina stated as she shot an immense beam of light to the Fallen with the flaming sword. The fallen with the flaming sword plunged towards the ground while turning into pixels.

"The world has finally changed, and the Age of Light shall come! The Angels will return back to the peak!" Pristina stated as her and the rest of the angels used their energies to fully open the gates of the Silver City. A handful of beings could be seen coming out of the gate.

[The world is changing with the influx of energy from the Silver City.]

[Angels no longer need to inhabit mortal bodies to survive in the mortal realm.]

[The barrier that separates the mortal realm and divine realm has thinned out.]

[Lesser gods could now descend to the world with the strength of a demigod.]

[Beings in the main world are becoming more powerful.]

When the Breath of Cataclysms were released onto the world, the energy it released fed the world as well. The world now has greater energy count now more than ever as the gates to the Silver City also poured in energy.

"Finally! The fact that this plan needed to be done and executed for a hundred years made me almost give up on it." A hidden being observing the happenings of the world smiled gleefully as the plan they created finally bore fruit.

Chapter 1146

The God of Death Abaddon told Adrian to follow him, and he was sent to the depths of the Nether Realm once more. The fact that he was escorted to the depths of the Nether Realm means that the information that they will talk about must be kept away from the ears of others.

"Do you know why I have called for you?" The God of Death Abaddon asked.

"I am not really sure why, but it seems that it has something to do with the things that I have received in the previous battle." Adrian replied as he made an intelligent guess.

"You are correct in that assumption because you managed to obtain a rather troublesome title." The God Death Abaddon stated.

"You mean the title 'Divine Enemy'?" Adrian asked as that is the only troublesome title that can make gods tremble. He received two titles that have vague effects that he does not even know how to trigger.

Title: Divine Enemy

Tier: Divine

Effect:

-Deals additional damage to enemies that have divinity in their bodies.

-Deals more damage to Gods and Goddesses.

Description: A title given to a person that has damaged a god with their own power without relying on other gods. Beware of the wrath of the other gods that have marked you as their enemy.

Current Enemies: Dragon of Revelation

Title: Miracle Creator

Tier: Special

Effect:

-Gives the user an extremely small chance to double your current luck stat when certain conditions align.

Description: A special title that is said to be almost impossible to obtain. You seem to be blessed with lady luck for you to obtain such a title, but this title also comes at a cost. What is that cost? No one knows.

A Divine Tier title that is rather vague and does not have any modifier on how much the damage is increased. It is not like gods and goddesses are easy to defeat but the fact that an Arch Demon managed to get this title instead of a Noblesse is worrying the Twin Gods. This title basically makes Adrian hostile towards other gods that do not have a good impression of him.

"The Gods of Life and Death might not antagonize you, but the other gods are a different opinion. Your life will be more troublesome now that you have obtained such a title. Especially now that lesser gods can descent to the mortal realm." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"Wait what?" Adrian stated as he did not know that lesser gods could now descend unto the world.

"The Dragon of Revelation has released too much energy into the world. The World Barrier also played a hand on that which made lesser gods able to manifest down using a demigod body." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"If gods could descend then the power balance of the world would crumble. I know that some of the gods are not like you and your twin. Some want to collect a lot of followers so that they can ascend to become a greater god." Adrian stated as he knows that some gods would not mind using force to make sure that happens.

"You do not need to worry as much because even if they descend, they only have the strength of a demigod. They also must bear great consequence should their demigod body gets destroyed in the mortal realm. If their demigod body gets destroyed, most of their divinity will be lost as a result.

They will definitely think twice of descending with that reason. There is also a chance that they could completely die when they descend. There are people like you that can kill divinity in the mortal realm which is why they will become even more wary." The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"You mean they could truly die as they will need to descend with a part of their own divine consciousness?" Adrian asked to make sure, and The God of Death Abaddon nodded.

"Of course, it is not only the Lesser Gods of Pandemonium that can create a demigod body because the Lesser Dark Gods that have also been swayed by the divine barrier can now descend as well. This is another reason why I called for you as the Champion of the Twin Gods. Kill any dark god that will create trouble in the mortal realm." The God of Death Abaddon stated as he gave Adrian a mission.

Quest Notification!

Quest Name: Descending Lesser Dark Gods

Quest Description: The God of Death Abaddon has given you a mission to kill any dark god that will create chaos in the mortal realm. As the Champion of the Twin Gods, it is your duty to adhere to the balance of life and death. Any being that harms the cycle of life and death must be punished under your own hands.

Clear Condition: Kill Lesser Dark Gods that have descended and caused trouble.

Quest Reward: Mythical Tier Random Box (Given per Lesser Dark God killed.)

Failure: None

Restriction: This quest can only be done by the Champion of the Twin Gods. This is a repeating quest which means you will always get the reward for each kill.

"I accept but what if the gods that cause trouble is not just the dark gods?" Adrian asked.

"If that is the case then one of us shall telepathically tell you what to do as we can now do that easily. Do you have any more questions, Champion Equinox?" The God of Death Abaddon stated.

"I am curious because the quest just says those that make trouble. What if the dark god does not create trouble? What should be my course of action?" Adrian asked.

"That will be on your discretion then as you must also assess what is right and wrong. My sister and I only rule over life and death. We do not care of others as long as they do not mess with our domain." The God of Death Abaddon stated and Adrian immediately understood the stand of the Twin Gods when he heard that.

Chapter 1147

[The Gates to the Silver City has been opened.]

[Players that serve the Church of Light could change their race to angel if they reach the Silver City within the time period.]

[The Angel Race can now be chosen in the character creation screen.]

The news of the Silver City becoming available became hot news to the world of Pandemonium. Players that wanted to change to the Angel race decided to forgo everything that they built up just because they can become the angel race. There is also a Race Change Ticket, but those things are difficult to obtain and pricey when being bought.

The players that create the angel race do not go to Genesis village upon creation which made everyone wonder. Those that create angel race avatars will immediately be sent to the Silver City but unable to leave it before they reach level 10 instead. In the Silver City, they will fight cloud monsters instead that are susceptible to light magic.

The Silver City is just like its name as it a beautiful city made of gleaming silver spires and buildings. The very entrance to the Silver City is a gigantic gate that has the likeness of the Goddess of Light's likeness crafted into it. It has the look of the Goddess of Light Luminaria embracing those that enter the Silver City.

The city is incredibly beautiful as all building are made with a special silver stone that bends light which makes it sparkle like diamonds. The largest of all these structures is a tower located in the middle of the Silver City. This tower boasts a great height of about a hundred meters with wide halls.

This tower is called the Tower of Babylon and is actually created by ancient humans. The story of this tower is that humans wanted to reach the divine realm and created a gigantic tower that can reach it, but the Goddess of Light Luminaria saw the hubris of the humans and punished them by claiming the tower with the help of the angels.

To historians, the ancient humans were punished by the Goddess of Light Luminaria, but the real reason is not known. The only one that knows the reason for the tower being claimed by the Goddess of Light Luminaria is herself. She claimed the tower because she found it grand and beautiful.

The greedy goddess commanded the angels to claim the tower and send it to the Silver City. The humans prayed to the other gods to reclaim what they have built but they created the Tower of Babylon without the blessings of gods which is why the gods refused their plea. In the end, the Tower of Babylon became the property of the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

The ancient humans that cursed at the Goddess of Light Luminaria were purged in the end because she did not like how she was misspoken. Due to this, the angels that carried on the slaughter of the innocent hardworking humans are judged by an Asmodian that had the blood of the Daemos.

The Asmodian sealed the angels in the Silver City to atone for their sins, but that action greatly enraged the Goddess of Light Luminaria. She had combat with the Asmodian and received great injuries as a result, but she did kill the Asmodian. This all happened before the Great War Against the Dark Gods which is why she did not go into combat personally against the Dark Gods.

It is also the reason why many of the powerful angels that are in the First Heavenly Sphere died as they had to be in combat compared to their goddess. Those angels died with the feeling of unfairness that their own goddess did not even casted support magic on them or bless them. The lower ranking angels did not know this though as all this information is only known by the Goddess of Light Luminaria herself.

"The Silver City is beautiful. I can admit that, but it is just boring. It is all bling and not much substance. Everything looks the same and just varies in size and shape. It is a very boring area that has no appeal whatsoever. No wonder the angels do not have a sense of fashion." Adrian stated as he watched the broadcast of a newbie angel player.

He is currently lying down on his bed and read all the things that have changed. Funny enough, there was no maintenance that happened which means all of this has been part of the previous maintenance. In fact, the maintenance actually did happen, but the game developers deployed it while the fight against the Horsemen of the Apocalypse and Dragon of Revelation was happening.

He just browsed through the things that have changed after the fight against the Horsemen of the Apocalypse and the Dragon of Revelation. A lot of changes happened as the number of danger zones increased by a lot and the fact that powerful monsters started roaming the world. The field bosses are no longer bound by the field dungeon that they have and can now roam across the continent.

Field bosses that are not held back by land travel can even go to other continents as a result. Also, there is a chance that field bosses that encounter each other could battle against one another. Those that are lucky could get drops of two field bosses at the same time if they can slay them.

There is also the opposite where field bosses that encounter each other can team up. There is actually a stream where this happened, and all the players got wiped out as a result. The rules of the world have greatly changed and has now changed to the Survival of the Fittest.

Due to the drastic changes in the world, people that have great strength started to topple weak monarchies. In the central continent, a tyrant has appeared that usurped a throne of a kingdom. It seems that the tyrant is not content with a kingdom as she wants to rule an empire.

Chapter 1148

As Adrian is scrolling the changes in the world via the Pandemonium Forums, he suddenly got an alert from his gaming pod.

[Your death counter has finished. You can now log back into Pandemonium. Best of luck in your journey!]

"Finally! The wait is over." Adrian stated as he can now jump back in the game.

He is still a bit bitter of not getting any of the rewards from killing the Horsemen of the Apocalypse. He did get lots of experience points though which he liked. The titles that he received are also good in a sense, but the Divine Enemy title made him irk a bit as even the Twin Gods warned him of having that title.

"A title that even the Twin Gods, who are the most powerful of all the gods, are warning me about it. The request that the God of Death Abaddon gave me is also weird. From the tone that he gave me, there must be dark gods that want to coexist or do not want to harm this universe." Adrian thought as he logged back into the game.

The whole day Adrian is receiving messages from his friends to pick them up. They are currently in the northern continent doing relief work. The Daemos Corps that were left in the northern continent could not teleport all of the summoned individuals. Even Ascalor and Bronx need at least a day to recover their powers.

The Two Daemos Elders also needed to return back to Avalon immediately as they needed to attend to more pressing matters. They left the safe return of the people in the north to the Daemos Corps. Adrian's respawn point is Avalon which is why he will go there once he logs back in.

"I will just fetch them later as the north needs to be recovered as well. The northern people will need their labor anyway." Adrian stated with a hearty laugh as he received bragging messages of what they got from the drops.

Adrian appeared in Avalon and immediately got swept up in a portal beneath his feet. Adrian wanted to get away as he knows that things like this will only lead to great burdens. He wanted to counteract the portal spell by flying away but he could not because an even greater force sucked him in.

When Adrian no longer fought the force, he just let his body get dragged. He thought that it should not be Koronn as that old man is still lost in the River of Time. He then thought of the other elders, but he has already become an Arch Demon so he should be able to at least put-up resistance.

"Took you long enough." Pann stated as Adrian is transported next to him.

"You could have at least notified me though. I am still in Avalon and one of your beasts could have done it." Adrian stated but he then noticed that Pann is not in his usual old man form.

"Is he the one that you have been talking to me about?" A beautiful voice of a woman stated as she showed herself.

Adrian looked extremely shocked as the woman that is accompanying Pann is drop dead gorgeous. She was like a goddess has descended into the world. Adrian then looked at Pann with judging eyes and then gave a thumbs up. He might be an old man, but he still has game.

Pann immediately knew what Adrian was thinking which is why he got hit. Adrian did not feel pain in a sense physically, but he did get pain in a spiritual sense. Pann's hit shook Adrian's soul a bit, but he recovered immediately. The beautiful woman laughed at the interaction between Pann and Adrian which made them stop.

"So, can you tell me the guest that you have brought to my territory? She does not seem to be normal as I can feel great power oozing from her." Adrian stated as he turned on his serious mode and flexed his aura.

"It might be a bit late, but I will introduce myself. I am the Goddess of Protection Bastet. Pleasure to meet the Champion of the Twin Gods." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated as she gave an elegant curtsy befitting of a humble goddess.

Adrian's brains almost exploded when he learned of the identity of the Goddess of Protection Bastet. He thought that it was just a demigod acquaintance of Pann that visited him, but it was actually a goddess. He then remembered that a Goddess of Protection descended unto the world to cast the World Barrier.

"Are you the one that descended?" Adrian asked as she had the form of a human woman. The Goddess of Protection Bastet that he saw in videos had the head of a cat which is why he is a bit confused.

"She is currently in a weakened state and is currently trapped in the mortal realm. I need you to send her to the western continent to where her followers are." Pann stated.

"What Pann said is true as I actually did not think that I would fully descend unto the world but that also meant I am currently trapped in this demigod body as a result. In order for me to get back my power, I need to get back to the divine realm. I implore your kindness in sending me to my followers." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"Why not just remain in the mortal world with your followers?" Adrian stated as he knows that many gods would want that kind of thing.

"I cannot do so. If I remain in the mortal realm, I will not be able to guide my followers and give them blessings. As of now, they are probably wondering why my blessing has weakened. I can feel the faith that they are sending me, but I cannot use it for their benefit because I am trapped in a demigod's body. My followers need me." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

Chapter 1149

Quest Notification!

Quest Name: Accompany the Goddess of Protection

Quest Description: The Goddess of Protection Bastet wants your help. She is asking you to escort her to the Western Continent where her temple is erected.

Quest Difficulty: A

Clear Condition: Escort the Goddess of Protection Bastet to her temple located somewhere in the Western Continent

Clear Reward: A Gift from the Goddess of Protection Bastet

Failure Condition: The Goddess of Protection Bastet does not go back to the Divine Realm.

Penalty: None

Restriction: Can only be done by one person.

The quest seems to be relatively easy as she would just need to be escorted. What Adrian does not understand is that the difficulty seems to be a bit high. It might be probably due to the fact that he has yet to fully explore the Western Continent.

"You should know this, but she does not have the same power level as a healthy demigod. She used most of her divine powers casting the World Barrier. She is in a weakened state and needs an escort to get to her main temple where she will be able to replenish most of her divine faith." Pann stated.

"If that is the case then why not send you herself?" Adrian asked Pann as he should be powerful enough to do so. There is also Bessy which can transport people the old-fashioned way of travelling.

"I would love to, but my darlings have been severely exhausted as they maintained the rifts and also the area where she descended. They will not be able to move for at least a month which is why I am also stuck here." Pann stated but Adrian remembered something from Pann when he asked about the western continent.

"Is that really the reason or is it the fact that you are avoiding someone from the Western Continent? I remember you saying that there is a demigod there that you would rather avoid. Is that demigod more powerful than you?" Adrian stated.

"From my observations of the Western Continent, there are only a few demigods that are active there and they all prefer to hide though. The only one that is brave enough to not hide is one demigod which is called the Queen of the Sand Shifters. She is the oldest matriarch of the Dune Kingdom. Do you perhaps have some bad blood with her?" The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"Not really but if she sees me with another woman then a headache will ensue. I rejected her countless times years ago. That old hag has a great temper and I do not want to face her without my darlings." Pann muttered to himself, but Adrian's sharp ears can pick up juicy gossip like this.

"I see. You are basically giving me this duty because you cannot go to the territory of your ex. No wonder you often told me that going to the western continent with you is impossible." Adrian stated as he teased Pann.

"Anyways, the goddess over there has barely any energy in her demigod body. She will not be perceiving a threat when you enter the western continent. If I enter another continent, then all demigod level people will be notified immediately. Did you not see what happened in the eastern continent back then?

The demigod level expert did not come there but only sent their henchmen to scout. If they really did intend to create trouble for us, then they would have come themselves." Pann stated as he explained why he cannot easily go to any other area.

"I am already an Arch Demon though. Will that not alarm them?" Adrian stated as he did make a valid argument that they will notice him as well.

"You just became an Arch Demon, little brat. You are still wet behind the ears and have yet to reach the same level as that of the Daemos Elders. They will take notice of you but will not create trouble as long as you do not create trouble. I am also needed here with Koronn gone for the time being." Pann stated as he must take over Koronn's duty as long as he was still in the River of Time.

"Fine. I will just need to send her there then. It is a bit easy since I can teleport to the Western Continent. Do you not have the ability to teleport?" Adrian then asked The Goddess of Protection if she cannot just teleport herself.

Adrian thought that the Goddess of Protection Bastet could just regain some of her strength and teleport herself to the temple. When Adrian said that statement, the Goddess of Protection Bastet chuckled as that power is only reserved for gods that have the power of Ancient Gods or above. An outlier of this would be the gods and goddesses that have domains that deal with space.

"Gods and Goddesses are not that omnipotent as you think. We may have some level of omniscience but that is also limited to our believers, and we must be in the Divine Realm. Not all gods could warp space because our powers are also limited to the domain that we represent.

I am a Goddess of Protection which means my powers are limited to protecting people. I can control space to an extent like locking them up, but I cannot warp space and time to travel to different places like you. We cannot warp reality as we wish just because we are gods." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"True...Even gods will take time to terraform an area to their liking." Adrian stated as he already knew of this when a dark god descended.

"You also do not need to worry about our journey so much because I shall not become deadweight. I can at least cast protection buffs and spells should we be attacked by hostiles. I wish it does not come to that though." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated with a simple smile on her face as she wishes that the world is not full of barbarism and treachery.

"I will do it then since I am the only one that can move. Just make sure to take care of the territory old man. I was supposed to check on it, but you pushed me a responsibility the moment I arrived." Adrian stated.

"You should not worry about the territory that much as the citizens and the visitors pretty much take care of everything regarding monster attacks. Now go and send the goddess back to the divine realm as she might weaken so much should she not return." Pann stated as he returned back to his current administrative duties.

Adrian told his friends that he is currently held up on something and will not be able to fetch them. Fortunately, it seems that his friends have met the Ice Queen Elona and was introduced to Aurgelmir. They are currently having their equipment examined and are busy. They are also doing missions in the northern continent which gives decent rewards.

"Shall we go now, Goddess Bastet?" Adrian asked as he wanted to know if the goddess is ready to embark on the journey.

"Let us go then. It is such a shame that I have not seen more of the central continent in my time here. My followers are mostly from the western continent." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated as she is curious of the new world.

"You will probably have an increase in followers due to the fact that you gave it everything that you got in casting the World Barrier. If the World Barrier was not cast, then the world would have been a scorching inferno by now." Adrian stated as he is impressed by the nature of the Goddess of Protection.

"The gratitude is not needed because I am only doing my duty. I do not know if I should say this to you, but I am not originally a goddess of this universe." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"That was a sudden confession that I did not anticipate." Adrian replied as he really did not expect that reveal.

"I do not know why I easily said that but the energy you are giving reminds me of the Oldest One. It might be due to the fact that you are a Daemos or the blood of the Asmodians running in you." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated as she briefly explained her origin.

The Goddess of Protection Bastet said that she came from a universe outside of this one. Life did not thrive in that universe and the gods and goddesses did not assume humanoid forms like the ones in Pandemonium. She basically told Adrian that she would be labeled as a dark god by these standards, but she chose to be an ally rather than an enemy.

"You are not wrong in saying that as some of gods now did not originate from Pandemonium. We were just transformed by the faith of the people." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

Chapter 1150

"So, you mean to say that some of the current gods in Pandemonium are actually previous dark gods that have joined them?" Adrian asked.

"Although there are only a minority of us that switched sides, there were also gods from Pandemonium that switched sides in the Great War of the Gods. Gods are not that different from people as they will go to where their hearts desire when push comes to shove. Also, not all gods that came from outside Pandemonium are hostile. Some gods did not even know they were gods until it was pointed out to them." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

The statement that the goddess told Adrian made him incredibly sure why the God of Death Abaddon gave him that condition on killing demigods. Some gods might not be hostile and are just defending themselves from attackers because they are in an unfamiliar place. It is not farfetched to say that some gods are like children that have yet to develop or are beings just driven by instinct.

"I believe that is enough stories about us gods for now. I do not want to take up too much of your time since you are very busy now more than ever." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated with a smile.

"Agreed. The faster you get back then the faster that you will be able to regain your lost powers." Adrian stated as he opened the Dimensional Gate towards the western continent.

Both Adrian and the Goddess of Protection Bastet entered the dimensional gate and disappeared from Avalon. On the other side of the gate is a place filled with great dunes of sand. They have definitely been transported to the western continent, but it was nighttime since it was daytime in Avalon which is located in the central continent.

"The great dunes at night are a sight to behold. It takes me back when we first arrived here in this world. Back then, it was not called Nebulon or the main world because this planet was such a huge place. If I remember, this planet was once called Pangea as it was a world that had many peculiarities as there was dangers." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"You guys arrived before the Great War of the Gods?" Adrian asked.

"We did. We actually thought of making people submit back then through force, but this part of the world lacked a lot. Even the other gods dared not to venture to the part of Pangea where the great sands shift. In the end, the poor people that saw us arrived all bowed to us to guide them and make them prosper. It was a funny turn of events, but we eventually became part of this universe because of the devotion given to us." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated as she reminisced of those times.

Adrian could already more or less guess that the faction where the Goddess of Protection Bastet must come from should have been dark gods that were accepted by the people. They did not go against Providence and instead helped the inhabitants. They must have been rid of their status as outsider gods when they freely helped the suffering people.

Unlike some of the dark gods now that want to change the very nature of the people so that they only serve them, the Goddess Bastet's faction had compassion and understanding. If that is the case, then the dark gods would have easily been added to the Gods of Pandemonium should they have done that. It should be easy in a sense, but he then remembered that gods tend to lean more to their desires.

Dark Gods that do not want to show compassion or unable to will never be able to fit in in this universe. What Adrian wants to know if the dark gods all know each other. He decided to ask the Goddess of Protection to find out more info about the gods since this is the best opportunity he could get. He is already face to face with an actual god.

"Can I ask if all dark gods know each other?" Adrian asked without a hint of malice which the Goddess of Protection Bastet could sense.

"A rather straightforward question but we do not. Other gods can come from other universes that just happen to have noticed the brightest universe out there. This universe is full of intelligent life unlike my own universe." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated.

"What was your previous universe like? Did you have any beings there as well?" Adrian asked.

"My previous universe was only small, and it was only my family of gods that lived there. There was life in our universe, but they were not intelligent. They were just pitiful creatures born to have life. In the end, they all died because no one became intelligent enough to even lead them or enhance their living conditions.

We might have been gods, but we cannot do everything for them as that would just make them puppets. As if fate was against the life in our universe, they went extinct, and we became gods of an empty universe. Since we can no longer do any duties as gods, we decided to wander off in the vast cosmos and ended up here in Pandemonium.

We were greatly amazed by the intelligent life here that we instantly decided that we should reside here. I cannot remember how we managed to find this universe for some reason though as if something is blocking my memory." The Goddess of Protection Bastet stated as she pondered on how they found out about Pandemonium when it was hidden in a corner of the universe.

"I see. That is a very informative story. One last question from me though as I want to know more about this place. Do you know what the Void is?" Adrian asked as he cannot find any record of that place. Even the records of the Daemos hold nothing of the Void except it is a place of no escape.
