

O Summoner 1201

Chapter 1201 Catching The Sun I

Adrian has exactly thirty days in order to do what he needs to do and that is evolving Saena. Saena is currently in her second stage and has passed the level limit of evolving. The only thing missing is the thing that is needed to make her evolve.

Adrian knows that Saena's evolution path is that of a Simurgh. The requirements are also completed except for one. A requirement even Adrian does not know what to get as it is rather vague.

Simurgh Evolution Requirements:

1. Level 180 (Completed)
2. Heal 1, 000, 000 damage (Completed)
3. Master more than 10 types of Status Ailments (Completed)
4. Obtain the Power of a Sun (0 / 1)

"The last requirement is to obtain the power of a sun. I cannot go and fly towards the sun." Adrian muttered to himself as he then looked towards the sky above.

"Maybe I can." Adrian thought as he suddenly unfurled his wings.

Adrian literally flew towards the sun at an extreme speed to the point that he broke the atmosphere in about an hour. When he was already out in the atmosphere, he could feel a force pulling him back to the ground, but he easily brushed that off using his ability to affect gravity.

=====

When Adrian broke through the atmosphere, an alarm rang in the observation center of the main headquarters of Atlas Inc. The alarm stated Code: Sol as it is used to signify that a player has successfully attempted to break free from the main world's gravitational pull. All hands are on deck when it comes to this scenario as it would signify an abrupt turn of events should a player successfully enters the cosmos.

"Who was it that broke through the atmosphere? Was it the Arcane Mechanic player in the Gnome Kingdom? Or has someone unlocked the power of the Star Protectors?" The development director asked as he hurried to the viewing deck to see who triggered the alarm.

"Director, it was Equinox that broke through the atmosphere!" One of the observers stated.

(Authors Note: The observers are those that can monitor the game and wear the futuristic visors. I thought it would be good to have them get a title instead of worker.)

"What is that curious brat doing now? Give me an update on why he broke through the atmosphere. Do not tell me that it is just due to his curiosity or else I will fire you." The director stated but he really did not mean to fire the observer tasked with observing Adrian.

"Here to report Sir! It seems that he is attempting to make his soulbound called Saena evolve as I saw him view the evolution requirements earlier. It seems that one of the requirements to evolve his soulbound would be to obtain the power of a sun." The observer stated.

"That is one way to obtain the power of sun. He is a Daemos as well so he can harness energy directly from a source as long as he focuses. He is like Icarus that flew to the sun but unlike him, Equinox will not burn from being too close from it." The secretary of the development director stated as she assessed the situation.

Just like the secretary said, the Daemos are somewhat immune to the effects of heavenly bodies and Arch Demons will not burn if they get close to the sun. A greater demon might have burned upon getting close, but an Arch Demon can tolerate the heat to a great degree. Adrian also has Asmodian blood running in his veins then it would make him able to stand close to it.

"Will he succeed? If he succeeds, then Project Code: Sol will trigger and that would make all of you work overtime for three days straight." The development director stated as even he would work that much in a short amount of time.

"Do not worry director. There are still some guards left before he can reach the sun. They are the guardians made to ensure that no one gets close to the sun easily." One of the developers stated.

"You are correct! There is still that. Why did I not remember." The development director stated as he breathes a sigh of relief. He knows that Adrian will not be able to defeat that guardian with his current level.

====

"I already passed through the atmosphere and the pull of gravity no longer affects me. I should do this more often as it is quite pretty here in space." Adrian stated as he enjoyed the view of the stars and planets in the distance.

He could also see the main world, Nebulon, in its entirety and even he admits that it is incredibly huge. When he thinks that the main world is just a fragmented part of the old world, he can only see how small he really is as the current main world is the same size as Jupiter when compared. This information was even verified by Atlas Inc to be true which made the main world incredibly huge.

There are also smaller worlds where one could travel via portals hidden in the main world. The main world plus the vast number of small worlds makes exploring the game of Pandemonium very exciting as there are always new things to discover. This is why a vast number of players tend to just explore the world instead of fight in silly wars or fight against other players.

When the survey of players fighting for glory on the main world was done, they found out that only 55% of the players participate in the events of the main world. About 25% just do what they want like crafting and such. The last 20% of the majority players are those that explore the hidden worlds and mini worlds that Pandemonium has to offer.

In fact, exploring other worlds are more dangerous and deadly than just fighting in the main world. If these 20% of players were to actually just fight in the main world then they would definitely enter the high rankings. The only reason that they do not enter the rankings is due to the fact that they repeatedly die trying to explore.

"The sun is that way but is it really that easy to reach?" Adrian muttered to himself as he cannot believe that he will easily reach the sun.

Adrian used his powerful wings to push towards the direction of the sun. he is currently in his Aetheros form as he knows that a much more powerful body would be better to traverse the unknown universe than his Netheros Form that might have greater attack power but lower defense.

Adrian flew past a few dozen smaller planets in order to reach the gigantic burning star that is located far away from the main world. It took him two hours flying at full speed to reach about a quarter of the distance which led him to believe that it will take a day at most to reach the sun without break.

When Adrian is about to reach a third of the distance from his perception, a beam of energy suddenly targeted him that made him dodge using Enhanced Blink. The beam of energy is so large in area that it destroyed a huge chunk of a small planet. Adrian looked at the source of the beam of light and is horrified upon seeing the thing that greeted him.

The being looked like a golem made of white stone that is the shape of an eyeball. This giant eyeball is surrounded by halos made of light that seem to act as lenses when it launches beams of light. It is the size of a small planet, and it easily dwarfs Adrian's true form size. He might have mistaken it for a planet at first when he passed through it.

Name: First Guardian of the Sun

Tier: Mythical

Level: 400

Health: 100% / 100%

Mana: Infinite

Status: Blessing of the Sun Guardian

Description: A guardian made by an unknown group of gods to watch over the sun. It was made to make sure that no intelligent being will go towards the sun without enough power. Why was it made? Nobody knows but its prime directive is to destroy every being that attempts to reach the sun.

Buff: Blessing of the Sun Guardian

Effect:

- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will have infinite mana.
- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will get increased health regeneration by 500%.
- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will have 100% increased defenses.
- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will have 100% increased attack power.
- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will have 100% increased magical attack power.
- When shone by the rays of the sun, this being will have 100% increased stats.

"What the freak!" Adrian stated before he suddenly got evaporated by another beam of light that came out of the First Guardian of the Sun.

Chapter 1202 Catching The Sun II

A loud burst of cheers erupted in the observation room of the headquarters of Atlas Inc. As much as they like to watch Adrian or his attitude when he visited them, they do not want to work overtime. The fact that he died immediately from one attack from the First Sun Guardian made them almost cry for joy.

Despite the great monetary benefit from overtime, they still want to rest as much as possible. They lost quite a bit of sleep from Adrian due to him months ago and they do not want to experience that again. They actually held their breaths when Adrian encountered the First Guardian of the Sun.

Even though they knew that Adrian will never win against the powerful enemy, they do not want to cling to hope that easily. They have already seen instances where Adrian could turn the tide of the situation with his quick thinking. They prayed that he would get defeated immediately as rest is their only wish when times are tough.

"But is the First Guardian of the Sun supposed to be that powerful? From the buffs that it has, it already rivals an enemy that is a hundred levels above it." The secretary of the development director asked.

"That is actually intended because it is still too early for the Project Code: Sol to actually commence. This is the layers of extra protection that we have intended to do as prevention for unwanted circumstances." One of the members of the development team stated.

"You see, in Pandemonium... The Sun is not just a sun. What do you think will happen is something happens to the sun of a universe? Also, you have seen the world of Niflheim, right? Why do you think that only small worlds could hold prison to gods? Do you think the sun cannot be used as such as well?" The development director stated as the Project Code: Sol is the project that he developed with immense detail.

The development director himself coded every scenario possible for Project Code: Sol as he was always fascinated by the sun. He actually dreamed to reach the sun when he was a child but even the advancement of technology cannot withstand its might in the real world. He made sure that he can make his fantasies come alive in Pandemonium at least.

"Nevertheless, it is still too early to unlock Project Code: Sol. Everyone! Monitor that every guardian of the sun is doing their duties properly and see to it that the Star Protectors quest is looked into. Also, what is the Arcane Mechanic player doing right now?" The development director stated.

"Currently, no one has unlocked the Star Protector quest line." The observer for that quest line stated.

"As for the Arcane Mechanic, she has yet to get the skill to form powerful Arcana Technology which is why we will be safe for at least one more year." The observers for the player with the job class of Arcane Mechanic stated.

====

[You have died from the attack of the First Guardian of the Sun.]

[You cannot revive in your death location due to several restrictions.]

[You will be revived back to Avalon.]

[Do you wish to revive or go to Limbo for the death respawn?]

"I shall revive immediately in Avalon." Adrian stated as he did not expect that he cannot revive in space.

Adrian respawned immediately back in Avalon with a frown on his face. He did not expect that a monster such as the First Guardian of the Sun will be present. That level 400 monster did not even have stats for its level because it could easily kill anything below level 500 by his estimation.

"Reaching the real sun is a pipe dream. I can try again but it was just the first guardian. How many more guardians will there be if I manage to sneak pass the first one? I have no time to experiment and find out.

One month is the time limit to become stronger or else I might forfeit Avalon. I might be able to scrape a similar number of resources, so I do not forfeit my territory. I do not intend to lose the guild war as it is the first. We must win in order to send a message to anyone that dares to use such a thing towards us." Adrian muttered to himself.

Adrian does not want to lose or forfeit the guild war that is pushed on them. He wants to send anyone that wants to challenge their guild a message. He wants to win in such an overwhelming manner that will make the others cower just trying to think of ever facing them.

If he does not do so, then the stream of challenges will become endless. He must send a firm message saying that you will stand no chance even with an advantage in numbers. As the guild master, he must become an extremely tall pillar that will overshadow his opponents. A pillar so tall that it would make anyone see it immediately feel nauseated just from looking how high it is.

"What seems to be the problem, Champion Equinox? It seems that you have been in deep thought for such a long time already." A voice that is sent via telepathy stated.

Adrian looked back to the source of the voice and saw the Tree of Life and Death swaying its branches as it was playing with the Prophets of Life and Death. Vitae and Mortem could be seen enjoying the company of the Tree of Life and Death. They did not bother Adrian because he was deep in thought earlier despite wanting to play with him.

"I just want to become stronger to protect what I have built. There are many people eyeing for everything that I have created as they can easily snatch it should I fall." Adrian stated.

"If that is what is causing you to overthink then I guess I should remind you what I liked about you." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

Chapter 1203 Catching The Sun III

"What...you liked about me? Did you not just bless us with your protection because we were the first mortals that arrived in Paraiso." Adrian stated as that is what he thought is the reason.

"You should know that is just part of the reason. Even being the Champion of the Twin Gods was not even a part of the reason that I blessed you two. The reason for me blessing you is your strong will and desire.

As the tree of life and death, I represent both the start of life and the end of life. A strong-willed individual that represents a newborn's will to live its starting years or someone that fearlessly embraces death in their last moments of life. Both you and your best friend are like that which is why I liked the both of you." The Tree of Life and Death stated.

If Adrian and Levin Cloud did not show such strong and powerful wills during their starting gameplay, then they might not have gotten the ability to revive. They were just two curious individuals that happened to get to Paraiso and would have been a passing thought to the Tree of Life and Death.

Adrian unknowingly smiled when he heard what the Tree of Life and Death stated. It was Yewdrassil's way of telling him that giving up is not in his vocabulary or to not let his initial failure to deter him from greatness. In the end, only those that pursue their goals to the end will reach it.

"Thanks for the pep talk but I still need the energy of a sun. Where will I find them when the Sun Gods are practically either dead or sealed." Adrian thought as he has never seen a Church of the Sun.

"Why do you need the energy of a sun?" The Tree of Life and Death asked.

"I need it for Saena's evolution. She needs it to turn into a Simurgh." Adrian replied.

"No wonder you need such great power. Saena will actually turn into a Holy Beast should you be successful in evolving her. There are very few Holy Beasts that could utilize the power of the sun as they also died when the sun gods vanished or were sealed.

From what I know, there is a Sun God that managed to pass on his blood to mortals. He was a famed Sun God in the west and he would sometimes descend to the mortal plane to experience love. Some gods are actually very lonely in their divine realms.

Only Gaea could ever bear the thought of being by herself. That old hag has her brother which is why she passes the time by tormenting him." The Tree of Life and Death stated when a plant suddenly grew in front of it that looked like a hand.

The plant that looked like a hand suddenly slapped the Tree of Life and Death which shook it greatly. It even made Avalon shook a little which shocked Adrian. He never thought that the divine punishment for the Goddess of Life Gaea would be being slapped by a plant to death.

"I did not think that she was listening in this conversation. Hehe! It is still not enough though as I am older than both of them anyways. This old being will not fall for your teasing, but I did not mean hag in a degrading sense but in an endearing sense." The Tree of Life and Death stated but Adrian just looked at it with judging eyes of trying to pacify someone.

"Not my lush leaves! Take that pruner away from me! Sorry about this, Champion Equinox. I will be currently quiet here for a moment as I need to focus my attention elsewhere. For clues about Sun Energy, you should consult the gods of the west continent. You already have a big favor from one of them so you should do that. Not my golden branch!" The Tree of Life and Death stated as its body in Avalon suddenly turned quiet after his statement.

"Aww! Yewwie already left even though it was playing with us." Vitae stated as she pouted.

"It cannot be helped sister. It seems that Yewwie has urgent things to settle in Paraiso. This is why you should never badmouth anyone as you might not be sure that they are listening in on the conversation." Mortem stated.

"I think you guys should not badmouth anyone in general as good kids never do that." Adrian stated as he does not want the two to grow up as rowdy individuals.

"But Uncle Pann said that you are a very naughty child though." Vitae stated.

"He said that you often play pranks on others." Mortem stated.

"Old man Pann was just joking with you guys as he is just upset that I do not visit him often. Anyways, both of you should go to the elders for your lessons. It seems that Ywedrassil will be away for quite a while." Adrian stated.

"We are already getting bored with studying." Mortem stated.

"Why not let us come with you, Big Brother Equinox? I am sure that the place that you will go to will be fun. We want to explore the world as well, but the elders are a bit strict." Vitae stated with excitement as she is the energizer of the two siblings.

Vitae is like a ball of energy while Mortem tends to be more reserved. Although Adrian could see that Mortem's eyes are expressing his excitement as well, but his quiet attitude pacified it to some extent. The fact that they are now young teenagers means that they are curious about everything and want some individual freedom to some extent.

"Let me see what I can do for that. Do not expect that you will be granted permission though. I will go to the western continent so they might not necessarily be keen on the idea." Adrian stated.

....

"Sure." Elder Willow stated.

"What!?" Adrian exclaimed in a shocked manner.

Chapter 1204 Life And Death Party

Adrian went to the elders of the Church of the Twin Gods with Vitae and Mortem to get their permission. In fact, he already knew that they will definitely not give their permission with the two prophets leaving. He just wanted to try and get their permission so that Vitae and Mortem will not hate him when he does not bring them along.

He prepared the perfect speech and even matched it with a tone of being apathetic. He has upgraded his acting skills to a degree where you will not cringe upon seeing it. His acting is not bad, but it was not good either as it is only in his head that it is good.

"Which is why it brings me to have you give me permission to bring Vitae and Mortem to my short trip to the west." Adrian stated as he already prepared to act dejected when the elders of the Church of the Twin Gods reject him.

"Sure." Elder Willow stated after looking at the other elders nodding. Adrian thought that the nod was actually them saying to softly reject Adrian, but it was actually them agreeing with his request.

"What?!" Adrian shouted and then he coughed to reorganize his emotions.

"I mean really?" Adrian followed up in a slightly higher pitch as he could not believe.

"I think the Prophets of the Twin Gods are in need of seeing some parts of the world. I mean, we cannot let them be confined here in Avalon forever despite them interacting with other people from other areas. They must see the world in order to see what they can do better as the Prophets of Life and Death.

One of the teachings of the Church of the Twin Gods is to 'Live your life to the fullest so that you can die peacefully when your time comes'. We believe that you will be able to show them the world without getting the attention of other prophets that are alive. Let them explore the world even for a little bit." Elder Willow stated with a smile that made Vitae and Mortem warm inside.

Vitae and Mortem smiled due to the warm words of Elder Willow as they always thought that they will be confined in Avalon forever. It is not that they think Avalon is boring, but they are also curious of the world for anyone their age. They wanted to experience the world just as they are told by the Daemos Corps that they often ask stories for.

[You have gained permission from the elders of the Church of the Twin Gods.]

[The Prophet of Life, Vitae, has joined your party.]

[The Prophet of Death, Mortem, has joined your party.]

[A synergistic effect has been triggered because the Champion of the Twin Gods has partied up with the Prophet of Life and the Prophet of Death.]

[All spells relating to Life Magic will decrease in cooldown by 20% for all party members.]

[All spells relating to Life Magic will decrease in mana cost by 20% for all party members.]

[All spells relating to Death Magic will decrease in cooldown by 20% for all party members.]

[All spells relating to Death Magic will decrease in mana cost by 20% for all party members.]

[All party members will have increased stats by 30%. (10% increase per important religion figures)]

[You Aether Energy and Nether Energy will have 50% increased effects and potency.]

When Adrian saw the increase in stats and everything else, he always fainted from the sheer greatness of the buffs. He might not be able to use spells using Life and Death Energy, but Vitae and Mortem can. They are what you call supports on steroids as they can perform all spells of Life and Death magic.

"Thank you. I bet the two are very elated to be able to get permission. They were very excited when they told me that they want to accompany me. I was a bit hesitant at first because we needed your permission, but I can now rest easy.

I will do my best in protecting them while they are with me. We shall return with haste after looking into the thing in the western continent that I need to look for. We shall now head out." Adrian stated as he took both Vitae and Mortem with him out the church headquarters.

"Do not hurry as you know that haste makes waste. Take your time so that they can see the world in great detail." Elder Willow stated.

"I will make sure to utilize them well. I bet I can even defeat an enemy a hundred levels above me with their support. Hehe." Adrian thought while leaving.

When the three left, Elder Willow tiptoed to the door and looked to see if they really left. He gave a signal to all the elders, and they started to jump for joy. They could be seen having a victory dance celebration as if they won the lottery or something.

"Finally! Those two are getting looked out for by someone else. I can finally rest and sleep when I am tired." A dark elf elder stated.

"Those two are such a piece of work when they grew up. They became slightly mischievous that my old bones started to become weary." A wood elf elder stated as a tear rolled down her face.

"I think my back just straightened itself when they left. It is a good thing that Equinox took them as they are rather attached to him and follows his words well." A dark elf elder stated.

"I actually liked the time when Equinox was so free and plays with them but that lessened because of the chaos happening in the world. Those three hours of peace and relaxation were like heaven to me." A wood elf elder stated and all of them nodded their heads in agreement.

"It was a good thing that we kept calm when Equinox said that he wants to join him. I almost involuntarily moved in to hug him from happiness." A dark elf elder stated and everyone agreed with him as well.

"It was a good thing that Elder Willow managed to keep calm or else I would have burst from joy." A wood elf elder stated.

Elder Willow was currently not looking at them as his face looks funny from his incredible happiness. He has never had a break from taking care of the prophets or any time for himself as the two often goes to him. If it not for his soft heart for the two, then he would have ignored them. He then corrected his face with a serious expression as he looked at the other elders.

If one actually looked at the Elders of the Church of the Twin Gods, then they can say that they look tired. If they were not elves, then they would have visibly aged by now. They would die for Vitae and Mortem but even they need to rest from raising them.

They cannot say no to them because they have a soft spot in their heart for them. One could say that Vitae and Mortem are rather spoiled by the elders of the church of the Twin Gods. This also shaped the two's rather spoiled and mischievous attitude.

"Deth" Elder Willow stated as a dark elf suddenly manifested from black smoke.

"Yes, Elder Willow." Deth replied.

"Make sure that the Silent Death Order follow the Champion and the Two Prophets closely but make sure that you are not detected. Intervene to save the two prophets when you think that the Champion cannot deal with his opponents. Ask a Daemos Corps member to also be your means of transport as well since this involves the safety of the two." Elder Willow commanded.

"As the elder wishes. We shall gladly throw offer our lives to make sure that the two prophets are safe." Deth stated as he vanished.

The Church of the Twin Gods have two powerful orders that are responsible for the protection of every key individual. The two groups are the Strident Life Order and the Silent Death Order. The Strident Life Order protects the Church of the Twin Gods actively and in the eyes of the public while the Silent Death Order does the opposite.

The Strident Life Order is headed by a female wood elf named Leif. She was the student of the General of the Elven Guards back then. She is also voted as one of the most beautiful NPCs by the players as she is often seen patrolling Avalon. Unlike wood elves that uses the bow, she uses a vine whip as her main weapon.

The Silent Death Order is led by a male dark elf named Deth. He is the son of the previous great warrior of the dark elves. He wields two sickles that can inflict the enemy with instant death. He is very devout to the two prophets as they often call him Cool Uncle.

Chapter 1205 Find A Sun I

Adrian brought Vitae and Mortem with him to the western continent. The first location that they visited is the Temple of Bastet as he could just ask the High Priestess Estet to call upon the Goddess of Protection Bastet. When Adrian along with Vitae and Mortem arrived at the city below, the two young teens could be seen very curious of the world outside.

"This place is full of cute cats!" Vitae stated as she could feel the bustling life of this city.

"The air here is also full of the scent of death, but it comes from the other side of that mountain." Mortem stated as he looked at the mountain range where the Great Gorge is located.

Adrian then explained to them what this place is and why they came here. He needed to talk with the Goddess Bastet to ask about the Sun God. He would have gone to the Temple of Storm but that is on the other side of the Temple of Bastet.

"I see. I actually saw that beautiful goddess when she was in Avalon, but the elders told us to not talk with her." Vitae stated.

"They were wary of her because she was not really allied with the Twin Gods nor their enemy. Also, the elders were afraid that they could force convert us to become their prophets." Mortem stated.

"You two really do synergize a lot. I guess twins really do have a special connection. I will be here to protect you anyways. Also, I am not really alone in that endeavor." Adrian stated but he whispered the last sentence to himself.

Adrian could feel the presence of the Silent Death Order as they give off a specific death energy signature. He always feels this death energy signature when he plays with Vitae and Mortem. He has also been introduced to the Silent Death Order when the Church of the Twin Gods was reformed.

"Are both of you done sightseeing? We should head to the temple at the top of the mountain now." Adrian stated as he teleported to the temple entrance with Vitae and Mortem.

"I mean...why did you even ask us when you would just teleport us here?" Vitae and Mortem stated unanimously which made Adrian chuckle a bit.

"Champion Equinox! We are pleased to meet you once more!" One of the golden warriors stated as he could remember Adrian's face.

"I am here to speak with the High Priestess Estet. Can you tell her that I seek an audience?" Adrian asked but he suddenly heard footsteps coming from the inside.

"Move away!" A familiar female voice stated as she forcefully went outside the temple.

The female voice came from the High Priestess Estet herself as she looked like she was in a hurry. The reason for her current state is due to the fact that she sensed powerful fluctuations of life and death energy in the city below. As she was going to investigate, the powerful fluctuations suddenly shifted to the entrance of the temple along with a familiar energy signature.

"Champion Equinox! Welcome! May I ask what brings you here? I hope you are not here to declare holy war or something." The High Priestess Estet stated as she fears the latter.

"Holy War? Why would I do that?" Adrian replied but then the High Priestess Estet looked at Vitae and Mortem with worry.

"If you mean them then we are just going out for a stroll. Those two are the Prophet of Life Vitae and the Prophet of Death Mortem. They wanted to see the outside world as they are often just in Avalon." Adrian stated which made the High Priestess Estet sigh with relief.

"I see. Thank the goddess. Come inside then as we should not let prophets wait outside of our temple as that is discourteous. Everyone! Prepare the finest refreshments to present to them!" The High Priestess Estet shouted with authority.

"No alcohol as they are still underage." Adrian stated as they entered the finest waiting room in the temple.

Adrian marveled at the beautiful room inside the mountain as the roof is made of glass that lets natural sunlight shine inside. There are also flowers and berries planted inside as it is an indoor garden. Vitae liked the room very much as she could feel that life is being cared for. The refreshments are also served immediately when they entered the room.

"Why did you think that we will declare Holy War?" Adrian asked as he does not know the basis of this Holy War as it might have escaped his mind when the elders of the church was telling him.

"Holy War is when a prophet of a god comes to the temples of other gods to demand blood. Only prophets could declare them as even I an avatar of the Goddess Bastet cannot do so. This is the reason why prophets are very important people as they are able to influence the world.

The losing force in the Holy War will have the god or goddess they serve be an underling of the god or goddess that wins. The followers of the losing god or goddess would also need to pray to the winning god or goddess." The High Priestess Estet stated.

The High Priestess Estet feared the issuance of a Holy War when she recognized two prophets in the temple doorstep. To make matters worse, they were prophets of Primordial Gods and that would leave them utterly defeated should they clash. The stronger the gods then the more power they could grant their believers.

"Do not worry because I only brought them to sightsee. What I really need to get is details about the Sun God that you said was your leader or any Sun God for that matter. I need Solar Energy to evolve one of my soulbounds. I have an upcoming fight against people that want to take my territory and I need to become strong enough to trample them on my own." Adrian stated

Chapter 1206 Find A Sun II

"We have many beings in our group that have Solar Energy but there is only one that truly controls the Sun. He also has many names depending on the time of day he is worshipped. He is called Ra-Horakhty when the morning sun is in the sky, Amun Ra when the noonday sun is at its peak, and Atum Ra when the evening sun sets.

We often just call him Sun God Ra when speaking of him and he is the father of the western continent gods. He was our light that shined the way, and it was his boat, the Mandjet, that ferried the western gods to this universe. He even created the divine realm of Heliopolis, but the western gods cannot enter it with him gone.

As you know it is the God Seth, is currently the one operating the Mandjet to make sure that sun rises and falls accordingly. He is also the current god that is fighting against the Distorted God Apophis. We do not know what really happened to him, but the Oracle Sisters said that he split into four." The High Priestess Estet stated.

"So, no solar energy for me then?" Adrian stated as he suddenly felt dejected.

"If it is only Solar Energy that the Champion Equinox wants then there is an easier solution. You must kill Desert Sun Beetles as they collect the energy of the sun in their cores. They are the creations of one of the Sun God called Khepri." The High Priestess Estet stated.

"Can I just not ask from the Temple of Khepri or something for the energy?" Adrian asked as that might be easier, but the High Priestess Estet suddenly frowned as she remembered an unpleasant memory.

"The Sun God Khepri is no longer giving blessings because he was killed back then when the angels attacked all gods that have relation to any source of light. If the Sun God Ra did not get killed by the Distorted Gods in the Great War of the Gods back, then he would have defeated the Goddess of Light Luminaria.

We would also not have been weakened to this extent as he was the one that made the western continent flourish. He was also said to be a creator god which is why he had life energy magic at his disposal as well but that is yet to be confirmed. Records of the Sun God Ra have vanished as the angels burned his temples to ashes." The High Priestess Estet stated.

"It seems that the angels really needed that punishment. Why were they not killed but were sealed instead?" Adrian asked.

"Even we do not know but things were chaotic back then as the Asmodians were also gone at that point. There was no longer a governing body that looked over the scales. The Daemos were too busy sealing the cracks of the dimension to focus on everything." The High Priestess Estet stated which suddenly made the room gloomy.

"Anyways, thank you for the hospitality. One last thing that I need to ask of you is where can we find the Desert Sun Beetles. They do not happen to just be lying around in a certain place at this time of the year, right?" Adrian asked.

"Coincidentally, they actually are as this is the time of the year where the sun hangs longer during the day. They can be seen further northeast from the Great Gorge as they are in the Burning Sun Sand Dunes. Let me guide you to the Great Gorge as I want to send you off." The High Priestess Estet stated.

"Thank you for your hospitality. Do come visit us as well when you have the time and know that we shall come help if the Temple of Bastet needs it." Adrian stated which made the High Priestess Estet somewhat happy as this is a promise from a Champion himself.

When Adrian and the High Priestess Estet were talking, Vitae heard the voice of the Goddess Gaea whisper in her ear. She smiled and did what the goddess told her to do. She took out a seed from one of the plants in the garden and planted it on the ground.

She then sprinkled something from her hand which suddenly made the seed grow immediately. A lush bush of purple Anemone sprouted in the garden. Her life energy also revitalized the other flowers around them which made them look healthier.

"A gift for your hospitality to us. May the Anemone grant you protection as all of you grant protection to others." Vitae stated which made the High Priestess Estet bow in front of Vitae.

"Thank you for the wonderful gift, Prophet Vitae. We will make sure to cherish the gift." The High Priestess Estet stated.

====

"That should be a great gift to those very kind children of Bastet. I hope that she finds peace with my gift." The Goddess Gaea stated.

"Why not just admit that you are lonely when your brother is out, and you need a friend? It is not like you cannot interact with other gods. Why not find a partner like your brother? I bet the other gods would be dying to crawl beneath your feet as you crush them with it.

You always had that tendency anyways. It is not always a god anyways as you could also make do with a goddess. You people are not really limited to what you look like unlike the mortals that you have created." Yewdrassil retorted as some of its branches could be seen trimmed.

"Maybe I went a little too easy on the trimming. A little more to this side should do the trick." The Goddess Gaea stated as she took up the giant pruning shears and motioned a snip.

"No! No more! I will go bald at this rate! I was just giving you sound advice." The scream of Yewdrassil could be heard in Paraiso but no other being could hear the cries for help. One thing that the mortals did notice is that the fruits on that day were very bitter for some odd reason.

Chapter 1207 Find A Sun III

Adrian with Vitae and Mortem were escorted to the entrance of the Great Gorge. The High Priestess Estet wanted to come with them, but she cannot leave the temple without notifying the other elders. She would have wanted to see prophets in action as it is said that they are people that could bend the respective energy to their will.

"The Burning Sun Sand Dunes should be at the northwest as the High Priestess Estet stated." Adrian stated but he noticed that the two were rather hot in their clothes.

The clothes of the two might have been woven with special silk that was from gold silkworms which is raised by the wood elves, but it is very hot in the western continent. If Adrian was not a demon, then even he will feel its effects. Seeing that the two are feeling the scorch of the sun, he decided to use Kanlaon even though he would be rather eye-catching.

"Let us fly there instead of walking. It would be easier to do so than walking on the scorching desert sands." Adrian stated as he summoned Kanlaon.

The two are already familiar with Adrian's soulbounds as they often play with them since all of them can roam Adrian's territory. In fact, Adrian also wants to win the guild war as he could finally increase the land area of Avalon with the resources that he will win.

When Vitae and Mortem rode on Kanlaon's back, they could feel a refreshing temperature that cooled the heat from their bodies. They even laid down on his back to feel such refreshing coolness to which Kanlaon smiled. Kanlaon even used the Ice Dragon Ball to create small snowflakes to drop down on their faces.

"To the northeast of the Great Gorge, Kanlaon!" Adrian stated and Kanlaon soared through the desert sky.

In terms of danger, the desert sky would be the least dangerous area of the danger zone known as the Ceaseless Desert. There are not many monsters that can thrive in the harsh skies of the Ceaseless Desert. The monsters of the Ceaseless Desert often use the sands as their way to catch prey which is why no flying monster perfectly adapted to this danger zone.

Another reason why no flying monster adapted to this danger zone is the appearance of sandstorms. The sandstorms in the Ceaseless Desert make it impossible for monsters that have wings to take flight as the harsh winds of the sandstorms carry sharp sand. The only possible way for flying monsters to take flight in these harsh desert lands is when they can control the sands themselves.

The High Priestess Estet described the Burning Sun Sand Dunes as mounds of sand that turned orange due to the heat of the sun. Even other desert monsters stay away from these sand dunes because of the intense heat emanating from them as they can actually store heat for long periods of time. Only the Desert Sun Beetles love this area which is why they can be found here when periods of heat are present.

Seeing that no monster dared to attack them or could attack them, the group reached the Burning Sun Sand Dunes with ease. The only thing that Adrian did not like upon their arrival is the empty sand dunes. He could not see even one Desert Sun Beetle in the area.

"Where are they?" Adrian muttered which also made the twins curious.

"I can actually sense their life force although it is very vague." Vitae stated which made Adrian glad that he brought them.

The Prophet of Life can detect any forms of life as long as they have the breath of life. She is like the perfect detector for hidden beings. It also makes her difficult to assassinate as she could feel the life force of any living being near or far from her.

"This place also reeks of the stench of death. I can smell their burning corpses from here which is not a pleasant smell." Mortem stated as he started fanning his nose.

The Prophet of Death can detect any source of death via his senses. He would even feel if a being's death were coming as he has this secret sense that tells if another's life is in danger. He is also a person that is not easy to capture as he could detect a place's malice or if any being died with resentment in the area.

"Where can you detect the life forces?" Adrian asked as even he can detect life energy, but it seems he is not as well versed as Vitae.

"They are burrowed in the sands. I can accurately tell you the location, but it would be easier to wake them up. It seems they are hibernating which made them very difficult to locate even for me. Brother, let us take them out. It would be very cool for Big Brother Equinox to see what we have learned." Vitae stated as she suddenly became excited.

"I am with you, my sister." Mortem stated in a rather pumped voice despite his face not being very excited.

The two then prepared to take out the weapons that they were blessed with by the Twin Gods. Vitae pulled her right sleeve and showed the special wristband in her hands. It was made using vines and different flowers. Mortem, on the other hand, pulled up his left sleeve which revealed a bracelet made of bones and a small skull.

"La Vida!" Vitae stated.

"La Morte!" Mortem stated.

When the two said the activation words, the bracelets on their respective hands started to accumulate powerful torrents of energy. Vitae's bracelet bloomed as the flowers and vines started to entwine with one another as a shield made of fauna and flora is created. Adrian remembers this shield as this is Gaea's weapon. Mortem's bracelet glowed in an eerie pale gray light that sucked the coldness of the area. It then transformed into a claymore that pulsated with the energy of death.

Chapter 1208 Find A Sun IV

Adrian knows these weapons as these are similar to the holy weapons that was summoned when the Twin Gods possessed his body with Levin Cloud. The weapons are definitely similar as they give off the same vibe and energy. The only difference is that these ones do not give pure divine energy as it must have been limited to what the twins can manipulate.

"The Shield of Life, Scutae!" Vitae stated as she caressed the shield.

"The Sword of Death, Mortius!" Mortem stated as he gently swung the sword to get a good feel of it.

"Master, those are Transcendent tier weapons." The Cube of Paradox suddenly stated.

When Adrian heard what the Cube of Paradox said, his heart skipped a beat. He now knows why the elders of the church was very confident that the two can handle themselves. The fact that they can wield Transcendent tier weapons already made them difficult to kill even for a demigod.

"If master wants a me to become a cool looking weapon as well then you must feed me great things." The Cube of Paradox stated.

Adrian thought that a hint of jealousy was mixed in with the Cube of Paradox' comment. He thought that he was just thinking things as the Cube of Paradox replied in a robot-like voice. Even if the Cube of Paradox did not tell him, Adrian's agenda of turning the Cube of Paradox into a Transcendent tier or equal to power as one is already in his agenda.

"I shall mark them, brother. Attack the locations that I will mark." Vitae stated as she tapped her shield and the flowers on it started to spew out seeds.

The seeds that the shield spewed out then planted itself firmly on the sand and bloomed. The fact that such flowers could grow and bloom in a very hot desert environment meant that it used the life force of the ones hiding below the ground as nourishment. About ten different areas were marked by flowers that looked very close to sunflowers except for the fact that the petals are made of flames.

"Death Sword Tempest!" Mortem stated as a powerful torrent of death energy is sucked inside his blade.

When the death energy was sucked, the Sword of Death Mortius suddenly multiplied in number. Ten copies of the sword could be seen flying on the sky. Adrian looked at each sword and could not believe that each sword possesses the power of the original.

"So, this is the true power of a Transcendent tier weapon!" Adrian muttered in awe as the swords were not merely flawed copies but perfect copies of the original.

With a downward swipe of his sword, Mortem made the other ten swords come crashing down from the sky. Each sword is perfectly moving to the path of their marked targets. When the flowers made of life energy and the swords made of death energy collided, ten powerful bursts of energy resounded in the area which made ten powerful explosions.

Smoke and sand did not impede their vision as Kanlaon merely blew that away with his Wind Dragon Ball. Adrian saw the ten craters that Vitae and Mortem did together, and he was terrified with that power. It felt like a smaller scale version of Void Demolition that both he and Levin Cloud could do.

"They are terrifying to fight against." Adrian thought to himself as he could see the great damage that the two created.

"We were not able to kill them, brother. Here I thought that we could look cool in front of Big Brother Equinox." Vitae stated as she lamented that they were not able to kill the monsters burrowed in the sands.

"It is not your fault, sister. It seems they have the protection of a larger monster. I also felt some sort of resistance when our two energies collided." Mortem stated as he consoled Vitae.

The ten monsters burrowed in the sand started to rise up as they were disturbed in their time of rest. About nine Desert Sun Beetles emerged from the sands and their health bars are already in the red zone. All of the Desert Sun Beetles were level 270 which is higher in level than each of them, but the attack of the twins reduced each one to 20% or below.

Loud cries are suddenly heard from the Desert Sun Beetles as they rose up in anger. They were leisurely eating their fill of solar energy when something attacked them. A louder cry suddenly filled the area as the largest sand dune that was hit suddenly started shaking.

The sand dune is as big as a small mountain which is vastly different from the Desert Sun Beetles that are the size of small hills. From the largest sand dune, a monster that looks like an evolved version of the Desert Sun Beetle came out. It was massive and radiated a powerful heat that made people feel they are near a sun when face to face with it.

Monster Name: Fauxpri

Monster Species: Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle

Title: Emperor of the Sun Beetles, Sun Beetle God Successor Candidate

Tier: Mythical

Level: 300

HP: 50% / 100%

MP: 73% / 100%

Status: Agitated, Gathering Solar Energy (Evolution halted)

Description: A Desert Sun Beetle that managed to evolve into a fearsome monarch of its own kind. It is in the process of evolving when it was attacked by a powerful spell which made it lose its progress. It radiates solar energy that creates a protective shell around it and other Desert Sun Beetles around it.

"We actually interrupted its evolution to a higher being." Adrian muttered.

"It would not have succeeded anyways, big brother. I can see that it was destined for death as it would fail if it tried to evolve." Mortem stated as he could see the stench of death from the monster below them.

The stench of death that Mortem smelled earlier was also that of Fauxpri as it would have died or on the road to death since it will fail in its evolution. If they did not attack, then the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle would have died and scattered its solar energy along with it.

Chapter 1209 Find A Sun V

"It should actually not be mad at us because we saved its life just now. Then again, I did come here to kill it." Adrian stated as he prepared for battle.

"Perfect Assimilation: Kimat"

"Greater Summon: Sirius"

"Greater Summon: Saena"

"Primordial Armament: Axe"

Adrian immediately went to work as he knows that the enemy monsters will not stay idle on the sands below. Vitae and Mortem will be safe on top of Kanlaon but that also means that they will have little interaction with the ground. He does not want to endanger them in environments that they have yet to fight on.

"Sirius, use Nether Rush and kill off any enemy that is low on health."

"Saena, apply all the poisons that you have gathered in your stomach against the monsters."

"Kanlaon, use Elemental Apocalypse."

[You have perfectly fused with your soulbound Kimat.]

[You have temporarily gained the skill Metallic Body.]

[You have temporarily gained the skill Silver Thunder Armor]

Adrian gave commands to his soulbounds as his body turned into a demon tiger hybrid. He found it a bit unlucky that he did not get the Metallic Copy skill as that would enable him to become two beings but the skills, he got has perfect synergy. He is basically the tank that the team needs but he is also a damage dealer.

"Use Silver Thunder Armor." Adrian stated as lightning suddenly came crackling from the sky and hit his body.

The lightning is then forged into steel that covered Adrian's body as his usual black armor is covered by a silver heavier armor. Adrian looked like a definite monster of epic proportions which made Mortem's eyes glow as he also like things like that. Adrian looked like a demon tiger general fighting against invading monsters.

Saena dispersed the poisons that brewed inside her body as she was commanded. The poisonous wind that she dispersed did not entirely affect the enemies as they have the power of the sun in their bodies. The poison did make them weaker but the solar energy in their body burned the potency of the poison.

Saena might have been discouraged by this as Adrian could see that she is trying her hardest to make sure that she becomes useful. Adrian noticed this in the fights that he summons Saena and he could also feel it in their soul link that she feels that she is becoming useless. Saena's wish for power resonated with Adrian which is why he is actively looking for a way for her to evolve.

Sirius did not waste the effort that Saena did by weakening the enemies as he immediately used Nether Rush. Sirius turned into Nether Mist and damaged all the enemies with his fangs and claws. It would have been easy, but the armor beetles are known for their tough defenses. Sun Beetles even have magical defense which makes them better than ordinary armored beetles.

A sort of solar aura is also radiating from Fauxpri that gives the Desert Sun Beetles a protective layer that makes them more difficult to kill. Sirius would even get hurt just because he would attack this barrier, but Vitae easily healed him back to full health as if it was nothing. Along with Saena's healing as well, the team could be said to be immortal at this point.

Mortem was told to not go down the sands as there might be other monsters lurking below that could suddenly pull him down. He would just use curses and sword energy waves using death energy to give cover fire to Sirius.

"It is time for me to go down then. Make sure that they are safe, Kanlaon." Adrian stated as he unfurled his wings and flew higher into the sky.

"Chrono Shift"

"Gravity Control"

"Earth Splitter"

Adrian used Chrono Shift to make his upward motion faster in order to gather momentum. He then cut it off by applying Gravity Control on himself to make sure that he gets pulled down by gravity at a rate of one hundred times. He then finished off his combo by using the Earth Splitter skill of the axe while consuming all Primordial Essence and Nether Energy in his attack.

He came crashing down at an unbelievable speed that he looked like a small meteor coming down. Fauxpri noticed this and tried burying away into the sand, but Sirius has locked it in its place using the shadows. Sirius also summoned Yuki to help him make sure that the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle does not escape by freezing the sands despite it being hot.

The ice that Yuki created using foxfire is different as it absorbs heat which made the ice stronger, but it still melts easily. The radiated solar energy of the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle made it difficult for the ice to maintain its shape but a small fragment of a second is all Adrian needs. With a powerful explosion, Adrian crashed onto the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle and even broke its outer carapace.

Adrian's Silver Thunder Armor also disappeared as that is what cushioned his clash with Fauxpri. The Silver Thunder Armor exploded into pieces the moment Adrian made contact with Fauxpri as it could no longer take the explosive force that Adrian created by dive bombing the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle.

[You have destroyed a part of the outer carapace of Fauxpri.]

[Fauxpri's defenses will be lowered by 10%.]

Fauxpri wailed in agony as 10% of its health is suddenly shaved off while its defenses suddenly weakened. Fauxpri tried to shake Adrian of its body, but the latter needed to pull his axe that is still stuck on the back of the Desert Sun Pharoah. Adrian looked up at the skies above and could see that all the dragon balls are done charging up the needed energy.

Adrian used all of his strength and willpower to pull out the axe and blinked away from the spot. He then tagged every Desert Sun Beetle for the Quantum Cascade spell before escaping the area. Sirius brought Yuki to the shadow realm while Saena flew up high to where Adrian appeared.

Adrian then used his remaining mana for Gravity Control as he attempted to lift all the monsters above the sand. He does not want them to suddenly burrow away but the strain on his face could be seen. Vitae and Mortem knew that Adrian was having difficulty which is why they made sure to help him.

"Gaea's Grace!"

"Abaddon's Glare!"

Vitae used Gaea's Grace which is a Mythical Tier Spell that only high-ranking members of the Church of the Twin Gods Life Order can use. A silhouette of the Goddess Gaea could be seen manifesting and then embracing Adrian and his soulbounds as they are blessed with buffs.

Mortem used Abaddon's Glare which is also a Mythical Tier Spell that only high-ranking members of the Church of the Twin Gods Death Order can use. A silhouette of the God Abaddon could be seen manifesting and then looking at the enemies below with his eyes that give off death itself.

[You have been affected by Gaea's Grace.]

[You received 100% health regeneration for 10 minutes.]

[You have received 300% mana regeneration for 10 minutes.]

[All status ailments and status reductions have been cleansed.]

[Your stamina is fully recovered.]

[Even if you lose mana, you will not get the Mana Overload status debuff as long as you are affected by Gaea's Grace.]

[Fauxpri has been affected by Abaddon's Glare.]

[The Desert Sun Beetles have been affected by Abaddon's Glare.]

[All enemies affected by Abaddon's Glare have been confused.]

[All enemies affected by Abaddon's Glare will lose 0.5% of their health per second for a duration of ten seconds.]

[All enemies affected by Abaddon's Glare will lose 0.5% of their mana per second for a duration of ten seconds.]

[All enemies affected by Abaddon's Glare will have all their defenses lowered by 50% for ten seconds.]

"Kanlaon, use it now!" Adrian stated as he does not want to waste the debuffs given to the enemy monsters.

Adrian snapped his fingers and all the enemies suddenly clumped up into a ball while all six dragon balls dropped from the ground. All six dragon balls then rotated around the gathered enemy and bombarded them with all six elements. The catastrophic combination of all the elements created a powerful explosion that shook the desert itself.

Adrian could feel that they must not stay here for long because other gods or demigods should have noticed their presence. With Vitae and Mortem using Mythical Tier spells that summoned aspects of the Goddess Gaea and the God Abaddon, the gods, goddesses or demigods would have felt the divine energy signature that they give off.

=====

"High Priestess! Look at that direction! A powerful explosion of energy and a torrent of divine energy could be felt from that location." One of the Golden Warriors stated.

"Everyone! Make sure that no avatar will pass through our temple without us even knowing or giving permission." The High Priestess Estet stated as she knew who created such powerful surges of energy.

Chapter 1210 Sun Shard I

[You have defeated a Desert Sun Beetle.]

[You have gained experience points.]

[Your soulbound, Sirius, has gained experience points.]

[Your soulbound, Kanlaon, has gained experience points.]

[Your soulbound, Saena, has gained experience points.]

.....

The smoke from the explosion that is caused by the Elemental Apocalypse is swept away by Kanlaon using his wind magic. When the smoke is cleared, the loot from killing the Desert Sun Beetles could be seen scattered on the sands below them. All of the Desert Sun Beetles died from the Elemental Apocalypse spell except for the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri.

The Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri could be seen staggering as its health is already on the red while it tried collecting more energy from the sun. The circular disk present on its carapace could be seen leaking out solar energy as that is what it uses for gathering it. With a loud roar, the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri wanted to at least take its attackers with it.

"It is gathering all the life energy in its body." Vitae stated.

"Death is incoming for it. It is trying to kill itself along with us." Mortem stated.

"I will not let it do so. It will destroy its own core if it does that. Nature's Punisher!" Adrian stated as he suddenly gathered energy into his primordial armament.

All the heat in the area started to get absorbed by the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri. A shining layer of energy could be seen coating its entire body. The sunlight seems to be forming some kind of armor while also burning the life force of the boss monster.

The axe that Adrian carried suddenly swelled in size and power as it gathered the wrath of nature in it. With a downwards swipe, Adrian crushed the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri with his titanic axe and split the boss monster apart. The boss monster could not even release its final attack that could create an explosion of heat and sunlight as it got defeated in an instant.

Adrian knew that he was only able to defeat the Desert Sun Pharoah Beetle Fauxpri at such a quick time due to the support of the twin prophets. Vitae's support and Mortem's debuffs are godly compared to any type of support that players could offer. The only one that could match them would be Levin Cloud once he also masters death energy.

Adrian suddenly felt a surge of divine energy at the direction of the Temple of Bastet. The surge of divine energy came from different individuals. It seems that having both Vitae and Mortem cast such powerful spells garnered the attention of those with divine energy in their bodies.

"Commander Deth!" Adrian stated.

When Adrian called for the leader of the Silent Death Order, a black smoke suddenly materialized in front of them. The black smoke numbered to about five which is already half of the Silent Death Order. Adrian expected them to fully protect Vitae and Mortem but to think that they will use half of the strongest order is already excessive in his perspective.

"You have called Champion Equinox." Deth replied.

"You were actually here, Cool Uncle?" Vitae stated in shock as she did not sense his presence.

"No wonder I felt this familiar chill in the area but to think it was the cool uncle." Mortem stated as he is a bit more sensitive to death energy.

"I will open a portal back to Avalon. Make sure to escort this two back to the territory." Adrian stated which made Vitae and Mortem frown.

"Silent Death Order, prepare a defensive formation while the champion creates a portal." Deth commanded the other members.

"Why! We were only here for like a day at most!" Vitae grumbled as she wanted to explore more.

"Sister, Big Brother Equinox only wants us to be safe. Can you not feel the numerous divine energy signatures in the direction where we came from? Even though the Silent Order and Big Brother Equinox is strong, they cannot fight and protect us at the same time." Mortem stated as he is the calmer one.

"How about I bring you two again a little later? This will not be our first adventure anyways. We will still need to find a place to make Saena evolve. Both of you are just going home first and I will catch up when I finish my business here." Adrian stated to pacify Vitae.

"Promise?!" Vitae stated with puppy dog eyes.

"I promise." Adrian replied.

[You made a promise to the Prophet of Life. If you break that promise, you will be cursed for a day.]

"Fudge!" Adrian thought but he will bring them after the business here, so he does not mind. What he did bear in mind is the fact that he needs to be careful on making promises with prophets.

"Okay! We shall wait for you in Avalon for our next adventure. Do not take too long." Vitae stated while Adrian sighed as if he suddenly felt exhausted.

Adrian created a portal using the Dimensional Teleportation spell which the twins and the Silent Death Order entered. Two members of the Silent Death Order went inside first to ascertain that the other side is safe while the twins entered when the first two gave the signal. The others soon followed until it was only Deth that is left.

"We shall return first to Avalon, Champion Equinox. Thank you for giving us transportation." Deth stated as he entered the portal, and it closed right after.

With them gone, Adrian flew down the sands and collected the loot that he gained. The numerous divine energy signatures that were gathered at the direction of the Temple of Bastet suddenly started to dissipate. Adrian smiled at this because he knew that those beings were after the prophets. They left because the beings of their desire are no longer present in the area.

"To think that a number of avatars came. I must thank the High Priestess Estet for her help in keeping them at bay." Adrian stated as he picked up the loot.